HUSH-HUSH AF BASE

(First of two parts)

Six hours out of Honolulu, as the KC135 flies, hidden in the tropical foliage of Guam is the nation's most hush-hush Air Force base.

Since the start of hostilities in Viet Nam, only a handful of newsmen have ever gained access to this island air base.

Originally, Guam's Andersen Air Force Base was a "reflex" base for the Strategic Air Command's 15th Air Force.

* * * *

NOW IT IS the take-off point for the B52s on their powerful blasts against the Viet Cong in the jungles of South Viet Nam.

Seldom have the B52s been allowed to go north of the 17th Parallel in Viet Nam.

In its original concept as one of the Strategic Air Command's reflex bases, a squadron of bombers was kept at the island outpost as a deterrent against any aggression aimed at the United States.

* * * *

CREWS WERE ROTATED between the mainland and Guam on a regular basis and the giant B52s were kept on constant alert.

There is no question that Andersen is on a wartime footing.

Armed guards, some with M16 rifles slung across their shoulders, are every-

130,000 Untrained Exemptees in Army Reserve Revealed

WASHINGTON (UPI — Some 130,000 young men who volunteered for the Army Reserve in the past year — and thereby became draft-exempt — have received no military training, senators have been told.

The big backlog in Reserve training is expected to continue for some time, Lt. Gen. John L. Throckmorton testified. But he said it is caused and justified by the vast expansion in training of active-duty soldiers needed in Viet Nam.

Throckmorton's secret testimony, released in censored form Saturday night by the Senate Armed Services Preparedness Subcommittee, was in large part a defense of Pentagon manpower policies by the recently installed chief of the Army's Reserve and National Guard Section.

Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., the subcommittee chairman, opposes Defense Department plans for merging the Army's Reserve and National Guard forces and he engaged in exchanges with Throckmorton over this program.

THROCKMORTON, a former deputy Army commander in Viet Nam, stoutly backed the plan of Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara to reshuffle the Army's reserve by giving high priority to a small number of selected divisions and units, chiefly National Guard, and using the Army Reserve as a manpower pool.

President Johnson's defense budget for the next fiscal year would lump the Army Guard and Reserve funds together and carry out the merger Congress rejected last year.

"I feel the reorganization plan will result in improved readiness, improved conditions in the Reserve components, and I would strongly recommend that the Congress appropriate the money in accordance with the proposals

'Controlled Retaliation' Policy Kept

McNamara Back, 'Instant Atomic Response' Denied

WASHINGTON (UPI — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara returned from London Saturday convinced that Allied leaders now accept the basic U.S. position that any Communist attack on West Europe should be met by a carefully controlled response — rather than automatic use of nuclear weapons.

Sources pictured McNamara as elated that, for the first time, the just-concluded London talks on NATO nuclear strategy produced a meeting of the minds between the United States and the defense ministers and military chiefs of key NATO countries.

* * * *

THIS elation turned to dismay, sources indicated, when McNamara read published reports saying he had proposed a drastic change in the basic U.S. position.

Those reports said the United States proposed a new policy which would junk the carefully measured response and substitute an automatic, though limited, nuclear reply to any attacks on NATO territory.

McNamara was asked at the airport whether any new nuclear strategy is in the works for NATO. He replied:

"Certainly not as a result of our discussions of the last few days."

* * * *

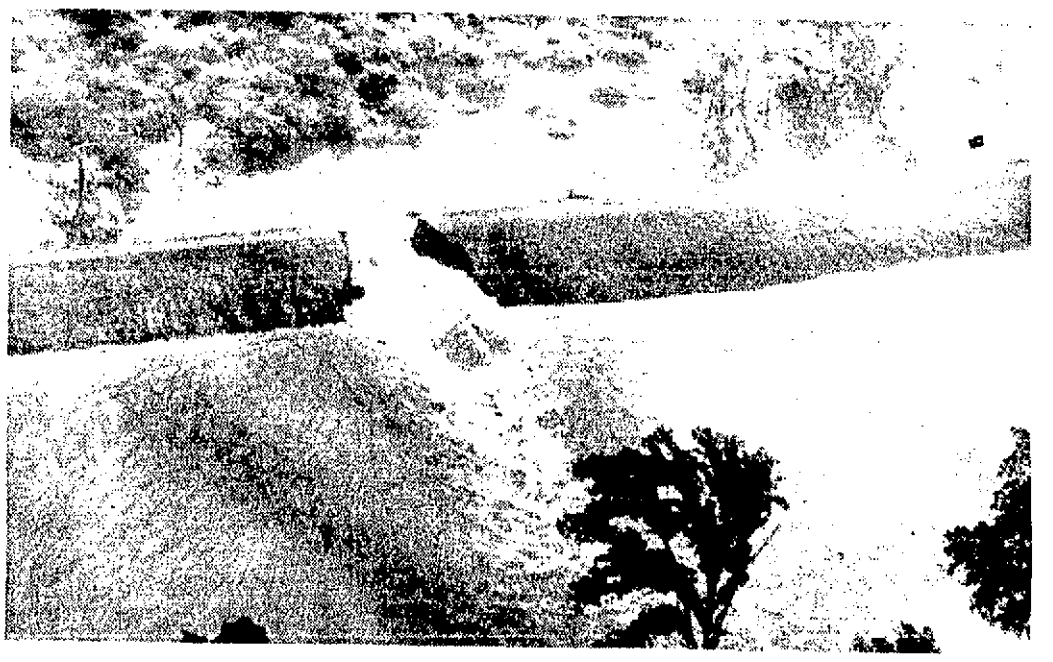

SOON thereafter, the Defense Department, obviously under McNamara's orders, rushed out a statement saying the reports of a change "are not correct."

"At no time and in no way did the United States propose a change in the use of nuclear weapons in defense of NATO territory," the statement said.

"Secretary McNamara emphasized again, as he

Deaths in Texas Flood, Storms Increase to 17

FLOODWATERS POUR THROUGH LEVEE

Torrential rains of recent days caused this break Saturday in the Swift Bayou Canal levee, about 15 miles north of Shreveport, La., forcing residents of lowland North Caddo Parish (County) to flee for their lives. Many stranded livestock were evacuated from flooded area.

A cold front with more stable air chased a violent storm system from north Texas Saturday, but not before several more deaths, more misery and damage were added to the flood, tornado, and hail toll of nine straight days of bad weather.

Texas deaths blamed on weather—either drownings or rain-caused accidents — rose to 17 and possibly 18, and damage was counted in the millions of dollars. Aside from the visible damage, crops will have to be replanted and much harm will not come to light until later.

IN LOUISIANA, a levee along a bayou, about 12 miles north of Shreveport, broke Saturday, and floodwaters poured over farmlands and oilfields toward Oil City, about five miles to the west of the break.

Engineers said Oil City (pop. about 2,000) is on an elevation, and is in no immediate danger. Most residents had moved out of the sparsely settled flood area. Farmers were driving out their livestock, and oil crewmen were dismantling electronic gear at oil wells.

THE DALLAS toll was 14, of whom eight were drownings. The latest were two persons killed in Dallas when an auto skidded on a rainy street and collided head on with another vehicle.

Two were killed in a collision at Gordon, west of Fort Worth, in a downpour Friday night. One man was missing and feared dead when his auto hit a bridge near Naples in northeast Texas. Red Drive Looms With Monsoons

SAIGON (UPI) — The North Vietnamese Communists have launched a crash program of pouring men and supplies into South Viet Nam in advance of "substantial attacks," it was learned Saturday.

The Hanoi high command was preparing for another monsoon campaign of bloody battles. The monsoon rains severely hamper U.S. air power, and the rapidly approaching rainy season gives the Communists a better chance in the ground fighting.

The North Vietnamese are taking advantage of the last few weeks of the dry season to truck hundreds of thousands of tons of supplies down newly-constructed road networks through Laos to stockpiles which will be used in the months ahead.

At the same time, the infiltration rate of North Vietnamese troops has increased more than 50% in recent weeks to an estimated 7,000 a month. But the major emphasis at the moment is on supplies.

The section of South Viet Nam considered in most danger at this time is the Central Highlands area. Intelligence reports indicate at lease five regiments of crack North Vietnamese troops are now resting, outfitting and training in the vicinity.

QUACK!

MILLBRAE (UPI) — Autos were screeching their brakes and swerving frantically Saturday on busy Bayshore Freeway as the drivers noticed, to their astonishment, a brood of ducks and ducklings crossing the traffic lanes.

Fortunately, there were no smashups, and the ducks made it to the dividing strip in the middle of the freeway.

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE (UPI — The giant XB70A research bomber's nose gear jammed after taking off on a test flight Saturday but later was freed and the craft landed safely two hours later.

THE STATE POLL

Reagan Slipping But Still Ahead

Ronald Reagan's lead in the Republican primary for the governorship of California has deteriorated slowly since September, 1965, according to The State Poll.

In a survey conducted last week, a cross-sectional sampling of the voters of the state of California was asked its preference in the Republican and Democratic primaries for all of the statewide constitutional offices.

The results in the Republican primary were:

	Total	North	South
George Christopher, Businessman-Administrator	37.3%	40.2%	33.9%
Warren M. Dorn, Supervisor of Los Angeles County	2.4	0.8	3.5
Joseph R. Maxwell, Management Consultant	0.6	1.3	0.4
William Penn Patrick, Business Executive	1.0	0.3	1.7
Ronald Reagan	43.6	24.6	53.2
Don't Know	15.1	17.8	17.3

The State Poll reported last year that Reagan led George Christopher 50% to 33% in the Republican gubernatorial primary. In the January State Poll, Reagan received 41% to Christopher's 28%.

Last month, Reagan led Christopher by more than 8% (44% to 35%).

Reagan's margin has slipped from 17% in September to 13% in January, to 9% in March and currently to 6%.

At the same time, The State Poll shows that the two men gradually are increasing their percentage of the vote.

The Republican primary is basically a two-man race.

While Reagan and Christopher are increasing their percentage of the Republican vote, businessman William Penn Patrick and Los Angeles County Supervisor Warren Dorn are experiencing decreasing support.

In March, Dorn received approximately 4% of the Republican vote — Patrick 2%. The same men today receive 2% and 1% respectively. Some of these voters have gone over to the Christopher camp.

The former San Francisco mayor now has more than a 2-to-1 lead over Reagan in Northern California. Reagan's strength always has been in the southern part of the state, particularly in Orange and San Diego counties. It now appears that Christopher is increasing his support in these areas, also.

Another reason for Christopher's increasing vote

'Moderate' Takes Helm for UROC

By BOB HOUSER

BAKERSFIELD — Joseph M. Crosby, 46, president and general manager of the California Liquid Fertilizer Co., Pasadena, won the state chairmanship of United Republicans of California Saturday night in a swirl of semantic argument over where his election fixes UROC ideologically.

Crosby depicts UROC as a moderate organization, and saw his election as rebuff to "a few people who have attempted to take UROC off the moderate course it was and is on, and move it over to the liberal side."

Noel A. Black, of Santa Rosa, speaker of UROC's House of Delegates, saw the Anti-Yankee Saigon Day

SAIGON, Sunday (UPI) —Thousands of anti-American demonstrators screaming "Yankees go home" surged toward the U. S. Embassy but South Vietnamese troops carrying machine guns and clubs drove them back and forced them to disperse.

The demonstration came after some 10,000 May Day marchers swarmed into the heart of downtown Saigon, many of them carrying anti-American banners. U. S. authorities had ordered servicemen off the streets, fearing the demonstrations might become violently anti-American.

SOME HAIRCUT!

I. P-T Capital Bureau

WASHINGTON — Life hasn't been the same for Rep. Craig Hosmer, R-Calif., since he was identified as a gorilla.

Hosmer last week received a clipping from a New England newspaper of a photograph of a gorilla strolling with a dog on a leash. Due to a mix-up in captions, the ambulating ape was identified as the congressman, whose picture was elsewhere in the paper.

The caption confusion resulted in a lot of ragging for Hosmer both at home and on Capitol Hill.

"See, I TOLD you to get a haircut," remarked Hosmer's wife, Marian.

Hosmer's secretaries said the picture is just how their boss looks to them when the load gets heavy.

Democratic colleagues told Hosmer they were thinking of using the photo as that of a typical Republican.

Hosmer wrote to the editor of the newspaper and asked that they allow the real Hosmer to stand up.

The congressman said he rejected the impulse to personally confront the editor responsible for the boohoo.

"I've never met him. He might be a big, quarrelsome ape himself."

PEOPLE IN THE NEWS

Michigan Senator McNamara Dies

Sen. Pat McNamara of Michigan, a Democrat serving his 11th year in the Senate, died Saturday night at Bethesda Naval Hospital, where he had been under treatment since March 11. He suffered a stroke Saturday afternoon, an aide said, and died at 8:40 p.m., Washington time.

The 71-year-old lawmaker entered the hospital for treatment of a blood clot, which settled in a lung. In January, he was hospitalized for a time with a thyroid condition.

Michigan's senior senator, McNamara was named chairman of the important Senate Public Works Committee when the 88th Congress was organized in January, 1963, and also took over as chairman of the Flood Control-Rivers and Harbors subcommittee.

He was recognized as a legislative authority on federal highway programs, problems of the aged and aging, education, labor-management relations and civil rights.

McNamara always sat in Labor's corner. Prior to coming to the Senate, he served for 20 years as the unsalaried president of Pipefitters Local 636, AFL, in Detroit. He was first elected to the Senate in 1954 and re-elected in 1960.

He was married to the former Mary Matee of Calumet, Mich., and was the father of two children, Mary Jane Ballard, and Patrick V. McNamara III. He had 12 grandchildren.

Final Curtain

In New York, it was disclosed Saturday that drama coach Paula Strasberg, 55, mother of actress Susan Strasberg and wife of Actors Studio head Lee Strasberg, died of a heart attack Friday at Beth Israel Hospital. Funeral service will be held today at Manhattan's Riverside Chapel.

Mrs. Strasberg was Marilyn Monroe's drama coach and was on the set of several of the late film star's movies.

PAULA STRASBERG

Born Paulina Miller in New York, she first appeared on the New York stage in 1928 as a nun in "Cradle Song."

She taught in the Actor's Studio and directed several of its plays, including "Sickness of Youth" and "Many Moons," both in 1964.

Flier Overdue

Elmendorf Air Force Base near Anchorage, Alaska, launched an aerial search Saturday for bush pilot Frank Hern, who was attempting a solo nonstop flight from Alaska to Florida.

The Alaska search and rescue headquarters at Elmendorf said the 39-year-old pilot had not been heard from since shortly after leaving Fairbanks Thursday for the flight to Tallahassee in a Cessna 150.

Hern, who was attempting to set a world's record by flying the longest distance nonstop in a straight line, had planned to arrive in Tallahassee, Fla., by early Saturday morning.

Barbra Back

In London, Barbra Streisand came back to "Funny Girl" Saturday night after missing three performances, and received a rapturous welcome from an audience of 1,200 packed into the Prince of Wales Theater.

The 24-year-old star of the hit musical show looked pale and nervous after her bout of gastric influenza. Doctors had forbidden her to appear at Saturday's matinee performance, but she told friends later: "I didn't come to London to lie in bed."

First Stage of Tax Jolt Is Nearing

By DON BRACKENBURY
I-P-T Los Angeles Bureau

Hardly recovered from making final payment of this year's taxes by April 10, property owners are due for a new jolt Tuesday when they learn what is proposed for Los Angeles County spending in 1966-67.

L. S. Hollinger, county administrative officer, will present the preliminary budget for next fiscal year to county supervisors at 9:30 a.m.

Two supervisors — Frank G. Bonelli and Burton W. Chace — already have predicted it will require an increase in the tax rate.

The current general county budget is $867 million. When coupled with the budgets of special districts, it pushes total county expenditures for the fiscal year ending this June 30 to more than $1 billion.

No one believes that the 1966-67 budget will be any smaller.

This year's tax rate was $2.4150 per $100 of assessed valuation. This meant that a home valued at $20,000, on which the assessment would be $5,000, would pay a county tax of just over $120.

Tax bills mailed out by the county on such a home would call for considerably higher payment than $120, but that is because the county bill also includes taxes for schools, special districts and, in many cases, for cities.

Long Beach, however, assesses and collects its own city tax separate from that of the county.

The county property tax does not finance the entire budget. This year, for example, only $345 million of the budget's total $867 million must be raised by the property tax levy.

Supervisors take no action Tuesday on the preliminary budget, nor do they hear any testimony other than Hollinger's explanation of his recommendations.

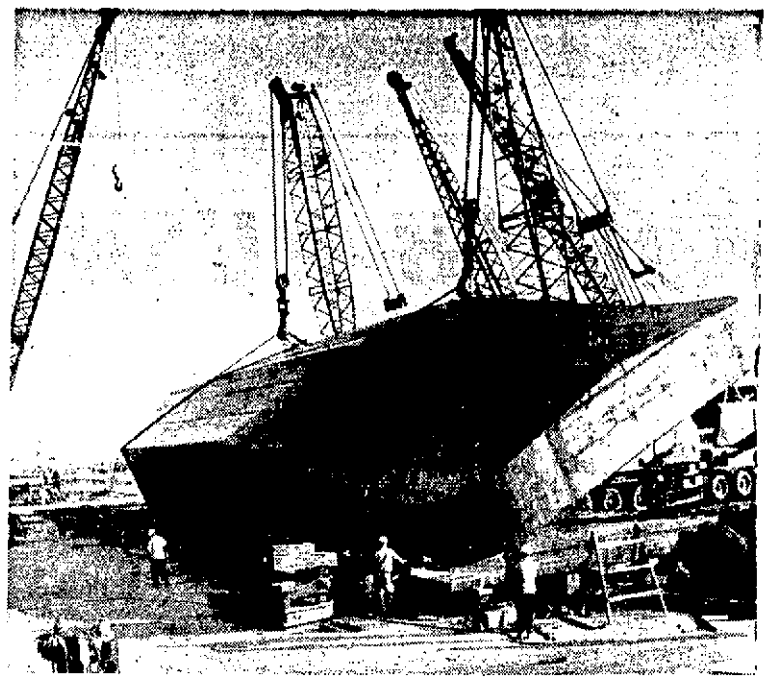

The public's opportunity to appear before the county board either for or against any budget item comes during public hearings which open Friday, June 10, at 9:30 a.m.

The hearings will be held in the Hall of Administration, 500 W. Temple St., Los Angeles.

After the preliminary budget presentation Tuesday, the next county fiscal matter will be Hollinger's recommendations on proposed 1966-67 salaries for the nearly 45,000 county employes.

The salary recommendations will come next Friday. Supervisors will not consider the proposals at that time, but next week are scheduled to set Tuesday, May 17, for the start of salary hearings.

Following the budget hearings, supervisors must adopt the final 1966-67 budget prior to July 1, 1966.

TOWERING CRANES BEGIN LABORIOUS 'FLIP-FLOP' PROJECT
Some Temporary Delays Slowed Progress on The Upside-Down Sea Dray

WHAT THE HULL GOES ON?

Everything's Topsy-Turvy for 'Sea Dray' and Co.

By ART VINSEL

It's a good thing Noah and his boys stuck with the conventional method of boat-building, or there might not be anyone here to read this story.

Or anyone to write it.

But at Marine Systems, Berth 128 in Wilmington, they're faced with a less catastrophic deadline than was the patriarch who marched the animals two-by-two into his vessel.

And that's where the Sea Dray, a steel-hulled "seagoing pickup truck," is being built in an upside-down manner unprecedented among West Coast shipyards.

Efforts were continuing Saturday night to flip the 275-ton hull over, so work can proceed on the ship. The project began last Tuesday, and was to be finished on Wednesday.

* * * *

A TEST HOIST by two giant cranes, however, caused a steel cable to snap as the massive hull rose one inch. And when it was lifted Wednesday, a miscalculation caused it to shift slightly, collapsing a portion of the work bed.

With the bed repaired, shipyard workers and Dearborn Industrial Contractors crews gingerly hoisted the huge hull onto its side Friday as families and office girls cheered.

"The ship cost $500,000," commented yard superintendent Harry Hale. "We didn't want to drop it."

Beginning at 8 a.m. Saturday, workmen fashioned additional heavy rigging for the second half of the flip-flop operation, taking more time than was originally planned.

Many loyal spectators were still on hand, fortified by fare from a catering truck, where Marine Systems President Robert G. Ward was running up an ever-increasing sandwich-and-coffee tab.

The Sea Dray, alongside which a sister ship, the Sea Lorry, is partially constructed, had its 13-ton keel "erected" rather than laid, to facilitate covering of the frame.

Controller Frank Thompson said the method allows the men to flat weld "underfoot" instead of overhead, which is the usual but slower method. It will also cut production costs in half.

Next step after the craft is blocked and settled upright is to attach a 45-ton forecastle deck housing the ship's bridge, to the hull.

* * * *

FINAL OUTFITTING will then begin on the craft, owned by the Twenty Grand of Pacific firm and operated by General Marine Transport, of Santa Barbara.

Hulls are constructed of thicker-than-usual steel plating because the two ships will serve offshore oil islands in ice-choked Cook's Inlet, Alaska.

Thompson explained that tides there change by 30 feet at times, the temperature reaches 60 degrees below zero and eight-knot currents send huge, four-foot-thick ice floes surging through the seas.

Below decks, the ships will carry four 10,000-gallon tanks of fresh water used in operation of the oil islands, which are nine to 11 miles off the Alaska coast. All cargo, therefore, will be carried topside on deck.

The Dray and the Lorry will be powered by two 750-h.p. engines and will weigh about 450 tons each when completed. The Dray is expected to be launched in mid-June.

Both are the first such service ships to be built on the West Coast, and this is the first upside-down-method to be used here also, Thompson said.

800 Law-Enforcers Convene Here From Throughout State

Long Beach should be the most peaceful, law-abiding city in the nation for at least the next four days.

Gathering here are approximately 800 members of the California Peace Officers' Association and Women Peace Officers' Association of California.

For the male officers, it's their association's 46th annual conference, for the law-enforcing ladies their organization's 39th.

BOTH conferences will be in the Lafayette Hotel, with today's opening activities revolving around registration, meetings of the respective association executive committees and a "get-acquainted" reception, hosted by the Chief Special Agents Association of California, at 6:30 p.m. in the hotel's International Ballroom.

Cohosts for the CPOA are Los Angeles County Sheriff Peter J. Pitchess, association president, and Long Beach Police Chief William J. Mooney. Capt. Minna F. Ralph of the Alameda County sheriff's office is presiding officer of the women's association, and Lt. Lois Inforzato of Los Angeles County sheriff's office is convention chairman.

Monday's down-to-business programs include first general sessions for both organizations, then the associations convene jointly at 9:45 a.m. for addresses of welcome by Long Beach Mayor Edwin W. Wade and Chairman Burton W. Chace of the L.A. County Board of Supervisors.

Featured speaker at the joint session will be Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

* * * *

AT THE CPOA Monday afternoon general session, addresses are scheduled by the president of the California District Attorneys' Association, Lawrence Drivon of San Joaquin County, and by Courtney Evans, director of the U.S. Office of Law Enforcement Assistance.

The women officers will be guests of Long Beach-area policewomen at a 1-to-5 p.m. firearms class and pistol match at the Long Beach Police Pistol Range.

Delegates to both conferences will rejoin Monday evening for a 7 o'clock reception in the International Ballroom, followed by a western barbecue, with all attending required to wear western-style attire, commencing at 8 o'clock.

Insurers Help Fight Criminals

A nationwide "Stamp Out Crime Crusade" already under way across the country has been joined by Long Beach's Independent Insurance Agents Association, it was announced Saturday.

President Cecil Fulcher said the local group, noting "the apathy of many citizens toward law and order has reached an all-time high," and that "the coddling and protection of criminals and hoodlums in some instances has produced a staggering increase in crime," said the association will sponsor and furnish necessary leadership for a positive program of citizen action.

THE FIVE-POINT program will encourage citizens to "acknowledge and discharge . . . obligations as good citizens by observing the laws and encouraging others so to do; report . . . any evidence of a crime being or having been committed; aid law-enforcement officers in distress, at their request and direction; solicit assistance and cooperation of all civic, service, business, trade and other groups, statewide and nationally; and single out and publicly commend citizens and groups who perform outstanding deeds in the maintenance of law and order."

The State Poll Finds Reagan's Lead on Christopher Lessens

among Republicans is the question, as one respondent put it, concerning Reagan's "political maturity." Since Reagan walked out of the Santa Monica meeting of the National Negro Republican Assembly, a number of his supporters are taking another look at their candidate.

An additional reason for Christopher's rise is the fact that fewer Republicans now identify with the "conservative" wing of the party. In January, The State Poll found that 41% of the Republicans considered themselves conservatives."

In a current survey, only 36% of the Republicans characterize themselves as members of the "conservative" wing of the party.

A political survey can only report public opinion as it is today. At this time, 15% of the Republicans do not know for whom they will vote.

The "don't know" voters lean toward Reagan by about a 2-to-1 margin. However, 60% of them still are undecided.

As indicated in the March State Poll, these irresolute voters ultimately will affect the outcome of the election. They are the only large body of Republican voters to whom the candidates can appeal.

In the coming days, The State Poll will report its findings in the Democratic gubernatorial primary, along with the Republican and Democratic primaries for the remaining constitutional offices of California.

There will be also a report of public opinion concerning the November general election, matching the two leading Republican gubernatorial aspirants, Reagan and Christopher, against Democratic Gov. Brown and Los Angeles Mayor Samuel W. Yorty.

Police Officer's Garage Burgled

The victim and the investigating officer were the same on a $350 burglary report filed with Long Beach police Saturday.

Officer James A. Welch said he went to the garage behind his Banner Drive home to find a padlock gone from the door and a dark green 12x17-foot nylon carpet missing.

Plastic Bag Smothers Baby Girl

A five-month-old girl was suffocated by a plastic dry-cleaning bag Saturday in the home of her aunt in Hawaiian Gardens.

Rosa Marie Hulado became entangled in the bag which had been placed over a crib mattress on which she was lying, according to Sheriff's Deputy Frank Woodall.

THE BABY'S aunt, Rosa Maria Alvarado, 28, of 12215 223rd St., was taking care of the child for her sister, Caroline Alvarado, of 22311 Claretta Ave., who was at work.

Doctors at Pioneer Hospital worked on the child for 10 minutes before pronouncing her dead at 5:16 p.m.

VA HOSPITAL FINDS:

Token Cash Aid in Psychotherapy

By BEN ZINSER
I. P-T Medical Writer

At Palo Alto Veterans Administration Hospital, they're making their own money.

They call it the token economy.

And it is, if you'll pardon the expression, paying off.

A psychologist described the operation of a token economy among psychiatric patients at a session of the 46th annual meeting of the Western Psychological Association which closed Saturday at the Lafayette Hotel.

John M. Atthowe Jr., Ph. D., a psychological consultant at the hospital, said the experiment involved mostly chronic schizophrenics (severaly mentally disturbed patients) on an 86-bed ward.

AN INCENTIVE system was set up through use of tokens. Tokens were given as rewards for performance of certain duties, such as shaving or making a bed, and were required for various privileges, such as watching television.

Results have been encouraging, Dr. Atthowe said. Prior to the experiment, 80% of the patients never had been off the hospital grounds on pass. Before 11 months were up, almost half of the patients had gone on pass.

Shaving, showering and dressing themselves — these increased significantly.

Communication among patients and staffers increased markedly.

Mamoru Iga, Ph.D., associate professor of psychology at San Fernando Valley State College, said that third-generation Japanese- Americans are not seeking a return to Japanese culture as might be expected.

Although they are becoming Americanized, third-generation Japanese-Americans have retained the qualities of self-discipline, obligation and fear of authority, he said.

He said his study shows that Buddhism in America is "highly Christianized."

He said social life plays a big role in American Buddhism but not in that of Japan. In fact, only 25% of Japanese in Japan are Buddhists, but 56% of Japanese-Americans are Buddhists.

"AMERICANIZATION means more religious affiliation," Dr. Iga said. Thirty percent of Japanese-Americans are Christians, but only 1% of Japanese in Japan profess Christianity.

Louis Breger, Ph.D., assistant professor of psychology at University of Oregon, said dream research in his laboratory shows that dreams reflect concern and an attempt to deal with problems in a symbolic way.

Dreams average 30 to 40 minutes in length, he said. But if a person has been deprived of dreaming for a few nights, a dream may run as long as two hours.

Bombers Strike From Hush-Hush Base

where. Missions aren't discussed. People talk guardedly—if they talk at all.

Watchdogs roam the 20,000-acre station's fences at night.

* * * *

MISSIONS are a 22-hour affair. The actual flying takes about 12 hours. The balance of the time is for the pre-mission briefing and for the debriefing and critique which follow the bomb runs.

Ground crews work 12 hours a day, six days a week. The average work week for a SAC man is 74 hours. Few, except a handful of civilians, work the standard 40-hour week.

While most people think of SAC as a nuclear deterrent force, the all-around value of the B52s is now being demonstrated.

* * * *

For their Viet Nam role, the B52s carry 51 750-pound bombs -- 24 of these are strung under the wings, while 27 are held in the bomb bay.

The 30 or so planes based here, however, can quickly be converted to carry nuclear weapons. The weapons are here, and little modification is needed to get them back in the bellies of the B52s.

Mission planning is a closely guarded secret here, but it isn't too difficult to know when something's in the wind.

* * * *

AFTER the crews to be involved in the raids have been alerted, they're taken by bus to the base theater for briefings. Slides are shown illustrating the targets. Commanders add a few remarks and the whole affair is concluded with a prayer by the chaplain.

The big gap in the security curtain comes when the evening movie is cancelled to allow the theater to accommodate a briefing. Then everyone knows there is a raid that night.

The usual horseplay and banter disappear after the briefing is over.

Later the men—plus a load of box lunches—board buses which take them out to the flight line where the neatly lined, fully loaded B52s await them.

* * * *

FROM the time they arrive at the flight line, it will be about three hours before the ungainly birds, with their drooping wings loaded with high explosives and fuel, taxi into position and then roar off the runways at one-minute intervals, headed for South Viet Nam.

On the way they will rendezvous with KC135 tankers for midair refueling.

Other than the refueling and the actual bomb-drop, the affair is more of a "milk run" than anything else, according to crew members.

* * * *

CONTRARY to some thinking, the Guam effort has been a big success. In one particular area, Andersen Air Force Base stands out like a sore thumb—that of logistics. The basing of the B52s at Guam means there is no additional logistics or supply problem in Viet Nam, where the effort to build up supplies has already created a major problem.

And, at the command level, there is no question about the effectiveness of the B52s. Those high-level officers who have watched the B52s over a period of time are convinced that the big "birds" have proved their worth.

Recently, crews of the 454th Bomb Wing from Columbus Air Force Base, Miss., and the 320th Bomb Wing from Mather Air Force Base, Calif., have been plastering the jungles below the 17th Parallel with their iron bombs.

These crews relieved the 7th Bombardment Wing from Carswell Air Force Base, Texas.

* * * *

ALL OPERATE under the jurisdiction of the Third Air Division, commanded by Maj. Gen. William J. Crumm.

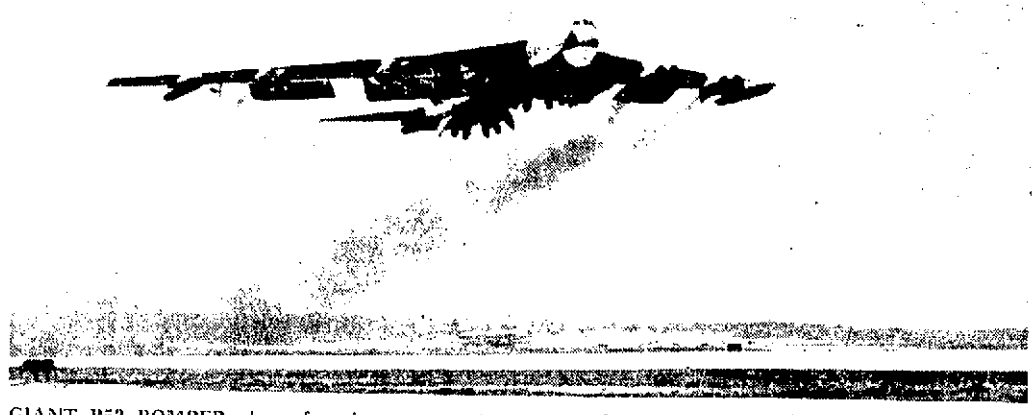

Crumm flew B29s during World War II, and is now back doing real bombing again for the first time in 20 years.

The general hopes that people now will recognize the value of SAC in limited warfare, in addition to its unquestionable value as a nuclear deterrent force, are now proving their worth in "old style" strategic bombing. Each carries 38,250-pound load of conventional bombs.

He is quick to point out that his bomber force at Andersen can be quickly converted to carry nuclear weapons at any time.

He doesn't want anyone to forget that.

(Next Sunday: Views of the crews on Guam.)

GIANT B52 BOMBER claws for air over secret Guam base at the start of a 12-hour bombing mission over Viet Nam. The eight jet bombers, long the mainstay of the nation's nuclear deterrent force, are now proving their worth in "old style" strategic bombing. Each carries 38,250-pound load of conventional bombs.

LOAD OF "IRON BOMBS" is put ashore in Guam to be used by the mighty bombers of the Strategic Aid Command in their attacks on the Viet Cong. Each of SAC's B52s carries 51 of these 75-pound bombs.

Checkup on Drugs Readied

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The most "extensive and significant" study of drug effectiveness ever undertaken will be launched by the government this summer, Food and Drug Commissioner James Goddard announced Saturday.

At the request of the FDA, he said, the National Academy of Sciences-National Research Council has agreed to evaluate the medical effectiveness "of up to 4,000 drugs."

* * * *

THE DRUGS scheduled to undergo government scruting are those introduced between 1938 and 1962 which required proof only that they were safe for internal use.

However, the FDA said drugs marketed after the Kefauver-Harris Amendments of 1962 requiring "substantial evidence to support therapeutic claims" before being granted government approval, will not be inspected.

Goddard said the results will help the FDA in determining the effectiveness of the drugs undergoing the evaluation.

130,000 of Exempt Reservists Untrained

submitted in our budget," Throckmorton said.

Sen. Leverett Saltonstall, R-Mass., asked the general: "Do you believe that the Reserves and the National Guard are being operated to the greatest possible advantage in view of the rather strenuous conditions in Viet Nam and elsewhere in the world?"

"Yes sir, I do," the general replied.

UNDER QUESTIONING, Throckmorton said the backlog in the Reserve training program resulted from the heavy input of draftees and volunteers for regular Army duty.

These active-duty forces and the high-priority reserve units got first call on crowded Army training spaces, he explained, adding that the Reserve training backlog would be handled later.

Stennis asked why Army Reserve training units had not been called to active duty to help with the training.

"A substantial part of this training now being done by those divisions that are supposed to be fighting divisions could have been done through your Army Reserve units, could they not?" Stennis asked.

"Yes, sir, it could have been done," the general conceded.

Saltonstall told Throckmorton "the whole background of your statement has the feeling that we are degrading the whole idea of the ready Reserve and National Guard."

Massive Jam on Freeway

A massive traffic jam clogged both inbound and outbound lanes of the Santa Ana Freeway Saturday following a spectacular car-truck collision which injured three men, destroyed both vehicles and ripped out 177 feet of divider fence.

The Highway Patrol said a truck driven by James Talley, 35, of Los Angeles, rammed into the rear of a car driven by Ross D. Todd, 56, of 12147 E. Lakewood Road, Santa Fe Springs, near Indiana Street, in Los Angeles.

The two vehicles, locked in a steel embrace, skidded along the divider until the truck came to a stop jutting over the barrier into adjoining lanes.

Talley and his passenger, Will McClain, 25, also of Los Angeles, were thrown out of the truck. Talley suffered a broken right leg, while the other men sustained lacerations and other injuries.

* * * *

Roy Amos Poarch, 18, died at Santa Ana Community Hospital from head and internal injuries.

Airmen Are Identified

TOKYO (AP)—Hanoi's Vietnamese news agency identified Saturday four American pilots it claimed were captured after their planes were shot down over North Viet Nam. The agency said they were:

—Lt. Col. Robinson Risner of the U.S. Air Force stationed in Thailand, captured in Thanh Hoa province after his F105D was shot down Sept. 16, squadron leader of the 18th Tactical Fighting Wing.

—Navy 1st Lt. Larry H. Spencer from the aircraft carrier USS Enterprise, captured in Thanh Hoa province Feb. 18 after ejecting from an F4B.

—Navy Lt. R. R. Catzlaff from the Enterprise, captured in Ha Tinh province March 21 after bailing out of an F4C.

—Capt. Charles Graham Boyd of the U.S. Air Force at Korat Air Base, Thailand, captured in Vinh Phuc province April 22 after his F105 was shot down.

WORLD NEWS BRIEFS

Cargo Delay Costly to U.S.

goes to Saigon and a lack of port facilities to handle the heavier loads are costing the U.S. and South Vietnamese governments thousands of dollars a day, a spokesman for the Agency for International Development acknowledged Saturday.

But U.S. officials are hopeful that crash efforts to provide more warehouses, equipment and longshoremen will alleviate the situation within the next two months.

With about 300,000 tons of cargo moving in U.S. and foreign ships to South Viet Nam each month, port facilities in Saigon have been inadequate to prevent long delays for ships waiting to unload.

On occasion, according to an AID spokesman, there have been as many as 50 ships waiting to unload at one of Saigon's 20 docks.

U.S. ships that must wait to unload receive about $5,000 a day in demurrage charges, if they are unable to unload within a specified time. The jam-up at Saigon has resulted in ships ordinarily waiting about three weeks to unload, with some waiting offshore for as long as two months.

Jungle Mission

SAIGON (UPI) — U.S. troops today are hacking their way through bamboo thickets and elephant grass 70 miles northwest of Saigon, where the Communist Viet Cong psychological war headquarters is believed located. The Americans are aided by helicopters carrying supplies and reinforcements for the jungle columns.

In a dogfight over North Viet Nam Saturday, a U.S. Air Force fighter pilot fired a heat-seeking Sidewinder missile to give American airmen their 11th kill of the war and their sixth Red MIG shot down in eight days.

Materiel 'Waste'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Senate investigators contended Saturday they have found millions of dollars worth of Jeeps, bulldozers, generators and other military equipment discarded as defense surplus overseas which could be used in the Viet Nam War.

Sen. Ernest Gruening, D-Alaska, said in an interview that details on this apparent misuse of military materiel and government funds will be spelled out in detail at public hearings beginning Tuesday morning.

Gruening, an outspoken critic of Viet Nam War policies and tactics, said personal inspections of defense surpluses in Europe and the Far East caused him to order the public hearings.

Birth-Control Pill

CHICAGO (UPI)—A revolutionary "morning after" birth-control pill that can be taken as late as six days after intercourse has been successful in experimental studies, the American Fertility Society was told Saturday.

Progress on scoring a breakthrough with a "retroactive pill" was announced by Drs. John M. Morris and Gertrude Van Wagenen of the Yale University School of Medicine.

They said the drugs tested were effective in preventing pregnancy in rabbits and Rhesus monkeys, and in limited clinical trials with women.

Their pill reverses the pill-intercourse sequence of birth-control pills now in general use. The currently available pills must be taken daily, before intercourse. They prevent the occurrence of ovulation, or release of the egg from the ovary.

The Yale University pill prevents implantation of the ovum (female sex cell), in the womb. Implantation normally takes place on the sixth or seventh day after the ovum is fertilized by the male sex cell.

"There are plenty of clinical applications for a pill of this type," Dr. Morris said in an interview. "There are the victims of rape, mothers who bring in tearful daughters who have been indiscreet, and the world problem of population control."

'Incident' in N.Y.

CENTRAL ISLIP, N.Y. (UPI) — A Negro mob attacked two white policemen and wounded one with his own gun early Saturday in a melee that followed the arrest of a Negro motorist for speeding.

It took place in the predominately Negro Carleton Park section of this central Long Island community 40 miles east of New York City, but Suffolk County police said it was an isolated incident.

Police said Patrolman Edwin Michel, 24, of Islip, was shot three times in the leg after the crowd of 30 to 40 men and women took away his pistol.

The second officer, Patrolman George Forrester, also had his service revolver taken away, but he drove off the mob with a derringer he had concealed in his jacket, police said.

Young Demos Work on 'Adventurous' Platform; Blast Yorty

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — California's Young Democrats worked on a platform Saturday that one delegate called "adventurous" while party leaders delivered curdling attacks on Los Angeles Mayor Sam Yorty.

Yorty, who is running against Gov. Brown in the Democratic primary, was called a "friend and ally" of the Republicans and a seeker of "destruction and personal power."

"We're working on as adventurous, as exciting, as forward-looking a platform as has ever been written," commented Jim Stanberry of San Pedro, platform committee chairman.

"Whether the party can live with it is another matter," he added.

Stanberry did not disclose details of the platform, which the 300 convention delegates will vote on Sunday. Some of the program was scheduled to be announced late Saturday after a talk by Robert Scheer of Berkeley, a Democratic candidate for Congress and a critic of American intervention in Viet Nam.

"If Sam Yorty wants to tell the President to escalate the war in Viet Nam, that's his affair," Gov. Brown said in a keynote speech. "If he wants to escalate himself to Sacramento, that's your affair. And I think you know how to handle it."

Delegates in the partially-filled room applauded Brown's comment.

Robert Coate of Castro Valley, Democratic state chairman, said Yorty's two goals "are destruction and personal power."

Earlier, Eugene Wyman of Los Angeles, Democratic national committeeman, referred to Yorty as "GOP's friend and ally in the Democratic primary."

Sailor Seeks Prayer, Held as Molester

A uniformed Bible-carrying sailor who had knocked on neighborhood doors asking that people pray for him was arrested Saturday after a 7-year-old boy was molested.

Booked on suspicion of committing crimes against a child was Paul Wayne Kelley, 19, of the destroyer USS Theodore E. Chandler.

The suspect was helping in a hunt for the missing child when the boy turned up about 3 p.m. The youngster is a visitor from San Diego and became lost after the incident.

Juvenile Officer Phil Pavlovsky said Kelley was a suspect, but was booked only after passersby helped the whimpering boy find the home where his mother was staying.

THE CHILD said a sailor took him into a service station restroom at 705 E. Anaheim St., police said.

The boy said he was playing baseball with companions at Lincoln School playground Saturday morning when the sailor approached and offered to pitch for them.

A short time later, he told officers, the same sailor asked him to "come along to have a talk." When he failed to return, playmates notified his mother, who called police at 2:15 p.m. after searching on her own.

KELLEY was picked up in the 1100 block of 11th Street by Patrolmen Jim Kelley and Warren G. Trogden an hour later and taken to Police Headquarters for questioning.

Officer Pavlovsky said the young sailor asked if he had to go to jail when informed of the charge against him.

"Oh," he told the officer when informed that he did, "then I can't go to church tonight."

Nevada Republicans Denounce Birchers

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Nevada Republicans denounced the John Birch Society Saturday — after more than seven hours of debate about whether to order them out of the party.

The 1966 state GOP convention voted 263-105½ to pass a modified anti-Birch resolution offered by gubernatorial candidate Paul Laxalt.

British Ship's 'Terror' Hours in Atlantic Storm Told Here

By ROGER GILLOTT

A British passenger ship that rode out an Atlantic storm earlier in April, a storm that was responsible for the loss of eight lives aboard two other vessels, sailed into Los Angeles Harbor Saturday with what the chief officer described as "negligible damage."

Though waves up to 40 feet high were pounding the 24,000-ton ship, the SS Chasun, during the height of the storm, only minor paint damage was suffered in the forecastle area, according to Chief Officer John Crichton. There were no injuries.

Aboard the Italian superliner Michelangelo and another British passenger vessel, both north of the Chasun and nearer the center of the storm, eight persons were killed. Both vessels received extensive damage.

Though the Chasun is only half the size of the Michelangelo, the Chasun suffered only negigible damage, Crichton said, because it reduced its speed from 22 knots to 10 knots instead of trying to bull its way through the storm.

1ST OFFICER John Crichton points toward bow of S.S. Chusan where waves of 20 to 30 feet broke over it during Atlantic storm.

—Staff Photo

The Chasun, which left England April 4 en route to Port Everglades, Fla., encountered the storm about midocean.

"All of the passengers seemed resigned to the situation," Crichton said. "All but 10 of the first class passengers attended a cocktail party in the ship's ballroom the evening of April 12 when the storm was at its peak."

While Crichton said he was not worried at any time during the storm, he admits that he hopes he "never runs into anything worse."

Because of traveling at reduced speed during the storm, the Chasun was 12 hours behind schedule in docking.

As it sailed Saturday night, Crichton said he hoped to make up the time in the calm Pacific.

Police Assist Bandits

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Two gunmen who obtained a street address by telephoning police headquarters in the course of a two-hour abduction of seven persons escaped with $18,000 from a Charlotte supermarket early Saturday.

The bandits—one described as "fat, with a beer belly and a double chin" and the other as "skinny with a deep voice"—tied up five men and two women as they closed out their predawn robbery at Park 'n Shop Supermarket No. 2 on Charlotte's North Side.

All seven escaped harm from the armed robbers, who had threatened to kill if necessary.

POLICE LT. Tom Gunn said $10,000 in cash and $8,000 in checks were taken from the store.

Thomas C. Dutton, 22, front supervisor of the supermarket, and his wife were confronted by a gunman when they arrived at 12:50 a.m. at their trailer home, five blocks from the store that had closed at midnight.

"They told me they wanted me to open the (store) door for them," Dutton said, "but I told them I didn't have a key."

Dutton gave them the name of Tommy Frank Cashion, 25, an assistant manager living several miles away on Dickens Avenue, who had a key.

The gunmen loaded the Duttons into a car and halted at a truck stop where one bandit removed his sunglasses and cap and went inside and telephoned police headquarters for directions to Dickens Avenue.

He obtained directions, then drove to the Cashion home, where the Duttons and Mrs. Cashion remained with one bandit while the other drove with Cashion to the store.

Before departing, the prisoners said, the skinny bandit told his accomplice:

"If you don't hear from me in 20 minutes, shoot all of them."

THREE adult newspaper carriers, found at the front of the building, were herded inside as Cashion unlocked the door. Next the gunman telephoned the Cashion home and obtained the safe combination from Dutton. The bandit held a cigarette lighter as Cashion spun the dial and opened the safe.

The money was taken out in about 18 cloth bags.

The newspaper routemen, Cashion and the robber then returned to the Cashion residence.

GM Reveals Adjustments to Corvair, Olds, Cadillac

DETROIT (AP) — Chevrolet confirmed Saturday it had made some adjustments in Corvairs "to improve drivability," but insisted no safety factor was involved.

This came within 24 hours of GM disclosure that adjustments had been made on 2,600 of its Oldsmobile Toronados, a new car on the market this year, and on about 23,000 of the 1964 Cadillacs.

A Chevrolet spokesman said Corvair changes involved "only a few cars" and as "not compulsory," to change slightly the pivot point of the front strut rod of the "rear suspension."

Chevrolet added:

"It is a production design change which improves drivability and is not considered a safety item."

On the Toronado, a spokesman for Oldsmobile said an automatic wrench apparently had been set too tight and overly tightened the six lug nuts which hold the wheel in place. He said that about 9% of the cars already had been called in for a minor modification.

Cadillac said hood latches and brackets, which he described had been replaced on 23,000 of its 1964 cars after some reports that the hood latch had slipped, allowing the hood to fly open.

Harriman Goes to Meeting on Safety at Sea

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The United States is sending one of its top diplomats—Ambassador-at-Large W. Averell Harriman—to an international conference in London this week on improving fire safety of passenger ships, it was reported Saturday.

The State Department said Harriman would represent the United States at a meeting of the Maritime Safety Committee of the Intergovernmental Maritime Consultative Organization, starting in London May 3.

Plastic Toy Plant Burns

LOS ANGELES (CNS)—A raging two-alarm fire in a plastics firm Saturday caused an estimated $250,000 damage and reportedly sent flames halfway across Slauson Avenue.

Division Commander Thad Whippo directed the 12 units of city firemen, who battled the blaze in the American Thermoform Corp., 1732 W. Slauson Ave., for about 45 minutes before bringing it under control.

Whippo said that the firm made plastic toys and other small items and that the stamping machinery inside the plant was severely damaged in the fire.

The first of the more than 50 firemen called to fight the flames said that when they arrived the inside of the 75x150-foot building was completely involved.

Firemen reported that flames were shooting "halfway across Slauson" Avenue from the front windows of the plant.

Whippo said that shortly after firemen arrived the roof collapsed and gutted the inside of the building. There were no injuries reported to firefighters.

Arson investigators were on the scene in an effort to determine what and where the fire started.

Dr. King Prepares for Chicago Drive Against Race Bias

EDITOR'S NOTE: Haynes Johnson, the Washington Star's prize-winning special assignment reporter, spent three days with Martin Luther King in Chicago gathering material for this special report on the man and his new drive in the North. Johnson is the author of the book "Dusk at the Mountain," a study of the Negro in Washington, and the best-selling "Bay of Pigs." He has done distinguished reporting on the civil rights movement.

By HAYNES JOHNSON

CHICAGO—Martin Luther King, the world traveler, fresh from conferences with princes and prime ministers, stepped from his plane at O'Hare Airport and moved quickly toward a waiting car. Then, accompanied by his closest aides, he drove off in the blustery night to a house on the South Side overlooking East Garfield Park, the scene of a riot last summer.

In the basement recreation room, where his Chicago staff had been waiting for 50 minutes, welcoming black and red crepe streamers had been strung across the ceiling. King came down the stairs, took off his coat, and was immediately surrounded by his followers.

Now he was Martin Luther King, the civil rights leader, returning to what he says is his greatest challenge—leading a social revolution in the North. On this particular homecoming, though, the mood was more buoyant than militant. These were his friends as well as his most ardent supporters and they showed their affection by teasing him about becoming a member of the bourgeoisie while in Europe.

* * * *

THEN HE turned to his principal aide and heir apparent, the Rev. Andrew Young, and said, "Andy, I think we'd better begin."

The conversation ceased, and the meeting began, the latest of an endless round of strategy discussions on how to eliminate the slums of Chicago.

They talked of action and demonstrations, of block meetings and new members, of Black Muslims, the press and the FBI, of politics in Chicago and in Washington, of the willingness to go to jail and the fear that "Chicago might explode this summer."

* * * *

KING, EVER the man of dreams, sees the Chicago effort as a new beginning, both for the civil rights movement in America and for the Negro in America's cities. If he succeeds here, Chicago will become the model for action in other slums in other cities: Harlem in New York, Blackbottom in Detroit, the 2nd Precinct in Washington, Watts in Los Angeles, and scores of smaller communities in the North. If he fails, one result could be more chaos and perhaps more violence within the Negro ghettos, as well as a major setback to King as a force in American life.

It is characteristic of King that he is confident he will succeed Chicago, he says in a typical phrase, will be "the dawn of a new day of dignity and opportunity for the Negro in America's cities."

* * * *

AND TODAY, at the age of 36, King is staking his reputation and in some respects his future leadership on his move into the North.

In the South, they used to introduce him as the "Moses of the civil rights movement." Sometimes his intimates would turn this around and jokingly, but affectionately, refer to him as "De Lawd."

Today "De Lawd" has gone North. This story is a glimpse of that move.

King drew up a chair and sat in the midst of some 30 of his staff and several strangers. Two were from England. One, a man in a tweed suit, was the leader of an English movement to end racial discrimination, an organization which King had helped to establish two years ago on his way to Oslo to receive the Nobel Prize.

* * * *

THE GATHERING was representative of his followers. Most of them were young veterans of the civil rights struggles in the South. Nearly half were white.

A white youth with long hair and sandals sat next to a Negro girl in an expensively tailored green wool dress and high heels. Some of the other women wore leather boots, and one Negro wore overalls. On the floor, sitting cross-legged, was a white girl in corduroy slacks patiently cutting out insignia chosen to symbolize King's Chicago movement—a V for victory inside a circle.

One member of the Chicago staff stood up and walked across to King with a long sheet of paper in his hand. "Now, Doctor," he said, "we've been busy, too. Here are some of our ideas for action projects."

"Well now, well now," King said in his slow, drawn-out manner of speaking, as he read the list of proposals. "I see you have been busy. This is fine, fine."

He paused, and grew more serious.

"Now, these are good points, but I would like to defer them until our board meeting next week in Miami, because we must take a broad look, we must get a broad approach and agreement on what steps we take. You know, I have never followed the dictatorial path. I have never demanded that you follow my actions. We are all a part of one movement. There are many ways for us to move. There is no single avenue to freedom." He paused again and said: "Now, Andy, I think it would be helpful if we heard about the specific (he emphasized the word) efforts of the Union to End Slums in Chicago."

The Union, with locals scattered througout the slums, is the spearhead of the King plan for concentrated, coordinated attacks on many fronts: slum landlords, the administration of justice and court procedures, overcrowded schools, police, politicians, merchants, employers. The union locals would take direct community action through such techniques as rent strikes, boycotts, pickets, and demonstrations. King envisions this on a larger scale than has ever been attempted in this country.

* * * *

STAFF members reported on progress. They told of going to buildings, meeting with tenants, planning moves—all pointing toward the beginning of direct action and demonstrations by next month, reaching a peak this summer.

King listened quietly with his arms folded. From time to time he would interrupt with a specific question. How many people had they contacted? How did they feel about the

DR. KING IN BIRMINGHAM

No Sister Wallace Votes, King Urges

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI)—Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. returned Saturday to the scene of his 1963 civil-rights battleground to urge Negroes not to vote for "Sister Wallace" in Tuesday's Democratic gubernatorial primary.

He referred to Lurleen Wallace, wife of segregationist Gov. George C. Wallace, who is running as a stand-in for her husband. The state's constitution prevents Wallace from succeeding himself.

King moved into the big cities after spending Friday tourne the Alabama black-soil belt and urging Negroes to exercise what to many of them is a new right—the right to vote.

The integration leader climaxed his tour later Saturday with a "freedom jamboree" at Kelly Ingram Park—the no-man's-land of many racial struggles during the stormy 1963 integration drive.

It was in this park that demonstrators pitted themselves against the police dogs and fire hoses of Eugene (Bull) Connor's police force.

The park also is adjacent to the 16th Street Baptist Church, where four Negro girls were killed in a 1963 bombing.

In addition to Birmingham, King had stops Saturday in Tuscaloosa, Bessemer, Gadsden and Anniston.

"The local confederation will tell you who to vote for but I will say who you will not vote for" King told some 700 persons at Tuscaloosa. "I know you are not going to vote for Sister Wallace."

The Nobel Prize winner told the Negroes bloc voting was important "because segregationists have bloc-voted to keep us down and the only way to get out of our present predicament is to bloc vote ourselves."

King, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) was late starting his tour due to a meeting with President Johnson Thursday in Washington. Johnson outlined to King and other civil-rights groups his new civil-rights package.

United Republicans Elect 'Moderate' as New Chief

influence of the politically "disoriented" in Crosby's victory. Black said he feels this disoriented element does not represent a majority of UROC, but the more stable element of the organization just failed to show up.

Black was considering running against Crosby, but abandoned the idea when a check of convention pre-registration showed an overwhelming representation from "Crosby Country"—Southern California counties.

The disoriented, Black explained, are those who have a compulsion to prove they are more conservative than the next guy, and "they relate every ill of today's society to Communism, often on terribly flimsy arguments. It's a convenient catch-all for problems they're not facing realistically."

Rus Walton, of Los Altos Hills, executive director and public relations counsel for UROC during its three-year history, whose resignation as PR counsel is effective today, put Crosby's victory in a tougher frame.

TO WALTON, it was accomplishment of a course he predicted last week—the well-planned and long-planned takeover of UROC by an extremist faction. He estimates 20% of UROC are John Birch Society members.

Crosby told newsmen he is not a member of the Birch Society although his wife, Jane, is. He said he doesn't see the Birchers as an issue in Republican politics — "They're just Republicans to me."

The new state chairman, one of 33 founders of UROC, said he doesn't go along with things the Birchers say. He specifically disclaimed support for some Birch positions. He doesn't think the U.S. should get out of the UN; he is not for impeachment of Chief Justice Earl Warren; he said he is not in favor of repealing the federal income tax, but does favor the Liberty Amendment in principle. The amendment calls for income-tax repeal and getting the federal government out of competition with private enterprise.

UROC treated all of its candidate guests well in terms of generous applause and numerous standing ovations. But Reagan did better than any other. He and wife, Nancy Davis, received tumultuous cheers as they strode down the center aisle at Bakersfield's civic auditorium.

CHRISTOPHER, who suffered no untoward audience reaction like his booing by the California Republican Assembly a few weeks ago. Nevertheless got some barbed queries during a question and answer session.

"You sound like a changed man", the first questioner said—"you've been attacking Republicans up till now."

"No, I haven't been attacking Republicans," Christopher replied, "you're doing that right now."

Answering other questions, he pledged he would support the GOP nominee for governor, no matter who he is; said he campaigned for George Murphy for U.S. Senate in 1964; said he had no intention of going on the defensive after a primary victory, adding, "there's so much to be said about Governor Brown that anyone who would go on the defensive should see a psychiatrist."

LOS ANGELES County Supervisor Warren Dorn, center of the controversy over use of four-letter words in the Kienholz art exhibit, gave delegates a new four-letter word which he said can win for Republicans, "UROC.". He said he and UROC "are sick and tired of the Brown years of topless government in Sacramento."

Dorn said also he admires Democratic candidate Sam Yorty for "the guts to go for the nomination." We need teachers, he said, to teach the basic fundamentals of Americanism, not free love. "Dear God, how far can we sink?" he asked.

William Penn Patrick stuck to a passel of popular partisan themes, describing President Johnson as "the biggest Socialist who ever hit this country" and Governor Brown as "the biggest con man ever to hit the state of California."

HE SAID California's welfare program, "the most magnificent in the country" has resulted in a "horde of locusts descending upon us." And he explained a part of the states crime problem: "It's cold in Chicago; if I was a thief I'd move to California."

Reagan gave the convention a new cause to cheer in his recounting of his campaign appearances, breaking all records for political gatherings and, in general, a "groundswell (for Reagan) that is crossing party lines." He said free speech on campuses must stop short of lending comfort to the enemy and asserted the right to "ban anything that interferes with the primary purpose of our universities, to teach."

The convention also heard briefly from the self-described darkest of the dark-horse candidates for governor, Joseph Maswell, Pasadena business management consultant.

Chicago Keystone of Negroes' Drive to Expand Freedom movement? How many "jailgoers" could they count on?

That last subject touched off a long exchange. King pointed out they must make sure they reached the unemployed, those who would be prepared to stay in jail for perhaps 30 days. They should not rely upon the man who felt pressured to post a bond and return to work the next morning.

* * * *

A NEGRO turned to a white man and said:

"That's right. We learned in the South a long time ago that a man who has nothing to live for has everything to die for."

For the second time, King asked about the reaction of people toward the movement.

He was told, bluntly, that he should spend more time going to small, unpublicized meetings because "some people think you're coming just to get publicity." King nodded, and began to talk about what he called "the dilemma of the press."

"On the one hand," he said, "the press helps to mold our movement, it speaks to the conscience, it helps to do our organizing work for us. On the other hand, it creates problems for us, it comes between us and the people."

* * * *

HE AGREED that the press should not be invited to attend all meetings but said it was almost impossible to keep reporters away.

"They say they have a right to know what is happening. They demand the right to be present. They say that we are planning a revolution and that what we do affects everyone in Chicago. We do not ask them to come. They are there. Sometimes I wonder how they find out."

"Look," Andy Young said. "We have got to learn that the press is a part of our lives and nothing we ever do or say is really private. We have nothing to hide."

The conversation continued until well after midnight when King stood up and left for his apartment on the West Side. He was up early the next morning, preparing for an important three-hour strategy meeting with officials at the Urban League. When it was through he got in his car and left for his West Side office, a grimy suite of rooms overlooking the slums.

* * * *

ALONG THE way he gazed out the window and talked about why he had decided to come to Chicago. He came, first, he said, because he had been invited by civil rights and civic groups and second, because Chicago is perhaps the most organized city in the United States. It therefore provides a good chance for uniting large numbers around a common cause.

"Yes, I would say this is our hardest job," King remarked. "It's so big. There are so many problems. It's the biggest single Negro ghetto in the country. You know there are more Negroes in Chicago than there are people in Atlanta.

"There are more frustrations here. The people are so tired and fed up, they've been waiting so long, and that makes our job harder."

* * * *

HE GOT OUT of the car and began walking the two blocks toward his office. King, who was talking about writing and the need to get away on retreats from time to time to "put my thoughts in order," was interrupted by passersby on the streets and in cars. They waved and called out, "Hello, Doctor."

Obviously pleased, King responded with a series of waves. "Hi, how are you?" he said over and over before climbing the stairs to his second-floor office.

"Come on in," he said as he walked to the back office. "Do you like chili? They make the best chili in the world, right here in Chicago. Andy, let's have some chili."

Young left and soon returned frm a carry-out shop with chili in paper cups for everyone in the office. King sat at his desk, ate the chili and said, "Now that is good" and continued talking about the Chicago movement. He was more philosophical now. He referred to the old days in the South, to the Montgomery (Ala.) bus boycott of 11 years ago, to his letter from a Birmingham jail in 1963 and finally to Selma of last spring.

* * * *

"CHICAGO is a symbol," he said. "Just as Selma became a symbol for all of the South, so Chicago is a symbol for all of the North. The example of Chicago can trickle down to other cities."

He was interrupted by a series of long-distance telephone calls. While he talked on the phone, some of his staff members were recalling their initial fears about coming North.

"We had to go through a lot of self-analysis," said one man. "We could imagine all kinds of problems from the Muslims and the other militants who don't go for this nonviolence idea, or from the Syndicate (referring to the national criminal syndicate). Some of us could see them just tearing us up."

But, he said, they found out they were accepted more readily than anyone had expected—a point King had made on several occasions.

* * * *

KING came out, put on his coat and said, "Well, I've got to shave and get ready for my speech," and left for his apartment to prepare for a speech at the Chicago campus of the University of Illinois. He was scheduled to appear at 4 p.m. He was 28 minutes late and the students and faculty, part of a standing-room-only crowd, were restive. (King is invariably late; his schedule is very tightly drawn, but he finds it almost impossible to keep up with it.)

When he finished, he was given a standing, cheering ovation lasting five minutes.

* * * *

ONE THING is clear about King and his message. While his speech style varies from quiet, contained eloquence to stormy emotion depending on the type of audience, his message never changes. Always, in public or in private, before professors or slum dwellers, he preaches the gospel of nonviolence.

As he expressed it in Chicago, in referring to the Watts riots:

"What did Watts accomplish but the death of 34 Negroes and injudy to thousands more? What did it profit the Negro to burn down the stores and factories in which he sought employment?

"The way of riots is not a way of progress, but a blind alley of death and destruction which wreaks its havoc hardest against the rioters themselves. But nonviolent resistance provides a creative force through which men can channelize their discontent.

* * * *

"THE BEAUTY of nonviolence is that it says that you can struggle without hating, you can fight without violence. It says that the organized cadre of dedicated souls possess more power than Molotov cocktails or atom bombs."

In response to a question from a student about whether war ever is justified, King gave his reason for extending the nonviolent philosophy to international affairs.

"At one point in my philosophical journey," he said, "I thought that war could be a negative good, such as containing an evil force like Hitler. But now it is no longer a philosophical question. Now it is a progmatic point: war is impossible when mankind faces the nuclear abyss."

When he finally broke away from the cluster of students and teachers, King was nearly an hour late for his next appointment—a private dinner given in his honor by a group of wealthy Negroes who had contributed $12,000 to King's organization during Selma.

It was a lavish party, in luxurious surroundings. The hostess served vintage champagne and 25-year-old brandy. King drank tomato juice.

* * * *

AFTER dinner, King was given a gift of gold cuff links and a present for his wife, Coretta, who is staying in Atlanta with their four children until school is out. He gave a gracious speech of thanks.

Then to keep still another appointment, this one a speech before a large Negro church audience in the slums. As the car threaded through the traffic, King rubbed his forehead slightly and said:

"Andy, I haven't even begun to think about what I'm going to say."

"That means you'll preach the walls off, Doctor," Young replied.

And King did. He had the congregation standing and roaring their approval as he spoke with far more emotion than he had displayed since he returned to Chicago.

* * * *

"THEY'RE so angry, they have been waiting so long," he said later in the car. "They're ready for action."

By midnight, he was back in his apartment preparing, he said, to go over budgets for the SCLC board meeting the next week in Atlanta. His schedule the next day, Good Friday, was as hectic as ever: meeting with ministers and students, planning new attacks, a lengthy filmed television interview with Hugh Downs for the "Today" show next week, marching with pickets boycotting a store, and finally as the night came on again, driving back to O'Hare Airport to catch the 8:40 p.m. plane to Atlanta.

Martin Luther King, the Baptist minister, was going home to preach the Easter sermon.

Shot-to-Death Blond Identified by Mother

LOS ANGELES (CNS)—Police said Saturday a pretty blonde woman whose body was found Friday in a North Hollywood service station restroom has been identified by her mother.

Mrs. Cleo Anderson of Thousand Oaks, police said, identified the body as that of Mrs. Pat Murray, 25, who had been living in North Hollywood.

Mrs. Murray, police said, is separated from her husband, a Noel Murray, and has two children, Ricky D. Ferris, 8, and Teresa Ferris, 7, by an earlier marriage.

She was discovered Friday morning, shot through the head by a bullet from a small-caliber automatic, which was found near her body.

A night attendant at the service station told police the woman came to the station Thursday night with a man. He said he heard what sounded like a slamming door and a short time later the man drove away.

ERA OF WATERFRONT PEACE FACES TEST

ILWU Pact Ending After 5 Years

By CHARLES SUTTON

The new era of peace on the West Coast waterfront will be put to one of its severest tests to date soon, as Harry Bridges' longshore union and the Pacific Maritime Association get ready for their biggest round of contract talks in five years.

Bridges' International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, a power of the coast, already has submitted a lengthy list of contract proposals to the PMA, including a 50-cent hourly wage hike, and the two sides are expected to sit down to discuss them any day now.

The pay boost, if granted, would raise the basic hourly wage for longshoremen to $3.88, and the rate for clerks to $4.18.

* * * *

DESPITE the possibility of a strike June 30, the termination date of the present five-year contract, insiders are hopeful — even optimistic — that 18 years of unprecedented amity on the piers will continue without interruption.

It's been that long since the West Coast waterfront — once one of the bloodiest and bitterest arenas of labor-management strife in the country — has had a dock strike.

At this stage of the proceedings—and admittedly it's an early stage—the two sides have acted with sweet reasonableness. Which is not surprising, really.

* * * *

BRIDGES and his counterparts in the PMA, J. Paul St. Sure, have enjoyed the finest professional relations, and despite Bridges' somewhat outdated reputation as a fire-eating radical, PMA officials regard him with the greatest respect.

"Harry's always been straight with us," said a shipping official recently. "We may disagree with him, we may fight tooth and nail against some of his demands; but you've got to hand it to the man, he's impeccably honest. And his union's probably the most democratic labor organization around."

Thus far, there's been no official strike talk in union circles. Bridges and his men have made it a point to refrain from threats they don't intend to carry out. This doesn't mean they may not call a walkout if things don't go as well as they'd like at the bargaining table. They very well may walk out, but it will have to be with something like an 85% affirmative vote of the members.

* * * *

THE FEAR that Bridges alone may order the men out pact to damage America's war effort in Viet Nam-Bridges is an outspoken foe of U. S. policy in Southeast Asia—finds little if any confidence in informed union and management circles.

Aside from the belief that Bridges has no such thought in mind, the ILWU is too democratically structured to allow him to unilaterally call a strike. In addition, he's too smart to try, they say.

HARRY BRIDGES

Moreover, says a management man, "it would be suicidal for the union to talk strike now. Beyond the fact that Bridges and his men are not inclined to bluff," he says, "they have to consider the effect of strike talk against the backdrop of Viet Nam, not to mention the fact that Congress is considering several bills calling for compulsory arbitration of transportation disputes."

* * * *

OF COURSE, anything can happen by June, it's conceded.

Bridges and his 15,000 longshoremen will be entering the talks with a determination not only to boost wages some five times as much as the President's recommended 3.2% wage-hike guideline. They're also going in with a demand for higher fringe benefits and a conviction that they're entitled to a larger share of the increased productivity flowing from the present mechanization and modernization pact, a historic document that gave the coast maritime industry the right to mechanize waterfront operations in exchange for a so-called share of the machine.

During the life of the M and M agreement, the union's "share of the machine" has totaled $29 million, or something under $5 million a year.

* * * *

IT'S NOT certain exactly how much more the ILWU is asking the maritime companies to pony up this time. But it's expected to be over $5 million annually.

PMA statisticians and accountants are working overtime trying to figure out the cost of the full package, which has been estimated at anywhere from $1.15 to $1.40 an hour. The figure used most commonly—though not necessarily most accurately — is $1.21 an hour.

Among the more important changes sought by the union in the M and M agreement is one calling for increased mechanization wherever possible.

This may sound strange in the present context of American labor relations, where unions have been resisting the encroachments of automation, but for the longshoremen it's a matter of correcting what they believe is an inequity in the pact.

* * * *

THE ILWU feels some of the shipping and stevedoring firms have reduced the size of longshore gangs without bringing in new machines to compensate for the reduction, and that, as a result, the dock workers have been asked to shoulder an unfair work burden.

"We say the employers are obligated to put in labor-saving devices even if they are not cost-saving," asserted ILWU vice president J. R. Robertson not long ago.

And a longshoreman added, "We don't want to let the companies use the automation gimmick to cut the size of the gangs unless they're really automating."

Meanwhile, it's understood the PMA will ask for reduced gang sizes in the expectation that still more radical cargo-loading equipment will be introduced in the not-too-distant future. Some of the new machines are on the drawing board, and the companies want to be in a position to reduce the gang sizes when the new equipment is introduced.

* * * *

THERE appears to be some division in maritime ranks on the question of mechanization. Some of the big companies, with substantial capital reserves, have made considerable progress in mechanizing their dockside operations, but many small stevedoring firms in the PMA have neither the incentive nor the cash to purchase new equipment.

As a result, there's talk of a cooperative arrangement under which the stevedoring companies could borrow or lease needed equipment.

The M and M pact, regarded as one of the most far-seeing labor contracts ever negotiated, has brought unexpected dividends to the shipping companies since it was signed in 1960. And it has given the longshoremen some enviable benefits, including a guarantee against layoffs due to automation, a guaranteed 35-hour work week and substantial retirement benefits to supplement their regular pensions.

* * * *

THE PACT has worked so well that the $12 million already set aside to hedge against insufficient work on the piers—the 35-hour wage guarantee fund—hasn't been touched.

As a matter of fact, far from seeing their numbers reduced by automation, as had been anticipated, the longshoremen have watched their ranks grow by 4,000 men in the past five years.

So confident are they that the trend will continue that they haven't asked the companies to continue the wage-guarantee payments. Moreover, they've decided to divide the existing $12 million fund among the members.

Company and union officials agree that the rosy work picture stems from increased tonnage resulting from the more efficient handling of cargo.

And the greater efficiency, in turn, is a direct outgrowth of the mechanization agreement. So, all in all, the pact has been an acknowledged blessing to the PMA, which has seen labor costs drop from $6.36 a ton in 1959 to $6.16 in 1965.

* * * *

IN ADDITION, it's reported that dockside productivity has risen nearly 40% in recent years. These two facts—increased productivity and reduced labor costs—have given the longshoremen one of their strongest arguments for a bigger "share of the machine," it's felt.

New Income Tax System Begins Today

By JOSEPH R. COYNE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Graduated income tax withholding—the first in domestic history—becomes a part of the American way of life today.

Uncle Sam generally will take a bigger bite from American paychecks under the new system but it won't change the amount of taxes owed for 1966—only the time of collection.

The whole idea is to bring the amount of money withheld from paychecks as income taxes closer to a person's actual tax bill.

For lower-income families, the new system will mean more take-home pay. For many others, it will mean less.

And at income-tax-return time next year, there will be fewer and smaller refunds and smaller spot-cash payments to the government to make up the difference between the sum withheld and the total tax owed.

* * * *

THE SYSTEM is part of a tax bill signed by President Johnson on March 15 to raise $6 billion through June 30, 1967, to help finance the Viet Nam war.

Other major parts of that new law—a speedup in corporate-tax collections and suspension of some cuts in excise taxes—already have gone into effect.

A fringe benefit as far as the administration is concerned is a reduction in consumer purchasing power of about $800 million through next Dec. 31. Government economists hope this will help dampen inflationary pressures and avert any need for tax increase as a hedge against inflation.

* * * *

HERE'S AN example of how the new system will work:

For a married man with two children, the old amount of withholding was $20.80 on weekly earnings of $200 if all four exemptions are claimed. Under the new system $23.20 will be withheld weekly.

At present income taxes are withheld from paychecks at a uniform 14% rate, taking into account only the amount of wages and number of exemptions.

Under the new system, taxes will be withheld at six different rates—14, 15, 17, 20, 25 and 30%—depending on salary and exemptions.

* * * *

IN ADDITION to total income and exemptions, the new withholding tables furnished employers by the Internal Revenue Service will take into account the standard deductions and whether a person is married or single.

That's why some taxpayers will have less money withheld from their weekly paychecks.

At this point, if a taxpayer has failed to notify his employer that he's married—this should have been done by filling out a new W-4 exemption form—his taxes will be withheld at the single-person rate.

He'll still get the benefit of any exemptions he claimed on an earlier W-4 form but won't get the advantage of the split-income provision of tax law as part of his withholding.

This is the provision which permits married couples a lower tax rate than single persons.

* * * *

IN THE PAST, a married couple could take advantage of the provision only by filing a joint income tax return each year even if the wife had no income of her own.

Now it can be done as part of the withholding system.

The above example is based on the supposition that the taxpayer is withheld at the married-person rate. At the single-person rate his weekly withholding would total $26.60 with four exemptions instead of $23.20.

Any taxpayer still can take advantage of the split-income provision when he files his return even if he doesn't tell his employer now that he's married.

Storm's Toll in Texas 17 as Sky Clears

...eal on a highway made slick with rain.

DALLAS HAD its wettest April in recorded history, 15.33 inches. The postmaster at Godley, southwest of Fort Worth, Dallas' big-city neighbor to the west, reported five inches of rain in less than three hours. At nearby Joshua, police said rain and water were "the worst in 20 years."

Rainfall had several rivers and creeks in the Dallas-Fort Worth area flooding, including the meandering Trinity River, normally a lazy stream.

The Trinity, six feet above flood stage, flooded lowlands in the Irving-Grand Prairie area between Dallas and Fort Worth, and some 250 families were chased from their homes, but people forced out of homes in North Dallas and near White Rock Lake were going back into their homes with retreat of water.

Three young persons playing around the spillway at White Rock Lake were trapped for a while Saturday in the swirling waters below the spillway. A fire-department squad rescued them with a rope.

The damage came from a massive, unstable storm system that stalled in Texas more than a week ago. Tornadoes swirled out of it and rain pounded down from it. Hail and winds added to the damage. Hail the size of tennis balls pounded the area around Oak Creek Lake near Blackwell in west Texas, demolishing a small plane on the ground and damaging boats and piers. A tornado was seen near Big Spring and another near Henderson.

THUNDERSTORM and other severe-weather alerts followed in an unending stream in the Dallas-Fort Worth area for days, until an "all-clear" was sounded by the U.S. Weather Bureau at 6 p.m. (CST) Saturday that said the threat was over—for several hours at least.

The stable cold front that replaced the storm system in north Texas brought rain, also, but it was mild in comparison.

Dallas' worst day of the storms was Thursday, mainly in the Bachman Creek area which flooded homes and swept people to their deaths. Friday's rains repeated the floods but in different areas.

Scores of streets and main roads were closed in the areas by waist-deep water.

SHREVEPORT Journal reported Ed Petris, who flew over the levee area with chief photographer Jack Barham, said the gap in the levee was about 20 feet wide, and was widening. Floodwaters covered an area of about 20 square miles. Streams in north-Louisiana already were swollen after two weeks of intermittent rainfall.

"In this flood area," said Petris, "there are a lot of green islands or peninsulas surrounded by dark water. There were farmers on horseback, or afoot, driving out cattle. In most places it looked like the water was about knee-deep to the cattle."

No Shift in NATO

has before, the belief of the United States government that NATO must possess both nonnuclear and nuclear forces adequate to deal with a wide range of threats with the power appropriate to each."

This appeared to be a reference in part to the long-standing U.S. position that the NATO countries must strengthen their armies and other conventional forces so they can meet any Communist attack at the Iron Curtain and hold it off long enough for political and military leaders to assess the situation and guage the seriousness of the attack.

Mosquito-Destroying Fish Available Free

By P-T Los Angeles Bureau

The annual free distribution starts Monday of a guppy-like fish which wolfs mosquito eggs like they were going out of style.

The fish, Gambusia affinis, is given away by the County Health Department in cooperation with mosquito abatement districts to help homeowners control mosquitoes.

For this week only, homeowners may pick up the fish Monday through Friday from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Compton Creek Mosquito Abatement District, 1224 S. Santa Fe Ave., Compton, or at the Southeast Mosquito Abatement District, 9510 S. Garfield Ave., South Gate.

After this week, the fish may be picked up at these two offices only by appointment. Arrangements can be made by telephone.

Various health offices will also schedule one day on which they will distribute the fish. In the South Bay area, the fish will be available at the Torrance Health Center, 2300 Carson St., Torrance on Tuesday, May 24, fom 10 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The only restriction on the distribution, according to Dr. G. A. Heidbreder, acting county health officer, is that the fish must be used for mosquito control purposes only. They will not live indoors, he said.

"Mosquito fish may be supplied to stock ornamental ponds and pools, or any other untreated body of water which might give rise to mosquitoes," Dr. Heidbreder said.

He said the Gambusia have a worldwide reputation for their enormous appetite for mosquito larvae.

Persons wishing a supply of the mosquito fish should bring their own container. It should have a wide mouth and should be about one gallon capacity or larger. Children under 16 years of age will not be supplied with fish unless accompanied by an adult.

ON ALERT IN GERMANY

Giant Electronic Brain Eyes Reds

By WEBB TROUT

BIRKENFELD, Germany (UPI)—Buried deep under a hill in a heavily forested area near this German village, a giant electronic brain maintains constant watch to the east for possible Communist attack.

The $100 million installation, whose radar eyes and ears operate within a stone's throw of the Iron Curtain, is a vital key in Western Europe's defense.

Fantastically complex, the computerized "brain" keeps round-the-clock, up-to-the-second tabs on all air activity along the line dividing East and West—Communist and free—Germany.

Any hostile movement of East German or Russian planes or missiles across the West German border would be seen immediately and U.S. Air Force or other NATO planes could be scrambled to intercept the enemy within seconds.

* * * *

EVEN FRENCH President Charles de Gaulle is disinclined to pull out of the NATO command under which the warning apparatus operates. He is expected to support its modernization during the next five years, even while withdrawing from other military aspects of NATO.

The elaborate sky-scanning unit, known as the "412L air weapons control system," strategically located in the center of NATO's first line of defense running north and south through Germany, is operated by the U.S. 86th Air Defense Division.

Huge radar antennas turn constantly along the Communist border at seven locations, identifying and tracking everything in the air and relaying the data to control center in a never-ending stream.

At central control, Allied Sector 3 at Erbeskopf near here, the radar signals become aircraft images moving across a massive plexiglass screen. Communist planes show up with Red crescents over them.

The screen is similar to the one at North American Air Defense Command in Colorado Springs, but with one primary difference. This one is practically tucked up under the Communist curtain.

* * * *

THIS CLOSE to possible trouble, the tension shows. Alert, no-nonsense security guards check and recheck the identity tags and passes of everyone attempting to enter the underground nerve center.

Once inside, the carefully-screened and rarely-admitted visitor passes through a series of tunnels and rooms humming with elements of the 412L brain and finally stands in the big gallery dominated by the large screen. The room is filled with radar-computer consoles equipped with smaller scanners and a maze of switches and buttons.

An atmosphere of excitement prevails as the computers hum, the lights flash and the drama unfolds. Several planes are moving across the screen, some edged in Communist red.

Across the political border, a few hundred miles away, a MIG fighter plane rises from an East German air field, heading north and west. Just west of the border at Wasserkuppe, radar towers of the 616th Aircraft Control and Warning Squadron pick up the MIG, flash its image onto the Erbeskopf screen.

* * * *

AN AMERICAN Air Force officer points a long, tubular instrument like a king-sized flashlight at the image and pushes a button. Instantly, things begin happening.

Beneath and to the left of the big screen, a smaller screen becomes illuminated and information about the MIG starts appearing—its identity, its speed, its altitude, where it is from and the direction in which it is headed.

Like a TV election board, the figures keep changing as the image moves across the screen and become updated to within two seconds of actual status.

The MIG moved on up to the south air corridor into Berlin and started shadowing an American airliner flying toward the divided city.

"That's just a normal flight for the Reds," the colonel said. "He may do some harassing but it's routine for the MIGS to stay about a quarter-mile behind our planes in the corridor.

"This guy isn't going to cause any trouble, at least he's headed the other way and he's by himself. But you never know when they might gang up and head this way ready to start something.

"If they ever do," he said, "we'll be the first to know about it. And we'll be waiting for 'em."

Milwaukee Suburb Refuses U.S. 'Dole'

By KATHLEEN HEALY

WAUWATOSA, Wis. (UPI) — This vintage Milwaukee suburb doesn't want any of your federal dollars, thank you. When it comes to civic improvements, the folks in Wauwatosa would rather do it themselves.

Located on the western edge of Milwaukee, Wauwatosa celebrates its centennial in three years. And one of its biggest sources of pride is the fact that it has accepted no federal money since the great depression for any project except roads.

Mayor Ervin A. Meier says it hasn't always been easy to turn down greenbacks, but thus far he has resisted all temptation.

Meier said the community of 60,000 has spurned offers of "I don't remember how many billion dollars to develop our village area." He said the offers were turned down because Wauwatosa prefers to do the work itself.

"THE MAJORITY of the citizens don't want the regulations that accompany federal money for redevelopment," he said. "We prefer to rely on a private developer."

Wauwatosa's war with federal funds began in 1958, when then Sen. Alexander Wiley, R-Wis., sent Meier a telegram.

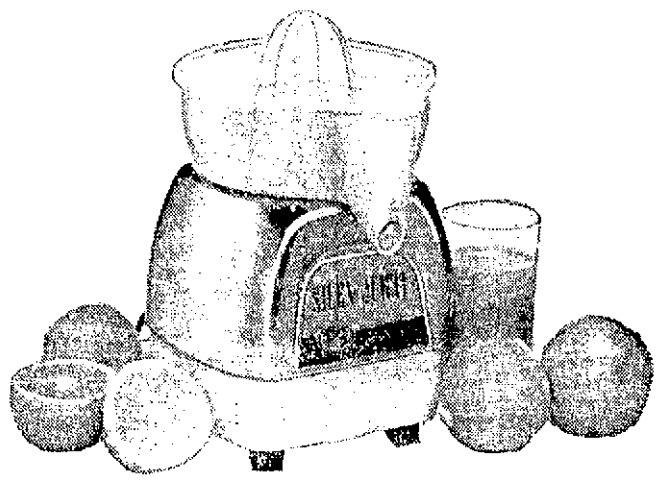

"He said some agency wanted to give us money to rebuild our village area. I didn't answer it and that was the last we ever heard," the mayor said.

A year ago, Meier got a letter from Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey. "He wanted us to set up a federal job agency but I told him we weren't interested."

The city has a service group handling a youth job center, Meier said, "and every summer we employ 50 to 60 young people in our Civil Service Commission. We don't need a federal agency."

Plan Sea Grant College Hearing

KINGSTON, R. I. (UPI) A U.S. Senate subcommittee opens hearings at the University of Rhode Island Monday on a proposed "sea grant" college program that would bridge the gap between science and exploitation of the sea.

The Rhode Island hearing will be followed later in the week by a hearing in Washington.

The concept of a "sea grant" college, advocated by U.S. Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., is based on the land grant college plan and would train scientists, engineers and technicians in the field of oceanography.

* * * *

THE "FATHER" of the "sea grant" college concept, Dr. Athelstan F. Spilhaus, dean of the Institute of Technology at the University of Minnesota, says the marine engineer who would emerge from such an institution would be as different from the old-fashioned marine engineer as the satellite engineer is from the one who operates a heating plant.

The aquaculturist will be different from the conventional fisherman. Oceanic engineering and aquaculture, the control of the sea for man's purposes, will take all of our imagination and inventiveness as a magnificent challenge, he said.

Support of such a program was very much in evidence at Newport, R. I., last October when 237 scientists and educators from all 30 states bordering the Great Lakes and the oceans gathered for a series of speeches and panel discussions.

New Math, Music Talks Set

Four lecture programs and two special series on "modern math" are announced for this week by the Forums department of Long Beach City College.

"Adventures in Great Music," a series of four lectures by staff members of Station KFAC, will open at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in Boyd High School auditorium, Eighth Street and Locust Avenue. Each of the talks will be illustrated by high fidelity recordings.

First lecturer is Howard Rhines, KFAC program director, speaking on "Great Moments in Music: The Phonograph as Historian." Other speakers will be Carl Prince, Bruce Buell and Tom Dixon.

HERBERT WILLIAMS, City College history and anthropology instructor, will present the first of six illustrated lectures on "Parklands of Western North America: Conservation in Action" at 7:30 p.m. Thursday in Boyd auditorium. The first topic is "Yellowstone and the Grand Tetons."

SIX-WEEK sessions on "Modern Mathematics for Parents" will begin at 7 p.m. Tuesday in DeMille Junior High School auditorium and at 7 p.m. Thursday in the Hamilton Junior High School auditorium. Each group meets once a week.

Lecturer is John Lenhert, mathematics teacher at Lakewood High School. His opening topic is "Sets and Set Language."

OTHER admission free programs:

MONDAY

The Literature of Ideas — John Robert Clarke, "Getting Life into Focus: The Wisdom of Leonardo da Vinci," 7:30 p.m., Rogers Junior High School auditorium.

WEDNESDAY

Driving Safety and Responsibility — Pauline Kincaid, "Driving Techniques in Southern California," 2 p.m., Boyd High School auditorium.

Red Cross Chief Will Talk in L.B.

Robert F. Shea, vice president of the National Red Cross, will speak at the annual meeting of the Long Beach Red Cross Chapter May 12 at the Elks Club, 4101 E. Willow St.

Date of the meeting was set for the day following the national convention of the Red Cross in San Diego to allow Canadian and national officials of the Red Cross to attend the local meeting.

The chapter meeting will start at 7:30 p.m. following a 6:30 p.m. social hour.

Shea is a veteran of 20 years with the American Red Cross, serving as vice president of the national organization since 1955.

The national vice president has visited the scene of every major disaster in this country during the past decade, and played a key role in the prisoner exchange with Cuba in 1962-63.

Besides disaster services, his special responsibilities include nursing, safety, fund raising services, development of civil defense coordination and training.

ROBERT F. SHEA
Speaks Here

Dr. Malcolm Todd will preside at the meeting, which will include choosing of a chapter chairman and officers by a newly elected board.

French 'Shadow Cabinet' Planned

PARIS (AP)—The Federation of the Democratic and Socialist Left has designated Francois Mitterand as its sole leader and asked him to form a minority parties' shadow cabinet. He was second to President De Gaulle in voting for the presidency last November and in the runoff second round got 45 per cent of the vote.

Folk Singer Farina Dies in Accident

CARMEL (UPI)—Folk singer and author Richard Farina was killed in a traffic accident Saturday night, a few hours after his first novel went on sale.

Highway patrolmen said Farina, brother-in-law of famed pacifist and folk singer Joan Baez, was thrown from a motorcycle he was riding on east of here.

Farina, about 25, years old, sang with his wife, Mimi, and their first album was selected by the New York Times as one of the ten best folk albums of 1965.

His first novel "Been Down So Long It Seems Like Up to Me" was published in New York Saturday by Random House.

Farina attended an open house party in Carmel Saturday and was riding on the back of a motorcycle driven by William J. Hurd, 27, Pacific Grove, when Hurd lost control, according to the highway patrol.

Dr. Day Named to Health Post

BERKELEY (UPI)—Appointment of Dr. Robert W. Day as deputy state health director was announced Saturday by the state director, Dr. Leonard Breslow.

Day, 35, succeeds Dr. Harold M. Erickson, who had held the post for six years.

Giant A-Plant for U.S., Mexico

YUMA, Ariz. (UPI)—Spokesmen for a United States-Mexico study team said Saturday a dual-purpose nuclear power plant would be built in the upper Gulf of California area but probably not before 1976.

The plant, which will be the largest of its kind in the world, will generate electricity and desalt seawater for use in the arid sections of Arizona and California and Sonora and Baja California.

'WALK' SET WEDNESDAY

Reagan to Tour L.B. Sidewalks

By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

Ronald Reagan, Republican candidate for governor, will visit Long Beach from 10 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Wednesday to open his campaign headquarters and meet the public during a "Walk with Ronald Reagan" tour downtown.

Arthur Guy, area campaign chairman for Reagan, said the candidate will arrive at Lincoln Park at 10 a.m. to meet with citizens, particularly senior citizens, to discuss their views on problems in state government.

Guy said the Long Beach citizen discussions and his walk at 10:30 a.m. from Lincoln Park on Broadway to Pine Avenue, to Fourth Street, to headquarters at 419 Long Beach Blvd., marks a "personal contact" campaign method that is new to Reagan.

Reagan will be at his headquarters until 11:30 a.m., then go to the Business and Technology campus of Long Beach City College to an 11:45 a.m. talk. He will greet the public at a 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. coffee session in the Elks Club, 4101 E. Willow St.

Guy said the public is welcome to greet Reagan at any of his Long Beach appearances, noting candidate's view is that "it is high time more of the ordinary people bring the air of common sense to problems of state government."

AT LAKEWOOD

Milton G. Gordon, seeking the Democratic nomination for secretary of state, will be featured speaker at the Tuesday evening meeting of Lakewood Democratic Club in Jose del Valle Park clubhouse. The meeting, starting at 8 p.m., will be open to the public. Gordon currently is California real estate commissioner and a member of Gov. Edmund G. Brown's cabinet.

CLUB HOSTING NEVINS

Richard Nevins, seeking reelection as a member of the Board of Equalization, will be guest of honor of the Democratic Women's Study Club at a Wednesday noon buffet luncheon in the Panorama Room of Lafayette Hotel. Reservations may be made through Mrs. I. M. Havens, president, at 1159 E. Second St.

The luncheon will be preceded by a 10:30 a.m. business meeting and study hour, featuring Rev. C. LeRoy Doty, president of the local United Nations Association chapter, and Dr. Edward W. Borgers, assistant professor of telecommunications, University of Southern California, chairman of the Long Beach chapter, United World Federalists. Study hour chairman will be Virginia Farmer.

CULLUM RE PARKING

"The only logical solution to the parking mess at Long Beach State College is multi-level parking facilities," Assembly candidate J. Raymond Cullum asserted last week. The 42-year-old attorney, seeking the Democratic nomination in the 39th District, said that if elected he would introduce legislation to fund such a structure, with cost ultimately to be repaid through small fees paid by students for parking privileges.

HASTINGS RE TRAFFIC

Willard E. (Will) Hastings, Democratic candidate for the 39th Assembly District, has called for the use of tidelands oil revenues to provide an overpass or underpass to eliminate traffic congestion at Pacific Coast Highway and Bellflower Boulevard, which he termed one of the "worst bottlenecks" in the Long Beach area. He noted that the State Lands Commission has approved possible use of tidelands money for widening PCH in the Alamitos Bay area.

'CONTROL LSD'—HAYES

James Hayes, Republican candidate for the 39th Assembly District, last week urged that the State Legislature "reconsider the measure to regulate and control the use of the dangerous mind drug, LSD." He said "this should not be a political item, but . . . a matter of life and death," and suggested citizens "write their legislators on this matter" to help stop the spread of "this evil drug."

* * * *

RAINES ALSO RAPS LSD

Immediate action by the State Legislature, particularly the Assembly Criminal Procedures Committee, to place control on the "rapidly spreading use of LSD" has been demanded by Lane M. Raines, Republican candidate in the 44th Assembly District. Charging that "the Brown administration has done nothing to halt or even control" the threat, Raines added: "Unless we want a state populated by 'acid-heads' . . . we'd better get some legislation on the books right now."

* * * *

PERTAINING TO POSTER

Jim Sutton and Reg Dupuy, Republican candidates for the 44th Assembly District, have issued a joint statement denying any involvement in the unposting of campaign posters boosting the rival candidacy of a fellow Republican, Lane M. Raines. Referring to a recent State Senate resolution asking that campaign posters be restricted to business and commercial areas, Sutton and Dupuy concluded that Raines' campaign workers "may have posted his signs on private property without the owners' permission . . ."

CULLEN VS. BIRCHERS

Attorney Mike Cullen, Democratic candidate for the 44th Assembly District, has declared his "unequival" opposition to "extremist groups such as the John Birch Society and the California Democratic Council," saying their "ultimate goals are identical —to rule their respective parties or to destroy them if they cannot control their operations." He added, "I call upon my fellow Democratic opponents in the primary, as well as those candidates in the Republican Party, to let the extremists know that their political tirades have no place in California politics."

Six States to Hold Primaries This Tuesday

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The 1966 road show of party primary elections opens in six states Tuesday starring free-for-all contests over the Democratic nomination for governor in Alabama and Oklahoma.

The primaries — to settle scattered state and local family quarrels within the parties — will continue through the spring and summer into the early fall until Hawaii nominates its candidates Oct. 1.

The candidates winning will go into the main event, the 1966 election Nov. 8. With the presidency not at stake this year, the major prizes are 35 U.S. Senate seats, 35 governorships and all 435 seats in the national House of Representatives. Thousands of other state and local offices also will be filled.

Besides Alabama and Oklahoma, states holding primaries Tuesday are Florida, Indiana, New Mexico and Ohio. The Texas primary is next Saturday.

ALABAMA HAS 11 candidates for the Democratic nomination to succeed Gov. George C. Wallace, fiery segregationist who is ineligible for reelection. The field includes Wallace's wife, who would be a nominal officeholder while Wallace continued to run the office; Atty. Gen. Richmond Flowers, former Gov. John Patterson and former Rep. Carl Elliott.

Voting in Alabama this year is being watched for clues to the meaning of the great increase in Negro voter registration, spurred by enactment of the 1965 voting rights law.

Because of the divisions among Democrats, Republicans have Alabama high on the list of states where they hope to displace Democratic governors. Their prospective candidate is Rep. James Martin.

OKLAHOMA has 13 candidates, including former Gov. Raymond Gary, seeking the Democratic nomination for governor. The state's first Republican chief executive, Gov. Henry Bellmon, is ineligible for reelection.

Both Alabama and Oklahoma hold run-off primaries in case no candidate polls a majority of the voters in his party in the first contest.

In Florida, Gov. Haydon Burns faces three challengers, including Mayor Robert King High of Miami, in his bid for renomination in the Democratic primary.

In Ohio, Gov. James A. Rhodes has token opposition in the Republican primary and is heavily favored to win reelection over the winner of the Democratic primary contest between Frazier Reams Jr., and Harry H. Mellwain.

Sen. Clinton P. Anderson, D-N.M., is unopposed for renomination in his state, and Anderson Carter is unopposed for the GOP nomination. Both parties have two candidates for the gubernatorial nominations in New Mexico.

INDIANA nominates candidates for governor and the U.S. Senate by convention but those offices are not at stake this year. However, Indiana is among the states where court action has compelled a second round of congressional redistricting since the 1960 census and thrown two incumbents into the same district.

Hence, Reps. Richard L. Roudebush and Ralph Harvey, both Republicans, must collide in Tuesday's voting.

In Florida, Democratic Reps. Don Fuqua and D. R. Matthews are both candidates for the congressional nomination in the same district.

Ohio redistricting pushed Reps. John M. Ashbrook, R. and Robert T. Secrest, D. into the same district. Both are unopposed in their primaries but must collide in November.

TEXAS WILL HAVE another head-to-head contest between two incumbents Saturday. Reps. Ray Roberts and Lindley Beckworth are both candidates for the Democratic nomination in the new 4th District.

Gov. John Connally is seeking renomination in the Texas gubernatorial primary. Atty. Gen. Waggoner Carr is the prospective winner of the Democratic nomination to run against Republican Sen. John Tower in November for the seat once held by President Johnson. Tower is unopposed in the GOP primary.

Other attention-getting contests booked for later this year include:

California, June 7 — Democratic Gov. Edmund G. Brown is seeking renomination against Mayor Sam Yorty of Los Angeles. Republican candidates for governor include actor Ronald Reagan and former Mayor George Christopher of San Francisco.

Michigan, June 14—Former Gov. G. Mennen Williams is opposed by Mayor Jerome Cavanagh of Detroit for the Democratic senatorial nomination to succeed retiring Democratic Sen. Pat McNamara.

South Carolina, June 14 — Former Gov. Edward F. Hollings is trying to unseat Sen. Donald Russell in the Democratic senatorial primary.

Kansas, Aug. 2—Rep. Robert F. Ellsworth is challenging Sen. James B. Pearson in the Republican primary.

Massachusetts, Sept. 20 — P. Kenneth O'Donnell, aide to the late President John F. Kennedy, against Edward J. McCormack, nephew of SA McCormack, nephew of Speaker John W. McCormack, for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination; Mayor John Collins of Boston against former Gov. Endicott Peabody in the senatorial primary. Prospective Republican nominees are Gov. John A. Volpe, for reelection, and Edward W. Brooke, Negro attorney general and an announced candidate for the seat of retiring GOP Sen. Leverett Saltonstall.

Oregon, May 24—Rep. Robert B. Duncan, a supporter of administration policy in Viet Nam, against former Federal Power Commissioner Howard Morgan, a critic of that policy, for the Democratic nomination to succeed retiring Democratic Sen. Maurine Neuberger. The Republicans are counting on Gov. Mark Hatfield to take that seat from the Democrats.

Canadians in Connecticut

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — There are 13,861 Canadians in Connecticut, making them the largest group of aliens living in the state. The Immigration and Naturalization Service reported.

Y Gives Woman Full Professional Status

A 24-year-old Whittier College graduate has become the first woman to achieve full professional status in the Greater Long Beach YMCA system.

She is Kathy Jo Schutte, who lives in Los Angeles but has been working full time as program secretary of the Los Altos branch of the Long Beach YMCA since her graduation in 1963.

Prior to that she worked part time at both the Whittier and Los Angeles YMCAs.

SHE received her official certificate as a YMCA program director in February although she had completed the necessary training last October.

After attending Cottey Women's College at Nevada, Mo., for two years, Miss Schutte, a Los Angeles naive, was graduated from Whittier College with majors in social work and elementary education.

SINCE starting to work at the Los Altos YMCA, she has worked with 27 junior high school girls' clubs and 17 senior high school gurls clubs, in addition to leading four High Sierra caravans and five resident camps at Camp Oakes, the Long Beach YMCA's mountain camp in the San Bernardino Mountains.

Her other interests include all sports, swimming, modern dancing and camping.

GORDON BUEHRIG AND 1966 CORD

Early Car Designer Shows Off His Creation-the Cord

By STEVE GIBSON

Though it was designed more than 30 years ago—and has been out of production almost that long—it's still considered by many car buffs to be the best looking auto ever to come from an American factory.

And now a scaled-down version of the two-passenger front wheel drive Cord is being manufactured again.

The first of the newly built Cords—now coming off the production line at the rate of one a day—was shown in Long Beach last week by its owner, Gordon M. Buehrig—the man who designed it.

Buehrig, 61-year-old Laguna Hills resident, picked up the car last December at the new Cord plant in Tulsa, Okla.

He was guest of honor and featured speaker Thursday night at the monthly meeting of the Long Beach chapter of the Military Order of the World Wars.

BUEHRIG SAID the new model Cord sells for $5,000 and is five inches lower and 30 inches shorter than the original models.

Some 80 guests and members of the military order viewed Buehrig's sleek auto parked for display in the patio of the officer's club at Long Beach Naval Station.

Following dinner Buehrig gave a talk—illustrated with slides—on his early auto designing career.

"I get a big kick out of the revival of the old Cord," he said. "It gives me a great deal of personal satisfaction."

Buehrig said he became interested in car designing as a boy in Mason City, Ill. After dropping out of college he moved to Chicago and worked as a cab driver before going to work as an apprentice automotive engineer at a custom auto body shop in 1924.

FOUR YEARS later he was working for General Motors and designed the instrument panel in the 1928 Buick. Later he went to work for Errett L. Cord, manufacturer of the Duesenberg, Auburn and Cord and was chief designer for the firm in 1934 at the age of 30.

In response to a question on auto safety, Buehrig asked a reporter present to stop taking notes, explaining that auto safety "is a real touchy thing to talk about" now that Congress is probing the matter.

He said auto makers are constantly striving to design and manufacture safer cars and cited a new thicker and safer laminated windshield in new cars.

"It is four times as safe as the windshields in cars made three or four years ago," he explained.

This hasn't been very widly publicized, he said, because of concern it might cause owners of older model cars.

"Constantly the auto industry is trying to improve these things but they try to do it quietly," added Buehrig, who retired last year after 14 years with Ford Motor Co.

He said "highways are the main thing to improve."

CONVERTED LIBERTY SHIP GENERATES 10 MILLION WATTS

Floating Nuclear Power Plant Complete

By JOHN F. HUSSEY

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI) — When they towed the old Charles S. Cugle out of the mothball fleet nearly three years ago, the Army embarked on an ambitious plan to develop the world's first floating source of nuclear-powered electricity.

The design was to create a barge-type vessel with a nuclear power plant capable of delivering enough electricity to serve a city of 20,000. Its military capabilities would be virtually unlimited.

THE OLD CUGLE was stripped of everything above and below decks. Workmen even split the ship apart and installed a huge new inner section.

The job was finished April 14 when the 442-foot vessel, newly named the Sturgis, was towed out of Mobile Bay toward Ft. Belvoir, Va. There, at a berth on the Potomac River, the Martin Co.'s nuclear division will install the final parts rendering the power plant operational.

The project cost the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers $18 million. In addition to its ability to produce a tremendous amount of electricity — 10 million watts — it can convert 4 million gallons of sea water daily into fresh water.

This vessel, had it been in existence at the time, would have been the perfect solution to problems of electricity created in Alaska after the earthquake, at Guantamamo Bay during the water crisis and at Santo Domingo.

"With the commitment of our armed forces at many sites throughout the world, a large strategic bloc of mobile power becomes an invaluable asset to our military force," Army authorities say.

The entire power plant will be able to operate a year without refueling. A diesel operation with the same power output would need 80 tons of oil daily.

The nuclear reactor and steam generator are housed in a big watermelon-shaped, 350-ton steel cocoon amidships. The steam-electric conversion system is just forward of this container. This equipment is located in a specially sealed midsection spliced between the bow and stern of the old Liberty ship.

Unlike nuclear-powered vessels such as the N.S. Savannah or Navy ships, the Sturgis will not move under its own propulsion, instead, its nuclear power will be used solely for the production of electricity.

IN THE construction process, elaborate details were included to protect the reactor and the men who operate it. About 880 tons of concrete and 600 tons of lead provide shielding to safeguard the crew. For added protection, the hull of the Sturgis in the reactor area has been strengthened against damaging blows, such as ram by another ship.

The vessel will carry a highly trained and specialized crew of 15. They will have modern living and recreational facilities.

At Ft. Belvoir, the Martin Co. will put the Sturgis through its final tests. Its reactor core will be installed before it is turned over to the Army, ready for operation anywhere in the world.

Veteran Long Beach Firefighters Retire

Retirement of two veteran firefighters effective today was announced by Long Beach Fire Chief Leonard V. Foster.

L. Monroe Ulrich, second assistant chief in charge of B Platoon, joined the force December 1, 1938, was promoted to fire engineer September 16, 1945, to captain August 1, 1946, battalion chief September 16, 1950 and his present job June 1, 1960.

Fire Engineer George R. Mathews became a fireman October 1, 1940 and was promoted to his present job April 1, 1951. He served as a captain in the Air Force for four years in World War II and was recalled to active duty during the Korean War.

In the latter engagement, he received the Bronze Star Medal, Korean Service Ribbon with four battle stars and the Republic of Korea unit citation. During his years with the fire department Mathews never missed a day due to illness.

Both men plan to travel and take it easy.

Turk Official Denies Peace Corps Quitting

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — Foreign Minister Ihsan Sabri Caglayangil denied Saturday newspaper reports that Turkey planned to phase out the U.S. Peace Corps program in this country.

Turkish newspapers had reported that the Peace Corps will be phased out and its American members replaced by Turks when current agreements expire. There are 571 Peace Corpsmen in Turkey, working as teachers or in orphanages or other improvement projects.

Newport Staff Sergeant Made Air Reserve Lieut.

It was a pretty long jump, but a young Newport Beach staff sergeant made it with ease.

Last week Sgt. George R. Sheets, 126 Via Xantha, jumped to the rank of first lieutenant in one big leap.

The Air Force Reservists, assigned to the Reserve's 414th Medical Support Unit which trains one week end a month at March Air Force Base Hospital, in civilian life is a pharmacist at an Orange drug store. He is a graduate of the University of Southern California School of Pharmacy.

He was promoted under the Air Force Reserve airman commissioning program under which selected noncommissioned officers may receive direct commissions.

At ceremonies held last week at March Air Force Base, Col. John Dasher, 414th commander, pinned the lieutenant's bars on the former sergeant.

Buckshot Blast Fired Into Home of Grand Dragon

NATCHEZ, Miss. (AP) — A shotgun blast tore into the home of E. L. McDaniel, grand dragon of the United Ku Klux Klan in Mississippi, near here before dawn Saturday, but no one was injured.

McDaniel at a news conference he called later in the day, said he counted 15 buckshot that shattered a window in his living room and cut through a partition into the kitchen.

The sheriff's office said it was investigating.

McDaniel said he had been sitting in front of the window about 20 minutes before the shooting, but had gone to bed. Other family members were asleep.

Mexico Gives S.F. Bell

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The city's Recreation and Park Department has accepted a replica of Mexico's liberty bell, a gift from that nation's President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz.

The bell, which weighs 1,200 pounds, is to be placed in Mission Dolores Park.

On Sept. 16, 1810, Father Miguel Hidalgo rang the original bell to summon parishioners to the first open protest against Spanish rule.

County Museum Master Plan Given OK

By DON BRACKENBURY
I. P-T Los Angeles Bureau

An ambitious master plan which would make Los Angeles County Museum of Natural History one of the six largest such facilities in the world was approved last week by county supervisors.

The plan calls for expenditure of nearly $20 million over a period of about 25 years, but frankly admits that most of the money will have to come from private sources.

"There is no hope for implementation of this master plan by means of county funds without a complete readjustment of budget forecasts," the report to supervisors read.

The master plan calls for four major new buildings—one an eight-story structure—as well as extensive remodeling of existing facilities.

* * * *

THE COUNTY MUSEUM, as it was known for most of its existence, was organized in 1910 and first opened in 1913. That first year, it drew about 8,000 visitors. It attracts about 1.5 million visitors annually.

The original building still stands—a T-shaped structure with an ornate dome—at the east end of the existing Exposition Park complex.

The master plan, prepared by the Los Angeles architectural firm of George V. Russell Associates, was critical of the original design.

Although there are "many reasons" why the 1913 building should just be demolished, the report said, it is difficult to justify the destruction of a structurally sound building when space is at a premium.

* * * *

THE ORIGINAL main entrance of the museum faces east, looking out onto the park's rose gardens. It has long since been deactivated, however.

"Its entrance terrace serves as a catchall for neighborhood litter and glass from its broken light standards," the report said.

One of the first steps of the master plan will be the relocation of the cafeteria in the north wing of the original building. The terrace then would be converted for use as an outside dining room. The combined facility could serve 175 to 200 diners.

The plan proposed use of exhibit material for the decor, and said the whale skeleton hanging from the ceiling should be left in the proposed dining room as a "tour de force" in the decorative scheme.

The area under the rotunda of the old building would be used as a lounge for members of the Museum Alliance.

* * * *

ULTIMATELY, the plan projects the main entrance to the modernized museum as opening onto a pedestrian mall from Exposition Boulevard on the north side.

The four main buildings proposed for construction are an eight-story Biosystematic Center, costing an estimated $4.5 million; a Science and Education addition, costing an estimated $4.1 million; a $1.2 million Transportation Gallery; and a $4.1 million History Division wing.

If all the proposed structures are built, the present 346,000 square feet of museum area would be increased to 856,000 square feet, making the local facility one of the six largest in the world.

The master plan calls for the development in four phases.

Phase I primarily involves relocation and modernization of existing facilities. Under this phase, the cafeteria and bookstore would be moved, the service entrance on the north side would be rearranged to make way for the pedestrian mall entrance from Exposition Boulevard, and added space would be provided for exhibits on the lower level.

* * * *

REFURBISHING of the entire museum also would be undertaken. The combined work of Phase I is expected to cost about $1.3 million.

The proposed Biosystematic Center would be located on the north side of the existing building. It would house laboratories, libraries, processing and exhibit areas, and would be devoted to collecting and research in the fields of recent and fossil biological material.

The third phase of the new construction would involve the Science and Education addition, which would run north and south along the existing west wing of the museum, and the Transportation Gallery.

THE FINAL PHASE would be construction of a History Division on the south side of the existing complex. It would house historical galleries, curatorial laboratories, storage and office facilities.

The architects acknowledged that the estimated cost of nearly $20 million is "somewhat staggering," but expressed the hope that funds could be obtained through various grants as well as a public subscription.

The value of the museum, the report said, is not limited to its current 1.5 million annual visitors. At least 40 universities, colleges and similar institutions in Southern California "depend to some extent on the resources of this museum," the report said.

GORDON BUEHRIG AND 1966 CORD

Early Car Designer Shows Off His Creation-the Cord

By STEVE GIBSON

Though it was designed more than 30 years ago—and has been out of production almost that long—it's still considered by many car buffs to be the best looking auto ever to come from an American factory.

And now a scaled-down version of the two-passenger front wheel drive Cord is being manufactured again.

The first of the newly built Cords—now coming off the production line at the rate of one a day—was shown in Long Beach last week by its owner, Gordon M. Buehrig—the man who designed it.

Buehrig, 61-year-old Laguna Hills resident, picked up the car last December at the new Cord plant in Tulsa, Okla.

He was guest of honor and featured speaker Thursday night at the monthly meeting of the Long Beach chapter of the Military Order of the World Wars.

BUEHRIG SAID the new model Cord sells for $5,000 and is five inches lower and 30 inches shorter than the original models.

Some 80 guests and members of the military order viewed Buehrig's sleek auto parked for display in the patio of the officer's club at Long Beach Naval Station.

Following dinner Buehrig gave a talk—illustrated with slides—on his early auto designing career.

"I get a big kick out of the revival of the old Cord," he said. "It gives me a great deal of personal satisfaction."

Buehrig said he became interested in car designing as a boy in Mason City, Ill. After dropping out of college he moved to Chicago and worked as a cab driver before going to work as an apprentice automotive engineer at a custom auto body shop in 1924.

FOUR YEARS later he was working for General Motors and designed the instrument panel in the 1928 Buick. Later he went to work for Errett L. Cord, manufacturer of the Duesenberg, Auburn and Cord and was chief designer for the firm in 1934 at the age of 30.

In response to a question on auto safety, Buehrig asked a reporter present to stop taking notes, explaining that auto safety "is a real touchy thing to talk about" now that Congress is probing the matter.

He said auto makers are constantly striving to design and manufacture safer cars and cited a new thicker and safer laminated windshield in new cars.

"It is four times as safe as the windshields in cars made three or four years ago," he explained.

This hasn't been very widly publicized, he said, because of concern it might cause owners of older model cars.

"Constantly the auto industry is trying to improve these things but they try to do it quietly," added Buehrig, who retired last year after 14 years with Ford Motor Co.

He said "highways are the main thing to improve."

CONVERTED LIBERTY SHIP GENERATES 10 MILLION WATTS

Floating Nuclear Power Plant Complete

By JOHN F. HUSSEY

MOBILE, Ala. (UPI) — When they towed the old Charles S. Cugle out of the mothball fleet nearly three years ago, the Army embarked on an ambitious plan to develop the world's first floating source of nuclear-powered electricity.

The design was to create a barge-type vessel with a nuclear power plant capable of delivering enough electricity to serve a city of 20,000. Its military capabilities would be virtually unlimited.

THE OLD CUGLE was stripped of everything above and below decks. Workmen even split the ship apart and installed a huge new inner section.

The job was finished April 14 when the 442-foot vessel, newly named the Sturgis, was towed out of Mobile Bay toward Ft. Belvoir, Va. There, at a berth on the Potomac River, the Martin Co.'s nuclear division will install the final parts rendering the power plant operational.

The project cost the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers $18 million. In addition to its ability to produce a tremendous amount of electricity — 10 million watts — it can convert 4 million gallons of sea water daily into fresh water.

This vessel, had it been in existence at the time, would have been the perfect solution to problems of electricity created in Alaska after the earthquake, at Guantanamo Bay during the water crisis and at Santo Domingo.

"With the commitment of our armed forces at many sites throughout the world, a large strategic bloc of mobile power becomes an invaluable asset to our military force," Army authorities say.

The entire power plant will be able to operate a year without refueling. A diesel operation with the same power output would need 80 tons of oil daily.

The nuclear reactor and steam generator are housed in a big watermelon-shaped, 350-ton steel cocoon amidships. The steam-electric conversion system is just forward of this container. This equipment is located in a specially sealed midsection spliced between the bow and stern of the old Liberty ship.

Unlike nuclear-powered vessels such as the N.S. Savannah or Navy ships, the Sturgis will not move under its own propulsion, instead, its nuclear power will be used solely for the production of electricity.

IN THE construction process, elaborate details were included to protect the reactor and the men who operate it. About 880 tons of concrete and 600 tons of lead provide shielding to safeguard the crew. For added protection, the hull of the Sturgis in the reactor area has been strengthened against damaging blows, such as ram by another ship.

The vessel will carry a highly trained and specialized crew of 15. They will have modern living and recreational facilities.

At Ft. Belvoir, the Martin Co. will put the Sturgis through its final tests. Its reactor core will be installed before it is turned over to the Army, ready for operation anywhere in the world.

Veteran Long Beach Firefighters Retire

Retirement of two veteran firefighters effective today was announced by Long Beach Fire Chief Leonard V. Foster.

L. Monroe Ulrich, second assistant chief in charge of B Platoon, joined the force December 1, 1938, was promoted to fire engineer September 16, 1945, to captain August 1, 1946, battalion chief September 16, 1950 and his present job June 1, 1960.

Fire Engineer George R. Mathews became a fireman October 1, 1940 and was promoted to his present job April 1, 1951. He served as a captain in the Air Force for four years in World War II and was recalled to active duty during the Korean War.

In the latter engagement, he received the Bronze Star Medal, Korean Service Ribbon with four battle stars and the Republic of Korea unit citation. During his years with the fire department Mathews never missed a day due to illness.

Both men plan to travel and take it easy.

Turk Official Denies Peace Corps Quitting

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — Foreign Minister Ihsan Sabri Caglayangil denied Saturday newspaper reports that Turkey planned to phase out the U.S. Peace Corps program in this country.

Turkish newspapers had reported that the Peace Corps will be phased out and its American members replaced by Turks when current agreements expire. There are 571 Peace Corpsmen in Turkey, working as teachers or in orphanages or other improvement projects.

Newport Staff Sergeant Made Air Reserve Lieut.

It was a pretty long jump, but a young Newport Beach staff sergeant made it with ease.

Last week Sgt. George R. Sheets, 126 Via Xanthia, jumped to the rank of first lieutenant in one big leap.

The Air Force Reservists, assigned to the Reserve's 414th Medical Support Unit which trains one week end a month at March Air Force Base Hospital, in civilian life is a pharmacist at an Orange drug store. He is a graduate of the University of Southern California School of Pharmacy.

He was promoted under the Air Force Reserve airman commissioning program under which selected noncommissioned officers may receive direct commissions.

At ceremonies held last week at March Air Force Base, Col. John Dasher, 414th commander, pinned the lieutenant's bars on the former sergeant.

Buckshot Blast Fired Into Home of Grand Dragon

NATCHEZ, Miss. (AP) — A shotgun blast tore into the home of E. L. McDaniel, grand dragon of the United Ku Klux Klan in Mississippi, near here before dawn Saturday, but no one was injured.

McDaniel at a news conference he called later in the day, said he counted 15 buckshot that shattered a window in his living room and cut through a partition into the kitchen.

The sheriff's office said it was investigating.

McDaniel said he had been sitting in front of the window about 20 minutes before the shooting, but had gone to bed. Other family members were asleep.

Mexico Gives S.F. Bell

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—The city's Recreation and Park Department has accepted a replica of Mexico's liberty bell, a gift from that nation's President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz.

The bell, which weighs 1,200 pounds, is to be placed in Mission Dolores Park.

On Sept. 16, 1810, Father Miguel Hidalgo rang the original bell to summon parishioners to the first open protest against Spanish rule.

County Museum Master Plan Given OK

By DON BRACKENBURY
I.-P-T Los Angeles Bureau

An ambitious master plan which would make Los Angeles County Museum of Natural History one of the six largest such facilities in the world was approved last week by county supervisors.

The plan calls for expenditure of nearly $20 million over a period of about 25 years, but frankly admits that most of the money will have to come from private sources.

"There is no hope for implementation of this master plan by means of county funds without a complete readjustment of budget forecasts," the report to supervisors read.

The master plan calls for four major new buildings—one an eight-story structure—as well as extensive remodeling of existing facilities.

* * * *

THE COUNTY MUSEUM, as it was known for most of its existence, was organized in 1910 and first opened in 1913. That first year, it drew about 8,000 visitors. It attracts about 1.5 million visitors anually.

The original building still stands—a T-shaped structure with an ornate dome—at the east end of the existing Exposition Park complex.

The master plan, prepared by the Los Angeles architectural firm of George V. Russell Associates, was critical of the original design.

Although there are "many reasons" why the 1913 building should just be demolished, the report said, it is difficult to justify the destruction of a structurally sound building when space is at a premium.

* * * *

THE ORIGINAL main entrance of the museum faces east, looking out onto the park's rose gardens. It has long since been deactivated, however.

"Its entrance terrace serves as a catchall for neighborhood litter and glass from its broken light standards," the report said.

One of the first steps of the master plan will be the relocation of the cafeteria in the north wing of the original building. The terrace then would be converted for use as an outside dining room. The combined facility could serve 175 to 200 diners.

The plan proposed use of exhibit material for the decor, and said the whale skeleton hanging from the ceiling should be left in the proposed dining room as a "tour de force" in the decorative scheme.

The area under the rotunda of the old building would be used as a lounge for members of the Museum Alliance.

* * * *

ULTIMATELY, the plan projects the main entrance to the modernized museum as opening onto a pedestrian mall from Exposition Boulevard on the north side.

The four main buildings proposed for construction are an eight-story Biosystematic Center, costing an estimated $4.5 million; a Science and Education addition, costing an estimated $4.1 million; a $1.2 million Transportation Gallery; and a $4.1 million History Division wing.

If all the proposed structures are built, the present 346,000 square feet of museum area would be increased to 856,000 square feet, making the local facility one of the six largest in the world.

The master plan calls for the development in four phases.

Phase I primarily involves relocation and modernization of existing facilities. Under this phase, the cafeteria and bookstore would be moved, the service entrance on the north side would be rearranged to make way for the pedestrian mall entrance from Exposition Boulevard, and added space would be provided for exhibits on the lower level.

* * * *

REFURBISHING of the entire museum also would be undertaken. The combined work of Phase I is expected to cost about $1.3 million.

The proposed Biosystematic Center would be located on the north side of the existing building. It would house laboratories, libraries, processing and exhibit areas, and would be devoted to collecting and research in the fields of recent and fossil biological material.

The third phase of the new construction would involve the Science and Education addition, which would run north and south along the existing west wing of the museum, and the Transportation Gallery.

THE FINAL PHASE would be construction of a History Division on the south side of the existing complex. It would house historical galleries, curatorial laboratories, storage and office facilities.

The architects acknowledged that the estimated cost of nearly $20 million is "somewhat staggering," but expressed the hope that funds could be obtained through various grants as well as a public subscription.

The value of the museum, the report said, is not limited to its current 1.5 million annual visitors. At least 40 universities, colleges and similar institutions in Southern California "depend to some extent on the resources of this museum," the report said.

Car Travel Urged by Oil Industry

By MAX B. SKELTON

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — The petroleum industry is placing renewed emphasis on encouraging American motorists to travel more and to make certain their vehicles are in safe repair.

The American Petroleum Institute's fourth annual advertising campaign to boost highway travel and gasoline sales begins Tuesday. The objective: more families making planned one-day and weekend trips.

Demand for gasoline has exceeded forecasts every year since the institute began the campaign with a modest pilot program in 1962.

* * * *

DURING THIS four-year span a number of individual oil companies have placed much greater emphasis on improved facilities designed to place safer automobiles on the highways.

"Diagnostic centers," "motorlabs," and "car care centers" are being used to encourage motorists to check the safety and mechanical problems of their vehicles.

One prominent petroleum marketer said recently the industry must make its customers' cars safer to operate.

"Here we are seeing pressure from the government to do something about a problem on which private interests should be in the lead," said S. E. Charlton, marketing vice president for the Humble Oil & Refining Co.

"I'm not pointing the finger at Detroit and leaving us out. The motorist is going to demand and we must give him reliable care for his car."

* * * *

CHARLTON SAID automotive companies can service only 15 to 25% of the needs of cars they are selling.

"Motorists' needs have grown much faster than the ability to service them," he said. "Less than one-third of the motorists needing repairs for their cars are having them done."

Humble is experimenting with a "car care center" concept to take care of about 80% of a customer's needs, including all repairs except major overhauls, rebuilds and body work.

A recent Shell Oil Co. "motorlab" survey of 1,100 automobiles indicated three out of four vehicles on the road have at least one mechanical deficiency that increases driving hazards.

* * * *

SHELL REPORTED that 76 of the cars had improper headlight aim and that this and other safety items accounted for 43% of the total number of deficiences detected.

Other leading deficiencies in the safety category: wheel alignment 58%, wheel vibration 46%, shock absorbers 41%, license plate lights 26%, windshield wipers 25%, brake lining 17%, and parking brake 17%.

The institute's travel campaign that begins Tuesday will include advertisements in 168 cities and will suggest a total of 300 separate tours in every state except Alaska and Hawaii.

* * * *

THE CAMPAIGN has a new name this year. "Discover America Best by Car," linking it with President Johnson's "Discover America" program. The theme of previous campaigns was "See America Best by Car."

Each advertisement this year will suggest two tours instead of only one as in the past.

The institute estimates the advertisements will reach 56% of the nation's family households.

$884,221 Revenue Reported

Long Beach's Marine Department produced operating revenues of $884,221.11 last fiscal year, primarily from slip fees and related activities at the small craft harbor.

Income gained $19,474.63 or 2.3% over the previous year's figure, City Auditor Murray T. Courson reported in an annual summary.

Mooring slip rentals yielded $680,646.37, an increase of $1,274.22. Other principal sources were concessions and rentals, $124,185.01, and launching ramp fees on the West Beach and at the Marine Stadium, $59,502.50.

Because the department's range of activities includes lifeguard service and other functions outside the marina, expenditures continued to exceed operating income.

Total expenditures and commitments last year were $943,346.14, an increase of $28,186.88 or 3.1% over the prior year. The lifeguard service alone cost $470,378.18, Courson reported.

Tour Film of Mexico Scheduled

"Flying Mexico," a 90-minute motion picture in color, will be shown at the Air Oasis Co., Long Beach Airport, at 8:30 p.m. May 11-12.

The film was made by Marion and Bob Auburn, specialists in flying travelogues, during a four-month tour by private plane through Mexico.

The Auburns will narrate the picture, which includes scenes of fishing in Baja California, skin diving on Mexico's west coast, the Yucatan peninsula and its ancient Mayan cities, the resorts of Acapulco and Puerto Vallarta and others.

Demands on Water Supply Up

CHICAGO (AP) — Problems related with water are increasing throughout the country says the chief of the army engineers.

Lt. Gen. William F. Cassidy told the American Power Conference "over-all demands upon our limited water supply are expanding today more rapidly than at any previous time in our history."

THE BUSINESS WEEK

Pressure on Blue Chips Pushes Industrials Down

NEW YORK (UPI)—Pressure on a few key blue chips brought the Dow-Jones industrial average tumbling down last week for its biggest loss since a 20-point slide in the first week of March.

Most of the daily declines in the indicator were comparatively modest but a plunge of more than 7 points on Thursday made up a large part of the weekly loss.

Prices started the week on a negative note with losers outnumbering gainers but a firm chemical group put a .072 gain on the blue chip indicator. Tuesday saw a drop of more than 3 points and Wednesday was marked by a slide of 2.67. Prices made some progress in a number of places in the list on Friday but softness in several blue chips produced a 3.73 loss in the average.

* * * *

ON THE WEEK, the senior indicator fell 16.15 to 933.58, its lowest level since it touched 931.29 on April 1. Rails suffered their sharpest break with a drop of 10.30 to 253.69. Standard & Poor's 500 stock index dropped 1.21 to 91.06.

Volume slowed to 38,313,649 shares from 46,723,840 shares a week before and compared with 28,115,890 shares in the same week last year.

The decline in both the industrial and rail indicators has raised some concern among the technicians. However, the general opinion so far is that the decline represents a consolidation phase. The incoming first quarter earnings reports and favorable dividend actions have provided a strong fundamental background to the list but technical considerations may have overriding influence on the near-term trend, the analysts said.

* * * *

LARGELY responsible for the loss in the Dow-Jones industrials were declines in steels and motors.

General Motors retreated 3⅝ to 90¼ on 410,700 shares in fifth place in the active list. The stock was depressed by lower first quarter profits despite an increase in volume in sales and a Supreme Court decision that GM was in violation of antitrust laws in handling the sale of Chevrolet cars in Los Angeles discount houses.

Ford slid 1¼ in active dealings despite a record first quarter report. Chrysler fell 2⅛ in fairly active trading. Studebaker fell 2. Lower mid-April sales also put pressure on autos.

Lower first quarter earnings reports from the major steel companies depressed the whole group. U.S. Steel, which reported a 32% drop in first quarter profits, fell 1¾. Bethlehem, whose first quarter profits fell to 80 cents a share from 97 cents a year ago, slid 1⅜.

EASTERN Airlines was also active. It soared 11⅝. The company's pre-tax profits rose enough so that it had to post a first quarter tax credit for the first time in six years.

Airlines were generally higher. Northwest advanced 7½, American picked up 3, KLM 5, Delta 1, Continental 1¾ and United 1½. American Airlines convertible preferred was a highlight—soaring 77⅞ on its first trade this year.

It was the second broadest issues traded, including a record 943 losers and 459 gainers. There were 97 issues at new 1966 highs and 196 at new lows.

Proposed agreement with Connolly Pacific Co. for relocation of Central Gas Control Station.

Approval of deed for Norwalk Boulevard south of Wardlow Road.

Proposed amendments authorizing standard parking meters on Atlantic Place at intersection with 3rd Street, revising speed limits on Ocean Boulevard and Junipero Ave.

Appointment of Robert J. Kingsbury as accountant assistant.

Authorizations for Paul A. Helm, superintendent of police records, to attend State conference of International Association for Identification, May 16-20 in Palo Alto; for Lyle P. Peterson, coordinator of disaster service, to attend triennial conference of U.S. Civil Defense Council May 24-26 in Phoenix, Ariz.; for Warren Hensland, director of finance, and Samuel M. Roberts, director of administrative management, to attend conference of Municipal Finance Officers Association May 15-19 in San Diego.

Reds Around Globe Merry on May Day

TOKYO, Sunday (AP)—Red China was ready for one of its biggest May Day celebrations, jubilant over an "unprecedented upsurge in industrial and agricultural production," the New China News Agency reported.

A celebration was also planned in Moscow, and the Luna 10 satellite — in orbit around the moon—will radio back to earth the "International," anthem of the Communist movement, with its electronic beep tones to mark the holiday.

In Saigon, 10,000 police and paratroopers were alerted for any attempt by Communists to use a May Day parade by organized labor to stir up rioting and other violence. All Americans not on duty were urged to remain off the streets.

* * * *

RED CHINESE cities were decked out with flags, flowers and slogans for the major Communist holiday. A huge portrait of Mao Tze-tung hung in Peking's Main Square, along with somewhat smaller portraits of Marx, Engels, Lenin and Stalin.

The Soviet government on the eve of the holiday gave Soviet citizens something to cheer about. An announcement promised a huge increase in the supply of food and other consumer goods this year.

The playing of the "Internationale" will be a repeat of the stunt by the unmanned satellite April 4, the day after it went into orbit. It was thunderously applauded then by the 6,000 delegates to the 23rd Congress of the Soviet Communist Party.

* * * *

REHEARSALS for the traditional May Day parade in Moscow indicated that no significant new weapons would be displayed. Huge portraits of Marx, Engels and Lenin dominated Red Square.

In Jakarta, 10 major non-Communist Indonesian labor organizations observed the holiday a day early and demanded that the government break diplomatic relations with Red China. The Communist workers group in Indonesia, Sobsi, is now banned and did not participate.

Organized labor in Japan dropped all anti-American and anti-Viet Nam War slogans and predicted the biggest May Day turnout in its history—possibly half a million workers and their families.

* * * *

OFFICIALS of the left-wing Sohyo Labor Federation, which has 4 million members, said they agreed to forego the slogans to make possible a joint rally with the anti-Communist Domei Kaigi labor organization. The two rival organizations agreed on one foreign policy slogan—reversion of Okinawa from U.S. to Japanese administration.

Russia Will Pay Turkey Fire Damage

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — Turkish authorities have released a Soviet tanker after Moscow guaranteed payment of $3.3 million damages for a waterfront fire here March 2.

The fire started after a collision between the tanker Lutsk and a Soviet freighter, the Krasnaya Oktobry, in the Bosporus Straits. Oil from the tanker's ruptured hull floated into Istanbul harbor and was accidentally set afire.

Mars Ship Bids

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration says it will ask industrial firms soon to bid on the design and manufacture of 14 major subsystems for the two Mariner Mars spacecraft. Each will carry 50 pounds of instruments to study Mars.

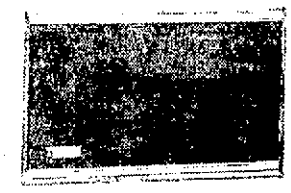

THE LAW OF SPIRIT

Without it there would be no justice, no hope of "peace on earth." Spiritual law is the force of God's intelligence and love. It is the force that establishes enduring health. It is Truth speaking to the human heart . . . the power of divine Mind transforming the universe . . . the substance of every worthwhile thought and act known to man. It's what Christian Science is about. Hear this public lecture presented by PAUL STARK SEELEY, C.S.B., member of the Board of Lectureship of The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass. The title is "Christian Science: The Revelation of Spiritual Law."

Powerful Voices Raise Viet Doubts

Combined Wire Services

From the halls of Congress came powerful voices raising doubt about the conduct of the war in Viet Nam. President Lyndon Baines Johnson listened but gave no indication he was prepared to change the nature of American involvement in that troubled southeast Asian land.

Those who spoke out against the Democratic administration were important Democrats:

Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Senate Armed Services Committee suggested the United States should withdraw from Viet Nam if public opinion in Vietnamese cities showed it was not wanted there. In a magazine interview he said he thought most Americans wanted to win in Viet Nam or get out. The U.S. is now so powerful in Viet Nam it could withdraw without loss, he said.

Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said in a speech, "America is showing signs of that fatal presumption, that overextension of power and mission, which brought ruin to ancient Athens, to Napoleonic France and to Nazi Germany."

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., said he viewed aerial dogfights over North Viet Nam with "the gravest concern," and thought it "neither prudent nor wise" to take risks of escalating the war "until some progress has been made toward achieving the stability that is essential for the successful prosecution of our efforts in Viet Nam."

* * * *

ON THE WAR front itself, the week's developments were dominated by one event — a dogfight in which a U.S. Air Force Phantom Jet shot down a Russian-designed MIG21, the best enemy plane in the war.

The kill was made Tuesday 65 miles northeast of Hanoi by Maj. Paul T. Gilmore, 33, of Alamogordo, N.M. Sidewinder missiles from his 1,600-mile-an-hour Phantom blasted the tail off the MIG. The successful kill came on the third encounter in four days between rival airmen.

Authorities were not sure whether the MIG belonged to North Viet Nam or to Red China, but the United States promptly announced a "no sanctuary" rule; such planes would be pursued to their base, if necessary, and the base itself might be wiped out, even if it was in Red China.

When that statement caused alarm in Congress, the administration softened it to say President Johnson alone would make decisions on "hot pursuit" into China.

Two earlier versions of the enemy plane, MIG17s, were downed by American fliers Friday in dogfights in the same area as Tuesday's encounter.

THE DEMOCRATS in Congress, sometimes abetted by Republicans, were on a spending spree, and President Johnson appeared worried. If it kept grinding out appropriations at the current rate, Congress would exceed the President's budget by at least $3 billion. This might force the President into a tax increase which, for reasons at least partly political, he would like to avoid.

President Johnson's unhappiness showed unexpectedly at an unrelated swearing-in when he blurted out, "It looks like Congress is going to spend more than we recommend they spend."

But Congress went right on: killed Johnson's National Teacher Corps and far exceeded his requests for things like school milk, school lunches, college loans. The President was just being fuxy, some sources said, cutting his requests for popular programs, knowing Congress would restore the cuts. Then he could blame Congress for higher taxes, these politicians said. But at the present rate, the budget deficit was growing daily.

More administration troubles were predicted this week after the President sent his civil rights message to Congress. It called for legislation to outlaw all racial discrimination in the sale of houses, no matter how they are financed; statutes to permit the Justice Department to initiate desegregation suits; and laws making it a federal crime to attack civil rights workers.

Some members of Congress predicted rough sailing for the bill — particularly the section dealing with housing.

THE SENATE Ethics Committee announced Friday it would investigate the conduct of Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn. — The first such investigation since the late Sen. Joseph McCarthy, R-Wis., was censured in 1954.

It wil look into charges that Dodd carried out assignments for Julius Klein, a registered agent for West German business interests. But no mention was made of other charges that Dodd diverted campaign funds to his personal use without paying income taxes on them.

Two days of violent rainstorms in the Dallas-Fort Worth, Tex., area resulted in deaths of 12 persons. Seven of the dead drowned Thursday in flash floods that swept through Dallas.

To add to the area's misery a tornado hit Fort Worth Christian College, northeast of Fort Worth, late Friday, injuring one person and damaging three buildings.

* * * *

ANDREI A. Gromyko made history Wednesday by knocking on a door. He went to call on Pope Paul VI at the Vatican. The historic meeting lasted 45 minutes and a Vatican announcement said they discussed peace and other world problems.

The Soviet foreign minister, ending a six-day visit to Italy, told a news conference that he and the Pope "expressed views on certain important questions."

FIVE YEARS after they agreed to merge, the Pennsylvania Railroad and the New York Central Railroad got the clear-track signal. The Interstate Commerce Commission announced Wednesday unanimous approval for the merger, biggest corporate wedding in history.

The new road, to be popularly known as the Penn Central, will have assets over $4 billion, some 19,000 miles of track carrying one-eighth of the nation's rail traffic.

FOR WEEKS the auto industry argued for voluntary safety standards, to be set by the car makers themselves. Suddenly last week they turned around and asked for federal safety standards. The manufacturers asked for terms even stronger than the government was suggesting.

The Traffic Safety Act of 1966, now under debate in Congress, would empower the government to set safety standards, but would not require them. The industry asked that they be mandatory.

AFTER FIVE days of high medical drama, Marcel L. DeRudder, 65, a retired coal miner of Westville, Ill., died early Tuesday.

He died in Methodist Hospital, Houston, Tex., of a ruptured lung, but his heart was strong and getting stronger. To medical science, that was the important thing. DeRudder had lived five days with a plastic heart, an artificial pump worked by compressed air. The pump had worked well, and this could give hope for the future for thousands of heart patients.

BEACH COMBING

MALCOLM EPLEY

HAVE you ever fished, swum in, or boated on Long Beach's Lake George?

If your answer is "of course not, there is no such place," take a look at a pull-out map which came with the current edition of National Geographic Magazine.

The map purports to show recreation spots, such as public golf courses, in Southern California. On its Long Beach section may be found Eldorado Park, Heartwell Park and Sky Links, each marked with a little flag on a pole (pin, the golfers call it) symbolizing a golf course.

Also shown, in the southeastern section of the city, is another little golf symbol and beside it the words, "Lake George."

WHEN a mystified citizen showed this to me I immediately called Don Obert, the city parks chief, and asked him how I could get to Lake George for a little golf or something else recreational.

"We haven't got any Lake George," said Obert. "What are you talking about?"

I told him about the map and we agreed that the spot designated as Lake George is Recreation Park, where there are two fine public golf courses, and which is not otherwise shown on the map.

Suddenly a clue developed. The golf professional at Recreation Park is our old friend, George Lake. Obert and I speculated that in preparing the map, somebody had a list of public golf courses and their pros, and somehow figured that "Recreation Park, George Lake" is Lake George golf course.

Then I called Lake and congratulated him for getting on a map without being a geographical fixture.

"But maybe I am a fixed geographical feature," said George. "I'm just rounding out 30 years out here."

TURNING from maps to booklets, our paper, as you may have noted, is providing to all comers a free guide to 10 tours for Southern California, prepared by the American Petroleum Institute. We have printed coupons to mail in as requests for the guide.

And one sensed a feeling of special yearning in one of those requests we got in the mail the other day.

It was signed by an inmate of the Federal Correctional Institution, Terminal Island, San Pedro.

"IRON Man" seems an unlikely appellation for a flutist, but that's the way the local magazine "Municipal Employe" has labeled Luigi Iannucci. And properly so.

It was done in the city employes journal in paying tribute to Iannucci upon his retirement after playing with the L.B. Municipal Band since 1937.

In a long career that began way back in 1923 in Bridgeport, Conn., Iannucci played in more than 15,000 concerts. He played in theaters, symphony orchestras, a concert ensemble, with a touring opera company, in hotel salons, over radio, and with his own combo at Bridgeport known as "Iannucci's Symphony Jazzmians."

The flute isn't one of the noisier instruments, but it gives sweet and lovely music. A friendly bow to Luigi Iannucci, who for 29 years has pursed his lips and blown that sort of music for thousands of Long Beach audiences.

IN SAN Francisco where they do things in a pleasantly unique way, a judge asked a motorist why he had been going 110 mph on the E. Bay Freeway.

"Because my car won't go any faster," was the reply.

Whereupon the judge hopped the smart aleck on the head with his gavel. Some felt that better use was never made of one of those little mallets.

Tours Help Residents Know City Better

A series of "Community Understanding Tours," to help Long Beach residents know the city better, will begin Friday under sponsorship of the Community Volunteer Office.

The six tours have a different program each day and last through June 8.

At 9:30 a.m. Friday, the tour, which will meet at the Assistance League Clubhouse, 394 Roswell Ave., will feature Long Beach history.

Featured in the other tours will be the harbor, Friday, May 13; Youth and Education, Wednesday, May 18; City Government, Tuesday, May 24; Health, Welfare and Recreation, Wednesday, June 8.

The Community Volunteer Office is at 3515 Linden Ave. and reservations can be made there. There is no charge for the tours.

West Beach Project's Prospects Brightened

U.S. Action Boon to Redevelopers

By GEORGE WEEKS

Prospects for Long Beach's $50 million West Beach redevelopment have brightened materially with the approval of the project last week by the U.S. Housing and Urban Development Department, in the opinion of urban renewal officials.

The federal action opens the way for more liberal credit terms to prospective purchasers of the site and builders of projected high-rise structures there.

"It gives us more capability in marketing the land," said James H. Brubaker, city urban renewal director and secretary to the Long Beach Redevelopment Agency.

The department's approval means that redevelopers will be able to qualify for special loan insurance under Section 220 of the Federal Housing Administration regulations, he explained.

THIS SECTION permits a loan ratio up to 90% of the value of the land and proposed buildings, as compared with an average ratio of about 82% under conventional FHA financing.

It also extends the period of such loans up to 40 years for amortization. The usual FHA limit is 30 to 35 years.

At least two major developers have told officials that availability of Section 220 financing would be essential to their undertaking the project, Brubaker reported.

THE FEDERAL department's action releases no funds. Developers would arrange for credit through the usual lending agencies but would have the advantage of bigger and longer-term FHA insurance.

Redevelopment Agency officials also pointed out that the approval does not place the West Beach in the category of federally assisted projects. The agency has sought no federal grant and is financing land purchases for later resale by means of tax increment bonds.

The agency will open bids May 11 for the removal of the last of the buildings in the 21-acre area. The whole site will be cleaned up before the end of 1966, Brubaker said.

LSD Curb Hope Seen by Younger

I. P-T Los Angeles Bureau

Hopes for state legislative action on a bill to control the drug LSD appear brighter as a result of efforts by 350 Southland community leaders, District Attorney Evelle J. Younger said this week.

The 350 persons are members of the District Attorney's Advisory Council, a countywide volunteer association, and Younger praised their "clamor for stronger laws against crime."

Younger said the council's legislative committee learned last Tuesday at a dinner meeting of the resistance being found in the State Assembly against the bill to control LSD.

* * * *

HE CALLED it "astounding" that law enforcement agencies and other citizens "found it all but impossible to get the measure out of the Assembly Criminal Procedures Committee."

(Assemblyman George Deukmejian of Long Beach, a member of the Criminal Procedures Committee, supported the proposed controls on LSD and voted to report the bill to the Assembly.)

Younger said that members of his Advisory Council began petitioning members of the Assembly committee, and "suddenly the prospects for the LSD measure were substantially brighter."

Dovbish Chosen by Prosecutor

Atty. Alfred Dovbish, a former deputy district attorney, was appointed Friday by City Prosecutor James T. Starr as a deputy city prosecutor effective May 15.

Dovbish, 33, now lives in North Hollywood with his wife and two children. The family will move to Long Beach before May 15.

C OF C CHIEF SAYS

Civic Center Held Top Need

By RALPH HINMAN JR.

"Our greatest need in Long Beach is a new civic center," declared the Chamber of Commerce's recently installed president.

"And," quickly continued Harold E. Showalter, Douglas Aircraft Group's vice president of financial management, "we must continue bringing in people and payrolls."

Named to the top job in March, Showalter's tenure began with the chamber's recent annual meeting — in which the group's 75th anniversary also was celebrated.

HAROLD E. SHOWALTER

Equal priority is assigned to "getting a raise for our underpaid city councilmen" whose proposed pay hike will be voted upon in June. "This is a 'must' project for the chamber," he said.

These are not new ideas as such, Showalter averred, but are continuing chamber goals.

A committee is being activated to restudy master development plans, now five years old, as they relate to a coastline civic center, the Texas-born executive said.

"I visualize a new library, city hall, state and federal buildings, an art museum in a suitable complex. The financing? That's a problem the chamber is properly interested in — and we'll have recommendations at the right time."

Bringing new payrolls to Long Beach remains a prime goal and chamber task forces constantly are conferring with industrialists in other parts of the country. Showalter hinted that "interesting developments" may be revealed later this year.

AS TO THE COUNCILMEN, "They are grossly underpaid for the work they do." The chamber is on record as supporting a proposed pay raise to $600 per month from the present $200.

The 51-year-old Showalter considers his primary "role" within the chamber organization is "to contribute to our very strong leadership."

"After all," he said judiciously, "we have an excellent staff headed by a 30-year veteran," Harry Krusz.

Showalter, 51, born in Lockney but reared in Abilene, Tex., joined the Douglas organization in 1937. The then-recent graduate in accounting from Abilene Christian College was to hold progressively more responsible jobs at both Santa Monica and Long Beach. He became a vice president in 1963.

The industrialist, who lives with wife, Johnnie Lee, at 3560 El Dorado Drive, is frankly prejudiced about Long Beach.

"I think it's an excellent city . . . I only wish we'd lived here longer!"

Civic Achievement Honors for Japanese Americans

Eleven Long Beach-Harbor area and Orange County civic leaders were honored Saturday at the Japanese American Citizens League Pacific Southwest District banquet in Edgewater Inn.

Local persons honored included Miss Kazuko Matsumoto, Mrs. Shinaye Nakamura, Mrs. Masako Kotsubo, Mrs. Kikuye Odama, Mrs. Kimi Sugiyama and Mrs. Misao Kobata.

Among Orange Countians cited were Keikichi Aihara, Kokuichi Ochiyo, Shosuke Nitta, Gengo Nagaishi and Masami Sasaki.

The meeting was highlighted by a discussion by Japanese American attorney William Marutani on the plight of the Negro in the south.

Spin Wheels on Charter Revision

By GEORGE WEEKS
City Government Reporter

THE CITY COUNCIL'S motion to consider calling an election of a board of freeholders to write a new charter could shake up Long Beach, but the chances are against it for the reason that such an election seems unlikely.

This prognosis is based on councilmanic attitudes in the fairly recent past. To put it mildly, these attitudes have not favored surrender of councilmen's authority over the city government.

In April 1961 the council created a seven-member advisory charter revision committee with instructions to study the whole charter and recommend changes that seemed reasonable and necessary. Members of the committee were three attorneys, two councilmen and representatives of the League of Women Voters and the P-TA.

ALTHOUGH SLOW in getting down to business, the group worked assiduously for 18 months, putting in hundreds of hours. The result was some 80 recommendations for charter changes, none of them drastically altering the present system. Most of them merely proposed removing obsolete language or correcting obvious conflicts.

What happened thereafter was an anticlimax. The council junked about 95% of the proposed amendments, put a handful on the ballot along with some of its own — and then quietly allowed the committee to die when its term expired in 1963. Thus ended one experiment in limited revision, under supervision of the council itself.

A board of freeholders, if elected, would be responsible to the voters and not to the council. It might even devise a charter that would ease incumbent councilmen out of office. From a standpoint of the functioning of city government, the effect would be almost the equivalent of creating a new city.

Among administrative officials the freeholder proposal has generated no enthusiasm whatever. They are accustomed to working with the 1921 edition charter (amended many times) and they generally believe its defects can be removed piecemeal without stirring a citywide conflict over a broad range of issues.

REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

City attorneys have looked askance on the idea for many years. The late Gerald Desmond, who held the office for 3½ years until 1964, and some of his predecessors warned that legal disaster could follow the scrapping of a charter whose key sections had been adjudicated by high courts.

The present city attorney, Leonard Putnam, is more reserved in his comment. He has observed, however, that any board of freeholders would have to be cognizant it was "dealing with a living entity—a city government now in being."

On the other hand, there are responsible persons who for widely varying reasons believe that a wholesale rewrite job is necessary and that a board of freeholders is the best approach. One of them is Atty. Marvin Tincher, co-chairman of the ill-fated 1961-63 advisory committee.

"We have probably the poorest city charter in the state," says Tincher. "There are dedicated people willing to put in the time to improve it. If they are to function effectively, though, they will need professional help and a budget."

He emphasized that the job of creating a new charter "must be done not with a meat cleaver but with a scalpel."

Whether the freeholders would take that approach would depend on their own inclinations, plus the sagacity of the voters in selecting a thoroughly qualified board.

Once elected, the board could go into almost any kind of change consistent with the state constitution. It could, for example, propose the substitution of the mayor-council system for the council-manager form of government. Or it could add to the city manager's powers. Eventually the voters themselves would accept the whole package or reject it.

THE PROCEDURE for framing city charters is set out in Article II, Section 8 of the California Constitution.

An election for choosing freeholders may be called by a two-thirds vote of the City Council. The board must consist of 15 members, all of whom have been electors of the city for at least five years. They are nominated in much the same manner as regular city officials.

If an election is called, the voters may reject the whole idea by refusing to sanction the creation of a board. If a majority favors freeholders, the 15 candidates receiving the highest number of votes are elected. They have a year to frame a charter.

Afterwards the council must publicize the proposed charter and call a second election on adopting or rejecting it. And if it is approved by a majority, the final step is ratification by the Legislature.

As an alternative, the council may on its own motion draft a charter to its own liking, rather than turning the job over to an independent body. The procedure for adopting such a charter is the same as for a proposal by freeholders.

If there is actually strong sentiment for a board of freeholders, the electors themselves need not rely on the council. An election must be called upon presentation of a petition signed by 15% of the registered voters.

So far, the council's decision to refer the question to its charter amendment committee — all councilmen—may be regarded as an election-season trial balloon. And if there is a substantial, organized movement for a freeholders' board — so far not discernible—the balloon could be blown up out of the council's control.

Privilege to Slander Unpatriotic

"ABSOLUTE PRIVILEGE" not to testify in a slander suit has been claimed by the Central Intelligence Agency.

A Canadian, born in Estonia, brought a slander suit against a CIA agent, charging that the agent had circulated rumors that the Canadian was a double agent for the Communists. The Canadian had been active in anti-Communist work as a lecturer.

Does the CIA have absolute privilege under the law? That is something the courts must decide, but if such law exists, it should be promptly repealed.

The CIA, America's huge intelligence organization, must have broad privilege. If its records could be subpoenaed and its agents forced to testify concerning their activities, national security would be endangered.

Slander, however, does not come under the heading of official activities. It is an act of personal malice, no matter if it were ordered by the government. Spies have also killed in defense of their government. When caught, they are treated as common murderers.

Privilege has its limits. Clergy, lawyers, and physicians need not tell what they heard while carrying out their professional activities. Aside from that, such men are just citizens. If they circulated slander, they would be open to suit or even criminal action.

TO CALL ANYONE a Communist is libel per se in the United States. The victim of the slander doesn't have to prove that he is not a Communist. He simply has to prove that the word was said.

If spies have legal privilege beyond other citizens, America has departed from the meaning of its Constitution.

Pressure Can Hurt

ACHIEVERS want their children to achieve. So they encourage them to work hard at their schoolbooks.

Teachers, who are usually achievers too, encourage the young achievers to greater efforts. Often they are given enriched courses.

This is good, but like everything that is good it can be carried to excess. Dr. H. Gerthon Morgan, a Baltimore psychologist, says that many elementary children are on tranquilizers and that an astounding number are developing ulcers.

Play is really the work of children. When they are subjected to anxieties that adults usually suffer from, when they are urged constantly to worship the "goddess" Success, something goes out of them.

This doesn't mean they shouldn't work. It means that "A" grades may not be worth the whistle. Some of the most successful men were the "B minus" type, if that good. Children need to be free part of the time to run wild over countryside, to swim, to play sandlot ball, to indulge childish hobbies. And there is no need for adults to supervise constantly.

A little sugar makes the medicine go down.

U.S. May Rap Race Discrimination

From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — The House Foreign Affairs Committee — long known for its lacklustre — is in the process of changing its image.

Within the next two weeks the Foreign Affairs Subcommittee on Africa will publish a report on the Union of South Africa which is guaranteed to set all but the most liberal on their ears.

The report, which is the result of extensive hearings on the apartheid policies in South Africa, will recommend that the administration place economic sanctions against the government as well as publicly deplore the South African racial discrimination. No other congressional committee has ever made similar suggestions on South Africa.

The committee also will release a report on its Red China hearings which is expected to recommend that the U.S. take a new look at that country. Although there is disagreement among committee members, the liberal factions of both parties are hopeful the committee will endorse the admission of Red China into the United Nations.

The committee also is preparing a report on U.S.-Chilean relations, the first of its kind ever to be made public by the committee.

"We're trying to become active in foreign affairs," one committee member said, "but it's hard to move a group that has been dormant for 20 years."

DEMOCRATS on the House Education and Labor Committee are patting themselves on the back for what one of the members described as "election year scoop on the Republicans."

Committee Democrats met secretly and agreed to cut back funds on the controversial Community Action Program. They also recommended that a $12,500 ceiling be placed on salaries paid by federal funds and ruled that a year hence local governments would have to put up 20% of the cost of CAP instead of the 10% now asked.

Democrats feel they have punctured the biggest Republican balloon by incorporating GOP demands in their own recommendations for improving the anti-poverty program.

"Of course, Republicans will still try to cut the anti-poverty budget, but we've deactivated their most powerful campaign weapon," one obviously pleased Democrat commented.

THE FEDERAL TRADE Commission recently found itself wrestling with the problem of whether a metal alloy known as "galvanized black angle iron" should or should not have "Made in U.S.A." stamped on it, as part of the metal compound is made elsewhere.

The FTC decided that the "Made in U.S.A." stamp should be omitted and then designated that all the hearings on the subject "must remain confidential and are not available to the public."

If only the CIA could work so stealthily.

Tax Savings Group Frustrated as Budget Trimmings Often Pop Back

From Our State Bureau

SACRAMENTO — Most frustrated organization in the capital-city is California Taxpayers' Association.

No sooner does the association battle to eliminate a spending program in one state budget then it pops up again in the following year's budget.

In Sacramento as in most government, spending programs seldom die once they are instituted. They merely go into hibernation when the pressure is applied.

CHARLES SMITHERS, director of state affairs for Cal-Tax, compiled a logbook on the comings-and-goings of state spending programs. Some examples:

State Manpower, Automation and Technology Commission — stripped of its $75,000-a-year budget in 1965 but back this fiscal year with a proposal for the full amount.

Regional Dialysis Centers (for treatment of kidney patients) — Not recommended for approval by Gov. Edmund G. Brown but inserted in the budget anyway by its champion, Assemblyman Nicholas Petris, D-Oakland. Brown tried to call off the center program because new treatment methods are available. Cost: $306,710.

State Military Reserve and California Cadet Corps programs — Administration and legislative leaders joined forces last year in chopping out their entire budget. But this session they are back in the proposed budget for a $847,657 outlay.

JAMES McCAULEY

The Cal-Tax 1966 recommendations call for eliminating all the above programs.

Not mentioned by Cal-Tax is the controversial State Economic Development Agency. EDA's budget was wiped out a year ago after it snubbed Southern California generally and Long Beach specifically in come-to-California brochures. EDA carried on its final year on a $197,167 budget. But for 1966-67, it is proposed to revive EDA on a $350,000 spending program.

Other Sacramento Soundings:

TRUCKERS BLAMED — A source close to Gov. Edmund G. Brown blames truckers for attempting to block any rapid transit provision that would earmark vehicle taxes for transit financing.

SILENT LAWMAKERS — Southern California lawmakers have been strangely silent even though Southern California may lose $99-$150 million in freeway funds because San Francisco refused federal freeway funds. Reason for the probable loss: present law requires the loss to be split 55-45 between the south and north. The law could be changed. But due to reapportionment tempers, Southern California lawmakers thus far have been reluctant to try to force San Francisco Bay area to accept the full loss for San Francisco's action.

* * *

VIDEO HAZARD — Assembly President Pro Tempore Carlos Bee found plain talk was the only way to shut off debate when things got out of hand at a recently televised session. The legislators obviously were enjoying the TV exposure. "Is there any one else who hasn't yet been on camera?" asked Bee. That shamed the debate into a sudden halt.

Poverty No. 3 as Cause of Death in U.S.

"IN THE OLD DAYS," said a critical letter, "we worked harder if we were poorer. We enlarged the garden. We went into the woods and chopped more wood. We wore old clothes.

RALPH McGILL

Mother darned socks, patched clothes and mended dresses. Today's poor don't seem to do these sort of things. They want someone else to take care of them."

Such a letter, written almost surely in sincerity, dismays because of its utter lack of comprehension of what poverty is in 1966 and where it is. Today's rural poor still manage a patch of garden. They can find wood in winter. They do have fresh air. They may even trap a rabbit or so (although Br'er Rabbit himself is disappearing) and have a few chickens and a pig.

But today's poor are in the cities. The total of rural poor is a smaller percentage of the total. The poor in the cities are concentrated there. That they live frugally is undenied. That their clothing is old and patched is apparent. There is no place to make a garden or raise a pig. There is no lake or creek in which to fish when there is "nothing to do." There is only the street and the environment of the streets.

But this is not the whole story of "poverty." At the recent National Dental Health Conference sponsored by the American Dental Association, Dr. Arthur Bushel, acting health commissioner of New York City, was a speaker. Armed with statistics taken across a span of years, Dr. Bushel listed poverty as the possible third leading cause of death.

"It is clear that poor health disability is among the primary causes of poverty, and, indeed, in New York City we sometimes are moved to point out that poverty is actually the third leading cause of death.

"THE BASIS for this statement is that if we were able to achieve for our low-income districts the same death rates which we observe in the high-income districts, the savings in human lives would be equivalent to eliminating the third leading cause of death."

There is no reason to dispute Dr. Bushel's conclusion. Poverty is a leading cause of death. There is no one way to "get at" the problem of the very poor. Education of adults and the young and training in skills ignore the aged and handicapped.

Employment opportunity is greater today than in the past several years. Yet we already see that employment still is not as generally opened to Negroes. Some sectors of the economy may do very well indeed and still not help the farm laborer or the poorly educated teen-ager. Many of the poor work very hard and regularly. Yet their income is too low to take care of a large family.

The poor certainly see doctors less than do persons with higher incomes. They usually are wholly dependent on crowded, understaffed city hospitals. Difficulties of regular attendance as out-patients often are enormous.

POOR DIETS, malnutrition, diseases that derive from inadequate diets, neglected tumors, rashes, internal bleeding, constant headaches (indicating brain tumors, eye problems, high blood pressure and other ills), hypertension and general lack of diagnostic attention, certainly make "poverty" a leading cause of death.

Mental problems come largely from "the poor." This is especially true of schizophrenia.

The facts are there. They cannot be rationalized away by talking of how in the old days churches took care of the poor (usually with a Christmas basket). "The village idiot" was a familiar sight in many towns not too many years ago. Today we are not quite that cruel. It is an interesting, but historic, phenomena that the poor are resented.

L. A. C. SAYS

The Loyalty Oath

THE SUPREME COURT decision on the two Arizona teachers has caused many people to wonder what kind of loyalty oath—if any—should be given by public employes. The teachers, a man and wife, refused to sign an amended section to the previous loyalty oath and were refused pay, although they continued to teach for the five years of litigation. It is estimated they are now entitled to over $60,000 of back pay, probably with interest added.

THE ORIGINAL oath which they signed provided, "I do solemnly swear (or affirm) that I will support the Constitution of the United States and laws of the State of Arizona; that I will bear true faith and allegiance to the same and defend them against all enemies, foreign or domestic, and that I will discharge the duties of the office of teacher according to the best of my ability, so help me God."

Then in 1961 Arizona amended the oath to make it unlawful for a person who had taken the original oath who then or later knowingly belonged to the Communist party or any other organization advocating the overthrow of the state government to hold public office. It was this amendment the couple refused to sign and the reason for the case going to the Supreme Court.

THE MAJORITY court opinion, 5 to 4, ruled that a person could belong to such an organization without taking part in unlawful acts. It said such a person would then be judged to be guilty by association. Justice Douglas said, "One who subscribes to this Arizona oath and who is, or thereafter, becomes a known member of an organization which has as one of its purposes the violent overthrow of the government is subject to immediate discharge and criminal penalties."

It raises a lot of questions. It raises the question of how persons can pay dues to such an organization and not be supporting its unlawful purposes. They may not approve of "violent overthrow of the government or other unlawful acts." If that is true then why are they members of such an organization? Many of us belong to organizations which have programs with which we disagree. But if they are unlawful programs how can we justify our membership?

IT IS A FINE point which will cloud the validity of loyalty oaths in all states. We have reached a point where they are criticized by left-wing groups in most areas. The California Democratic Council (CDC) calls for abolition of the loyalty oath. They cry out for free speech and the right to join any organization they wish regardless of its loyalty to the United States. It is understandable that some individuals join organizations without knowing their purposes and later resign when they find them subversive and unlawful. But the Arizona oath refers to present or subsequent membership.

In my opinion anyone refusing to take a loyalty oath including restrictions of membership in the Communist party is not a proper public employe. But the five-man majority on the court headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren does not agree. So one more principle of loyalty, like children's prayers in schools, is discouraged.—L.A.C.

EDITOR:

Walter Ridder says that people who refuse to pay taxes for the war in Viet Nam have no right "to personally veto the laws of this country."

I remind Mr. Ridder that "It is the moral duty of every citizen to oppose and resist any governmental action which he knows to be, or believes to be, wrong—whether or not said action is regarded as the law of the land." (Nuremburg, Germany, 1946-47).

Any objective observer who reads how "war crimes," "crimes against humanity" and "crimes against peace" were defined at Nuremberg must conclude that we have committed and are committing such crimes in Viet Nam.

With such a ghastly war being conducted in the name of the American people is it any wonder that some of them (I hope their number will grow enormously) refuse to pay for it?

Lawful protests have failed to deter our government, but without taxes the war cannot be waged.

MRS. ROBERTA HAMMER

EDITOR'S NOTE: We must disagree with you. The United States is engaged in a lawful conflict resulting from moral commitments made long ago. The United States by policy and tradition has never committed war crimes. When individual soldiers have committed crimes, their punishment, if caught, has been swift and often very harsh. Nor did the United States try and punish honorable German soldiers. The Nuremberg trials were for the monsters who conducted such institutions as Auschwitz and Belsen. It was held—although some lawyers disagree—that certain crimes are so unspeakable that they must be punished by all humanity. Of course, any citizen is free to resist the law of this or any other land on moral grounds—but he must be prepared to take the consequences.

'Big Lie Technique'

EDITOR:

Isn't the notion that the Democratic party is the party of the working man a perfect example of the Big Lie technique?

Actually the Democratic party is the worse enemy of the working man. It EXPLOITS the working man by confiscating his hard earned wages through outrageous taxation and then uses the working man's tax dollars to support the non-working man through its myriad wasteful welfare programs.

The Democratic party is the party of the bum and the bureaucrat. It has never given, and cannot give, the working man one penny that has not first been confiscated from him through taxes.

As Cicero Said . . .

EDITOR:

"But when a government becomes powerful it is destructive, extravagant, and violent; it is an usurer which takes bread from innocent mouths and deprives honorable men of their substance, for votes with which to perpetuate itself."

Cicero wrote the above words 2020 years ago. Wonder what he'd say now if he could see the Great Society bureaucrats in action? I don't think he'd change one word.

These thoughts from Cicero are a supplement to the fine article by L.A. Collins Sr. in "Cicero's Words and Conditions Today," and brought to life by Taylor Caldwell in "A Pillar Of Iron."

Take a Walk - - -

EDITOR:

This is in answer to one of your letter writers who has a "bleeding heart" for education of all the young men.

To anyone who is swayed by these people, I say they ought to take a walk through some of our tax supported campuses to see where their tax dollars are being used. I had to walk into one to get some books for my wife and I would hate to have to meet with some of those young thugs on a dark street alone at night.

I really believe that many of the rowdie guys there are not only avoiding the draft but work, as they live off their parents.

Let's Look in on Some Peace Corps Trainees

From The Washington Star

JAMES KILPATRICK

ARECIBO, PUERTO RICO — High in the mountains of the Rio Abaja, up a corkscrew road from Arecibo, 177 Peace Corps trainees are hard at work just now. They have their sunburned narices to the grindstone and their young hombros to the wheel. When they do calisthenics at 6 o'clock in the morning, to the wake-'em-up racket of a calypso record, they count it out, uno, dos, tres. And they go like mad all day.

The 177 are the survivors of 204 trainees who came here early in March. About 75 of them have stuck it out at Camp Crozier, studying for assignment in June to Columbia, Ecuador and Venezuela. The rest are at Camp Radley, three perilous miles up the road, trying to qualify for assignment to Costa Rica, Peru, and the Dominican Republic.

MOST OF THE TRAINEES are fresh from academic groves. Life in the rainforests of Puerto Rico came as something of a shock. In the rainy season, which is most of the time, it often drizzles and it sometimes pours, but there are long interludes when the sun sizzles in a brilliant Caribbean sky. The combination leaves the trainees as soggy as so many wet towels at a Hi-Y camp, but they persevere. Uno, dos, tres, and they will learn Spanish yet.

The groups now in training are typical of the nearly 13,000 Peace Corps volunteers now serving in the field. They have a high intelligence, a lively curiosity about the world, and in many cases an almost mystical idealism. They are, as it is said, not booky people, or money people, but "people people." If it is too much to say that they are ashamed of American wealth, they at least are not proud of it. They feel injustice like a stain. They know enough of the world's poor to identify compassionately with them; and they are ready to give up almost three years of their own lives, at barely nominal pay, to serve their country and mankind.

ALMOST ALL of the 177 trainees are in their early twenties, though one couple are in their late fifties. Eleven other married couples are on hand, all of them young and hand-holding, along with 11 single women and 124 young men. Most of them are college graduates; some have had graduate work, and some have served in the army or navy. Inevitably, two or three of them are brat-radical, eager to arouse the Gauls to any Caesar they encounter; these are tolerated as the "Berkeley types," with a good deal to learn. The rest are pretty nice.

All of them were forewarned, long before they came here, that they could expect a hard life in training in order to equip them for a hard life in the field. The plumbing is somewhere between rudimentary and downright primitive; the water taps run relentlessly cold; and the daily program keeps the trainees going till midnight.

Except for instruction in Spanish, four hours a day, six days a week, the training program theoretically is left up to the volunteers themselves. Everything is "unstructured," by which it is meant that the trainees are expected to work up their own programs and carry them out.

In plain fact, there is little time for gobbledygook or theory-spinning. At the end of their third week, the trainees are dropped off, one by one, for three days of being on their own in the Puerto Rican countryside. They are compelled to struggle along on whatever Spanish they can muster, living wherever they can find a Puerto Rican family to take them in. They return to these same communities on three additional weekends, and wind up with three full weeks in village work.

IF ALL THIS attention puzzles the genial Puerto Ricans, no one ever lets on.

Bonfire 'Lights' Flaws in Campaign Cost Laws

DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — An interesting little bonfire which took place in Hartford, Conn., on Feb. 15, plays a small part in the Sen. Dodd investigation. It should play a big part in rewriting the laws regarding political contributions.

Feb. 15 was shortly after the deadline required for preserving records of the campaign costs and contributions for the 1964 Senate election in Connecticut. Promptly on that day, Democratic friends of Sen. Dodd in the State House took out his campaign records and burned them.

When Republican State Chairman A. Searle Pinney sent for the records, they were gone. Fortunately, Jack Anderson had had the foresight to make copies of the more important items in Dodd's campaign budget.

However, the Connecticut bonfire illustrates the fact that records of campaign contributions and campaign costs are kept in a slipshod manner in most of the United States, and that one of the most important steps in electing competent public servants without getting them in hock to lobbyists is to reform the Corrupt Practices Act.

President Johnson in his January State of the Union Message promised: "I will submit legislation to revise the present unrealistic restrictions on campaign contributions — to prohibit the endless proliferation of committees, bring local and state committees under the act—to attach strong teeth and severe penalties. . . ."

When Lyndon was a senator from Texas, he was urged by the late Philip Graham, publisher of the Washington Post, to do exactly this in 1956. That same year, the late Sen. Tom Hennings of Missouri introduced legislation to reform the Corrupt Practices Act and so did the late Sen. Richard Neuberger of Oregon.

BIGGEST ITEM in any candidate's campaign budget is television. Both political parties pay through the teeth for TV space, but unless they do they may lose the election. This puts a premium both on money and on the stage manner of the candidate.

The importance of television—and its unfairness — were illustrated in Washington State in 1964 when an unknown preacher opposed veteran Sen. Warren Magnuson and almost beat him. Magnuson came to Congress the same year that Lyndon Johnson was elected—1938. He has done more for the state of Washington than any other legislator in its entire history. But because Magnuson is not an actor and because he has an ampler waistline than his Republican opponent, the unknown preacher almost licked him.

Magnuson is now chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, with power to initiate legislation requiring the networks and individual stations to give TV time in restricted amounts to all candidates on a nonpartisan basis. Since the air waves belong to the people of the United States and since some of the big TV stations are making as much as 40% profit, it would not seem unfair to pass a law requiring free TV time for the candidates, but simultaneously restricting the time so neither side can get ahead by spending more money.

THE PUBLIC doesn't know it, but Minnesota congressmen have been applying the knife to legislation protecting dogs used for vivisection and laboratory tests.

Rep. W. R. Poage, D-Tex., introduced an excellent bill requiring laboratories and dealers who handle dogs for medical purposes to keep them in decent cages and give them humane treatment.

Supplying dogs to laboratories has become more of an industry than most people realize. Mike Kredowski of Friedensburg, Pa., who operates the Lone Trail Kennels, says he sells 60,000 dogs a year to laboratories.

Kredowski operates humane kennels and takes good care of his dogs. But some of the supplying shippers and laboratories do not. One shipper had 130 dogs packed into one truck. Many dogs frequently die in laboratories before they can be used for medical purposes.

Despite these facts, three Minnesota congressmen and one Minnesota senator have quietly meat-axed one of the most important sections out of Poage's bill. Reps. Albert Quie, Ancher Nelsen, and Alec Olson (D), all of Minnesota, succeeded in deleting the word "laboratories" from the bill.

And in the Senate, Walter Mondale, a liberal Democratic senator, strangely sided with them. He has not yet succeeded in taking "laboratories" out of the Senate bill, but he has been trying.

DEAN SLAUGH DRAWS BEAD ON A BACKYARD TARGET

DEADEYE FROM WHEELCHAIR

Archery Champ Ready

By BOB GEIVET

A wheelchair archer from Garden Grove, who won the archery Paralympics at Tokyo in 1964 and became the world's amateur champion, is drawing his bow for new honors.

Dean Slaugh, 37, practices daily at his home, 12442 Jerome St., for upcoming competitions.

He's planning on winning the World's Wheelchair Archery Championship in London, where amateur bowmen from 25 nations will compete from July 20 to Aug. 4.

Slaugh will fly to New York for eliminations June 10 through 13 — and that will determine his overseas commitment.

He lived on a ranch in Utah, where he was raised with his five brothers, when Uncle Sam called him to fight in Korea.

* * * *

A BULLET paralyzed him in September 1950, while he was in action on the Pusan perimter, and since then he has been in a wheelchair. He was treated in a Denver military hospital until June 1951, and then transferred to Long Beach VA Hospital. Since then, he has lived in either Long Beach or Garden Grove.

Slaugh found himself mobile, after a fashion; he could get around in his wheelchair, and he had a car fitted with hand controls. He needed a hobby, other than watchmaking, which he finds is "steadying" for him, and he took up archery, to hunt in 1962 at Vernal, Utah.

He had no luck as a hunter, and a few months later, turned to targets. Since then, he has won more than three dozen trophies, and medals in scores of competitions.

At Tokyo, he captured four gold medals.

* * * *

HE HAS two favorite bows, both of the same make and the same design. Each is custom-built; he's a left-hander with a lot of power in his arms.

The bows are the works of true craftsmen; each has nine kinds of wood and is strongly laminated. Each is inlaid with mother-of-pearl designs. Each costs no less than $150.

His bows, short and powerful for speed, have a 45-pound pull for target shooting. He uses aluminum hollow-shaft arrows, and fits the feathers on them himself.

They're highly accurate, Slaugh said, because they're better-balanced than are wooden shafts.

* * * *

WHEN HE practices in his backyard, he usually has an audience of kids; they flock around him because they find he's something special.

He likes them, and he trusts them.

They have the run of his house, which he occupies with another Utah-born ranch boy, DeLoy Morrill, an ex-Marine who also was crippled by a bullet in Korean, and who also is in a wheelchair.

"The kids?" They're rooting for me," Slaugh said.

He reflected on his good fortune:

"I don't have many worries," he explained. "I can get around, I've got enough to live on, and I've got these kids around me. I find that if I treat the kids good, they won't hurt a thing — and are really very companionable and helpful.

"I like to be a part of that wonderful world of theirs," he said.

Bird Lovers Are Newest Freeway Foe

By ED KENYON

Pacific Coast Freeway — which weathered rough going as the crosstown freeway through Long Beach and, later, in Seal Beach and Huntington Beach — is still facing opposition in Harbor City and Lomita.

It may be forced to do battle on yet another front, however. This time, against the supporters of migratory waterfowl.

Belatedly alerted to freeway routing already adopted through Harbor Park, members of the Audubon Society are warming up a campaign to prevent what one member terms "the possible destruction of one of the few remaining refuges for waterfowls in Southern California."

* * * *

"IT'S QUITE possible," said Edward W. Anacker of San Pedro, speaking for the group, "that the freeway could drive waterfowl from Harbor Park and change the whole pattern of the Pacific flyway."

Waterfowl, migrating along the flyway, make the park lake, once known as Bixby Slough, a regular stopover for rest and feeding during their fall and spring migrations, said Anacker, who retired last year as director of Los Angeles City's Ferndell Nature Museum.

The lake is an invaluable resource for bird lovers and students who want to observe a wide variety of fresh water ducks, egrets, curlews, terns, loons, greebs and cormorants that make the lake their temporary home, said Anacker. Any radical change in their flyway also could have serious consequences for hunters, he added.

* * * *

PLANS FOR A bird observatory and other development under a $500,000 improvement program have heightened the interest of the Los Angeles Recreation and Park Commission in freeway plans.

The commission, at the urging of Commissioner Stanley Brummel of San Pedro, recently dispatched a resolution to the State Division of Highways expressing its concern about the effect of the freeway on the park.

Sid L. Hicks, district planning engineer, said the latest furor apparently was stirred up — ironically enough—by highway people themselves.

Following their standard procedure, highway engineers notified archeologists at the University of California at Los Angeles that they had adopted a freeway route through the park.

* * * *

WHEN ARCHEOLOGIST asked the Recreation and Park Commission for permission to make excavations to determine what artifacts might be found from the Gabrielino Indian villages which once existed in the area, the commission approved and then voted to beard the highway division on the subject.

Their answer, claims Elicks, will be that the freeway will take much less of the park that the commission apparently has been led to believe—at the most about 28 acres, at the least about 15 acres. The larger acreage would be for the northernmost route under study, the least for the southernmost route.

* * * *

ELICKS SAID a suggestion that the route be taken through the Union Oil Co. refinery just south of Anaheim Street across from the park "just doesn't appear to be too feasible because of the difficulty of barreling through an integrated operation such as that."

Elicks said the freeway through the park would be designed to have the minimum effect on park use.

"But I wouldn't want to pretend that the freeway won't have some effect on the park," he said. Among the possible results would be to wipe out a planned bird observatory and picnic area in the southern end of the park.

* * * *

"WE WOULD LIKE to dispel reports which have come to our attention that we were going to plow right through the middle of the park," said Elicks, who says none of the alternate routes under study provide for this.

Route studies are expected to be completed in the fall, says Elicks, and a public hearing on the routing from Harbor City through Torrance is anticipated late this year or early in 1967.

Wanted! The wisdom of investing in a Cadillac is confirmed by three facts. First—Cadillac enjoys the highest demand in luxury car history. Second—Cadillac has the highest owner loyalty in its class. Third—Cadillac has the highest trade-in value in its field.

Year after year, Cadillac has continued to attract several times as many buyers as any other car in its class. Now, the 1966 Cadillac is setting all new sales records—making it by far the most wanted luxury car in history. The reasons for this ever-increasing popularity are many. People obviously admire its styling—graceful . . . dignified . . . always refined and virtually timeless. With all its advanced engineering, Cadillac owners are constantly rewarded by important performance and comfort innovations long before owners of other cars. And Cadillac's skilled and proud craftsmanship gives this superb motor car a lifespan of reliability enjoyed by a long and eager succession of owners. When you combine the inherent excellence of the car itself with the ability and experience of its authorized dealers in serving fine-car owners, you can readily see why Cadillac represents the soundest of all motoring investments.

RETIRES AT 70

Harbor Will Miss Charlie Chadwick

By JACK O. BALDWIN
Marine Reporter

Charles A. (Charlie) Chadwick, still young in ideas and outlook at age 70, retired last week from the Long Beach Harbor Department.

For the past 15 years he was a special service employe, among his duties being to transport mail between various offices. Before that assignment, he was in charge of landscaping and gardening for the department's grounds.

And he recalls, perhaps wistfully, that he once had in his hands a million dollars—but not for long. It was an oil royalty payment he carried from the Harbor Department to the city treasurer's office.

Charlie, who resides at 5130 Patterson St., was honored on eve of retirement by 123 fellow employes, among them Al Maddy, executive secretary to the Board of Harbor Commissioners.

Maddy told the assemblage in the Reef Restaurant some of the incidents which spiced Charlie's career.

There was, for example, the time a pretty girl passed in Charlie's view as he was watering a lawn with a garden hose. The Harbor Department general manager happened to have his window open on the hot summer day. Guess who got gushed?

During World War II, Charlie had a bounteous Victory Garden growing in the department's patio, supplying many fellow employes with hard-to-get green vegetables for the duration. He even planted tobacco, Maddy recalled, "trying to beat the cigarette shortage."

And his datebook, said Maddy, grew so fat with the years that Charlie had it microfilmed—"and the microfilm is still two inches thicker than the telephone book."

Charlie Chadwick may, or may not, put the datebook to use during retirement. A widower, he has two married children residing in Nevada—son George, of Carson City, and daughter Mrs. LaVelle Laughlin, of Reno—and six grandchildren.

All he will say about the future is that he intends to "take things easy for a while."

Lawrence Grave Not at 'Home'

Harry W. Lawrence, 83, whose old farm is now the sprawling Forest Lawn cemetery in Cypress, died there Saturday.

His funeral service will be Tuesday at 1 p.m. in Church of Our Fathers, which stands on land his cattle grazed for 43 years.

Lawrence came to Cypress in 1915 from Iowa and bought the 100-acre beet farm he later turned into a dairy. He sold the dairy to Forest Lawn in 1958 and it makes up two-thirds of the cemetery.

* * * *

THE BARN was moved to Knott's Berry Farm, where tens of thousands of city folk visit it to give their children a glimpse of rural life. Knott's renamed it Old MacDonald's Barn.

The Lawrence family continues to dwell in their farm home, although it is part of the property sold to Forest Lawn. Surviving are his wife, Nellie, and sons, Glenn R. and Lester N.

But Lawrence won't be buried on the old homestead. Years ago, before anyone thought the land would become a cemetery, he bought a plot at Sunnyside Memorial Park in Long Beach.

MAY 5-8

Hobby Show Set at Aud

Plans are under way for Long Beach's 32nd Annual Hobby Show, May 5-8 in Municipal Auditorium, according to the city recreation department and the Long Beach Hobby Council.

Some 50,000 spectators view an average of 160 exhibits each year in the show, which originated in 1934, when 2,000 persons turned out.

Hours of the free exhibit, featuring magic, puppetry and folk dancing, will be noon to 10 p.m. daily except Sunday, May 8, when doors will close at 9 p.m.

Area Chiefs Announced

Jess S. Holton Jr. is new chairman of the Long Beach board of directors of United Way, the organization announced Saturday.

Dr. Ralph Burnight was re-elected chairman for Bellflower and Joe Magners heads the Lakewood board of directors.

In Long Beach, Charles Litwin was named first vice chairman; Mrs. H. W. Hodges, second vice chairman, and Mrs. Leo Schultz, secretary.

Dr. Margaret Orear is Bellflower vice chairman and Dr. Richard Vermillion, secretary.

Lakewood directors elected Mrs. Lillian Clark, vice chairman, and Mrs. Jo Bennitt, secretary.

Representatives from these boards to the Long Beach area board include: Phil Lockwood and David Shultz from Lowry, Daniel H. Ridder, N. Lakewood; Dr. Burnight, Mrs. L. McLaughlin, Guy S. Balser, Mrs. Roger Huffman, Norman Murray, Robert Weeks and Mrs. Jack Ramsaur of Bellflower; Dr. P. Victor Peterson, Mrs. Francis M. Norbert Dean and Mrs. Shultz.

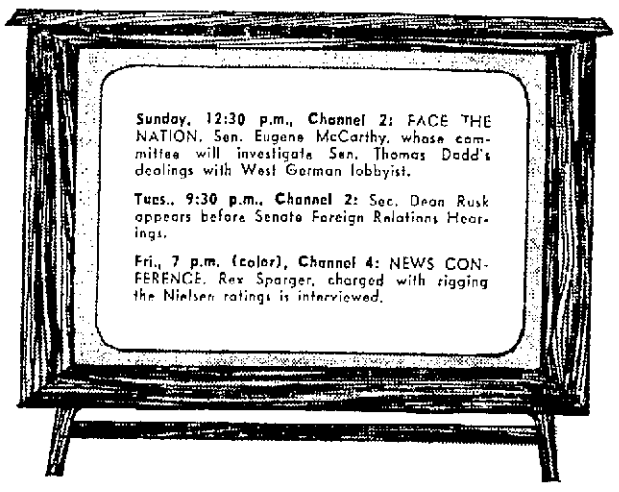

Insurance Wage Reports Due Monday

Monday is the deadline for employers to file unemployment insurance wage reports and contribution returns for the first quarter of the year.

W. P. Nebergall, auditor in charge of the state Department of Employment office here, said penalty and interest will be charged on late reports. Employers may obtain assistance in preparing returns at the audit office, 1315 Pine Ave.

NEW HOLLYWOOD SUCCESS SYMBOL

Film Stars Hitch Status to a Trailer

By GENE HANDSAKER

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The new status symbol among Hollywood stars is the personally owned, luxuriously appointed, dressing-room house trailer.

The longer the trailer—or mobile home—the more status. Minimum equipment usually includes air-conditioning, stereo, television and of course bath and kitchen facilities. Also drapes, lamps, wall-to-wall carpeting, refrigerator, one or two telephones and often a bar.

Transported by studio aides from sound stage to sound stage—or even hundreds of miles on location—the trailer becomes a comfy home-away-from-home for relaxing, studying lines, having make-up applied or dining. It's plugged into telephone, water and electric lines.

* * * *

STEVE McQUEEN'S 35-footer, costing about $26,000, has its own engine and is more like a bus. Twentieth Century-Fox sent it recently to Taiwan and Hong Kong for his use in "The Sand Pebbles." This summer it will accompany him to England, Germany and France for another film.

From an observation platform on top—canopy-covered and reached by aluminum ladder—Steve watched the auto races at Southern California's Riverside raceway for two days last fall.

Features include bar, galley and sleeping space for six. A married couple who attend to McQueen's needs, including meals, drove it to his New Orleans location for "Nevada Smith."

* * * *

TONY CURTIS' $15,000, 22-foot trailer is on a split level, with kitchen, bath and dressing room higher and to the rear. There are cork walls that deaden sound. A couch is upholstered in vicuna.

"I do all my studying and preparing for scenes here," says Tony. "It's nice to come in, even 400 miles away on location, and see my little things."

These include, on a dressing table before a lightbulb-rimmed mirror, a miniature TV set.

* * * *

DEBBIE REYNOLDS has had her de luxe 26-footer about two years. It even has, as an aide describes it, "a little fake garden they put out front." Debbie lunches in her trailer and on occasion has lent it to Agnes Moorehead.

Jerry Lewis' 35-foot trailer has a tub bath, bay windows, sliding glass door and nearly a solid wall of wardrobe space. Also water purifier, 10-gallon water heater, 32-gallon water tank, tape and phonograph records and color TV.

But Jerry plans to get a longer trailer—about 45 feet—to have more office space. As it is now, a spokesman says, "he uses the oven for a filing cabinet."

CARY GRANT'S trailer has sumptuous furnishings, mirrors and various mementoes and awards. Natalie Wood's has cream carpeting and Louis XIV furniture, like her rest-of-the-time home in Bel-Air. Rock Hudson's includes a big, round table for card-playing. Lana Turner's is upholstered in powder-blue satin.

Jack Lemon is still furnishing his newly purchased 26-footer. It will have an old barber chair in which he'll stretch out while having make-up applied.

Junior Theater Auditions Thursday

Announce Pulitzer Winners on Monday

NEW YORK (UPI)—The 1966 Pulitzer Prizes in the fields of journalism, letters, drama and music will be announced Monday in conjunction with an observance of the golden anniversary of the coveted awards.

Winners of the prizes will be announced by Dr. Grayson Kirk, president of Columbia University, at the university's Graduate School of Journalism, which administers the awards. The program was set up by the will of Joseph Pultizer, the publisher, and the first awards were given in 1917.

The Pulitzer Prizes are awarded by the trustees of Columbia on the recommendation of an advisory board of jurors who are experts in each category. Most of the awards carry an honorarium of either $1,000 or $500.

A 50th anniversary dinner will be held at the Hotel Plaza May 10.

EARL WILSON

Sue Lyon in School

NEW YORK — "Did you know I've gone back to school?" Lolita asked.

Could it be possible that Sue Lyon was still only 19? Was it only five years ago that she became world famous as James Mason's nymphet in "Lolita"? There she sat, at the Warwick Raleigh Room, sipping her daiquiri, and mentioning that she was getting A's in English at Santa Monica City College where she's a freshman.

And she looks forward to becoming a school teacher . . . along in the middle 1970s . . . of second and third-graders.

"I have a theory that most actresses last only 8 or 10 years," Sue said. "By then I'll be 30 and can teach.

"I love working with small children. I've got 10 nieces and nephews. I worked as a counselor for an arts and crafts study group."

"YOU'VE SEEN all and everything of Hollywood since you were in your very early teens," I said. "Has it made you cynical?"

"No. I'm extremely happy . . . happier than I've ever been."

"Is there a guy?"

"Yeah . . . I don't want to say who . . . he's not here."

"You don't go with the long-haired boys, do you?"

"No! I think it's ridiculous. If they're stupid enough to wear their hair down to their shoulders, they're stupid enough to do a lot of other things I wouldn't like, too. Some of them are so dumb — I heard about one dumb long-haired kid who heard the name 'Viet Nam' and said, 'What is that? A new movie?'"

SUE WORE a yellow jacket over a black sweater blending nicely with her blonde hair. She had come here for Easter vacation from college.

"Did 'Lolita' change the lives of lots of people?"

"Of course it changed mine. It put me to work! I learned a lot about acting. James Mason was a good influence. He showed me how an actress can respect her work. He was always saying, 'Hello, let's go over our lines.' He is better, I think, than the actor who kids everything. Mason was the best influence on me."

"You're ruling out Richard Burton who was with you in 'Night of the Iguana.'"

"Not ruling him out. Everything's a joke with Burton. His way of preparing is very distracting because he laughs about everything."

"But he's a light-hearted guy while Mason's serious," I said.

"I like serious people better!"

SUE SAID she is unhappy about her contract and glad she'll be free in a year to work elsewhere.

"Are you cynical and disenchanted?"

"No, I've known some very good people: Kubrick & Harris, I love both of them and I'd do anything for them."

Sue expects to go to Switzerland in August for a picture, "The Deep Freeze," about a girls' finishing school "which puts girls in a deep freeze until they're old enough to melt and become adults."

A brief marriage to actor Hampton Fancher 3d was part of that fateful five years of Sue's. They divorced.

"I'd like to marry again but not for a few years," she said. "That's the best kind of life to lead . . ."

* * * *

THE WEEKEND WINDUP . . . Michael Caine agreed to make his first personal appearance tour, with "Alfie" (because he owns a chunk of it) . . . Blonde Donna Douglas will drop her "Beverly Hillbillies" accent to film "The Deserters" in Israel . . . Lake Tahoe's Harrah's put up its penny slot machine again for its only player: Jack Benny . . . Mel Torme signed a five-year, $200,000 contract with the Las Vegas Tropicana . . . Director Raoul Levy couldn't find a suitable synagogue intact in Munich for "The Defector" and shifted to Venice . . . Mary Small, a hit at L'Intrigue, was asked to tour with "Gypsy" . . . Director Stanley Donen makes an apeparance — partly — in "Arabesque" (as Gregory Peck's arm) . . . Patrick Magee of "Marat/Sade" has a featured role in the exciting "Modesty Blaise" movie.

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Larry Mathews reports one of the new cars at the auto show is so big and plush it has a walk-in glove compartment.

WISH I'D SAID THAT: This is the time of year suburbanites spend a bundle on garden tools and seeds — and all they grow is irritable.

THEATER IN NEW YORK

'Hogan' Pulitzer Material

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of articles by The Independent, Press-Telegram drama critic, now on leave to utilize the American - Scandinavian Foundation's 1966-'67 theatrical award.)

By SAMUEL A. BOYEA
I. P-T Drama Critic

NEW YORK — Harvard English professor William Alfred's "Hogan's Goat," odds-on favorite for this season's Pulitzer drama prize, is heavily weighted with sheepish sentimental wool for most of its second and final act at East 74th Street Theater, 334 East 74th Street.

Alfred, who despite the Harvard "tag" often writes with the enviable earthy and pithy eloquence of a dead-end kid, apparently ran out of wool-snipping shears after a tumultous act one. In closing in on this tumultous tale about the eternal bittersweet hurrah of Irish politics in the City of Boston, April 1890, Alfred does some schmaltzy reminiscing and purple Greek over-writing which just about placed the still viable carcass of his play in a cement box down at the bottom of the Brooklyn river.

* * * *

THE THING that saves "Goat" from being buried alive is that wonderful first act in which everything so peculiarly glorious about the New York theater is packed in like people on the Bronx express during the rush hour.

First, the American Place theater people chose the right theater for its most praised production in its gallant bid to foster theater which "suggests something about our way of life." This 74th Street joint is a big, musty theater — how New York would love Morgan Hall — full of New York theater warmth and a ceiling so high it gives celestial credence to some of the more heady scenes in this thoroughly Irish play. (Every actor is thickly brogued.) Then the actors themselves look as only New York actors can look in a realistic play — born for the part - - to the worried wrinkle.

Tom Ahearne who plays the sharp-tongued Mayor Curley patterned Edward Quinn looks so much like a mayor of early Brooklyn that he can send shivers down your spine with "shut up — or I'll drink ye blood." Ahearne's role is an extremely difficult one. He must play a ham who is all-politician "trusting no one" without being a ham and with the power to indicate some human warmth beneath the corrosive politician's hide.

* * * *

AS THE play opens Richard Mulligan (Matthew Stanton, leader of the sixth ward of Brooklyn) is starting to campaign against Quinn who picked him up as "a greenhorn in a barroom" and groomed him for politics. Of course, Quinn never had any idea that the lad though big and Irish would go so far as challenging him for mayor or living in sin with the mayor's mistress, Agnes Hogan, now dying unrepentantly. Mulligan is magnificent as Agnes's one-time "goat," despite the fact that some of the play's most voluminous wool - gathering must come from him. But Mulligan's acting, director Frederick Rolf's strong hand and the cast as an ensemble effectively exploit the play's atmosphere in which the 'Epworth League, the Ethical Culture and the Elks" were the discordant three in Hogan's "goatdaemmerung."

The play, full of O'Casey, religion and Irish whisky deserves the Pulitzer prize for bringing back the reality from a whimsical era when "graft was bankrupt generosity." "corruption disordered sweetness" and vindictiveness was only effective when "tempered with justice."

'THE RIVALRY'

Arts Commission Tours First Play

"The Rivalry" by Norman Corwin has been announced as the first play to tour California cities under the sponsorship of the California Arts Commission.

The work will be produced by the Players Production Co. and will open May 9 at Humboldt State College, Arcata.

Other showings are scheduled for Sacramento, Camp Parks Job Corps Center at Pleasanton, Campbell, Santa Barbara, Visalia and Beverly Hills. A showing also is to be held for Watts area youngsters, who will be guests of the Beverly Hills Unified School District and the Arts Commission.

The play is a dramatic treatment of the political and ideological rivalry between Lincoln and Douglas, accented by their famous series of debates.

NOTES and QUOTES

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Question from fan: "While you were in Ireland, did you kiss the Blarney Stone?"

Hugh O'Brian: "Last name was Stone, but her first name wasn't Blarney."

* * * *

ACTOR-Director Robert Gist, on scene-stealing: "Most actors, including myself, are kleptomaniacs at heart."

* * * *

PAT BUTTRAM: "The cost of living in Los Angeles has gone up 45 cents a fifth."

* * * *

JILL ST. JOHN says she'll be off to Portillo, Chile, in July and August for the snow skiing there.

"All by myself," she added.

How'd she get interested in the sport?

"I just fell into it."

So far she has suffered two concussions — and a gash on that lovely face.

* * * *

KEENAN WYNN tells it: En route to the studio, he stopped at the scene of a traffic accident.

A man leaned over an injured victim lying in the street. A woman rushed up and shouldered the samaritan aside, announcing that she had had first-aid training.

"When you get to the part about calling a doctor," the man told her, "I'm already here."

Extend 'Chocolates'

South Coast Repertory Theater, 2815 Villa Way, Newport Beach, has extended the run of "Chocolates" by Ian Bernard. New closing date for the show which plays at 8:30 p.m. Thursdays through Sundays is May 8.

Early Start on Urban Renewal

PITTSFIELD, Mass. (AP) — A violent gust ripped the roof off a building at The Ferry Lumber Co., but company Vice President Lawrence F. Pierson wasn't bothered.

"We looked on it as just an early start on urban renewal, Pierson said.

Ferry Lumber is in a zone marked for redevelopment.

Idell James Has Two Careers Going

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Idell James, a beautiful brown-eyed blonde, has two careers going for her—movie actress and schoolteacher.

A student teacher at UCLA she practices instructing grammar-school youngsters.

During vacations—and this semester, which she took off, —she acts in pictures, currently "Good Times," as a dancehall girl in the short-horn saloon.

Now 24, she got into this double professional life a few years ago through an aunt who works at central casting.

"I enjoy both teaching and acting," says Idell. "I want to get my teaching credential and have either one to fall back on."

ROBERT QUARRY
In Albee Play

'Woolf' at Magnolia on May 19

Film, television and stage actor Robert Quarry returns to Magnolia Theater, 835 Locust Ave., starting May 19 for a limited run in Edward Albee's "Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?"

Magnolia, which acquired first area rights to production of the play, said advance ticket reservations now are being taken.

Appearing with Quarry will be Pat Brown, who appeared with him in the Hollywood stage production of the work, Marlene Silverstein and Marshall Saper.

* * * *

QUARRY, who received an individual grant from the Ford Foundation for a three year study, has appeared in several previous Magnolia productions.

His Broadway credits include "As You Like It," with Katharyn Hepburn, "Taming of the Shrew" with Margaret Webster, "Richard II" with Maurice Evans; film credits, "Gramercy Ghost," "Soldiers of Fortune," "Kiss Before Dying" and "The Harm Machine." He has appeared on numerous television productions including The Perry Mason and The Fugitive shows.

Current show at Magnolia, "Marriage-Go-Round," starring Lyle Talbot closes with Thursday through Sunday performances.

'Beggar's Opera'

The Third-Year Junior Resident Company, in a large cast supplemented from the Playhouse undergraduate college, will present "The Beggar's Opera" by John Gay in the Patio Theater of the Pasadena Playhouse, May 11 through 15.

Circus Plays at Arena Here May 5

Famous performing elephant Opal, a veteran of appearances on Ed Sullivan's TV show—nine times—will perform at the El Bekal Shrine Circus to be given in the Long Beach Arena Thursday.

Two performances are scheduled for the one-day stand here—at 4 and 8 p. m.

In addition to Opal, Baby Stella, the world's youngest and smallest performing elephant, will be featured. The circus headlines aerialists, acrobats, chimpanzees, clowns, performing wild animals, jugglers, dogs and bears.

OPAL . . . Barbara Woodcock Up

Tickets are on sale at El Bekal Temple office, 801 Elm Ave., or may be purchased at the Arena entrance.

HIGH-PRICED BONBON

Carroll Unhappy With Movie Roles

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Carroll Baker says her sexy movie roles in recent years make her feel "like a high-priced bonbon."

So what's she doing about it? Preparing to open in a stage play — in the role of a prostitute.

"This makes me feel like an actress again," she said between rehearsals of Eugene O'Neill's "Anna Christie." Doesn't she get that feeling in pictures?

"Not the movies I've done the past few years." She mentioned "Sylvia," "Harlow" and "The Carpetbaggers."

"You get in a rut, doing the same things all the time," the blonde beauty said. "You work and you work and finally come to the point where you wonder what it's all about if you're not fulfilling what you started out to do."

What did she start out to do? "To be an actress." Hasn't she done that in pictures? "Not too well, no. I'd like to make it all worthwhile by doing something in the theater once in a while."

The play, directed by her husband, Jack Garfein, opens in Hollywood Monday.

CARROLL BAKER

Roles Follow Old Jingle

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — In his last four movies character actor Alvin Mann has been successively rich man (millionaire banker), poor man (sharecropper), beggar man (panhandler) and now thief (burglar) in "Warning Shot." Will his next role, he wonders, complete the old jingle: doctor, lawyer, Indian chief?

Sonny, Cher Making First Movie

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Sonny and Cher, the married rock 'n' roll duo and show-biz phenomenon, are making their first movie, "Good Times," which spoofs western, African safari and other stock movies.

Clad in leopard-skin briefs, Sonny, 26, told between scenes how he gets his inspiration for the couple's songs he writes:

"I try to feel what young people are feeling—and say it for them."

Visiting a young people's night club on Sunset Boulevard, he felt that while they appeared gay, most were sad underneath.

Back home in Encino, at the old $80 upright piano in his garage, where he does his composing, the feeling came out as "Have I Done Something Wrong?" — Sonny and Cher's—next record release.

NOW, HE'S PINNED

Mrs. Virginia Ault, wife of Air Force Brigadier General Richard L. Ault, of Long Beach, pins on the silver star denoting his new rank during ceremonies at Craig AFB, Alabama. The 1934 Wilson High School graduate was nominated as the base's commander in March by President Johnson and the senate approved his appointment and promotion on April 21. Mrs. Ault is also from Long Beach.

Interchange Work Set

A $147,200 project to improve the Long Beach-San Diego Freeway interchange, expected to require five months, will start this week, the California Division of Highways reported.

Work includes adding a fourth lane to the northbound Long Beach Freeway for approximately one-quarter mile from the interchange south, and the addition of a third lane to the road which collects traffic for the San Diego Freeway.

Other work, part of $213 million in freeway construction projects in progress in Los Angeles, Orange and Ventura counties, includes widening Long Beach Freeway from its interchange with the San Diego Freeway 14 miles northward to the future Pomona Freeway.

Dr. Apgar Speaker for Award Fete

Dr. Virginia Apgar, director of the Division of Congenital Malformations of the National Foundation-March of Dimes, will address the annual awards dinner of the foundation's Long Beach chapter Tuesday at 7 p.m. in the Edgewater Inn.

Awards will be given to individuals, and organizations for their participation in the 1966 March of Dimes campaign. Officers for 1966 will be elected.

IN THE past year, the March of Dimes has established a prenatal clinic here and awarded six scholarships to students in health fields. The Long Beach Prenatal Clinic, headquartered temporarily in the city Health Department's building, is a March of Dimes pilot project, first of its kind.

Dr. Apgar, a noted specialist in the problems of newborn infants, created the "Apgar Score," a clinical evaluation made within 60 seconds of birth to determine the baby's overall condition by checking heart rate, respiration, muscle tone, reflexes and color.

Lagoon and Marine Stadium to Close

All activities at Colorado Lagoon and the Marine Stadium will be suspended for up to a year beginning June 1, due to construction work on the new Crosstown Freeway.

Carl Bartlett, projects coordinator for the city recreation department, said the facility's model boat shop, however, will open as soon as fences are erected around it.

Tot Saved From Pool

A mother, a neighbor and police officers teamed up Saturday to save the life of a small boy who tumbled into a swimming pool at his home in Santa Ana.

Mrs. Jacqueline A. Hill, 23, spotted her 13-month-old son Alex moments after he fell into the pool and rescued him.

Her screams alerted neighbor George L. Zankl of 4209 W. Sunswept St. who summoned police.

Zankl relieved Mrs. Hill in mouth-to-mouth resuscitation, and Police Capt. Wayne Gross took over from Zankl.

The youngster responded, and was rushed to Orange County General Hospital, where physicians said they expect him to make a full recovery.

Mrs. Hill told police she opened a sliding glass door for the family's pet dog and forgot to lock it; her son toddled out while she was busy about her home at 4210 W. Sunswept St. and fell into the pool.

Development Eyed for Alamitos Bay

Proposed developments relating to the Alamitos Bay peninsula area will be discussed by Tom Marchese, deputy city engineer, Monday, 8 p.m., at the Youth Sailing Center, 5437 E. Ocean Blvd. The appearance is at a meeting of the Alamitos Bay Community Interest Association in the former Alamitos Bay Yacht Club building.

NORTHROP NORAIR

Has been selected by the Boeing Company as an Associate to Design and Produce a Substantial Portion of the 747 Airliners career opportunities

On these newly-announced and existing long-term programs

For Structural Designers

AIRFRAME DESIGN ENGINEERING SPECIALISTS

Create original designs within the limitations of complex relationships of structural characteristics. Develop basic designs, layouts and sketches of airframe sections under consideration. Serve as a representative to management and direct and execute the resolution of analytical, developmental and design problems. Position requires an engineering degree or equivalent or experience and or education and 8 years in applicable field of specialization.

SENIOR AIRFRAME DESIGN ENGINEERS

Plan, organize information for, and execute the designs, layouts and sketches for the structure. Exercise technical control for the solution of structural engineering problems. Evaluate various design possibilities, devise methods for detailed solutions and direct the solution activities. Develop layouts and drawings for prototype structures and determine programs for ensuring the integrity of the design. May direct subordinate engineers in the accomplishment of structural designs. BS degree in engineering or equivalent in education and or experience and normally 5 years in applicable field of specialization.

AIRFRAME DESIGN ENGINEERS

Execute engineering assignment of moderate to high complexity on portions of aircraft structure. Complete assignments involving advanced theoretical and mathematical studies involving analysis, design and testing of a portion of the structure. Design a major component, a complete minor structure or secondary elements of a minor structure, working from notes, basic data, design directives, etc. Requires 5 years education and or experience.

TRAINEE ENGINEERS

If your education and training is in the fields of Architectural, Civil, Mechanical Engineering, and you wish to extend your horizons, you are invited to join a training program that will pay while you learn and will lead to a rewarding position. A college level training program has been developed to orient the recent engineering graduates of at least Junior College level to aeronautical and structural design positions.

Give our used VWs a good inspection. We did.

We gave them the VW 16-point Safety and Performance Inspection. Then we tuned up, tightened, and replaced everything that needed it. And guaranteed them 100% for the repair or replacement of all major mechanical parts* for 30 days or 1000 miles. Come on in and double check.

U.S., Canada End Airlift of Zambia Fuel

By MICHAEL KRAFT

LEOPOLDVILLE, Congo (UPI)—They've stopped rolling out the barrels here, for the first time in four months.

The American and Canadian airlift of fuel from Leopoldville to Zambia ended Saturday.

A chartered Pan American Boeing 707 flew out the last load of 114 drums of diesel oil to Elisabethville for rail shipment across the border to Zambia.

A Royal Canadian Air Force Hercules C130 flew its last load of fuel to Lusaka Friday. The last flight flew back some radio equipment and several British Air Force radio men who had been helping with communications.

* * * *

THE FLIGHTS ENDED a multi-million dollar emergency operation that carried 17,500 tons of fuel to Zambia to help the landlocked nation cope with its fuel shortage. Neighboring Rhodesia cut off the flow following British actions against the Ian Smith regime.

"I'm a little sorry it's all over," said the only one of the American or Canadian "airlifters" who has been here since the operation started at the beginning of January.

RCAF Flight Lt. Guy Serafimoff volunteered to stay here instead of being rotated out along with other crewmen.

"I kind of like exotic places and hate cold weather," the Canadian explained.

* * * *

ALTHOUGH THE airlift from Leopoldville is ending, about 4,000 tons of fuels are being shipped monthly up the Congo River in barges to Port Francqui. At the river port, the drums are reloaded on trains for the rest of the 30-day trip through the Congo to Elisabethville and then to Zambia.

Also, the British-run airlifts are continuing in East Africa, as is the shipment by rail and barge via Lake Tanganyika.

Officials here connected with the airlift said the success of the surface and east African routes was enabling them to shut down the costly airlift.

Exact figures were not available here, as both Canadian and American officials were reluctant to discuss the total cost of their aid operation. But one reliable source said the airlift probably cost several million dollars.

* * * *

IT WAS LEARNED that TWA and Pan American were being paid about $7,000 for each of the flights by their chartered jets. With the planes carrying about 7,920 gallons per flight, this works out to a little less than a dollar a gallon.

"But we'll be lucky if we break even, hotel costs and other overhead is so high here," said one airline representative.

The Canadian embassy said it cost about $69,000 a month for the fuel costs of running its planes when it had three flights a day.

The airlift officially started on Dec. 27 when an RCAF Yukon carried a token load of six drums of oil and an advance survey party to Lusaka.

The CIBlle started several days later. At the peak of the operation, the RCAF [illegible] ... flights a day, and one plane was on standby. The force [illegible] back to two planes [illegible] combination of drums and big rubber "bladder" tanks, the RCAF carried about 4,868 tons.

* * * *

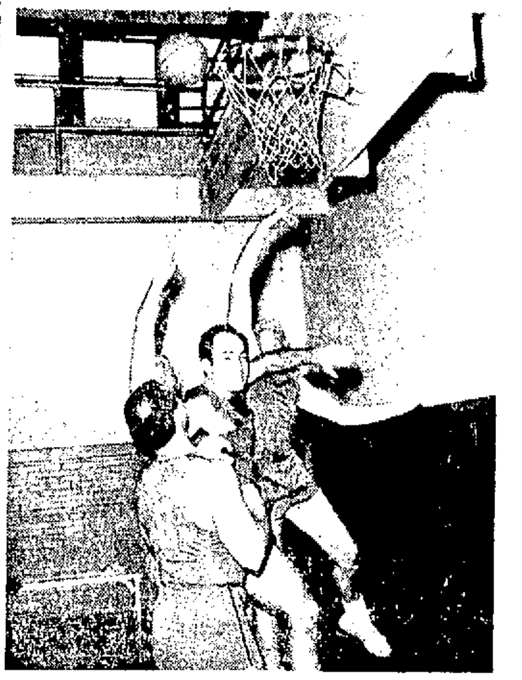

THE AMERICAN lift started Jan. 4 with a Pan American flight to Elisabethville. The Boeing jets are too big for the Lusaka and Ndola airports used by the Hercules.

The Pan American jets flew about 8,160 tons, making three flights a day.

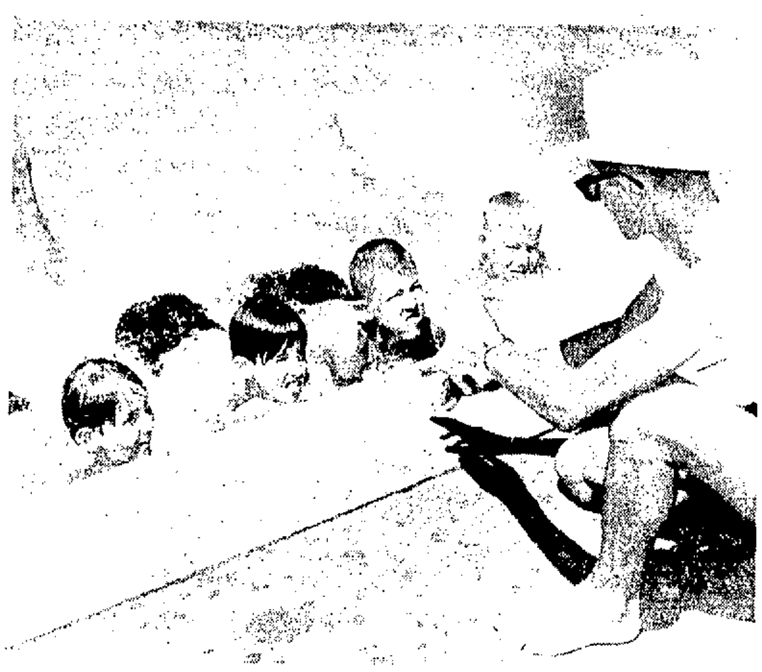

TWA, which began 15 days later and ended 15 days earlier, flew 4,000 tons.

In all, the RCAF carried 1,376,000 American-sized gallons while the American planes flew 3,639,028 gallons.

Downtown YMCA Takes on New Image

BASKETBALL . . .

A FULL PROGRAM OF SWIMMING INSTRUCTION . . .

FENCING . . .

At 67, an age when many institutions are entering their dotage, the Downtown Long Beach YMCA is swinging into a new era of community service.

Situated in a massive brick building that has occupied the strategic downtown corner of Sixth Street and Long Beach Boulevard like a fortress since 1921, the Y is shaking off the proverbial crackerbox gym and itinerant hostelry image that has been the public's idea of Ys in the past.

"We're interested in the total community," says director of physical activities Randy Clark.

"Our program is tailor made to fit the needs of every segment of our city—from the weight and health conscious businessman and executive to the schoolboy and college student to those citizens merely looking for avocational pursuits and good clean fun and recreation."

* * * *

AS HE SPOKE jackhammers thundered in the background and workmen pounded away with hammers. Two cars swung into the modern paved lot through an automated gate and a group of conservative dressed business types, carrying canvas bags, entered the building for a lunchtime break of basketball, handball and volleyball.

"We are modernizing our facilities and have bought new equipment," continued Clark, "and plan to be the most complete recreation and health center possible under one roof."

Inside, pre-schoolers, accompanied by their mothers, were bouncing on a trampoline; a petroleum engineer beat a speed bag and clad in sweat suits three men, graying at the temples, raced around a balcony running track.

Offering courses in everything from classical fencing to judo-karate to SCUBA diving, the "new" Y isn't above some gimmickry to give a little added zest to exercise.

A COUPLE of items are the 50-mile swim (remember the 50-mile hike of the Kennedy clan?) and a 110-mile run to San Diego, marathon events in which participants keep their own day-to-day progress on charts in competition with others.

Clark, as other Y executives, sees the modern role of this venerable institution still in the light of its founder, George Williams, who brought a group of 12 young men together in London in 1844 "for mutual edification, of ye mischief from vain company."

"There are a lot of pressures on young people today and too few opportunities for exercise for the more mature," explained Clark.

He cited a few statistics to make his point—a $10 billion national liquor bill, $30 billion spent on gambling; nearly 15 million Americans suffering from mental disorders and a 450% increase in juvenile delinquency since 1950.

* * * *

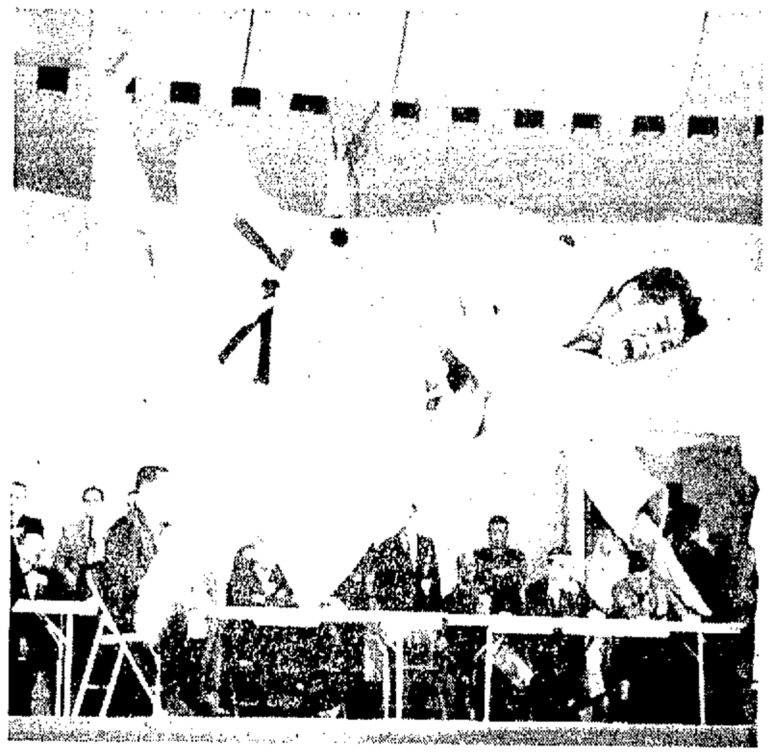

"THE Y PROGRAM combines healthy exercise, fellowship and character building," he said. "These are accomplished within the framework of what people find interesting and stimulating in sport and exercise."

A look at the "new" Y program reveals that that "interest" has a heady diversity.

Capsulized, the Downtown Y offers program that includes badminton, basketball, boxing, fencing, gymnastics, handball, judo, karate, wrestling, volleyball, weight lifting, special businessmen activities, aquatics (diving, swimming, lifesaving and SCUBA) and a Health Club, a compact, modern facility that includes heat and sun rooms, lamps, massage and exercise machines.

The Health Club provides a quiet atmosphere in which an executive can keep in tone and shape, an environment in which he can relax and enjoy the company of his fellows.

One of the country's best masseuses, Jack Juysman, former resident of the Netherlands, is available for muscular therapy advice and help.

JUDO EXHIBITION BY EXPERTS

Unitarians Give Fund to City in Lieu of Tax

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — The Unitarian Society of Cleveland's 325 members have voted to pay the city of Cleveland $1,329 in lieu of taxes for police, fire and sanitation services received at the church's tax-exempt property.

The gift is in line with a recommendation the Rev. D. G. Kuby made from his pulpit Feb. 6 that churches give up their tax-exempt status to help ease financial pressure on city governments.

The $1,329 represents about 12 per cent of what the total taxes would be on the Cleveland Unitarian property if it were taxed in full. The pastor said the 12 per cent was that portion of the total tax that is allocated for the police, fire and sanitation services.

He said his church is the first in Ohio to allocate money for payment in lieu of taxes, but that a private sampling of 50 protestant ministers showed almost half agreeing that churches should start paying some share of local government cost.

Hospital Staff to Hear Rokaw

Dr. Stanley N. Rokaw, associate professor of medicine at California College of Medicine will speak on "Recognition and Management of Acute Respiratory Problems" Thursday before the staff of Pacific Hospital of Long Beach.

The noon lecture is sponsored by the hospital's department of medical education. The department sponsors a continuing series of lectures, closed-circuit telecasts, films, and seminars for staff members and other physicians in the southern California area.

Cochairmen of the medical education committee are George Scouten, M.D., and George Wong, M.D.

POP MUSIC PRIMER FOR PARENTS

An Aid to Bridge the Generation Gap

By PHILIP WERDELL

NEW YORK (NEA) — Parents, not their children, are worried about the "generation gap." They used to be worried why Johnny can't read; now they wonder why they can't talk to Johnny.

It would be helpful if they would listen — not to Johnny, for certainly they are trying, but to what Johnny listens to. Records. Radio. Television, when it turns to popular songs. There are a number of not-so-subtle messages in the new pop music.

Pop music continues to live on a diluted form of jazz. It is diluted to be easy to understand, but it still has the rhythmic vitality which is the key to its popularity.

But the simplistic rock 'n' roll of Elvis Presley is out. Evolving is a form of music which is lyrically, musically and emotionally more sophisticated. The young listener—whether the cause or the effect of the new music — is also more mature.

WHEN HARVARD social scientist David Riesman was out studying youthful fans of popular music in the early 1950s, he found that young people could not talk about the music they so ardently listened to. "The vocabulary used to talk about (popular) music was . . . 'swell,' 'lousy,' 'I go for that,' and so on." Not so today.

Sometimes, even before they reach high school, student conversations are about the new variations of the Mersey beat, the ideas of a recent Bob Dylan hit, "soul" of the Motown (Motor Town, for Detroit) sound with its first "pop beat blues." Pop music and its youthful fans are coming of age.

The new pop music has thrown out the repetition of simple choruses, over and over and over; the new pop music has discarded the naive romantic lyrics of "Will I ever find the girl in my mind, the girl who is my ideal?" and "Love me tender, love me true."

It has left behind the complete self-pity of "crying in the chapel"; and most importantly, the new pop music has obtained both a sense of feeling and a sense of humor. Parents' opinions to the contrary, none of this is beyond the new pop audience of youth.

THE RHYTHM of pop music must be repetitious; to the energetic and alienated youth of today, this is their pulse of life. This does not mean, however, that the music is necessarily monotonous.

The Beatles proved that novel and interesting melodies can be as catchy as the jingles of the past. "If I Fell in Love with You" is so far from the traditional chorus verse style that is could be mistaken for one of conductor Leonard Bernstein's Broadway songs.

It's difficult to admit, but the Beatles must be good musicians. They keep writing their own tunes, their own words, their own arrangements — and keep doing something new. Their latest album is no more than a series of experiments with new rhythms, harmonies and instruments. Not only do they shy away from repeating themselves, they keep developing new and better material.

A professor of music at the University of Liverpool decided to prove once and for all the quality of the Beatles music. He produced the "Baroque Beatles Book," arranging original Beatles' songs for chamber orchestra and ensembles. Some he found "suitable for harpsichord or spinet"; "Help" was arranged as an aria for an operatic tenor.

Throughout the record, the Beatles are interwoven with musical quotes from Bach, Handel and Teleman. In Victorian language and script, the introduction tries to stifle those ungrateful, malicious slanderers who have made vile and unjustified aspersions on the value of the wonderful songs of Messrs. Lennon and McCartney."

The Beatles have shown that the new pop music can really be called music.

IT TOOK Bob Dylan to prove that the words as well as the music could break out of limited jingle form. Whether singing a song or writing jacket covers, Dylan sounds like a contemporary hipster poet . . . "I'm standing there watching the parade feeling combination of sleepy john estaes, jayne mansfield, humphrey bogart mortimer snurd, murf the surf and so forth." . . . or . . . "johnnie's in the basement mixing up the medicin I'm on the pavement thinking 'bout the government."

There are constant references to politics, frequent social criticism, and in "Bob Dylan's 115 Dream" he starts off on a modern rewrite of Melville's "Moby Dick."

The new pop music is not confined to sappy love ballads and nonsense songs. Since Dylan, parents have to speak Dylan to speak to Johnny.

FOR GENERATIONS, pop music has been built upon superstars singing about super dreams and superdepressions. If Dylan is the new hero, it is because he is an antihero.

"I would not want to be bach, mozart, tolstoy, joe hill, gertrude stein, or james dean," sings Dylan. "They are all dead."

For years adults explained pop music and its idols on the grounds that their children could find no real heroes in modern society. Everything is relative, every idea open to criticism, every leader fallible—so youth creates its heroes.

But what a strange hero, this cat Dylan. He's unabashed, non-conformist, unpretentious and not particularly heroic. "The great books have been written. The great sayings have been said," says Dylan. And, therefore, it's quite logical that the great people are dead. With this philosophy, Dylan lives in the hearts of American youth.

His songs read like the free verse of the "beat poets." The images are not obscure, and the rhythmic rock music gives a simple form to the chaotic stream of impression and words.

Possibly it is too early to know if pop music is really changing. Bob Dylan and folk rock might go out as fast as they came in. Dylan himself hints that this might be human nature. In his tune, "Maggie's Farm," Dylan concedes, "I try my best to be just like I am, but everyone wants me to be like them.'

EVEN MORE revolutionary than Dylan and his dozen or so come lately imitators is a new trend of behavior in the pop music industry itself. Language expert S. I. Hayakawa wrote, "The words of popular songs are largely (but not altogether) the product of white song writers for predominantly white audiences."

Every big city had a Negro radio station with a Negro audience — and several white stations with white audiences. All this ended with the Motown sound (Motor Town, for Detroit).

The man behind the Midtown sound is Gordy Parks, a $35-a-week garage mechanic living in a Negro area of Detroit. Then he discovered the Supremes and he was on his way.

The beauty of the Motown sound is that it begins to capture a bit of the traditional Negro blues which pop music sterilized when it first diluted jazz for the mass audience. The Supremes call their music "blues with a pop beat."

It is not the original blues of Southern cotton fields, nor even authentic jazz blues, but there is an element of the spirituals of the Negro church services. Appropriately, the youthful audiences find that the Motown sound has "soul."

The Supremes began singing in their church choir, and their all time best seller, "Stop in the Name of Love," still has the exciting flavor of an easy musical exchange between a minister and his congregation.

It is probably more than coincidence that Gordy Parks and the Motown sound arrive just after the passage of the 1965 Civil Rights Act. There are still Negro radio stations. There are still what must be called white radio stations. The Motown sound is a sometimes unhappy blend of the two, and an integrated pop musical group is still a rarity.

NOT MORE than a year or so ago, the "message" of popular music was either "love forever" or "pain and sadness forever" — either romantic love or romantic depression with the emphasis on "forever." Whether the youthful listeners ever believed this or not, the new pop music now sounds considerably more realistic.

The Beatles are "happy just to dance with you." They tell their girl "something I think you'll understand . . . I want to hold your hand." And if she is of like mind, it is not love FOREVER. "And when I touch you, I feel happy inside. It's such a feeling, I get high." Now THAT can be believed.

What's more it's Johnny's language.

A DOZEN WAYS TO HELP RIGNEY RECUPERATE

Boston Massacre Nothing Like This

By ROSS NEWHAN
I. P-T Staff Writer

BOSTON — This was the second Boston massacre and just what the doctor ordered for Bill Rigney.

Restricted to his Somerset Hotel suite by a severe case of intestinal flu, Rigney watched via television Saturday as the Angels accumulated a club-record 12-runs in the eighth inning to blitz Boston, 16-9.

"Twelve runs," exclaimed Rigney, in a healthy voice.

"Hell, we've gone months without scoring 12 runs. I'm a nervous wreck, but I certainly am feeling much better, thank you."

It was bat day at Fenway Park and in honor of the occasion the Angels used theirs as they never have before.

The eighth inning lasted longer than the NBA playoffs and when it was over Rick Reichardt had entered the record book, Jim Fregosi had snapped a slump and Rigney suspected he was watching "Angels in the Outfield," which was being televised locally opposite the game.

Buoyed by six unearned runs and his own two-hitter, Earl Wilson carried a 9-3 lead into the eighth. When it was over, they carried Wilson, Ken Sanders, Dick Radatz and Dan Osinski out on stretchers.

* * * *

SOME 15 Angels came to bat. They amassed 11 hits, including 3 home runs, 2 doubles and one triple. They totaled 24 bases, one shy of the American League record set in 1940 by Boston. They scored eight times and collected six consecutive hits with two outs. They shattered their own one-inning scoring record of eight, registered twice against Cleveland.

It was a Disney production and belonged in Anaheim. These were the highlights:

—Reichardt became the 16th major leaguer to hit two home runs in one inning, accruing the American League lead with a total of six.

—Fregosi, mired at .102, hitless in his first three at-bats, and displaying two costly fielding errors, opened the inning with a bunt single and delivered the pivotal punch — a bases-loaded double when his team trailed 9-7.

Bobby Knoop, Fregosi's roomie, doubled and homered (4) to redeem two rare errors which contributed to Boston's collection of tainted tallies.

—Joe Adcock singled and tripled, his third and fourth hits of the game.

—Jackie Warner drove in two runs with a sacrifice fly and single.

* * * *

—WILLIE Smith delivered a two-out pinch-hit single and Ed Kirkpatrick delivered his first hit of the year.

Both of Reichardt's raps came with a mate on board. The first finished Wilson and the second stunned former Angel Osinski. They soared high over the 60-foot leftfield fence which rises only 315 feet from home plate. But, they would have been out anywhere.

"I'm forced to be blase about this," said Reichardt, the thinking man's hitter. "There is always tomorrow and I might go zero-for-four. After all, Paul Schaal hit nine home runs during the first month last year and never hit another.

"These first-month flashes don't mean much. Basically, I still don't believe I'm a home-run hitter."

Reichardt, however, at .256 is showing signs of definitely being a major league hitter. Fregosi, who vaulted 43 points and tripled his previous rbi total by driving in four, was exuberant.

"I can't remember getting two hits in the last 12 games let alone two in one inning," beamed Jim, who also doubled home a run in the ninth.

"I was in such a mix-up that I couldn't even find home plate," he laughed. "Sometimes a bunt can help get your eye back on the ball. Besides, the way I was

The Dandy Dozen

Here's how the Angels scored and scored and scored in eighth inning when they poured across 12 runs, it was the biggest inning in Angels' six-year history.

Earl Wilson pitching for Boston with a 9-3 lead. Jim Fregosi singled, Bobby Knoop doubled Fregosi in third. Joe Adcock singled, sending Fregosi home and Knoop to third. Jack Warner filed to Yastrzemski in left, scoring Knoop. Rick Reichardt hit his fifth homer, scoring Adcock ahead of him. Ken Sanders replaced Wilson with Boston leading 9-7. Ed Kirkpatrick singled, Bob Rodgers popped to second baseman George Smith. Pinch-hitter Willie Smith singled, sending Kirkpatrick in second. Paul Schaal walked to load the bases. Dick Radatz replaced Sanders on the ground for Boston. Fregosi lined a double off the left-field wall, clearing the bases and putting Angels ahead 10-9. Knoop hit his fourth homer of the season, scoring Fregosi ahead of him to make it 12-9. Adcock tripled over center fielder Jim Rodners' head. Dan Osinski replaced Radatz trailing 12-9 and a runner on third. Warner singled Adcock home. Reichardt hit his second homer of the inning, with Warner scoring ahead of him. Kirkpatrick grounded out to Smith, ending the inning. Twelve runs, 11 hits and no errors. Nobody left on.

Reds Pin 3-1 Loss on Sandy

By GEORGE LEDERER

Toot, toot came the Helms man Saturday night to end winning streaks by Sandy Koufax and the Dodgers.

Second baseman Tommy Helms, a distinct candidate for rookie-of-the-year honors, singled home two runs with the count two strikes and two out in the eighth inning to lead the Reds to a 3-1 decision.

Leo Cardenas added a ninth-inning home run, his second, to the dismay of the ladies night crowd of 50,556. The paid attendance was 44,594, the season high at Dodgers Stadium.

Koufax, who had allowed only four runs while winning his last seven decisions, was a loser for the first time since Sept. 14. He gave the Reds six hits, four in the last two innings after he had retired 18 in a row.

Until Cardenas parked one in the left-field pavilion with two out in the ninth, Cincy's hits were nothing to write home about. Two walks did more damage.

Tony Perez drew the first pass to start the eighth and Tommy Harper got the second after Cardenas struck out. Helms, after missing a home run by six feet (foul), settled for a single on Koufax' two-strike pitch and sent the Reds in front, 2-1.

Billy McCool preserved the first win for Joey Jay, who left for a hitter in the eighth after holding the Dodgers to three singles.

The Dodgers, who had four in a row, were restricted to five hits, but also muffed two scoring chances. They had runners on first and second with one out in the sixth against Jay, and men on first and third with one out in the eighth against McCool.

Jim Lefebvre hit into a force and John Rosehoro flied out to end the sixth. In the eighth, Lou Johnson blooped to Helms and Lefebvre went down swinging with Wes Parker and Ron Fairly at the corners via singles.

The Dodger run came on one hit, Willie Davis' second single, in the third inning.

Maury Wills walked with one out, stole his seventh base and loped home when Davis slapped a Jay blooper to left field. Willie has a six-game hitting streak.

Walter Alston sent up three pinch-hitters in the ninth and none could drive the ball out of the infield. Jim Gilliam struck out for Roseboro, Al Ferrara fouled out for Nate Oliver and Tommy Davis grounded to McCool for Koufax.

Koufax kept one Dodger streak intact and also moved up another notch on the strikeout list by fanning nine Reds.

Day of Goofs, Not Records at Mt. SAC

By JOHN DIXON

Hollywood Park and Indianapolis, Olympic Stadium and Iceland . . . not one of them can contest Mt. San Antonio Stadium for quantity - quality of world records.

Fourteen all-time marks have been established on the springy red cinders. But not Saturday.

Saturday brought a splurge of goofs (maybe a world record of 'em) and only a handful of meet records at the eighth Mt. San Antonio Relays.

But the weather was just right for bikinis, the competition was keen as Errol Flynn's sword, and everyone went away happy. Especially Art Walker and Tommie Smith, who were voted athletes of the meet.

Walker, a representative of the Striders, won the triple jump at 53 feet, 10¼ inches, a bare three-quarters of an inch short of Ira Davis' American record.

* * * *

SMITH turned in Bob Hayes-style anchor laps in the short relays for San Jose State.

In the 440 he brought the Spartans from fourth place to within one yard of first. He picked up eight yards on Larry Dunn of the Striders, a better than middlin' sprinter himself.

The 880 relay was wide open until Smith got the baton, and then it was closed as decisively as a guillotine. He was clocked in 20.0 for his 220-yard leg. That wasn't quite a world record either, however. Pell-Mel Patton of USC once was stop-watched in 19.8.

That 440 relay endured but a few seconds, yet it contained as much action as a half-hour with Barnum and Bailey.

UCLA, unbeaten all season and rated a good chance to snap up Stanford's world record, lost its chance in the first few yards when Mike Swaim pulled up lame.

San Jose lost its record bid when two baton exchanges were handled like a juggling act at a vaudeville show — a bad one.

And New Mexico, also unbeaten and record conscience, finished only third in 40.9, then was disqualified for passing out of lane on the final baton switch.

* * * *

BUT THAT couldn't equal the 400 meter hurdles. After all, how many times does a man win who isn't in the race?

Ron Whitney false-started twice, and was thrown out of the event. But he decided to run anyway. Starting well after the gun had blasted, Whitney lassoed Vance Peterson in the final yards and "won" in 50.9. The red-faced badgewearers awarded Peterson the title for his 51.2 finish.

Other than upset meet officials, the day's largest surprise occurred in the discus.

American record holder and three-time Olympic Games champion Al Oerter, who calls Mt. SAC his favorite throwing ground, was thrown over by a college kid.

Gary Carlsen of USC fired a long one to right-field that landed 195-½ from home plate, a career best. Oerter was second with 194-8, a dozen feet short of a career best. Bob Humphreys was third at 193-1.

The crowd of 10,000 had four meet records to applaud. In addition to Walker's hop, skip and jump mark, new standards were established in the pole vault, long jump and half-mile.

The greatest vault field ever assembled had a good crack at the world record of 17-4, but missed.

John Pennel and Sam Kirk navigated 17-0, but failed to climb over 17-5. Pennel was judged the winner on the countback.

* * * *

OLDTIMER Ralph Boston returned to the pit where he eradicated Jesse Owens' 25-year-old jump record six years ago, and boosted his own field mark from 26-½ to 26-4¼.

Tom Farrell's 880 victory in 1:47.9 was within hailing distance of the American record (1:46.4), and he won as easily as any athlete in competition.

Trojan Dave Buck paced the speeders through a 52.8 440 and maintained a slight advantage around the final curve, but then he lost ground so quickly it looked as though he was running backward.

Buck, a sixth-place finisher, was too tired to talk. Farrell said, "This was only my second race, and I

NBA Bulls Choose Sloan, Bowman

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

2 Lakers Go Today

Compiled from Wire Reports

Two Lakers will be plucked off in the NBA expansion draft today, and Chicago owner Dick Klein hopes to be as pleasantly surprised as he was in Saturday's selections.

The Bulls opened the grab-bag by taking 10 players from the Eastern Division clubs and Baltimore of the West. The Bullets move to the East next year to make room for the new Chicago entry.

Among the 10 were Baltimore guard Jerry Sloan and Cincinnati center Nate Bowman, who didn't play this season because of a leg injury. He is 6-11 and from Wichita. Sloan is a 6-6 rookie from Evansville.

"We never expected to get a shot at these two," said Klein. "They certainly were pleasant surprises."

Others taken by the still coachless Bulls were John Thompson and Ron Bonham, Boston; Johnny Kerr, Baltimore; Al Bianchi and Gerry Ward, Philadelphia; Tom Thacker, Cincinnati; and Len Chappell and Barry Clemens, New York.

Thompson, a 6-11 center from Providence, played very little with Boston, as did Bonham. Surpisingly, Chicago had to pass up either Don Nelson, Willie Naulls, K.C. Jones or Mel Counts. One of those four had to be on the list.

As for today's selections, Klein refused to anticipate what Lakers might come his way. Best guess is that it will be John Fairchild, Tom Hoover, Darrall Imhoff, Gene Wiley and either Jim King, Bob Boozer or Walt Hazzard.

FORGET SOMETHING?

WILLIE MAYS is going to find the National League home run record elusive if he keeps this up. The Giants' outfielder loses bat just before striking out in first inning Saturday. St. Louis catcher is Tim McCarver.

Russell, Celtics Still Greatest

The chap who coined the phrase, "the score was no indication of the game," must have been thinking of the Laker-Celtic conflict viewed by a national television audience Thursday night.

The fantastic Celtics bagged their eighth consecutive world championship by a tight 95-93 margin, but they were so far superior to the Lakers Thursday evening that they should have boasted a 15-point edge at the final gun. Indeed, they enjoyed such a sizeable edge more than halfway through the final period. To the credit of Fred Schaus' Lakers, however, they scared the trousers off most of Boston with their belated, last-few-minutes splurge.

Obviously, with their huge margin, the Celtics let down . . . on the other hand, that's the way many games in any sport are lost, too.

The nation's bookmakers must have been looking for the nearest bridge when the game was concluded. They let the Celtics go off as eight-point favorites . . . and most of the action was on the Lakers. Nobody in his right mind should establish one team an eight-point choice in the final game of a hectic basketball series.

Yet, the books looked like experts until the Celtic letdown. They had everything pegged correctly . . . until those fleeting minutes of that frantic fourth quarter.

MOST SENSATIONAL PLAYER of all was big Bill Russell, who continues to astound the entire sports world. Ironically, Russell has to be the outstanding candidate at this time for the annual Hickok Award belt, the $10,000 trophy presented the nation's outstanding athlete. Certainly, he will get most of the nation's sports editors' votes for the month of May.

I used the word ironically because a few days ago I quoted Russell as saying the Hickok Award was a farce because no pro basketball player ever had received it. He then went on to claim that he and Wilt Chamberlain both were better athletes than Sandy Koufax, last year's winner.

Be that as it may, my vote this year goes to Russell, who was so utterly superb in that big final "money" game it borders on the unbelievable. Maybe the bearded giant will feel different about the Hickok Award this year—after he receives it.

Bill's 32 rebounds, 11 blocked shots and 25 points in the chips-down contest will be something this corner won't soon forget. It has been written that the Celtic "image will be destroyed" when Red Auerbach departs in favor of Russell as next Boston coach.

Wanna bet? As the new coach, Russell will create a new Boston image.

IN REVIEWING the Laker season, one must give non-ending credit to the team's "voice", Chick Hearn, for a superlative job. Hearn has no equal in the nation when it comes to announcing basketball games.

He gives you facts and figures, and uses some of his own humor, which is plentiful, throughout. His terms "garbage shot" and having someone "faked into the popcorn machine" virtually are household words in this area and nationally.

He was extra superlative during the final game Thursday. When Boston's Larry Siegfried writhed on the floor and looked up appealingly to an official, Hearn cracked: "Larry is the best actor in the league."

When one particular fan was especially noisy in berating the officials, Chickie snickered: "Now there's a fellow who's had too much juice of the grape."

The network forgot to close off Chick during halftime after he had interviewed commisioner Walter Kennedy, or did you catch that remark? Thinking he was off the air, Hearn's voice was loud and clear in the background as the commercial came on, "Walter," he said, "you were beautiful." I'll wager Mr. Hearn would like to retrieve that statement as much as Don Sutton would the home run ball hit off him by Hank Aaron.

ONE MORE ITEM about Hearn, and he'll probably kill me when he knows I've used it. It's being utilized simply to illustrate Chick's sense of humor.

For many years now, Hearn and this writer have had adjoining rooms with connecting baths (and pardon that last word) during Hambletonian Week in the St. Nicholas Hotel, DuQuoin, Ill. Well, a few years ago, another member of the press-radio-TV field (who will remain anonymous) couldn't locate his luggage at St. Louis Airport and was forced to journey to DuQuoin with department store clothing purchased in St. Louis.

The clothing was fine, but of the drip-dry variety. Unfortunately, the anonymous fellow was assigned to the same room as Hearn. Whenever he'd wash a shirt and hang it on the bathtub rail, the fellow would awaken in the morning to find the shirt still was dripping wet. He still doesn't know what happened. But Hearn does. Chick (on the hour) would place the shirt in the bathtub and let the water flow.

To this day, the anonymous chap refuses to buy drip-dry clothing, claiming "it's no good."

49ers Lose Game and Lead

Long Beach State, the CCAA baseball leader since the opening game of the season, vacated that spot Saturday when Los Angeles dealt the 49ers a 1-0 loss at Blair Field.

Fresno, via an 8-7 victory over San Diego, moved into the top position with 12-4 record. Long Beach is second at 12-5 with Los Angeles closing fast at 11-6.

The 49ers close out their season with three games this week, Tuesday at San Diego and Friday-Saturday at Cal Poly (SLO).

Matt Hoar stopped the 49ers on three singles, while Wayne Harper took the heartbreaking loss on an unearned run in the ninth inning. He yielded six hits, fanned seven.

Rich Shibley opened the Diablo ninth with a single and Mike Pease followed with another hit. Charlie Oakes then hit a grounder off Tony Guggiana's glove that went as an error, scoring Shibley.

When Jim Gravely also singled, off Van White's glove, John Zar took over for Harper, intentionally walked the next hitter, then escaped further trouble by getting Charlie Farris to line into a double play.

The 49ers threatened in the ninth when Rod Gaspar walked, John Treece singled and Jim Gama sacrificed. Guggiana then bounced out to second and Roy Straight fanned.

Gaspar and Lewelling got the only other hits off Hoar, who walked four and struck out six.

BEFORE the eighth, it was feared that the slump had finally affected Fregosi's fielding. He errored in the first and second innings as Boston scored one and then four more unearned runs off Dean Chance.

"Baby, I had to come up with a redeemer," said Fregosi. "The only reason my roomie (Knoop) made those errors was to make me feel good."

The winning pitcher was Lou Burdette, who is 2-0 in the American League after 195 National League victories. Burdette pitched to two batters in the seventh following Tony Conigliaro's three-run homer off Jorge Rubio.

Bob Lee hurled the last two innings and told his team-mates:

"Unaccustomed as I am to pitching with a six-run lead I could get used to it if you'd care to keep it up."

Chance yielded homers to Carl Yastrzemski and George Scott, but five of the six runs off Deano were unearned.

"Anytime I get off the hook when I'm losing 9-3 I feel like I've thrown a shutout," said Chance.

The winning manager was Salty Parker.

Baltimore Takes First-Place Edge

DETROIT (UPI) — Dave Johnson's second solo homer of the game broke a 2-2 tie in the seventh inning Saturday and enabled Baltimore to chalk up its ninth straight victory, a 3-2 triumph over the Detroit Tigers that moved the Orioles into sole possession of first place in the American League.

The victory boosted Baltimore's record to 11-1 and moved it a half game ahead of Cleveland, which was rained out.

Dave McNally went the first 7⅓ innings to gain credit for the victory and boost his record to 3-0. He needed help from Stu Miller, who came on with one out and runners on first and third in the seventh and thwarted the Tigers on one hit the rest of the way.

Detroit's Dennis McLain gave up only three hits in his seven-inning stint but all were homers as he suffered his first loss after three wins.

Baltimore took a 2-0 lead after two innings on homers by Curt Blefary and Johnson. But rookie centerfielder Mickey Stanley drove in both of Detroit's runs, doubling in Orlando McFarlane in the second inning and singling home Al Kaline in the fourth to tie the game 2-2.

DODGERS --

Koufax was the Dodgers' fifth in a row, a feat last matched in 1956. Koufax took over the No. 12 spot in strikeouts with 2,115, three ahead of ex-A's star Eddie Plank.

Unfortunately, Koufax also walked the plank.

The Dodgers, who lost a chance to tie Pittsburgh for the league lead and slipped into a third-place tie with the Giants, might take a tip from the Reds in the home stand windup this afternoon.

The Reds' regulars, held to eight singles in the previous two games, skipped batting practice Saturday. Only the pitchers participated.

Mays Fails in S.F. Win

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Orlando Cepeda's two-run homer and the six-hit pitching of Bob Bolin carried the San Francisco Giants to a 6-1 victory over St. Louis Saturday.

Willie Mays failed again to hit homer No. 512 in his bid to break Mel Ott's National League record for career homers, but he slammed a third-inning double and rode home on Cepeda's shot. That turned out to be enough for Bolin, who allowed only an unearned run in bringing his record to 3-2.

The Giants scored an unearned run in the second when Jesus Alou was safe on Lou Brock's error and Cardinal lefthander Larry Jaster issued three straight walks after two were out. Three more runs scored in the seventh on four hits.

Pinch-hitter Cap Peterson singled in one run, and Haller drove home two more with a double to center off Curt Simmons.

The Cardinals scored in the seventh after Charley Smith reached base when left-fielder Don Landrum dropped his easy fly. George Kernek and Tito Francona singled, the latter driving in the run.

In the seventh Mays slammed a high, long drive that center-fielder Curt Flood caught on the warning track, about 400 feet from home plate. Mays struck out and walked in his other two appearances.

Bateman's Hit Sinks Braves, 5-4

ATLANTA (UPI) — Gene Oliver, who singled in the tying run for Atlanta in the eighth inning, committed a passed ball in the ninth Saturday night, allowing Rusty Staub to reach first on a strikeout and later score on a single by John Bateman to give the Houston Astros a 5-4 victory over the Braves.

Staub took a swinging third strike then raced for first when the ball got past Oliver, who was substituting behind the plate in the final inning for regular catcher Joe Torre.

Hank Fischer, the fifth Atlanta pitcher, advanced Staub to second base by hitting Dave Nicholson and Bateman sent the winning run home with a sharp single up the middle.

Stottlemyre Hurls Yanks Out of Cellar

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Yankees employed Mel Stottlemyre's six-hit pitching, a pair of double steals and a perfect squeeze play to beat Kansas City 6-0 Saturday and climb out of the American League cellar.

The defeat was the fifth straight for the Athletics and dropped them into the basement.

The Yanks scored the only run they really needed in the first inning when Bobby Richardson walked, took third on Roy White's single and came home as Roger Maris bounced into a double play.

Stottlemyre pulled a perfect squeeze to pad the Yankees' lead to 3-0 in the second after Clete Boyer singled, Horace Clarke was safe on third baseman Wayne Causey's error and Jake Gibbs singled to score Boyer.

Short's 3-Hitter Routs Cubs, 12-0

CHICAGO (UPI) — Chris Short, making his first appearance in nine days, retired the first 16 batters to face him Saturday and went on to blank Chicago on three hits and give the Philadelphia Phillies a 12-0 victory over the Cubs.

Short was supported by a 16-hit Philly attack, including four successive hits by Dick Groat and three runs batted in by Tony Taylor and Bob Uecker.

Short struck out four and exhibited near-perfect control, going to a full count on only one batter and walking none. The only hits off the Philly southpaw were a scratch infield single by Don Kessinger with one out in the sixth, which ended Short's bid for a perfect game, Ron Santo's solid double to left in the seventh, and a line single to left by Kessinger in the eighth.

The victory was Short's second in three decisions.

The Phillies sent 12 men to bat in the fifth inning, raking rookie Ken Holtzman, Ernie Broglio and Cal Koonce for seven runs, including three on Taylor's first home run of the season.

It was the Phillies' biggest scoring inning in two years.

Right Wing of the Red Wings

"I'll be 40 when expansion starts? Thanks a lot! Well, you go the best you can, then you get the hell out."—Gordie Howe of the Detroit Red Wings.

DETROIT—If you happen to remember, watch that big red number nine on your television screen today.

Not impressed? Well, that's understandable. He isn't, either.

Frustrated physiologists have attempted to discover the secret of Gordie Howe's longevity, like a Siberian fossil preserved in ice, and amateur psychologists of the press have wandered away with blank notepads trying to explore his psyche.

After 20 campaigns in the world's most demanding professional sport, Howe still takes hockey seriously . . . just not himself.

Ask him about his biggest thrill in hockey and he's apt to reply after considerable thought, "My first date on the road."

Ask him how he feels about expansion and he says, "L. A.? Where's that? I don't think I've ever been there."

There was a play in last Sunday's game at Montreal when Howe faked out the goalie, then lost the puck off his stick and blew a close shot on an open net.

"I couldn't see it through the tears," he explained . . . then, "Actually, I can't be too hard on myself. At my age I have to keep building myself up."

SO YOU CAN SEE where you get trying to talk to Howe about himself, so you talk to other people.

"That sense of humor has saved him," says Rudy Pilous, a here-and-there hockey coach who probably will take over San Francisco's new NHL entry. "He's still got that twinkle in his eye and he's able to laugh at himself. That kind of temperament keeps a guy young."

Warren Hynes of the Blades recalls the day he joined the Red Wings at training camp and came face-to-face with Howe on the rink.

"Here was the great Gordie Howe," Hynes says, "and he comes up to me, waggles that stick in my face and says, 'Don't get in my way, Hynesy, or I'll skate right over you.' Geez, I was just a scared kid trying to make the team. I didn't know what to do."

KNOWING HOWE'S sense of humor, some might say that Gordie was putting Warren on. But others, knowing that Howe was perfectly able to do it, aren't so sure.

"You don't mess around with him—that's for sure," says Ron Cantera, the Detroit publicist. "He's the strongest guy in the league, even at his age. He got those shoulders working in a cement factory, and his fists are about three of mine.

"You can't call him a dirty player, but he is a mean player. If you don't learn to take care of yourself in this league they'll run you out of the rink. Bobby Hull's going through this right now. He's learning that when you're a superstar you don't win the Lady Byng Trophy."

The Lady Byng annually goes to the NHL player generally combining gentlemanly behavior with outstanding ability. Howe never has won it, and never will.

"He was always fighting when he first came up," Cantera says. "He was out to prove he could lick anybody—which he did."

SOME OF HOWE'S greatest fights were with Montreal's great Maurice (Rocket) Richard, but his most famous brawl was years ago when he encountered New York ruffian Lou Fontinato behind the net in Madison Square Garden.

Red Wing coach Sid Abel, a player in those days, recalls, "It actually started between two other players, and Fontinato came skating down to get into it, too. Well, he dropped his gloves and looked around—and there was Gordie.

"Well, nobody cared about the other fight anymore. All the players and officials just formed a ring around Howe and Fontinato and nobody tried to stop 'em. Gordie knocked him down several times, and Fontinato wound up in the hospital with his nose way over here."

Howe doesn't fight anymore, but nobody is trying to find out if he still can, either.

At 38, he still has the speed, reflexes and ability that made him hockey's leading goal and point scorer and earned most of the individual Stanley Cup playoff records, including penalties.

He just doesn't turn it on as often anymore, but he's always there, having missed only 41 games in 20 years.

"He used to play 40 minutes a game," says Cantera. "Now it's in the low twenties . . . five or six shifts a period and on the power play, if his line is rested. He has to pick his spots, but they still have to watch him just as close because they don't know when he's going to go. He's very subtle, very cute."

HOCKEY HAS MADE Howe, and maybe a little vice versa, but he won't live and die with it. He pulled his two older boys, 10 and 12, off a kids' team because they were playing more games than he was.

"Hockey should be fun," he says, and when it ceases to be fun he'll walk out one day and never look back . . . just like when he delights in carrying the puck through the entire opposing team for an easy shot—then passing off to a teammate.

Cantera adds, "It's a shame that when expansion comes everyone will be seeing him in the twilight of his career, but he's still one of the three best players in the league, along with Hull and (Montreal's Jean) Beliveau.

"The trouble is, he doesn't impress people that much because he doesn't know who he is. He doesn't know he's Gordie Howe."

Montreal, 'Wings Vie Eye-to-Eye

Long Beach Arena Suggested as New Home for Victoria

By RICH ROBERTS
L. P-T Staff Writer

DETROIT — The gracious air of hospitality prevailing in this Stanley Cup playoff comes to a test today when the Red Wings meet the Montreal Canadiens eye-to-eye.

If the series follows form in the pivotal fourth game, the only winners at home will be many millions across the continent peeking in on color TV. Detroit won twice at Montreal, then lost here, leaving doubt if home ice is all it's cracked up to be.

Meanwhile, our Stanley Cup notepad runneth over with between-game gleanings from hockey's annual pilgrimage of coaches and officials.

* * * *

TORONTO Maple Leaf president Stafford Smythe would like to operate his strong Victoria farm club in Los Angeles next season — if the Blades relinquish Western League territorial rights by announcing suspension of operations at the WHL meeting in L.A. this month.

The team would operate only until Jack Kent Cooke's expansion team takes over in 1967-68.

And even if Symthe, like Cooke, is unable to work out a short-term lease for the Sports Arena with the Coliseum Commission, the club could operate in the Long Beach Arena, which also has been offered to Cooke.

"Hey, you have a nice arena there in Long Beach," Smythe greeted this reporter, but didn't commit himself further.

However, National Hockey League president Clarence Campbell also volunteered the possibility of a minor league club in Long Beach even after Cooke starts up in L.A.

Rudy Pilous, who coached the Chicago Black Hawks to the Stanley Cup in 1961, is all set as general manager and coach for the California Seals, the Bay Area expansion team.

* * * *

BUD POILE, who was fired from his g.m. post by the Seals, appears headed for the new Philadelphia club.

It's been reported that the WHL's San Diego franchise will have a working agreement with Detroit when it becomes active next season, and what a working agreement!

The Red Wings' farm personnel at Pittsburgh, which had a 36-35 won record in the American League, probably will be transferred to San Diego to clear the way for expansion in the Pennsylvania city.

* * * *

BLUE LINES—Cooke arrived in town Saturday night and will be interviewed on TV today during the second intermission . . . The league's six new owners will meet with the six present governors in Montreal next Tuesday for more expansion planning . . . Early estimates of last Sunday's telecast from Montreal pegged the audience at 24,000,000, including 10 million watching it in color in the U.S. The other 14 million in Canada got it in black and white but it had no basketball or other sports opposition on the networks. With the NBA playoffs over, today's ratings in the U.S. are expected to soar. Preliminary figures indicate that the hockey almost broke even with the Lakers and Celtics in 27 key cities. If the series goes to a seventh game in Montreal Saturday night, NBC has the option to take it for showing in the U.S. on Sunday . . . The most valuable player receives the Conn Smythe Trophy and a gold Mustang.

BYU TROUNCES CAL; DEUBNER SCORES 13

Compiled from Wire Reports

Stanford's Dave Deubner had a busy afternoon Saturday as the Indians defeated Washington, 83-62, while visiting BYU trounced California, 106-38.

Deubner, the Tribe's great distance runner, won the half mile in 1:52.8 and 2-mile in a meet record 9:10.7 and finished second in the mile (4:12.2). He scored 13 Stanford points.

Dave Williams, Washington's pass catching football end, competed in five events — winning the intermediate hurdles (53.8) and triple jump (47-10¼), took second in the high hurdles (14.3) and long jump (23-2) besides running a leg in the 440 relay.

Paddy McCrary's 51.3 school record in the intermediates was Cal's only bright spot. The Cougars piled up a 59-3 lead in the field events. The Bears, however, won the mile relay, in 3:10.9, their 33rd consecutive triumph.

didn't think the time would be that good. I've never run so fast before."

One of the day's hottest competitions occurred in the 5,000 meters.

Twenty-five started, yet after only a few yards it was a three-man race between former Olympians Ron Larrieu, George Young and Jim Grelle. Young caught them asleep after 120 yards of the final lap, and Grelle didn't catch up until they were within 10 yards of the tape.

Both were credited with 14:10.8. Larrieu coasted home in 14:22.6. Grelle ran the last lap in 55.1.

One of the major disappointments was the mile.

AFTER dawdling quarters of 60.1, 2:03.6 and 3:06.5, Dyrol Burleson sprinted in front in Peter Snell fashion and the race was over. A 54.9 final 440 gave Burleson a 4:01.4 time, and no one was close.

Drake Records Tumble, but Ryun Runs Poor 4:05.6

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — One national collegiate and 14 meet records tumbled, and little Southern University captured four baton titles in the wind-swept Drake Relays Saturday.

Saturday's closing session of the two-day meet, was watched by 18,000 track buffs shivering in 45-degree weather at Drake University Stadium.

A disappointment was Jim Ryun, the phenomenal Kansas freshman who failed in an attempt to crack the four-minute mile barrier at Drake.

Among the record breakers were Randy Matson, Texas A&M's world shotput champion, who completed a second successive Drake double; Michigan State's 480-yard shuttle hurdle quartet which set the NCAA mark, and Southern University's meet records in the college 880 and two-mile relays.

* * * *

SOUTHERN University dominated the college division, sweeping all but two of the six events. Texas Southern took the college 440, breaking the Drake record for the second successive day with a 40.2 clocking.

Oklahoma State and Southern Methodist each captured two events among the eight baton races in the university division. The only two marks were set by Michigan State in the shuttle hurdles and Abilene Christian in the distance medley.

Matson, who retained his discus title Friday, posted a 65-3¾ for a meet record in the shot put. Matson, world shot put champion at 70-7¼, last year set a Drake mark of 63-11¼.

Ryun, who skipped practice Friday because of a cold, was far off his form of last weekend at the Kansas Relays when the Jayhawk freshman was clocked in 3:55.8. His time Saturday was 4:05.6.

Ryun had a hard time staving off John Camien who finished second in 4:05.7. The early pace was set by Dick Romo of Texas, who yielded the lead to Ryun entering the final 440 which Ryun covered in 56.3. Romo was third in the eight-man field with 4:07.5.

Football star Gene Washington anchored Michigan State's Spartans to a 57.4 victory in the shuttle hurdles when Nebraska's anchor man, Ray Harvey, spilled five yards from the finish while leading by six feet.

TRACK BRIEFS

Oregon's Neal Steinhauer and Wade Bell turned in outstanding performances as the Ducks waltzed past Washington State, 82-62. Steinhauer won the discus with his season best, 185-1, and shotput at 65-1½—the third time he's exceeded 65 feet. Bell was an 880 winner in 1:48.4, the second fastest halfmile in the nation this season. The Ducks won 10 of 17 events with Chris Westman's 8:56.0 meet record in the two-mile the top Cougar effort . . . Ed Caruthers high jumped 6-9½ as his Arizona Wildcats (75) whipped Utah (57) and Utah State (50) in a triangular at Salt Lake City. Teammate Dale Frederick ran 47.0 as U of A took the mile relay in 3:14.7. Dean Morgan's 9.7 and 21.3 sprint double and Charles Schuch's 4:17.5 and 9:36.0 distance parlay paced the host Utes . . . Former Santa Ana College star Marshall Walwood ran 9.7 and 21.7 for Cal Davis's lone bright spots in an 89-56 defeat by Nevada in Reno . . . Montana's Doug Brown set stadium records with a 4:21.1 mile and 9:38.6 2-mile but Montana State totaled 67 points to Montana's 60½ and 50½ for host Weber State at Ogden, Utah. Willie Jones long jumped 24-½ and won the 100 in 9.5 for Montana while MSU's Eric Hefty sped the 220-intermediate hurdles in 38.7, qualifying him for the NCAA meet.

Villanova Soph 'Penn' Hero

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—Villanova, with more heroics from sophomore David Patricks, and Florida A&M, with the help of a disqualification, wrapped up the 72nd Annual Penn Relays with two victories each Saturday on rain swept Franklin Field before 25,250 soaked and chilled fans.

Villanova, with another thrilling finish by Baltimore blond, Patrick, outran Georgetown to nip the Hoyas in the final 40 yards of the two mile to post with their record-breaking performance Friday in the distance medley.

Florida A&M was the actual winner in the 440, and was moved into first place in the 880 when Morgan State, which led them home by two yards, was disqualified for passing out of the zone.

It was the second year in a row the 880 winner was decided on a disqualification, last year, North Carolina College won when Maryland State was disqualified.

The famed mile, limited this year to the six fastest teams decided by Friday trials, went to defending champion Maryland State with a seven-yard victory over Morgan State in 3:15.2.

Georgetown, finally breaking a 15-year meet jinx, won the four mile, and Kentucky State, whose coach Sam Taylor died three weeks ago, repeated its victory of a year ago in the sprint medley when it outran Seton Hall by 15 yards to win in 3:24.5.

Victory-hungry Georgetown, coached by Hungarian refugee Steve Benedek, won the four mile for its first win in the relays since 1951.

The Hoyas eased their killing pace in the four mile to save themselves for the two mile, and Villanova went them one better. The Wildcats, a hopeless seventh going into the third leg, called it a race then and there and walked off the track.

Then in the two mile, Georgetown broke in front and was in full command after fighting off Maryland and Michigan.

Villanova's Craig Nation brought his team from seventh place into contention in the second leg, and Ian Hamilton cut it further to send Patrick off just four yards behind Hoya anchor Rich Urbina.

Urbina first seemed too tough a nut for Patrick to crack. He kept his pace evenly, staying in front until the final turn. It seemed as though he could hold on, but the determined Patrick fought his heart out to overtake the Georgetown flyer in the final 40 yards and then go over the line a two yard winner with the team time of 7:39.3.

Billiard Ace's Temper Flares

You've probably heard the story about the fellow who goes to a psychiatrist and says, "I'd like to find out what makes me tick, Doctor . . . and what makes me chime on the hour and quarter-hour."

This old gem was brought to mind recently in Las Vegas while talking with one of the most interesting men we've met in some time — Dr. Bruce Ogilvie, San Jose State professor and noted psychologist.

Dr. Ogilvie has analyzed such professional sports teams as the Rams, 49ers and Dallas Cowboys of the NFL; the San Francisco Warriors of the NBA; College track teams from San Jose and Stanford, and the U.S. Olympic swimming teams.

In all, he has analyzed over 2,000 athletes to see what makes them tick . . . or, as in the case of the Rams, why they haven't ticked.

When the PGA heard about this, officials invited Dr. Ogilvie to study the leading professional links stars on the tour. Carrying a portable tape recorder, he asked hundreds of questions of the golfers in the Tournament of Champions between rounds, in fact, even between shots.

The answers will be sifted and analyzed for a paper to be prepared by a three-man team of psychologists headed by Dr. Ogilvie.

In the brief time we had with Dr. Ogilvie, we were extremely impressed by his conclusions on the "responsibilities of a champion."

He undoubtedly would have added a valuable chapter to his work on this had he been able to watch one of the "immortals" in his particular field — Willie Mosconi, 13 times world champion — set the pool world on its ear with a series of temperamental outbursts that shocked officials and fans alike in the World 14-1 Invitational Pocket Billiards Tournament which ended the past week in Burbank.

WHEN THE WORLD'S TOP BILLIARD stars were in Long Beach two months ago, we chatted with a half-dozen of them and, as in all conversations regarding the game, the discussion arose as to who were the greatest cue artists of all-time.

Two, of course, stand out above all the others down through the years — the late Ralph Greenleaf and Mosconi.

It was virtually unanimous that Greenleaf had no equal despite Mosconi's great record. All spoke with great respect for Ralph; even adulation. Their statements on Willie were rather guarded and we can understand why now.

One finally declared that there were at least four or five men in the room right then who could beat Mosconi.

Two of them present — Joe Balisis and Cicero Murphy—played Mosconi in the Burbank tourney and did.

Murphy stopped Mosconi after he had won his first seven matches in a row. Balsis, winner of the Long Beach tournament and generally conceded to be the No. 1 man in the world today, whipped him convincingly in their showdown for the title.

MOSCONI HAD NOT COMPETED in a tournament since 1955. In recent years, he has been active as a public relations man for Brunswick, giving exhibitions and serving as technical advisor on films dealing with billiards such as "The Hustler."

He revealed that he had been feeling so well and playing so good in recent months that he decided he'd like to try his hand at championship competition again. His only real "shooting matches" in recent years were two or three TV matches.

He quickly revealed he still had his masterful touch . . . but his tournament appearances were stormy to say the least.

Arnie Satin, head of the group which sponsored the tournament, declared that "Mosconi completely disagreed with everything from the time he started play."

WILLIE WAS CHARGED WITH SUCH behavior as refusing to sit in the players chairs where they were stationed, tossing chalk, cursing, etc. He allegedly blamed referees for some of the shots he missed and demanded a different one for virtually every match.

Observers say Mosconi, angered at losing his second match of the tournament to Irving Crane midway through the final week, that he chased promoter Satin out of the room with cue in hand.

A co-sponsor and competitor in the event used the term "prima donna" in describing Mosconi and laughingly exaggerated a bit when he said "if anyone dared move or even breathe, Willie took it as a personal affront."

Kindest words regarding the incidents were "Willie hates to get beat . . . and he wanted to win this tournament real bad."

Willie and Balsis were tied with 14-2 records going into the final match, but the "Butcherboy" chopped up Mosconi as handily as he did sides of beef in his meat markets in Minersville, Pa., before returning to billiard competition two years ago. Final score was 150-87.

ENROUTE TO WINNING FIRST MONEY OF $4,000, Balsis also broke one of Mosconi's greatest records which had stood for 21 years when he averaged 22 balls per inning. Joe indicated he was ready for Willie by running 132, 137 and 122 balls in his three previous matches. His 137 was the tournament's high run. A year ago in the same event, Balsis set the present record with a perfect run of 150.

After the match, Mosconi exchanged heated words with Balsis and then reportedly threw a punch at Satin. Fortunately, Satin said later, it missed.

During this flareup, baseball star Dean Chance of the Angels is said to have charged Mosconi and called him a "creep."

When the announcer asked the overflow crowd to remain seated after the match for the presentation of awards, Mosconi, who had $2,000 coming for second place, snarled a few uncomplimentary things and roared out of the room declaring "I'll never play another tournament game."

Five-Figure Rematch Set for Quarry

By DAVE TAYLOR

Jerry Quarry, the Southland's ascending heavyweight messiah, steps into the hallowed sphere of five-figure pay days in his May 27 10-round rematch with New York's Tony Alongi at the L.A. Sports Arena.

Quarry, a year out of the amateurs and two weeks from his 21st birthday, is promised $10,000 for meeting Alongi by Civic Boxing Enterprises — a Beverly Hills outfit that occasionally promotes ring fights, but more regularly participates in legal battles with ring fighters.

The bout is a retake of Quarry's March 4 encounter with Alongi at New York's Madison Square Garden which ended in a draw after Jerry ran out of gas in the eighth round.

* * * *

UP TO that point it looked like the brash, sandy-headed kid from California had the edge — particularly when he dumped Alongi with a left hook in the seventh.

What Quarry apparently hopes to prove in the upcoming May 27 bout is now he's worth $10,000 because he can fight a full 10 rounds, even though he doesn't count on letting things go that far.

Jerry isn't used to opponents who stay around long enough to wear out their welcome. He's ended 10 of his 18 pro fights by knockouts, won 16 in all and settled for a draw twice, and only half a dozen of those were scheduled 10-rounders.

Alongi, however, is something a little different from the ring company Jerry is used to. At 25, Tony is a seasoned pro with 23 knockouts in 38 wins, only two losses and a couple of draws. He's a standup fighter who moves well, can chop you to pieces with a jab and takes a good punch.

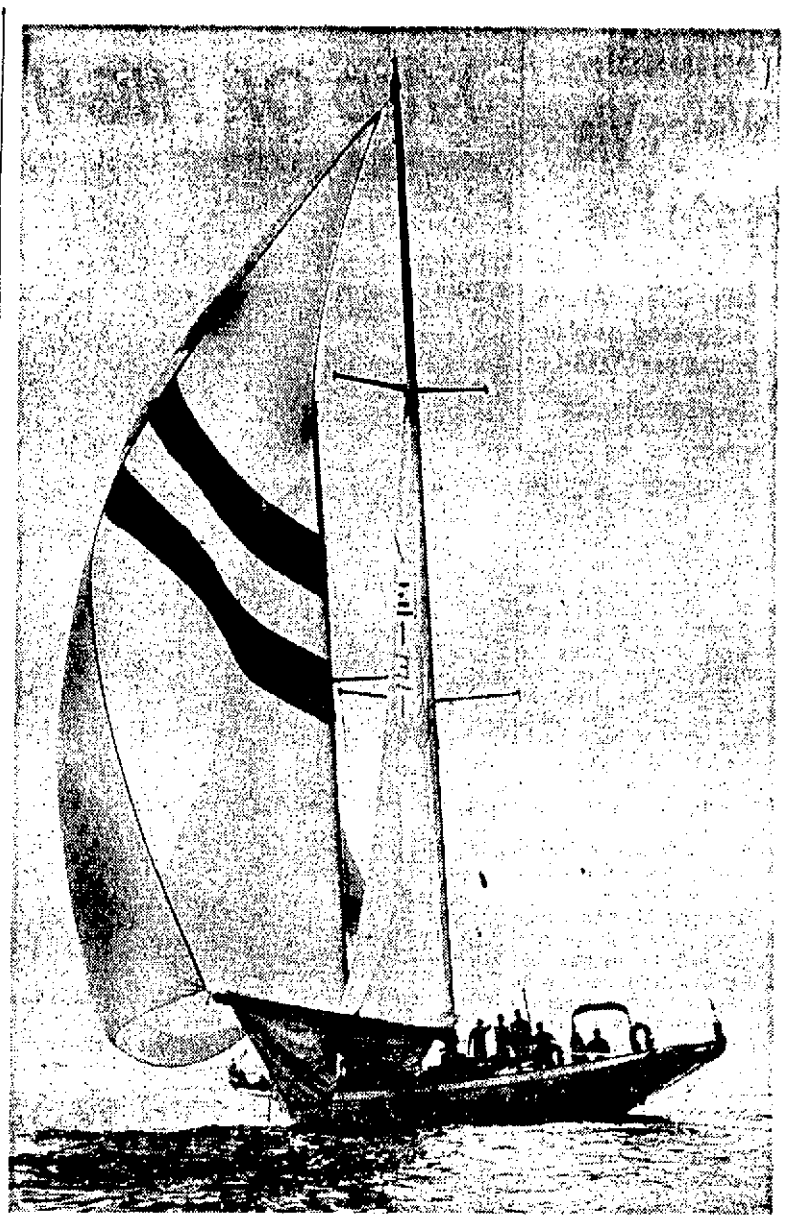

Quarry's whole philosophy of ringmanship is, "everything for the sensational." He carries a big bomb in both hands and figures if he hits you in the jaw with either, he'll break your ankles. His only problem is, if the man doesn't go down, then he has to fight him — something he doesn't do too well.

The former National Golden Gloves champion has consistently demonstrated a striking lack of ability for fighting inside, putting together a combination of more than two punches, following up his advantages, or even utilizing the most elementary left jab.

* * * *

IN JERRY'S fights that ended in a draw, first Tony Doyle last November and then Alongi in March picked themselves off the canvass after taking Quarry's big punch and finished the fight on the offense with Quarry beating a none too graceful retreat.

Quarry has climbed to the critical point now where a loss, particularly an ignoble one, could hurt him. What he may wind up proving if he beats Alongi this time is that, to keep hauling in the five-figure pay checks, he'll have to play with the big boys from now on — and that, he may not be quite ready for just yet.

Putman Sparkles in Viking Defeat

Metropolitan Conference champion Valley took home the Southern California swimming championship Saturday but not before a heroic anchor leg by Long Beach City's Dennis Putman nearly nipped the victorious Monarchs in the day's final event, the 800 freestyle relay.

Viking Coach Monte Nitzkowski had called on the gutty sophomore all season to pull LBCC out of tight squeezes in the relay and if Putman didn't win, it was always a photo finish.

In the Metro finals, Putman went into the water for the runnersup 25 yards behind the leading Monarch and nearly pulled out a victory.

It was much the same case Saturday, after legs by Mickey MacArthur (1:55.1), Mike McEveny (1:53.9) and Dave Still (1:53.4), Putman was still 1½ body lengths behind Valley's Steve Danielson.

Danielson reeled off a 1:48.0 leg and barely touched out Putnam. Metro and SoCal champion and record holder for 200 yards, Putman churned the Viking pool in a blistering 1:45.5, giving LBCC an over-all 7:28.6 to Valley's 7:28.4.

Earlier in the day Putman cracked the 100-free standard in 47.6, 1.4 seconds under the old mark. Teammate Mike McEveny completed a backstroke double, taking the 200 in 2:05.6 after a 56.5 effort in the 100 Friday.

Danielson defended his 1650 title with a record 17:13.3 while Santa Ana's Tony Gleason repeated in the butterfly (54.1).

Other Viking placers included MacArthur (1:00.5) and Still (1:04.0) in the 100-butterfly (fifth and sixth), and Larry Bender (18:41.9) for third in the 1650.

1650-freestyle — Danielson (V) 17:13.3, (Meet record, old mark 17:29.2 by Danielson 1965), Horton (V) 18:31.1, Bender (LB) 18:41.9, McGraw (OC) 18:58.8, Henderickson (R) 19:06.5, Van Osdel (BC) 19:13.6.

100-freestyle—Putman (LB) 47.6, (Meet record, old mark 49.0 by Bob Boyer, Bakersfield 1964), Hammser (Cer) 48.2, tie between Grimm (Chal) and Roush (V) 50.5, tie between Nelson (Pas) 51.0 and Fosno (Cit) 50.7.

49er Sailors Bid for Nationals

Long Beach State trailed Stanford Saturday during competition at Oakland to choose the Pacific Coast representatives to the Intercollegiate Yacht Racing Assn. championships in June.

After eight races, LBSC had 40 points to Stanford's 46. Four races will be contested today. Top two teams qualify for the nationals to be held at Kingsport, N.Y., in early June.

Flying Dutchman Jrs. were used with Henry Schofield skippering the 49er "A" ship. His crews were Paula Way and Doug Phillips, Bill Boyd skippered the "B" ship with crews of Jim Elliot, Pat Coutler and Karen Lamond. Scores after eight races:

Stanford 48, Long Beach State 40, USC 34, San Diego and UC Santa Barbara 32, California 28.

'Ensenada Fever' to Reach Epidemic Stage by Saturday

By JACK O. BALDWIN

The epidemic of Ensenada Fever which has stricken yachtsmen from San Francisco to San Diego will reach its peak at high noon on Saturday—start of the 19th Annual Newport Harbor to Ensenada International Yacht Race.

There will be considerable evidence of the Mexican malady this week as skippers and crews scurry about Southland marinas buying Mexican flags, tuning their rigging and making practice runs setting the spinnaker.

* * * *

MORE THAN 500 boats will crowd the starting area seaward of the Newport jetty to respond to the starter's cannon in the world's largest international sailing event.

Another 500 spectator boats are expected to drift through the area creating additional havoc for the harried racing skippers.

Crowding the bluffs of Corona del Mar will be thousands of wives, relatives and sailing fans watching the start of the 125-mile down coast race.

With favorable winds the first of the fast catamarans should arrive in Ensenada Sunday morning.

Some of the smaller slower boats will not arrive until Monday.

Results of the race are expected to be made available to the press about 4 p.m. on Monday.

* * * *

THIS YEAR'S flotilla, largest in the history of the event, includes all types of sailing craft — starting with the smallest of 24 feet (overall) length) up to the 89-foot Saluda, the U. S. Navy Electronic Laboratory yawl.

Divided into five classes, the huge and colorful fleet will include sloops, cutters, yawls, ketches, schooners and catamarans, according to Connie Wurdemann, president of the Newport Ocean Sailing Assn., the sponsors.

Back again this year for a try at a repeat performance is Dr. John Pursell of the Balboa Yacht Club and the Patty Cat, first among last year's 478 yachts to finish.

Back also is the "Grand Old Lady of the Pacific," the 53-year old Serena, skippered by Ken De Meuse of San Francisco. The schooner, often described as the most beautiful on the West Coast, showed her wake to all other conventional hull boats in the race, winning the honor of being the first single hull yacht to cross the finish line.

The international affair this year will be spiced with yacht clubs from West Germany, Japan, and Norway.

* * * *

ON THE return trip many of the boats will battle head winds in a two-legged beat-back race. Skippers and crews will return to San Diego, go through U. S. Customs and tie up until the following Saturday.

Grant, Hayes Tie for Pole at Riverside

By BRUCE YOUNG
I-P-T Motor Sports Editor

RIVERSIDE — Jerry Grant is not a magician by trade, but he will have a few surprises up his sleeve today for arch-rival Charlie Hayes.

Grant and Hayes drove to a draw during qualifying and it will take a coin flip to decide which one gets the honor and the advantage of starting in the pole position in today's 182-mile United States Road Racing Championship (USRRC) here.

Action begins today at 9 a.m. over the challenging 2.6-mile Riverside International Raceway course as over 30 drivers, who have not qualified yet, try and fill the remaining eight spots in the 33-car starting field.

At 11:30, 33 of the world's fastest sedans will vie for the lion's share of the $5,000 purse in the first Mission Bell trophy race. The $18,000 USRRC race begins at 2:30.

* * * *

BOTH GRANT and Hayes broke the course record here during qualifications and both feel today they can go faster than the 108.333 mph lap they turned to break Bruce McLaren's old mark of 108.083.

Jerry scorched through his record lap and thought qualifications were all over. The 220-pound racer, originally from Washington and now living in Santa Ana, was about to collect his $200 prize for the fastest time trial lap when Charlie wheeled his McLaren Chevy onto the track.

Hayes promptly uncorked an identical lap time and split the money with Grant. Hayes' lap was the last one of qualifying so it was too late for Grant to better it. Officials decided that a coin flip prior to the race will decide the pole position.

Jerry said, "Hayes kind of tricked us by waiting until the very last minute, so I couldn't do anything about it. I have yet to really let my Lola T70 out all the way and I just went as fast as I thought was necessary. Just wait, we'll have a few surprises for him today."

Last week in the first USRRC race of the season, the same pair qualified one-two but both failed to finish the race. Grant lost a rear end while Hayes' radiator was pierced by a rock.

The 29-year-old Grant, who drives for Dan Gurney's All-American Racers of Santa Ana, said, "We replaced the rear end and have corrected the problem that caused its failure. The car is in A-1 condition, but I'm not. My finger really bothers me."

* * * *

HE PUT a deep gash in his finger Friday when he had to turn sharply to avoid a spin-out.

The 72-lap race looks like a two-car affair on paper. John Fulp Jr. and Skip Hudson, the No. 3 and 4 qualifiers, are almost four miles an hour slower than the front-running duo.

Lee Midgley, who hit the fence Friday and damaged his Cobra, qualified in the 24th spot Saturday but then sent his car spinning into the infield on the fourth turn. He escaped injury, but his car is a doubtful starter today. Today's top 25:

Lothar Lotschbabacher (McLaren Olds) 102.631 mph, *Scooter Patrick (Porsche Carrera 6) 99.363 mph, *Miles Gupton (Platypus Cyclone) 97.703 mph, *Doug Revson (Lotus 23 Climax) 97.398 mph, Ed Hemill (Hemill SR 3) 97.186 mph, *John Morton (Lotus Porsche) 96.994 mph, Jim Dillemore (427 Cobra) 96.594 mph, Mason O'Keiff (McLaren) 96.395 mph, Lee Midgley (289 Cobra) 95.025 mph, Al Whatley (Ford GT 40) 94.351 mph, Jerry Grant (Lola T70) 108.333 mph, Charlie Hayes (McLaren Chevy) 108.333 mph, John Fulp Jr. (Lola T70) 104.952 mph, Skip Hudson (Lancer Lola) 104.547 mph, John Cannon (Olds Genie) 103.769 mph, Chuck Parsons (Genie MK10) 103.45 mph, Ronnie Buckman (Lola T70) 103.311 mph, Bud Morley (McLaren) 102.970 mph, Jerry Hansen (Lotus 19) 101.739 mph, Ralph Salyer (McLaren Olds) 101.628 mph, Bill Krause (Lola T70) 100.970 mph, Earl Jones (Genie MK10) 100.214 mph, *Dave Jordan (Porsche Carrera 6) 99.047 mph, *George Fehmer (Lotus Porsche) 98.525 mph, Don Skogmo (Genie MK8) 98.319 mph.

Gear-Jammer Bucknum Feels He's Now Ready for Challenging '500'

By BRUCE YOUNG

If someone would have asked Ronnie Bucknum what he thought about driving a front-engine roadster in the Indianapolis 500 four years ago he might have politely said, "I think you're crazy."

But today ask Ronnie the same question and he would say, "I'm ready for Indy and the cars there suit me to a 'T'."

Bucknum has changed his mind and Indianapolis has changed its cars. No longer are the bulky front-engined cars a dominant figure in the Memorial Day classic. The sleek, rear-engined machines are now the leaders of the pack.

Ronnie will be just one of the "new breed" of drivers who will try to qualify for the 50th Indianapolis 500. He will tool a long (147.5 inches) and low (39 inches to the top of the roll bar) rear-engined Arciero Special for Frank Arciero, a prominent Montebello contractor and race car owner.

* * * *

"THE NEW breed" is a group of gear jammers who make their living 364 days out of the year shifting the complicated gear boxes on their flashy, rear-engined sports cars and Formula I cars.

Ever since Dan Gurney started the trend a few years back, the "new breed" has set one day aside to try the shiftless Indianapolis cars. About the only shifting you do at the Brickyard is the position of your body during the long, gruelling race.

Why then does Bucknum, as an accomplished gear-jammer in both sports cars and the European Formula I machines, feel he is now ready for the challenging May 30 race?

"It is really not that big a jump. The Indianapolis car really resembles the Formula I racers now. They both have engines in the rear, are built along the same lines (long and low to the ground) and they handle almost the same way."

The 30-year-old speed jockey from Playa del Rey continued, "it used to be said that the best preparation for Indianapolis was the dirt-track roadster. But that was when the front engine was king. Then I didn't think I would ever drive at Indy, but now my background with high-speed, rear-engined cars is as close to Indy racing as you can come."

Don't let this talk fool you because the dark-haired daredevil is not taking the treacherous Indianapolis Speedway course lightly. In fact, he feels this will be his greatest racing challenge.

"In road racing you have straightaways where you can let up in your concentration and kind of let your mind get a breather. But at Indy it seems like you are always in a turn. I'll never be able to let my mind wander. You have to be on your toes every mile of the race."

Ronnie's car is actually a 1965 model that has been revamped by Arciero and his team manager Art Thomas. The car was formerly owned by Jerry Eisert, but he failed to get the car qualified last year.

* * * *

THE ENGINE is a basic 327-cubic-inch, cast-iron Chevrolet that has been sleeved down to 301 cubes. This size is due to a 1966 rule change that allows more cubic inches for pushrod engines than the highly exotic Fords and Offenhousers of 255 cubes.

Bucknum's machine will be one of the few standard V-8 engines entered in this year's classic. It produces about 515 horsepower, but may not have quite the go-power of the 600-hp of the Fords and supercharged Offies.

But Bucknum, who is racing today at Riverside Raceway, and Arciero, who has several internationally famed drivers toting his colors in the past, are banking on the proven durability of the V-8 engine.

"We are going on the theory that you have to finish the race to win it. And, we want to win. We aren't giving away that much power with our engine anyway," explained Bucknum.

Italians Lead European Davis Cup Elimination Play

By United Press International

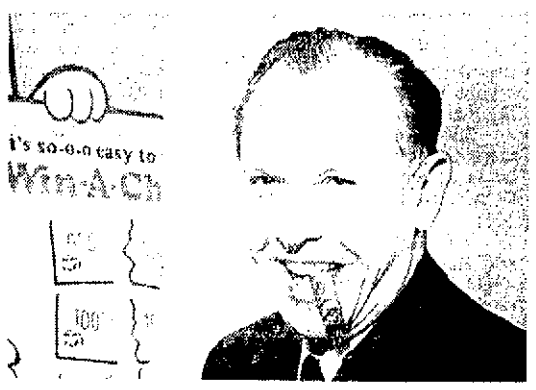

Italy, as expected, brushed aside the Russian team 4-1 Saturday to advance to the second round of European Zone B Davis Cup elimination play.

The Italians were joined by six other teams, most of whom had virtually assured themselves of advancing in Friday's play. Great Britain, the first team to advance, wound up with a 4-1 advantage over New Zealand.

Taking unbeatable 3-0 leads were Canada over Finland, Poland over Sweden, South Africa over Belgium, Holland over Ireland, West Germany over Norway, Czechoslovakia over Austria and France over Romania.

Among those with 2-0 leads were Brazil over Denmark and Switzerland over Luxembourg.

49ers Place 4th in SoCal Golf Tourney

Making their best showing ever, Long Beach State's golf team finished fourth in the Southern California Intercollegiate Tournament at La Costa Country Club.

Defending tournament champion San Diego State won the four-man title with a 590 score and Aztec star Mike Riley won the individual championship with a four-under-par 69-71—140.

USC was second in team honors with 599, Los Angeles State third with 607, Long Beach State fourth with 615, UCLA and Fresno State tied at fifth with 616 and UC Santa Barbara sixth with 618. A total of 23 schools competed.

Horace Rupp of UC Santa Barbara was second in individual competition, carding a 72-75—147 in the two rounds. USC's Rick Rhoads and Lee Davis tied for third, coming in at 148.

John Israel of Long Beach tied for 10th with a 78-73—151. Tom Dolan fired 74-78—152, Al Emmons 76-78—154 and Kent Brown 79-79—158 which comprised the 49er scoring.

Ascot Slates Double Bill

Super modified stock cars roar this afternoon and figure 8 stocks take the nighttime spotlight at Ascot Park. Starting times are 2 and 8 p.m., with trial heats preceding each show.

Don Noel, driving Chuck Parko's 1957 Ford, has won five consecutive main events, but he's expected to face a sturdy challenge in the super stocks against Oren Prosser, Jim Cook, Clem Proctor and Jerry Johnson.

In figure 8 action, Nick Thomas and Frank Thompson are running 1-2 in the standings, with Long Beach's Alan Shook in hot pursuit. Thomas has 180 points, Thompson 177½.

Thompson won last week's 20-lap feature.

Figure 8 standings: Thomas, Thompson, Shook, Ron Carmen (164½), Bob Baxter (162½), Jerry Meisenzahl (152½), Troy Still (121½), Otto Haves (100), Ed Ferro (92½), Bob Quesner (67½).

Crowley Yields Scores of Limits

CROWLEY LAKE—Crowley, the lake of the big rainbows and browns yielded scores of limits of both species Saturday, but mostly early in the morning from dawn to 9 a.m.

Most successful fishing was done on Dave Davis spinners with worms. The weather was perfect, about 70 with sunshine everywhere in the Sierras. While the Crowley Lake crowd was not the largest for an opening day there were 1,622 boats with 6,488 anglers and at fewest, an added 2,000 on the shore.

It appeared at this writing that Paul Musselman, 15-year-old, of Culver City, with a 5¼-pound rainbow, had won the opening day prize for the largest fish. The largest fish in 1965 was a 12-pound 5-ounce brown trout caught by Oliver Steine. Generally the opening day in the Sierras was the finest they've ever had.

Silver Lake, for instance, had 50 trout registered at more than three pounds each. Bridgeport Lake had 200 boats and most of the trout were two pounds or more. Convict Lake had trout from two to five pounds.

THE CROWD FISHING THIS AREA, Crowley Lake and others, represented only a fraction of the million anglers who will be trying for trout before the season ends on Oct. 31 of this year. On that date Southern California will revert to the five-trout limit allowed through the winter months.

At that time, or shortly before, planting of catchable-size fish will be sharply curtailed. By far the heaviest planting period was completed just prior to the general California season. The Department of Fish and Game said that 135,000 rainbow trout weighing 30,000 pounds were planted in the Inyo-Mono area alone.

The DFG also noted that arrests of persons fishing without licenses will go up sharply this month and continue through the summer and fall. Department men said that they arrested 443 persons in Southern California in March for that violation, which has never ceased to be the No. 1 offense, month after month.

Anglers have been cautioned to obtain their licenses before leaving their home cities. Up here, in the Inyo-Mono area, sporting goods stores frequently run out of licenses as the anglers swarm into the hundreds of lakes and streams. A permit to fish for trout costs $5 (the usual basic $3 license for ocean fishing, plus two $1 stamps, one for inland waters, the other for trout).

HERE'S A BIT OF ADVICE for anglers coming to this slope of the Sierra Nevada later this year. This year, as always, the pressure on Crowley, Convict, the Mammoth Group and the June Lake Loop is so heavy that fishing falls off after the first month. Naturally, fishermen like to turn to greener pastures.

Some of those greener pastures will be in the back country where trails may not be open until early July. Meanwhile, there are scores of good streams farther north. The East Walker River near Bridgeport is excellent. The DFG planted 5,000 Massachusetts brown trout there in March to augment an already good population known to exist.

All of the Virginia Lakes, not yet open, support a big population of browns and some of those are tackle-busters from way back. The West Walker River, high and oily at the start of each season, settles down and becomes an ideal stream to fish, or just to sit and watch it.

The northwestern corner of California, closed until May 28 and consisting of Del Norte County, most of Humboldt County and parts of Glenn, Mendocino and Trinity Counties, gets a good play at its opening.

If you are in doubt about any portions of the state, get a California Sportfishing Regulations booklet and you'll find almost anything you need to know about special closures and limits.

REVIEWING THE SOUTHLAND trout situation, there is nothing that another good rainstorm would not cure. Some streams in Orange and Santa Barbara Counties are rapidly reaching the point now where planting of catchables will not be possible very long. Even so, more creeks and rivers are flowing now than Southern California has had for several years.

Summer temperatures and water releases from storage reservoirs will have a good effect on the trout-planting program. If some streams cease to be plantable, suitable nearby lakes and other streams will get more than the usual allotment of trout.

One of the Southland's most popular reservoirs, Matilija in Ventura County, is unavailable for trout plants because it was drained to allow inspection and repair of the dam. So, the DFG planting crews decided to stock trout in Matilija Creek above the reservoir. That will mean a creek that has never been stocked heretofore.

Two other creeks, that are providing planted-trout fishing this year are Fish Creek in the Saugus district of Angeles National Forest and Arroyo Seco Creek in the Pasadena area. This is the first time that those streams have been declared fishable for many years. One can readily see what a good wet winter does for Southern California. Let's pray for one every year.

Go Josie Go Romps to Win

By DAVE DANIEL

Go Josie Go, horse of the meeting for the past two seasons won the $5,000 Chicado V. Purse Saturday at Los Alamitos over world record-holder Duplicate Copy.

The 4-year-old mare by Go Man Go raced the 400 yards in 20.2 seconds, good for a half-length win over Moore Go, who in turn was ahead of Duplicate Copy, who owns the fastest clocking ever over 350 yards at 17.4.

Go Josie Go, backed down to a heavy favorite by the 12,916 fans, paid only $3.60, $2.60 and $2.20 in wagering that saw the first minus pool of the meet — $247.61 for the show.

Moore Go, the only 3-year-old entered in the race, and who finished second in the Los Alamitos Derby last Saturday, paid $3.20 and $2.20 while Duplicate Copy, losing his second race in a row after winning four straight, returned $2.20.

Go Josie Go, never worse than third in any race since last spring, now has won over $100,000 for owner A. O. Phillips.

The co-featured Jet Deck Purse, also a $5,000 event, but for 2-year-olds, was captured by favored Off Limits by a full length over longshot Gold Ingot.

Off Limits, who has won four out of five races this year, losing his only start last week in the Leo Purse to Watch Eli, returned $4.20, $3.20 and $2.40 for the win.

Gold Ingot was good for $8.00 and $4.00 while Go Al Go, paid $3.00 for show.

Ronald Banks rode Off Limits for his 18th win of the meeting and moved one up on Zack Collins for the riding lead.

Tom Lydon, a 3-year-old, recorded the fastest time of the meeting for 350 yards with a 17.9 clocking in the sixth race for an easy win over Mine First.

Tom Lydon, with Curtis Perner up, paid $14.80, $8.60 and $5.20 for first place while Mine First returned a whopping $30.20 and $12.00 for the place. Bright Polley paid $3.60 to show.

Hardway Ten, a $6.00 winner and Kit Bam, $37.00, combined in the first two races for a $134.20 daily double.

Injury Hits Derby Choice Graustark

Compiled from Wire Reports

LOUISVILLE, Ky.—A small piece of gravel may be a major stumbling block to mighty Graustark's chances in the 92nd running of the Kentucky Derby next Saturday.

The colt suffered an infection late Friday. Trainer Loyd Gentry said if it doesn't clear up within 36 hours the once-beaten 3-year-old will not start in the $125,000-added run for the roses.

Until three days ago, the long-striding son of unbeaten Italian stallion, Ribot, figured to be the shortest-priced favorite since Citation won the 1¼-mile Run for the Roses in 1948 and returned a mere $2.80 for $2.

* * * *

BUT THE previously unbeaten chestnut colt from John Galbreath's Darby Dan Farm, an easy winner of his three starts last year and four this season, lost by a nose to a stretch-running Abe's Hope in the Blue Grass Stakes at Keeneland.

The oddsmakers quickly re-adjusted their figures, while owners and trainers took another look at their eligibles and calculated that anything can happen when the field breaks from the barrier at 5:45 p.m. (EDT) before the usual packed house, annually estimated by Downs' officials as in excess of 100,000. The race will be televised in color.

The rise of Abe's Hope, an Illinois-bred son of Better Bee from the Chicago-owned Grand Prix stable of John Bartell and Robert Byfield, and the threat of such top flight performers as Kauai King, and Amberoid, may make Graustark no more than even-money at post time.

Abe's Hope, who preceded his Blue Grass triumph with eye-opening showings in the Flamingo at Hialeah Park and the Florida Derby at Gulfstream Park, figures to be the strong second choice.

* * * *

HE HAD the Flamingo won only to bow in the final stride to the now sidelined Buckpasser, the 1965 2-year-old champion. He finished first in the Florida Derby but was set back to fourth for interference.

Kauai King, Michael Ford's Nebraska-owned son of the great Native Dancer, and Amberoid, a come-from-behind stylist representing Reginald Webster, should battle for third place on the odds board with the King Ranch's Buffle also coming in for some support.

Stupendous in Fine Workout for Derby

Old Bag Whips Ky. Derby Trio in Steppingstone

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Old Bag came through on the rail Saturday to whip three Kentucky Derby hopefuls in the $6,000 Stepping Stone Purse at Churchill Downs, one of the last preps for the May 7 classic.

Old Bag, ineligible for the Derby, nipped Mary D. Kiem's Sean E Indian by one-half length. Pudget and Grant's Blue Skyer was another three-quarters behind.

Sean E Indian, Blue Skyer and Clear Springs Stable's Beau Sub, last in the five-horse field, are eligible for the $125,000-added Derby.

The winner returned $11.40, $4.20 and $2.40.

Selari Triumphs in Grey Lag 'Cap

NEW YORK (AP) — Selari, ridden by John Sellers, came from off the pace and won the $84,150 Grey Lag Handicap in the rain, fog and mud at Aqueduct Saturday.

The 4-year-old colt, who had finished second in the Seminole, Widener and Gulfstream Park handicaps earlier this year, overhauled the pace-setting Beaupy in the closing strides for his first stakes victory and earn $54,697 for his owner, the Valley Farm.

He ran the 1⅛ miles in 1:20 2-5 and paid $12.20, $5 and $3.80.

Beaupy took the place by six lengths over Power of Destiny and paid $5.40 and $4. Power of Destiny, who finished 2½ lengths ahead of Point De Jour, paid $6.80 to show.

Our Promise, Quita Dude, Just About, Sparkling Johnny and First Family finished in that order behind the leaders.

Selari, who has earned $185,767 in 43 starts, was 10-1 in the morning line, but was favored at 5-2 in the first flash of the odds before the crowd of 45,288 finally sent Beaupy off the 7-2 choice at post time.

Selari was 12 lengths back in last place before Sellers asked him for speed. He circled the field on the final bend and made up four lengths on Beaupy in the stretch.

"He really loved the going," said Sellers. "When I asked him for speed, he just took off."

Vike Cagers 4th in State

By GARY RAUSCH

Long Beach City College, a team that captured everything but the state championship, has been tabbed No. 4 in the state on JC Sportswire's final basketball ratings for the 1965-66 season.

Under Chuck Kane, the Vikings compiled a 31-2 record—best in the school's history — and won Metropolitan Conference plus Foothill and Sam Barry Tournament titles. The Norse machine reeled off 16 and 13-game winning streaks.

Placing above the Vikes were three-time state champ Riverside (33-1), City College of San Francisco (30-3) and Imperial Valley (27-1).

In topping the poll of coaches and sportswriters from throughout the state for the third successive season, Riverside picked off 29 first-place votes while one lone dissenter tabbed CCSF. San Francisco was 10th a year ago, Imperial Valley 7th and Long Beach unranked after a 11-17 season.

Interestingly enough, LBCC can boast a 13-1 record against other schools comprising the Top 10 and honorable mentions. The fast-breaking Norsemen took the measure of No. 1 Riverside, No. 6 Delta and co-10th placers Valley (three times) and Pierce (twice).

Final ratings, with first place votes in parenthesis.

Rank	Team	Record	Points
1.	Riverside (29)	33-1	299
2.	San Francisco City (1)	30-3	253
3.	Imperial Valley	27-1	214
4	Long Beach City	31-2	209
5.	Mt. San Antonio	25-4	167
6.	San Joaquin Delta	23-5	161
7.	College of San Mateo	20-6	97
8.	Allan Hancock	27-9	85
9.	Contra Costa	22-7	50
10.	L.A. Valley	23-7	47
10.	L.A. Pierce	24-10	46

Honorable Mention: Chabot (16-12), College of Marin (21-7), El Camino (22-5), Fresno (18-13), Fullerton (18-12), Merritt (18-3), forfeited 3 games,) San Bernardino (17-12), San Jose City (16-12), Santa Ana (13-11), Vallejo (23-5).

NAVY TO HOST TEE TOURNEY AT 'VERDE CC

Civic Leaders will join with Armed Forces personnel Monday, May 9, when Long Beach Naval Air Station hosts a golf tournament at Mesa Verde Country Club.

Play will begin at 9 a.m. at the Costa Mesa course in a shotgun arrangement, enabling every participant to tee off in unison.

The tournament, conceived to promote good relations between military and civilian leaders, has become an integral part of Armed Forces Week celebrations.

Defending champion is the city of Los Alamitos.

THE SPOILS

Long Beach City College basketball coach Chuck Kane poses with star guards Bill Connolly and Mack Calvin amidst some of "the "spoils" Viking collected en route to Metro Conference and two tourney titles. Saturday, they won fourth-place ranking in state.

Handball Tourney at PCC

Competition gets under way Monday in the Harbor Area singles handball tournament at the Pacific Coast Club.

Matches will be held daily through Saturday, beginning at 4 p.m. Semi-final matches are scheduled Friday and the championship match Saturday. The tournament is open to the public.

Four players from the Pacific Coast Club are top-seeded, They are, in order, Skip McDowell, Earl Russell, Lou Morales and Mel Sandland.

North Community YMCA is expected to enter a strong team, headed by Jack Austin.

Glamorous Driveways —Why They're Popular

By ROBERT BECKMAN
Southland Progress Editor

A driveway is a driveway is a—

But not any more.

Since the earliest day, a driveway has been considered but a necessary approach to house and garage.

No longer is this true.

Southland landscape architects and smart home builders regard the driveway as the home's "welcome mat"—the first area a visitor sees. It marks the first impression they record, a vital one.

Edward Hume, member of the American Institute of Landscape Architects and Northridge resident writing in the Home Builder's Journal, states:

"TODAY, with our properties shrinking and the automobile taking an ever-increasing importance, we are finding more and more of our space being paved.

"There is a tremendous need to make this space interesting."

Fellow architects and builders apparently agree. And so do the real estate salesmen who have come to realize the driveway represents the most effective sales feature of all.

The number of concrete driveways built in the Los Angeles-Orange County area has increased, the Journal reports, more than 300% in the past 18 months.

With the upsurge in concrete drives came the new interest in provocative driveway design.

MANY NEW homes are in areas where no sidewalks are provided and, as a result, driveways also serve as entry walks. How are they being made more appealing to the eye?

Hume says a favorite solution is through the use of large exposed aggregate pads in the drive area "directing the eye visually to the entry."

A second favorite procedure is the use of redwood headers to break the surface monotony.

A second favorite procedure is the use of redwood headers to break the surface monotony.

A tour through several fine home areas gives quick proof a well-designed driveway enhances the residence and the neighborhood.

SOME DESIGNERS combine different textures and colors of concrete, including exposed aggregate, broomed-surface light concrete and stained sections with heavier scored lines.

Unusual geometric configurations also are achieved.

One of the most photographed driveways in the Southland is one in South Pasadena showing a combination of alternate curvilinear sections of darkened concrete and exposed aggregate.

Another South Pasadena home boasts different sized and shaped sections of concrete stained various shades of brown, beige and white. All surfaces were lightly broomed as the concrete set up.

A HOLLYWOOD driveway shows the meticulous care in design as large rocks, carefully placed by hand in the concrete surface, gives a striking cobblestone effect.

In Corona del Mar, a driveway designer employed many elements: curves which sweep the drive and "walk" into the house, and redwood strips pointing to the gardens.

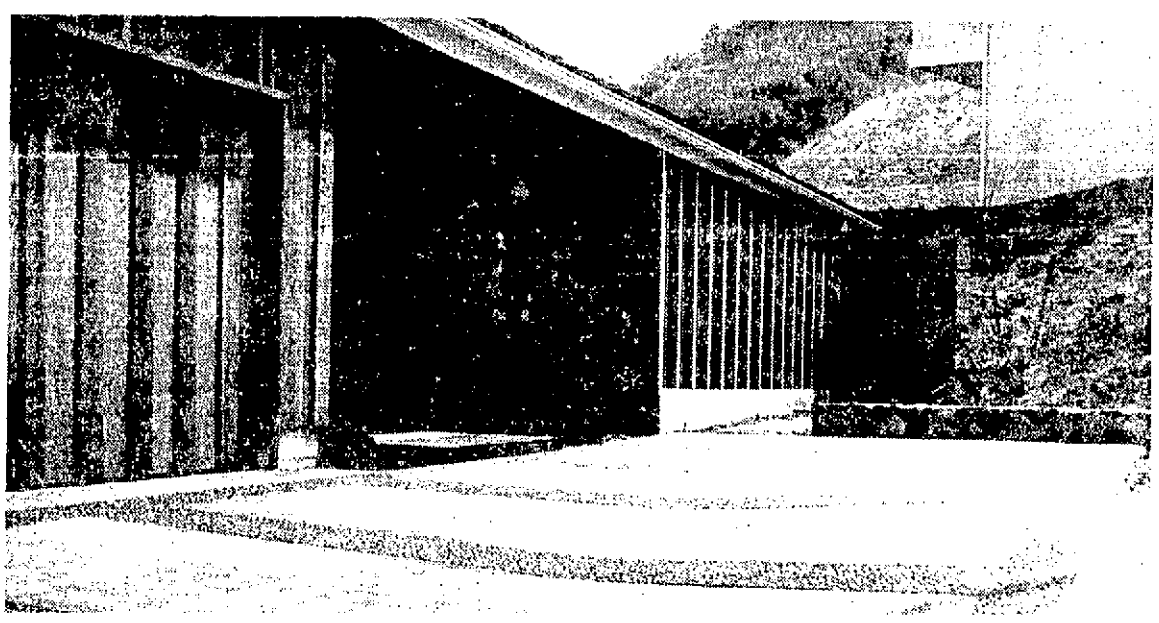

Several driveways in the Long Beach area are made of squares of regular concrete, broken evenly by dichondra.

Other than a pleasing appearance, what do good driveways have in common? Says Hume:

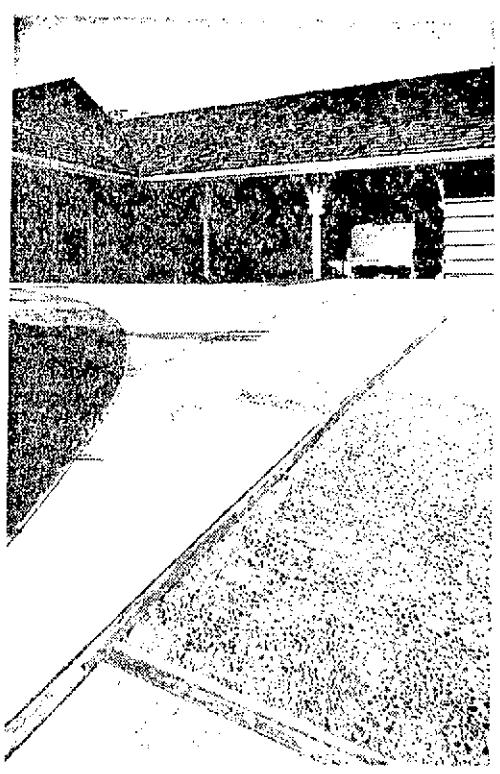

"Proper lighting and parking space, along with ease of parking."

THIS TWO-STORY, FOUR-BEDROOM HOME . . . One of Fairway Park Models

Model Homes, Plus Furnishings, Go on Sale Today in Cypress

Five model homes and all furnishings are on sale today at Fairway Park as the new Cypress community prepares to sell out, reports Joseph W. Terry, director of sales for builder-developer Robert H. Grant & Company.

As part of the close-out campaign, a variety of extra home features is being offered for the first time, said Terry, including wall-to-wall carpeting, automatic washer-dryer, professional landscaping and outdoor patios.

Down payments have been cut in half and no payments are due until summer for persons who buy now.

ONLY 41 HOMES remain unsold at the $40 million, 1,000-home community which opened less than three year ago," noted Terry.

Included in the model home furnishings being sold to the public are bedroom sets, dining room sets, living room furniture, lamps, paintings, end tables, commodes and occasional tables.

Fairway Park is conveniently located near all major community facilities, including schools, shopping, places of worship, recreation areas and employment centers.

The project is located across Cerritos Avenue from the Los Alamitos Golf Course, and is 30 minutes from downtown Los Angeles and 10 minutes from the heart of Orange County's industrial area.

PRICED FROM $27,000, one and two-story homes are featured in five floor plans and 18 exterior stylings, and include up to five bedrooms.

Custom features include crystal chandeliers, floor-to-ceiling mirrors and solid oak hardwood floors, a hallmark of the building firm.

Workmanship and materials in the home are warranted against defects for one year by the Grant organization, builders of more than 7,500 homes in Orange County.

Furnished models are open daily from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. They may be reached from Los Angeles by driving south on the Carmenita off-ramp of the Santa Ana Freeway, west on Cerritos Avenue one block to the site, or north on the Palo Verde off-ramp of the San Diego Freeway, and east on Spring Street (Cerritos Avenue) to the models.

Steel Official Predicts Improved Market

By KEN CHILCOTE
Business Editor

Paving the way for another effort to boost steel prices, Edmund F. Martin, Bethlehem's chairman and chief executive officer, reported to stockholders last week of spiraling costs and decreased earnings.

Net income for the big steel firm fo rthe first quarter of 1966 was $36,682,000, compared to $44,132,000 for the corresponding period of 1965.

A big reason for the drop was that the first two months consumers continued to work down the excess inventories they had built up during 1965 as protection against a possible steel strike. By March the situation had improved and a good second quarter is predicted.

"Costs during the first quarter of 1966 reflected the initial impact of the labor settlements made last September and the higher prices of many steel making materials and services bought from others," the chairman said.

"TOGETHER WITH the lower rate of shipments and revenues, this accounted for the drop in earnings to 80 cents a share from the 97 cents a year ago.

"Prices of too many things we bought last year were higher than they were the year before," he continued, "and an hour of labor costs us more every year than it did the preceding year.

"While we can offset some of these increases through investments which reduce material and labor requirements they won't do the whole job.

"I continue to hope that we will be able to adjust our prices from time to time in the light of competitive conditions so as to improve the return for our products."

Stewart S. Cort, Bethlehem's president, pointed out how Bethlehem, through a growing research program, is improving the products and seeking means to cut production costs. Over the last five years the researchers have come up with ideas that will far more than pay for the cost of the research.

SOME RESEARCH developments the past year included Chrominized Steel, a sheet of steel highly resistant to corrosion and less expensive than alloy or plated steel; a new method of processing sheet steel that increases its strength; a new method for quenching and tempering plate to give superior qualities.

A plastic coating for suspension bridge cables that protects them permanently from corrosion was worked out with the du Pont Company. A special structural guide rail for rapid transit systems was developed in cooperation with Westinghouse.

A "tinless tin can" was another big development the past year.

Bethlehem is now leading all American steelmakers in using the basic oxygen process. This new process has proven efficient and has proved itself able to lower costs and make the highest quality product, Cort said.

HERE AND THERE—When Eastern Air Lines puts two Douglas DC-8 Super Jet 61 transports into operation in December they will carry 193 passengers instead of 251 as designed by Douglas. Eastern plans more roomy seating arrangements.

This initial Super 61 will be the largest commercial jet in service anywhere in the world for at least three or four years. It will be used chiefly on Eastern's New York-San Juan run. . . . Rexall Drug and Chemical Co., showing a record first quarter earnings of $5,614,000, expects a big boost by the end of the year after new facilities get under way in manufacturing products. These include the Vanda direct selling cosmetic line known as "bonus Gifts"; the new ABS plastics plant in Joliet, Ill.; the new Autoclave polyethylene reactor in Odessa, Texas and Tupperware facilities in Spain, Greece and Mexico.

SANTA FE SPRINGS is pointed up as a great place for industrial development potentials in an attractive brochure just published by Southern California Gas Co., and the Southern Counties Gas Co. Naturally the booklet points out facilities the gas concerns can provided industry, as well as the available sites for growth. . . . General Telephone Co., operating revenues in 1965 were $214,700,000, a gain of 9.6% over the previous year, R. Parker Sullivan, president, reported to stockholders. Operating expenses totaled $124,528,000 and were somewhat higher than usual, he said, due to expansions and service improvement. It had 1,643,000 telephones in service at the end of the year, a gain of 116,000 over 1964.

MONTGOMERY WARD'S new Fullerton department store is offering a novel champagne premiere on May 8. A $2 admission will be totally directed to a fund for hiring a Muckenthaler Center director of cultural affairs and to pay for additional office expenses for a cultural nerve center of Fullerton.

Muckenthaler Center was deeded to the city on condition that the mansion and 8½ acres of land be utilized for culturally-oriented projects. Classes, meetings, little theater and exhibits already are part of the activity center on Malvern and Buena Vista in Fullerton. A fashion center and awarding of prizes will be featured at the afternoon premiere showing of the new store. The Fullerton Chamber of Commerce is handling the ticket sale.

CALIFORNIA IS BUSTIN' out all over, says the national magazine Homebuilding, the National Association of Home Builders journal. It points out that at least 31 new towns are on drawing boards or under way in this state, comprising more than 346,100 acres, an area large enough to accommodate 11 cities the size of San Francisco.

Incidentally, the magazine also reports a "wait and see" attitude exists among many lenders is of great concern to builders as the edging up of interest rates and a tightening money market develops. In some sections commercial banks are shifting from long to short-term investments and holding off on commitments for mortgage loans to builders. This is delaying long-range planning of many of the nation's builders.

AMONG NEW PLANTS getting under way shortly in Santa Fe Springs will be the Dixon Chubbuck & Associates at 11815 E. Slauson Ave. It will manufacture "Snowcoat," a white reflective roof covering and will utilize a 15,000 square foot structure. Electronic Chrome Co., will be in its new facility at 9132 Dice Road, where expanded chrome plating operations will be done in a 5550 square foot structure.

The Philip Carey Co., Cincinnati, expects to be in a new 87,300 square foot structure in August. It is at 13711 Freeway Drive and will manufacture bathroom cabinets, range hoods, ventilating fans, door chimes and home radio inter-coms.

Construction Begins 'to Move'

	1957-59 Average	Year Ago	Month Ago	Week Ago	Latest Week
BUSINESS WEEK Index . . .	100	140.4	152.8	153.1	153.2

With an ever-huskier economy, the Index is further entrenching itself in the high ground of recent weeks. The chart is now up 5.4% for the first four months of 1966.

Not much has been heard this year about one Index component: construction. The figures show that it is beginning to move along. Total construction for March was up 12% over the same month in 1965.

Non-residential construction led the way, with a 24.6% rise. But residential building—in the doldrums longer than most home-builders like to think about—is also 6.7% better than a year ago. If the early signs hold, with many areas just coming out of winter wraps, construction could give good support to the summer economy.

SCHOLARSHIP FINALIST

Printer Awarded Pin for 70-Year Service

By VERA WILLIAMS

Bill Bloom, 92, who in his printing career went through cyclone, flood and earthquake, can put a new notch in his printer's stick.

He has a 70-year membership pin from the International Typographical Union—and only 31 other printers in the world hold that pin.

With appropriate ceremony, the 70-year pin last week was presented in Long Beach to William Redi Bloom (Bill's full name) by Kenneth Prairie, international representative, at the Labor Temple.

* * * *

PRAIRIE presented 60-year pins to Percy Lee Steidley and Frank Hutchinson; a 50-year pin to John Masaas, and a flock of 40 and 25-year pins.

As a matter of fact, Hobart Hall, president of Local 650, said the pins represent a total of 1,100 years of printing.

Bill, whose speech still reflects his Kentucky birth, retired from the Independent, Press-Telegram in 1955.

He started his career on the weekly in Marysville, Ky., moved to Muncie, Ind., where he worked on his first daily newspaper and became a charter member of Muncie local of the ITU in 1896.

He was marooned in the Dayton, Ohio, Journal for four days in 1913 when the Big Miami River dam broke and the river spilled 13 feet of water in the city streets.

"It wasn't too bad," he reflected. "We were next door to a liquor warehouse and we could get into the warehouse through the roof."

A cyclone hit St. Louis in 1927 when Bill was at work in the Post-Dispatch building.

* * * *

THE EARTHQUAKE hit when Bill was at work in the Press-Telegram composing room in 1933.

Bill remembers when type was set by hand and presses were hand-powered. He remembers the alarm of printers when linotypes were introduced in the 1890's. He remembers the "traveling cards" carried in the old days by itinerant printers (he was one of them).

"We'd present the card to show we were a printer. If there wasn't any work, the working printers would 'pass the card' for money for a drink and to help us move on."

A TOTAL OF 240 years' service to the printing trade are represented by these four members of the International Typographical Union who last week received recognition pins. They are (left, seated) William Bloom, 70 years; Frank Hutchinson, 60 years. Left (standing), John Masaas, 50 years, and Percy Lee Steidley, 60 years.

Manager B. J. Young to Retire

B. JEROME YOUNG

Forty-two years of banking, all in Long Beach, comes to an end Monday when B. Jérome Young retires from the Bank of America. Young has been manager of the Third and Long Beach Boulevard branch since 1949 and has held vice president status since 1955.

A resident of Long Beach since 1904, Young began his banking career as a messenger at the same branch from which he is retiring. He was elevated to assistant cashier in 1930 and six years later was named manager of the Cherry-Anaheim Branch. He returned to the Third and Long Beach branch in 1949.

YOUNG IS a former manager of the Chamber of Commerce board of directors; secretary of the Community Rehabilitation Industries; member of the Rotary Club, Elks, El Bekal Shrine and the Navy League. He is a native of Evansville, Ind., and holds a bachelor of science degree in business administration from the University of California.

He and his wife, Doris, live at 3920 Linden Ave. They have two sons, B. J. Jr. and Gilbert, both residing in Long Beach.

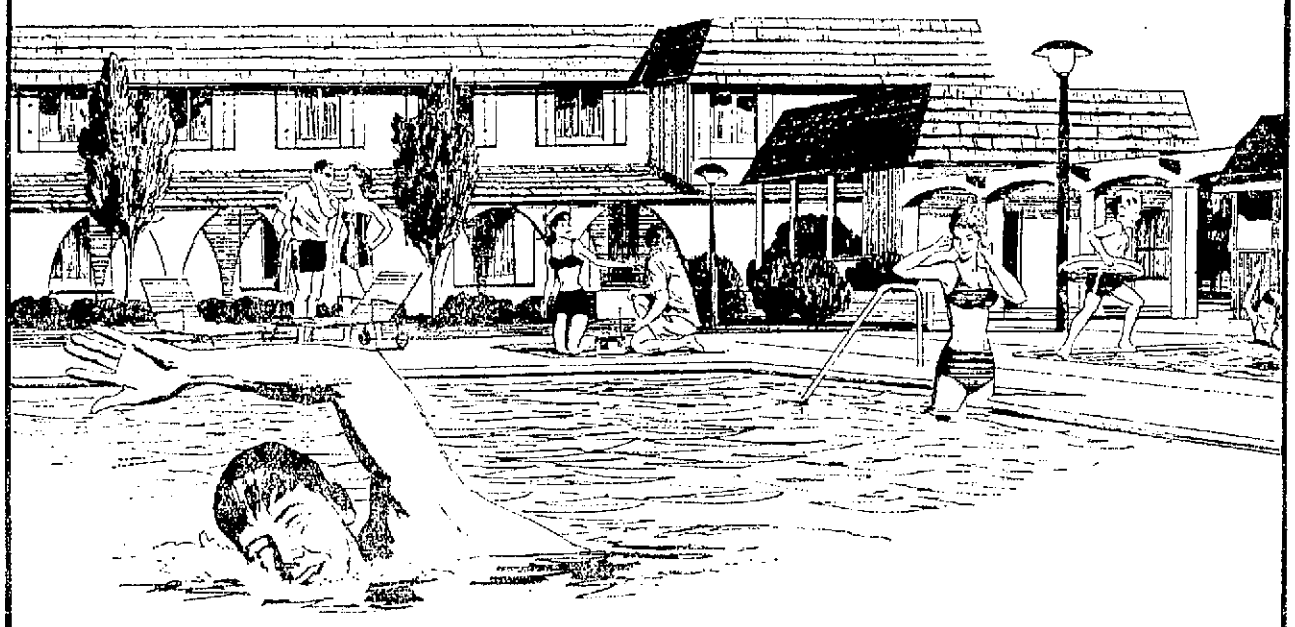

Concrete Class Slated Monday at Redondo High

A four-session course in handling ready-mixed concrete will begin Monday night at Redondo Union High School, sponsored by the Southern California Ready-Mixed Concrete Association.

E. P. Greene, the association's education committee chairman, said other 7:30 p.m. sessions will be on the following three Mondays. Topics range from "Materials For Concrete" to "Promoting Sale of Concrete."

Certificates will be awarded to those attending all sessions.

THE REAL ESTATE STORE NO. 1

IN THIS DAY of ultramodern offices with modernistic art on the walls comes a refreshing change—a change back to the conventional. Newly opened at 2940 Clark Ave., Long Beach, is "The Real Estate Store," a nostalgic replica of what a busy realty office must have been at the turn of the century. From pot-bellied stove in the lobby (below) to authentic newspaper pages of 60 years ago on the walls, the firm has attempted to plant the roots of the new endeavor around its motto: "Old-Fashioned Courtesy and Service." The 1,080-square-foot building has attracted high attention, despite its being nestled in a small shopping center. Jack B. Krueger, president and treasurer, said a 2,000-square-foot complete building with similar decor already is planned on Carson Street, just west of Paramount Boulevard. Other officers of "The Store" are Curt Gray, vice president and secretary, and Dick Mulder, sales manager. Attorney Arthur Miller is a director.

Hughes-Fullerton in Navy Systems Work

By LEE CRAIG
Aerospace Editor

Hughes Aircraft Company's Fullerton plant has received a $18.9 million follow-on order from the Navy for shipboard systems designed to provide commanders with fast, visual battle intelligence.

The contract is the third major order received by Hughes for its naval tactical data system equipment and provides for production of data display sub-systems consoles for more than 25 installations.

The contract also calls for peripheral equipment, such as switchboards, central pulse amplifiers and symbol generators.

* * * *

NUCLEUS OF a ship's combat information center, the system presents on electronic data-display consoles a comprehensive, real-time picture of ships, aircraft and submarines within range of a fleet's electronic sensors.

It replaces the slow, manual, grease-pencil form of plotting and eliminates human error and delays that often plagued the old system, Hughes engineers claim.

The equipment has already been installed in the Navy's nuclear-powered fleet, including the carrier USS Enterprise, cruiser USS Long Beach and many other ships.

Number of Area Firms at New High

Business taxpayers in the Long Beach area have reached an all-time high of 20,581, it was reported by Richard Nevins, Southern California member of the State Board of Equalization.

Nevins also announced it's costing less for the board to collect business taxes. In the last fiscal year the cost of collecting $100 in revenue dropped from $1.06 to $1.03.

"Despite the steady increase in accounts and workload, there has been no material increase in staff," Nevins said.

* * * *

ON THE AVERAGE, more than 2,000 taxpayers visit the local board office, 4335 Atlantic Avenue, each month.

The office, headed by K. W. Lauritzen, handles nearly all business tax matters for the area from Lynwood to Catalina Island and from the Orange County line to Rolling Hills.

Ranch Land Purchased by Doctors

Purchase of 100 acres of the C Bar I. Ranch in Rancho Santa Fe by an investment group of unannounced doctors, is reported by Michael M. McKeon, president of California Land Sales Inc., Beverly Hills real estate and investment firm.

Known as the Rancho Santa Fe Acres Partnership, the doctors paid $300,000 for the property on Del Dios Highway, outside of Rancho Santa Fe, near Lake Hodges. The land is now used for the raising of nursery trees.

The buyers have given no indication of their plans, other than to report it was purchased as an investment.

Bank of Long Beach Opens Next Friday

The Southland's newest major financial institution, the Bank of Long Beach, will open for business Friday following a formal ribbon-cutting ceremony at 10 a.m.

Robinson A. Reid, president, also announced the completion of the board of directors with the addition of Mayor Edwin W. Wade and Attorney Henry H. Clock.

EDWIN W. WADE

Located at 4201 Long Beach Blvd., the Bank of Long Beach is capitalized at $1.5 million as an independent national bank. It will occupy 8,000 square feet on the first floor of the large new building near the intersection of San Antonio Drive and Long Beach Boulevard. The structure will be known as the Bank of Long Beach Building.

Directorate of the bank is composed of civic leaders and area boosters of Long Beach and nearby territory.

MAYOR WADE is president of Marine Specialty Co., the largest fabricator of graphite west of the Mississippi and the firm specializes in the manufacture of carbon and graphite components for rockets, missiles and nuclear reactors.

He first was elected to the City Council in 1960 and was named mayor in July of that year. He now is serving his second three-year term as mayor.

Long active in civic affairs, Wade twice served as chairman of the city's Armed Services Commission. He helped found the Independent Business Men's Association here and served as president four terms. He also has been active in Masonic organizations, the Chamber of Commerce, Navy League, Elks Lodge and numerous other local organizations.

HENRY H. CLOCK, of the law firm of Clock, Waestman & Clock, one of the city's oldest legal firms, is another who has devoted much time to civic affairs. He has served in such positions as president of the Long Beach Area Council, Boy Scouts of America; president of the board of directors of Memorial Hospital of Long Beach; president of the Boys' Club of Long Beach; president of the Tuna Club of Long Beach; president of the United Neighbors Community Chest directorate and many other civic organizations have been aided by his services for years. He is an ardent yachtman and deep-sea fisherman.

HENRY H. CLOCK

George A. Hart Jr., another prominent Long Beach attorney, was named chairman of the Bank of Long Beach board of directors last December.

* * *

TEN OTHERS on the 13-member board of the bank include:

Dr. William Ballhaus, president of Beckman Instruments, Inc., Fullerton.

Mel Burns, president of Mel Burns Ford.

Maurice Carl, owner of Carl's Furniture & Carpets.

George S. Denbo, real estate developer.

T. A. Hagelberg, former vice president and controller of Van Camp Sea Food Co., now retired.

J. S. Jacobs, president of J. S. Jacobs & Co., electrical contracting firm.

D. L. Marlett, vice president of Great Lakes Carbon Corp.

Jerome Moss, real estate developer.

M. A. Nishkian, president of M. A. Nishkian & Co., consulting engineering firm.

Herman H. Ridder, publisher of the Independent, Press-Telegram.

Robert A. Basham, veteran of 20 years in banking, will serve as vice president and cashier of the new bank.

Kirkpatrick to Succeed Shuff at Walker's

Sherman Kirkpatrick, an executive with 30 years of experience in retailing, Monday will assume the post of general manager of Walker's department store.

SHERMAN KIRKPATRICK

J. A. Shuff is resigning as general manager of the store to accept a position with the Buffums' department store chain.

Kirkpatrick comes to Walker's from Alhambra, where he was manager of a smaller department store. Already on the job in Long Beach, he said he plans to soon move to Long Beach with his wife.

Kirkpatrick said the 350-employe, family store at Fourth Street and Pine Avenue will continue its present program of remodeling and expanding some departments to better serve its customers.

He noted that presents efforts include:

Sandblasting and repainting of the back of the department store building, in line with Long Beach's beautification program.

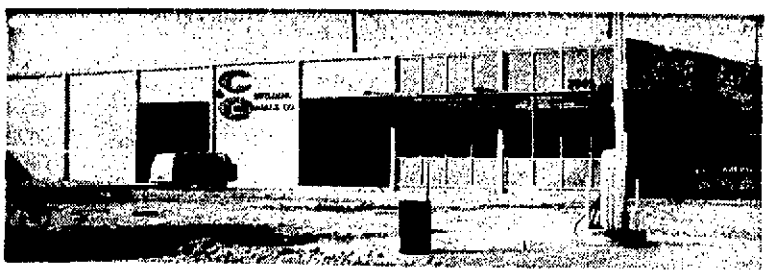

Remodeling of the lower level to improve the gift wares and children's departments.

Expanding the men's department on the main floor, and moving the boy's department from the lower level to the main floor.

Expanding the home furnishings department to include television, stereo and floor covering sales.

In resigning, Shuff said: "I have some regrets in leaving this good organization. I've enjoyed working with the people in my six years here, particularly the old line employes, some of whom have been here 20 years."

The Walker's store is in its 32nd year in Long Beach.

NEW PLANT

C&C Building Materials Co. has opened this new 20,000-square-foot plant at Maple and Columbia Streets, Torrance. Owners Jack Camp and Bill Comstock said warehouse space and offices, on 4½-acre site, were designed for quick handling of materials used by plastering, lathing, masonry, drywall, ceramic tile and partitioning contractors.

Girl Scout's Landing Plan to Bidders

Plans and specifications for the Girl Scout Marine Landing development have been approved by Long Beach officials and have been released to prospective bidders.

The building is to be erected at 5865 Appian Way on one acre of land-fill recently completed under the Marine Park Development in the Long Beach Marina.

ANTICIPATED construction cost of the building and landscaping is estimated at $51,000. Contracts are to be let this month.

The Girl Scout Marine Landing will adjoin the Sea-Explorer Scout Base property near the Davies Bridge, and will serve as a recreational-educational facility for the Girl Scout's boating water safety, swimming and canoeing programs.

Sales, Earnings Up

Sales and earnings of Harvey Aluminum Inc., and its subsidiares for the six-month period ended March 31, continued on an upward trend. Sales were $51,202,303, a gain of 37.1% over the previous year for the same period and net income of $3,986,025 was up 48%.

Big Investments Made in State

Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.'s assets invested in California reached $2.4 billion at the end of 1965, reported A. J. Miali, manager of the company's Lakewood office. The company's investments in corporate securities of firms doing business in California was more than $683 million and mortgage loans in the state were $1.4 billion.

Good Land Buyer Will Play Position, Also Consider Resale

(This is another in a series of timely articles prepared by the Property Research Corporation of Los Angeles.)

At the time you buy your land you may fully intend to keep it for the rest of your life. But the future is never entirely predictable. Some day, some change in circumstances may require you to put it on the market.

Whatever your plans for the land may be, you would be wise to pause before the purchase. It pays to play position.

When a pool player plays position he is thinking at least one move ahead, applying the proper "English" to his cue ball so that it will come to rest on a spot where it will be favorably situated for his next shot.

When a land buyer plays position he is thinking at resale before he buys, plans ahead to make the property attractive to a future purchaser. His foresight can pay great dividends.

* * * *

THIS "DETAIL" is one that few investors stop to consider thoroughly. Some may not realize how often the success of resale can be determined at the time of purchase.

An airline pilot was dismayed to discover the high cost of over-looking this detail. He bought an 80-acre ranch, delighted with terms that required him to pay only tax deductible interest for the first three years, before starting principal payments from the fourth year on.

Later, he tried to sell the land. Having the three years of benefits from interest-only payments, he was obliged to offer the next owner a schedule that started with full principal payments.

* * * *

THE PRICE he finally received for the ranch was considerably less than he might have received if he had been able to offer the tax advantage of some remaining years of interest payment.

The same year, a tax attorney bought 100 suburban acres in another area. He played position, spread his interest payments over a ten-year period, and offered an attractive investment to anyone who later bought the property.

The attorney also played position in two other ways.

He knew that land must be paid for in full before most lending agencies will finance building upon it. With one ordinary trust deed encumbering the 100 acres, a future buyer would find it difficult to build even a very small home until the entire parcel had been paid off.

* * * *

THE ATTORNEY'S solution: four separate trust deeds, with acreage release clauses.

Each trust deed covered approximately twenty-five acre parcels.

The acreage release clauses enable a future buyer to start construction on as little as a single acre, without being obligated to pay off the debt on the remaining ninety-nine.

When the attorney sought to dispose of the land, he found that he had created a seller's market for it. A great many buyers were interested in land with such flexible financing.

* * * *

ALTHOUGH there are many ways to add to a property's re-sale value, few are simpler than playing position by initially choosing the right kind of financing.

If you are able to estimate your own future situation, and analyze those of the other players in the game, and aim your shots accordingly, you will find that you will chalk up consistently higher scores.

Scores with dollar signs in front of them.

Brokerage Firms in Merger Operation

Under the new name of Bateman Eichler, Hill Richards, Inc., two of Los Angeles' oldest brokerage firms will commence their consolidated operations Monday as members of the New York, American (Assoc.) and Pacific Coast Stock Exchanges.

Long Beach investors will be served by the firm's local office at 100 Long Beach Blvd.

A Fighting Metal

Some 300,000 tons of aluminum is expected to be used for defense needs in 1966. The light metal will be used for everything from strong landing mats for jet aircraft to the 15-ton LARC-XV amphibian.

Form Credit Union Under EOP Set-Up

A credit union has been formed under the Economic Opportunity Program in the Long Beach area. To be known as the Peoples Credit Union, it was organized by T. E. Davis, economic opportunity development consultant of the California Credit Union League, Pomona.

Clyde Felton Ladd, 1235 E. 15th St., has been elected treasurer. Others elected to office include: Ebenezer Bush, 1625 Atlantic Ave., president; Everett Ricks Jr., 1200 E. Ocean Boulevard, vice president; and Laurence Jones, 3342 Bradbury Road, secretary.

This is a community credit union which has the potential of serving 5,000 families with an office at 1959 Orange Ave.

A community credit union is controlled by its members. These people agree to save their money together and to make loans to one another at low interest rates.

Appraisers' '66 Seminar Study Is Set

The 1966 seminar, sponsored by the officers and members of the Orange County Chapter, Society of Real Estate Appraisers, will be a study of "Investment Properties."

Planning this year's one-day seminar, to be held in October, are Burleigh O. Burshem, president; George H. Cormack, program chairman, and Joseph A. Mueller, past president of the chapter.

The study will be held at Wilbur Clark's Crest Hotel, Anaheim. Registrations are limited to 500, Burshem said.

GLASSY ROAD

This unusual avenue of heavy duty polished plate glass is an automobile tire-testing device at the General Motors Proving Grounds near Detroit. Tire action during tests is photographed by camera focused on reflections in mirror beneath surface of the glass. Libbey-Owens-Ford made the 2½-inch-thick "road" with laminated tempered plate glass.

Aeronutronic Opening New Anaheim Unit

Aeronutronic Division of Philco Corporation at Newport Beach will occupy production facilities at 1001 E. Ball Road in Anaheim Monday.

John B. Lawson, Philco vice president and general manager of Aeronutronic, said the 130,000-square-foot building is being leased from the John B. Kilroy Company, industrial developers.

The structure formerly was occupied by North American Aviation's Autonetics Division. North American operations and personnel have been moved to Autonetics' headquarters site in Anaheim.

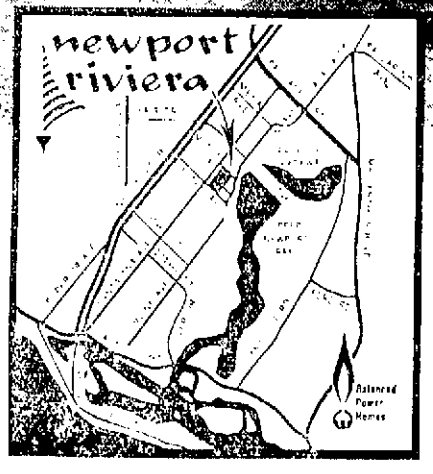

* * * *

LAWSON SAID production of M75 Army grenade launchers and barrels for the launchers will be the first work for Aeronutronic in Anaheim, under terms of a $2,077,676 contract received from the U. S. Army Weapons Command.

Big News for Patient Boaters: New Slips

By JACK O. BALDWIN

News that the city and port of Long Beach plan to build more than 3,000 small boat slips as part of a $100 million plan to develop Pier J should gladden the hearts of boat owners on the waiting list to rent a slip in the Long Beach Marina.

At present, the marina has a waiting list of more than 5,000 boat owners anxious to tie up their boats in the modern facility.

Officials now are calling owners of 20-foot boats who signed up two years ago.

Longest list, in terms of time, is the 25-foot class. Only now are officials calling applicants who signed up for a slip more than five years ago.

Waiting time for owners of boats of other lengths vary between two and five years.

Undoubtedly as the new slips on Pier J become available, many boat owners on the Long Beach Marina list will move over to Pier J—thus shortening the waiting list at the present marina.

House of Fabric to Open in Lakewood

COMPLETE HOME SEW CENTER . . . Open Monday

House of Fabrics, well known by women in the Long Beach area who like to sew, is expanding.

Monday, House of Fabrics has scheduled a grand opening for its new Lakewood Shopping Center store. Like the Los Altos unit, it will be a complete sewing center.

THE LAKEWOOD CENTER building, at 5240 Pepperwood Ave., was especially designed to adequately display the thousands of yards of new sports and dress fabrics, decorative pillows, bedspreads, ready-to-hang curtains and custom tailored draperies.

SMART PRINTS for summer wear, novelty fabrics for the teen-agers and little-iron cottons have arrived in time for the grand opening, according to Larry Genda, manager.

Hawaiian prints were imported with both the Lakewood and Los Altos stores in mind, Genda said, and both stores feature McCalls, Simplicity and Butterick patterns.

Brick Home 'Desirable' in Southland

Is brick a feasible building material for residences in Southern California?

A notable effort to prove it is not only feasible but desirable is currently under way in the Thousand Oaks area.

Pacific Clay Products and the Janss Corp. have joined with Arts & Architecture magazine to produce a unique Case Study House which is a veritable laboratory of ideas for residential use of brick.

Brick is seldom used as a basic structural material in Southern California homes. It can be, and has been, used decoratively—but in conjunction with basic wood frame residences.

* * * *

SOUTHERN California is almost unique among major urban regions in its paucity of brick homes. In most other areas—including the Northeast, Middle West, Texas, and Plains states, the brick home is commonplace—the frame home, the exception.

The Janss/Pacific Case Study Home introduces facebrick — meaning the hardest-baked, structural brick—in a variety of ways. The architects have utilized brick piers and walls as load bearing elements. They have even paved all the floors and outdoor living areas with brick.

As a result the home, though relatively modest in size, employs more than 85,000 bricks.

* * * *

THE DESIGN of the home involves two major segments—an active-living area in one wing, linked by galleries to a sleeping and rest area. In the middle of the home is a large patio with swimming pool.

This separation of areas permits a high degree of privacy in the home. Placement of the wings on the edges of the site also permits maximum use of the remaining space in the interior pool court.

The Case Study Home is due for completion this spring and will open to the public for six months on June 1.

Material Dealers to Gather at Tahoe

Clark recently served as chairman of the Los Angeles Chapter's Construction Specifications Institute and organized the Products Fair staged by the CSI Chapter.

IT'S A FACT

Living Collect More Insurance Than the Dead

Generally speaking, most persons feel that life insurance payments are made to a beneficiary when the insured persons dies. And, in the past that was relatively true.

Now it is a different story!

Prudential Insurance Co. reported it paid $216,900,000 on policies in California last year.

Of this, 78% — or about $168,300,000 — went to living policyholders. The balance went to beneficiaries.

New Hard-Hitting Plan Keeps Downtown Clean

Block wardens are back on the job.

The Downtown Long Beach Associates, in cooperation with the Building Owners and Managers Association, have put into operation a new hard-hitting plan to spruce up the downtown area and to keep it clean, according to Vito N. Romans, executive director of DLBA.

The plan involves a watchdog network of 18 businessmen—called block wardens—to police the 32-square-block area.

Using check list forms, they note conditions they may find—dirty store fronts, broken curbs, bad holes in alleys, leaking fire hydrants, weeds, trash and need of trash baskets.

* * * *

ROMANS SAID the plan went into effect quietly three months ago.

"Since the inception of this program, 50% of the improper conditions in the downtown area have been corrected," said Pat Potter, co-chairman of the "Keep Downtown Clean" committee.

Potter represents the Building Owners and Managers Association. His co-chairman, John Highstone, is a member of the DLBA.

Highstone said the committee designed a form letter which is sent to property owners and tenants asking for cooperation in the spruce-up campaign. He termed the response "a fine one."

Last week, an expert steam-cleaner worked in the downtown area at the request of cooperating merchants to clean dirty and gum smeared sidewalks.

* * * *

BOB KENNEDY, assistant director of public services for the city and a member of the watchdog committee, said the city flushes all downtown streets nightly.

DLBA members on the committee include Keith Morrow, Norm Federson, Earl Manning, Roy Weihe, Fonda McCook, Perry Maxson, Lane Raines, Henry Powell, Highstone, Bart Smith and J. C. Foster.

BOMA members on the committee include Potter, Travis Montgomery, Harold Tracy, Dale Caudill, F. Clyde Smith and George Cubbison.

Dominguez Water to Pay New Dividend

The board of directors of Dominguez Water Corporation, 21718 S. Alameda St., Long Beach, have declared a quarterly dividend of 15 cents a share on the 266,241 outstanding shares of common stock.

The dividend is payable June 15 to shareholders of record as of May 27. This represents a 20% increase over the past two quarters and a 50% increase over the 10-cent quarterly dividend of last June 15.

FRENCH CAR SALES

Gaullist Economic Policies Blamed for U.S. Dealer Woes

By LARRY LYNCH

A little war being waged over wholesaling of French-made Peugeot cars may cost a Long Beach-based distributor his business — for reasons, he thinks, of Gaullist economic policy.

Joseph E. Anzelon, president of Autowest, Inc., at 1933 E. 223rd St., says the only good reason he knows that Peugeot has terminated his distributorship is:

"The French government is urging its major industries to take control of foreign distribution to help ease the burden of an unfavorable balance of payments."

* * * *

THIS ASSERTION is scoffed at by the French company which claims its "dissatisfaction" with Autowest stemmed from "the declining sales of Peugeots in the West Coast area; the reduction in the number of Peugeot dealers in that area since October, 1964, and Autowest's unsatisfactory management of inventory matters in relation to sales planning."

There's no doubt, however, that French auto makers are trying to increase their penetration of the U.S. market.

* * * *

PIERRE DREYFUS, president of Renault—the government owned company that is France's largest car maker — has warned U.S. automakers to expect increased competition.

"If, in line with the growing liberatization of international trade which Renault has backed strongly for many years, the European auto manufacturers increase overall exports and try for a larger share of the United States market, I hope it will not elicit any concern here," Dreyfus said recently in New York.

JOSEPH E. ANZELON . . . Concerned

A day later, an Associated Press story out of France noted that President de Gaulle's government is determined to keep France from becoming an economic colony of the U.S.

* * * *

FRENCH AUTO industry spokesmen say this doesn't mean they're trying to control all U.S. distribution. Of course it could be that Autowest's admitted cut back in dealers didn't coincide with the French company's aim for a bigger market.

And yet, says Anzelon, all these developments were so coincidentally timed with our business difficulties that it is impossible not to draw an inference.

Until February, Anzelon's company had distributed Renault and Peugoet cars throughout nine Western states.

* * * *

ON FEB. 14, Renault repurchased its franchise, a day later, Peugeot, Inc. suddenly terminated the second franchise, offering only to buy back Autowest's supply of Peugeot parts.

"We had invested over $400,000 in order to take on Peugeot," says Anzelon.

At termination of its franchise, Autowest was supplying 29 dealers, 10 in Southern California, with Peugeots.

"Sales in our territory were about 600 cars a year out of 2,500 Peugeots sold in the U.S. This year we anticipated just about doubling that," says the Autowest president.

WEST COAST BUILDER SAYS:

Prospects Want Quiet Homes

The homeowner or prospective buyer who feels he has had all the noise he can tolerate has a chance to see what quiet living would be like in a house constructed by the Osmundsen Co., near Oakland.

Situated at 333 Del Amigo Road in Parkhaven between Danville and Alamo, the 2,210 square foot house is constructed to meet specifications resulting from research by builders all over the United States.

According to John Osmundsen, president of the firm, the house is the first in California to meet the quiet home standards of Insulation Board Institute.

* * * *

WALLS OF the kitchen, family room and family bathroom, which are next to other living areas, have sound controlling qualities which make it even difficult to hear loud speech in the next room.

Anti-noise features in the house added about $1,000 to the cost, according to Osmundsen.

He says the success of sound conditioning the home marks the newest breakthrough in home building since air conditioning and a myriad of appliances were included in new houses and that those who have been through the model have been very enthusiastic. Osmundsen says he will sound condition other units he is planning.

A ROUND TABLE sponsored by House and Home Magazine earlier last year attracted 40 builders who pooled their knowledge on sound conditioning houses.

It was generally agreed that when sound conditioning was included on a regular basis it should cost about 2% of the total cost of the house.

The builders agreed that adequate supervision is essential to assure that the acoustical treatment is applied properly.

They pointed out that some noises, those from appliances, for example, can be quieted at the source. However, noise from speech and other activity cannot be controlled at the source and the solution here is to prevent its transmission according to Osmundsen.

* * * *

DEVICES used to accomplish this included:

Elimination of hidden noise paths through ducts, electrical outlets and other such facilities.

Use of staggered and double studs with insulation in some areas.

Utilization of acoustical material on ceilings in all rooms.

Substitution of fiberous glass duct work for metal to reduce noise from heating and cooling units and use of cushioning between plumbing pipes.

Lining of the washer-dryer closet to reduce the noise level.

Positioning of the range fan in the attic to reduce noise.

San Joaquin Crude Flows

Flow of crude oil from the San Joaquin Valley to the Mobil Oil Co. refinery in Torrance will be increased by 10,000 barrels per day, it was announced by the west coast pipeline manager for Mobil, John S. Black.

The present pipeline's capacity will be increased from 32,000 to 42,000 barrels daily just by modernizing three existing pumping stations, completely rebuilding three others and adding four new stations to the system. The expansion program will not require installation of new pipe.

* * * *

SAN JOAQUIN'S line stretches 155 miles from the Sunset-Midway oil field near Taft to the Torrance refinery. The line's diameter varies between 8 inches and 16 inches.

In the expansion program, plans call for installation of complete automation of the pumping stations to enable the line to be remotely controlled from Torrance.

* * * *

PUMP STATIONS to be rebuilt are at Lebec, Grapevine and Rose. Stations to be modernized are at Belridge, Midway and Emidio. Sites for the proposed new stations were not announced.

Mobil's increased crude production in the San Joaquin Valley, principally from thermal secondary recovery techniques, necessitates expansion of the line, company officials said.

Built prior to World War I, the line was the first to bring San Joaquin crude to the local refinery area.

Room to grow...

A boy needs room to grow and dream, to lie on his back and watch the clouds go by. A boy grows stronger, taller, more self reliant in a world outdoors.

The flight of a bird, the scampering of a rabbit, these are the delights of growing up in the country that only a boy and his dog can know.

At Corona del Vista a boy's playground is as big as all outdoors.

Here are miles of winding, secluded trails to explore and conquer. And lots of trees to climb. The air is clean and cool.

At Corona del Vista the great Cleveland National Forest rises behind a boy. And in front of him is the panorama of the majestic snow-capped San Gabriel Mountains. His world stretches to the horizons.

New Way of Living in Newport Riviera

POOLSIDE VIEW OF TOWNHOUSE MANORS . . . In Newport Back Bay District

Newport Riviera Townhouse Manors offer an entirely new and lavish design for living in Orange County.

Situated in the exclusive Newport Back Bay district, just off Tustin Avenue, the large townhouses contain up to 1,850 square feet of living area and may be either purchased or leased under the unique new plan now being offered. Leases start at $250 per month on a yearly basis.

The $225,000 recreational facility of Newport Riviera covers almost three acres and includes a king-size swimming pool and completely equipped deck area, dressing rooms, outdoor facilities, recreation pavilion with a kitchen for parties, dances and meetings; billiard and card room; arts and crafts room; photo laboratory; lounge; Teen Center; children's playground and a putting green. The entire complex surrounds a serene inner courtyard with lighted fountain and lounging furniture.

• • • •

THE ONE AND two-story; two, three and four-bedroom; two and three-bath manors of Newport Riviera have a den and/or family room; nylon carpeting; drapes; attached two car garages; private patios; and many other outstanding features.

New models, completely furnished, are open from 10 a.m. daily. From the Long Beach area: Take Coast Highway south to Dover Drive in Newport Beach. Turn inland on Dover to 17th; then 17th to Irvine Blvd. Turn right on Irvine (which becomes Tustin Avenue) to Newport Riviera, between Santa Isabel and Monte Vista Avenues on Tustin Avenue above Newport Back Bay.

Chancellor Home Units in Demand

Dick Dunn, president of Dick Dunn Development Co. and builder of the Chancellor Homes in University Park, new campus town adjacent to UCI, stated at the firm's weekly management meeting that: "We're already selling homes in the third unit of Chancellor Homes. Units I and II are completely sold with many buyers occupying their new homes. Two new models are attracting attention from larger families."

Added to the scene this weekend are two attractive minibuses which, chauffeured by Chancellor sales representatives, will transport interested families throughout the development and will demonstrate the surrounding 38 acres of common greens.

The recreation pavilion, swimming pool and tennis courts have reached completion and are now in use by residents.

• • • •

THE BUYERS of Chancellor single-family homes with individual fenced lots also share use of these spacious greens which will be maintained in a permanent rural atmosphere. Separate tot lots have been set aside for small children.

Attractive financing is still available even with the recent changes in the money market, Dunn emphasized.

Ranging from $25,700, there are both one and two-story homes and from two to five bedrooms.

Visitors to Chancellor Homes take Pacific Coast Hwy. (101) to MacArthur Blvd. in Corona del Mar, then east to University Drive, right past UCI campus to Culver Drive, then left beyond Rancho San Joaquin public golf course to Chancellor models.

Mayor of Anaheim Sees Home Project

Mayor Fred T. Krein of Anaheim visited the 39-acre site on Brookhurst Ave. between Ball Road and Cerritos Road in Anaheim where the S.I.R. Development Co. is building 160 Craftsmen Homes valued at more than $6 million.

Present were Irving Solomon and his son, Robert, principal owners of the development firm.

"We were pleased with the reception of Mayor Krein," said Irving Solomon. "He expressed his appreciation for our endeavors to establish Brookhurst, a community of outstanding homes, in his area now considered the heart of recreation in the United States with both Disneyland and the California Angels making Anaheim their home."

• • • •

SOLOMON said S.I.R. Development Co. will construct 150 homes in the first increment of construction, with five models to be completed in 60 days. He said the home-buying public now has an opportunity to make custom changes in the homes if they purchase while the work is in progress.

He said the homes, averaging 2,250 sq. ft., will sell from $35,450 to $39,450 in one of Orange County's most thriving locations.

Irving Solomon said his homes, designed by architect Robert L. Barnett, AIA, are of California design, with indoor-outdoor planning as a principal design characteristic.

Free Lectures on Investing Rescheduled

Repeat of the series of lectures on "How to Invest," sponsored in March by Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curtis, Long Beach member of the New York Stock Exchange, has been announced.

Thomas Fagan, resident manager, said overflow audiences during the initial series prompted the repeat scheduling for this month.

The free lecture series will be given at the firm's offices, 201 E. Fourth St., from 7:30 p.m. to 9 p.m. each Tuesday, beginning this week. Reservations must be made in advance, Fagan said.

Principal speaker for the series is Don Bretting, PWJ&C representative.

Refrigerated Air Conditioning in Big Tanglewood Townhomes

Tanglewood Townhomes have been acclaimed as the first and only residential units in the under-$20,000 price range to offer central refrigerated 'Totalhome' air-conditioning, according to Cecil Bishop, sales manager for the $29 million Cypress residential community.

"Prospective homebuyers who have visited our townhomes are both impressed and amazed when they see the wall thermostats in our model homes, and to see that we are able to offer the very latest 'Totalhome' air-conditioning in homes priced from $16,950.

• • • •

"THE SYSTEM, which has been developed for us by General Electric, not only cools the home in summer, but heats it in winter, as well. Of course, an important plus value with a system such as this is that it adds to the resale value of the home."

Tanglewood Townhomes are available on FHA, VA or conventional financing plans. Special no-money-down terms are now offered to cold-war veterans.

Both one and two-story models are offered in a choice of six different floor plans and 27 exterior stylings. They range in size from two bedrooms with one bath to four bedrooms with 2½ baths.

• • • •

INCLUDED in the Tanglewood development is a junior Olympic swimming pool, separate wading pools for tots, a clubhouse with cardrooms and kitchens, as well as a fully-equipped children's playground. The community is master-planned so that the buyer may select a townhome facing the recreational area or one a short distance away if he so desires.

The Gold Medallion has been awarded to each of these total electric homes, which feature General Electric appliances throughout, including air-conditioning, forced air heating, built-in ranges and ovens, automatic dishwashers, disposals, and electric water heating.

Tanglewood may be reached from the Long Beach area by taking Spring Street (which becomes Cerritos) to Bloomfield. From the San Diego Freeway, Tanglewood is accessible from the Los Alamitos turnoff north to Wardlow, then right.

N-LM Realtors to Hear Philip Watson

"Where is the Property Tax Going?" will be the question discussed Tuesday by County Assessor Philip E. Watson of Los Angeles County before members of the Norwalk-La Mirada Board of Realtors.

The 8 a.m. breakfast meeting will be held at the Masonic Hall, Norwalk, program chairman Wayne Grisham said.

Custom Completion Plan Offered Buyer

According to Suburbia Park salesmen, the furnished model homes at the beach-close homesite are delighting hundreds of female homeseekers visiting the model area weekly. Many of the visitors are said to have commented that together, the model area and homes themselves are among the most beautiful ever presented in the Orange County area. The furnished models are on Brookhurst Street, just south of Adams Boulevard in Huntington Beach. It is expected that for the next two weekends including Mother's Day, the ladies will be out in force.

Salesmen report continued enthusiastic reactions to the custom completion plan being offered.

• • • •

JUST A minute from the beach, this collection of one and two-story and tri-level homes offers a unique "custom completion" plan to buyers. This exclusive Suburbia plan allows early buyers to individualize their homes. They simply tell the builders how they want things done and the homes are tailored to fit their needs.

Offered at the Huntington Beach homesite are large four and five-bedroom homes. Included are two and three-bath plans with family room, formal dining rooms, breakfast rooms and separate utility rooms.

Food Service Award to King's Victoria

Institutions, a magazine dealing with mass feeding and mass housing, has notified the owners of King's Victoria Restaurant, 6075 Long Beach Boulevard, that it has been selected to receive a Food Service Award for 1966.

Representatives of this and other winning establishments have been invited to gather in Chicago May 23 to receive plaques, according to Don G. Due, awards director.

Commodity Expert to Talk at Anaheim

It takes a special type of investor to be successful in commodity markets, according to national authority Stephen Greenberg, who will conduct a special commodity symposium to be sponsored Monday by Walston & Co., Inc. at the Disneyland Hotel.

Greenberg, board member and past chairman of the Chicago Mercantile Exchange, will outline investment opportunities and procedures at 8 p.m. in the hotel's Magnolia Room B. The public is invited to attend at no charge.

Spacious Five Bedroom Homes in Bellflower Eastridge Draw

DELUXE FIVE-BEDROOM HOME . . . Offered in Bellflower

"Families looking for room to grow have been our best customers," claims Sales Director John Joyce of Ray Watt's Bellflower Eastridge. "And because of this, there are only a few deluxe five-bedroom homes still available.

"Large families find the spacious five bedroom Glenhaven, Sandhurst or Mount Vernon tri-level models exceptionally convenient for individual privacy."

Bellflower Eastridge tri-level homes feature wall-to-wall 100% continuous filament carpeting, balanced power kitchens with O'Keefe & Merritt range and oven, automatic dishwasher and food waste disposer.

* * * *

THE LUXURY homes are priced as low as $35,000 with convenient terms available. No cash is required to move into Bellflower Eastridge — a trade-in of the present home is sufficient," remarks Joyce.

Bellflower Eastridge is centrally located to beaches, mountain recreational areas, and other entertainment centers in the Southland.

Models are located at Hacienda and Grand Avenues, just two blocks north and east of Cesta Street. The models are open daily from 10 a.m. until dark.

Park South Home Location Appeals

Fireplaces, utility and bonus rooms are but a few of the special features increasing sales at Park South homes, the new community conveniently located near the junction of the Harbor and San Diego freeways. The bonus room, which can be finished for use as an upstairs bedroom, den, rumpus room or studio appeals to everyone because of its many uses.

Reed Clark, in charge of sales at Park South, also attributes the brisk business to the various floor plans and exteriors offered, all designed for comfortable, gracious and economical living.

Other features include spacious walk-in closets, all-electric kitchens with complete built-ins, dishwasher, shake roofs and quality-crafted wooden shutters.

Many designs are still available, suited to either the all-adult family or the family with small children. Full prices are $24,500 and $25,500.

Park South homes are on Victoria Street just off the San Diego Freeway.

Recreation Time for Owners of Town Houses

"Summer fun is not a hit-or-miss item with the residents of The Manor Town Houses," states Don Jensen sales director of the condominium community.

With the chores of yard-work and maintenance alevlated, residents of the development enthusiastically participate in the planned-recreational - facilities of the development, he reported, Featured among the many "fun centers" at the Manor is the Olympic-size heated swimming pool with a children's wading pool, championship tennis and basketball courts, Pop Warner football field, Little League baseball fields, completely enclosed and equipped playgrounds, picnic areas, and the huge $150,000 Town Hall and clubhouse.

* * * *

EACH OF THE FACILITIES is jointly owned by the residents of The Manor and maintained for them by professionals under a low monthly maintenance fee which is levied by the community's elected board of governors.

Manor Town Houses, located in Norwalk, is Ray Watt's $7,000,000 pioneer condominium in Southern California. The homes feature three, four and five bedrooms, all with two baths.

Prices of the luxurious homes start at $18,500 with financing available.

Model homes and recreational facilities can be seen on Bloomfield Avenue, just south of Imperial Highway, one-mile north of the Santa Ana Freeway.

The Vice President of the Bellflower National Bank, Jacob Van der Molen, bought a home at Ray Watt's BELLFLOWER EASTRIDGE

"I've been a banker nearly all my life," says Jacob Van der Molen, one of Bellflower's leading citizens. As real estate lending officer of Bellflower's own bank, Mr. Van der Molen knows a home value when he sees one. "Bellflower Eastridge meets the standards I look for in a home."

Location: "Bellflower Eastridge is convenient to all our city's schools, churches and shopping centers, yet you live in a setting of privacy and seclusion.

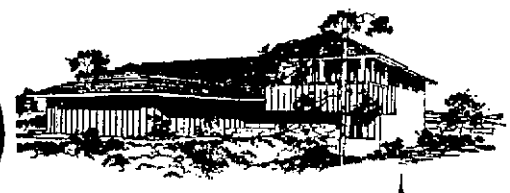

Value: "Square foot for square foot, Bellflower Eastridge gives you a lot of home for your money. Bellflower Eastridge is an exceptionally fine home value."

Investment: "As a resident of Bellflower since 1947 I know the history of land appreciation here. Bellflower Eastridge is a wise investment for tomorrow."

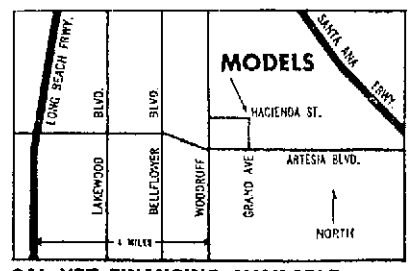

That's the opinion of an expert. Why not apply your own principal to Bellflower Eastridge. It's like money in the bank.

Offer Corona Prestige Homes at Prices as Low as $16,750

"We believe that the entire area surrounding Riverside County's second largest city — Corona — will be the center of the next big boom in Southern California real estate values," states Corona del Vista sales director, Oran de Bois.

"Land values have already risen appreciably since our community opened, and we're certain that in the next few years Corona and Riverside County will experience the same phenomenal growth as Orange County did.

"Corona del Vista, Ray Watt's deluxe community on the western edge of Corona, is already one of the area's finest investments," de Bois notes. "And just from an investment standpoint we feel that we have one of the finest dollar values in town."

* * * *

OFFERED prospective home buyers is prestige living at prices which are still remarkably low. Starting at just $16,750 the three and four bedroom homes contain up to 1445 square feet. Lot sizes range from 7200 square feet to 7800 square feet. Every home is filled with the finest in features, the spokesman said.

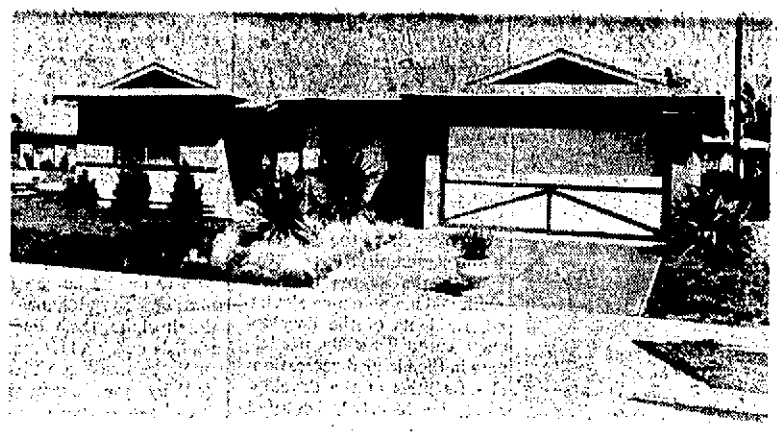

"We are one of the few developments in the area to offer wall-to-wall 100% continuous filament nylon carpeting throughout our homes," de Bois notes. "Forced air heating is another feature and every deluxe kitchen is complete with an O'Keefe & Merritt gas range and oven, waste food disposer, large double sinks, and stained natural ash cabinets.

"Anyone interested in real estate values should check Corona del Vista," de Bois added. "We invite comparison at our prestige development."

To see the homes take the Riverside Freeway, 15 miles east of the Newport Freeway to the first Corona turnoff. The models, open daily, are located at Sixth Street and Avenida del Vista.

Seabury Homes Stage Preview This Weekend

Seabury Homes, a development of Security Fore Corp., will stage a preview opening this week for its project at Caroltown and Cannery Avenues in Huntington Beach.

The single-family residences of three and four bedrooms have four floor plans and 24 different exterior stylings, according to Dorothy Baldino, sales manager.

Mrs. Baldino said Paul R. and Nanja Williams of Costa Mesa will handle the interior design decors of the four models. William Foster and Associates of Newport Beach was in charge of the exterior stylings.

Seabury Homes will sell from $24,250 to $26,250 with a down payment of $395.

Mrs. Baldino said the homes will feature front-yard landscaping, sprinkler systems, concrete driveways and fenced rear yards. She said fireplace designs are designed to dramatize the living rooms, and the kitchens have patio windows which provide access to a serving bar for patio entertainment.

Seabury Homes are reached either from Brookhurst Avenue via the Santa Ana, San Diego and Garden Grove Freeways, right on Atlanta Avenue and then right on Cannery Avenue to the models.

Front 'n Center

PHIL PELKEY
. . . cast in tall man role.

New York theater has come to town. As a result, one of the zippiest, zaniest, laugh-filled revues of many a season will "hit the boards" in Long Beach Friday and Saturday. Broadway arrived in the form of personable Charles Crain, director for Jerome H. Cargill Productions of New York, nationally famed for producing top-notch revues using local talent. Crain is now rehearsing a cast to present "Front 'n Center" as a benefit for Jewish Community Center. It will be staged at Millikan High Auditorium May 6, 7 at 8:30 p.m. each night. The musical is pre-outlined by the agency and a total of 150 are rehearsing for on stage or backstage roles. Comedy acts, character singing and fanciful dance routines are featured.

Mrs. Stanley Solomon, general chairman, announces proceeds will help purchase stage equipment for the center's new Nathan Schulman auditorium, now under construction at the center. The auditorium will be available for use by the community at large for meetings, banquets or conventions.

Mrs. Sydney Willner, angel and patron ticket chairman, has choice seats available for both performances. Mrs. Richard Beaver, general ticket chairman, has a few blocks of seats left for those wishing to organize theater parties. Tickets may be purchased now at Long Beach Community Center, 2601 Grand Ave., or at Millikan High on production nights.

"Never underestimate the dash and verve of amateur performers," said Crain. "Whether they are 16 or 85, they can sparkle like pros in roles suited to their particular talents."

DARK AGES: Knights to celebrate

Merrye crewe of Children's Dental Foundation ordinarily is a forward looking group. But it will revert to an era 10 centuries old for its dinner dance Saturday in Virginia Country Club. Under the theme, "Night in Camelot," trumpets will herald a 7:30 p.m. cocktail gathering of friars, squires, lords and fair ladyes. Dress will be black tie or dark ages. Swords will be unsheaved and armour checked at the door —providing no dragons make the scene. Hearty food, heady drink and a lusty Round Table Revue should enlighten any who thought the Middle Ages were so dark. Mrs. William Todd, chairman, states proceeds will help defray operating expenses of Children's Dental Health Center.

Surprise (that wasn't) created a hurricane

By IOLA MASTERSON
I, P-T Society Editor

Working on flowers for Virginia Country Club's Niner's May tourney for women, in picture right, are Kay Roggeveen, Lillian Maggart, Marcia Ellis and Eldred Brickey.

FAR RIGHT
There were some surprises in un-surprise party for planner Judy Schulthies (left), honorees Jay and Sharon Babrowski.

IT WAS described as a domestic hurricane when proud new homeowners Jay and Sharon Babrowski got wind that they were to be given a housewarming, supposedly a surprise. Event was masterminded by Sharon's cousin and her husband, Judy and Gary Schulthies.

Far from settled in new manse when news leaked out, the "surprisees" yelled help to their respective parents, John and Pat Babrowski and Reed and Maxine Christensen, who dropped everything to help paint, paper, hang pictures, curtains and get the yard in shape. What the honorees didn't know was that a small army of relatives and friends had been invited, 60 to be exact, and that those arriving at their Senasac Avenue home came prepared not only to housewarm but also to fete Sharon on her 24th birthday.

Gifts? Well, it's a good thing they WERE forewarned in time to get everything shipshape because it'll take 'em a spell to find just the right place for all the extra new, new things.

IT WILL be as gorgeous to look inward as outward at Virginia Country Club Monday—and that's something considering the club's cool, lush vistas of golf course. The club will be a mass of blooms when some 80 women golfers get together for a May Flower Tournament and luncheon, being hosted by the Niners, those who play nine holes of golf for the Eighteeners, those who have graduated a full 18 holes per game.

Eldred (Mrs. Vernon) Bricky, chairman of the Niners, is being assisted by Kay (Mrs. John) Roggeveen, Lillian (Mrs. Harold) Maggart, Inez (Mrs. D. E.) Thompson, who is tourney chairman, and Marcia (Mrs. "Ty") Ellis, in charge of prizes. The prizes will be very gay and the surprises—well, very surprising.

Serious men golfers of the club will probably avoid the course during the morning. But bon vivant girl-watcher types couldn't choose a better day to amble out for a little practice session. Oooh la la—fore!

THIS SEEMS to be golf bulletin day. Here's the scoop on the Seventh Annual Loyal Pulley Invitational Tournament, which once again was attended avidly by attorneys and their wives at Gilman Hot Springs.

Champion (again) was Sterling Clayton with a low gross of 73. Last year's winner, Howard Shelton, was second with a 76. Low net champ was Blaine Simons with a 64; Clayton was runner-up in this category with a 65. Women's low gross queen of the greens was Penny (Mrs. Henry) Shriver and women low net champ, also second low gross, was Jeanice (Mrs. James) Carroll. In the best of ball tourney, Bill Kinley and Dan Farnham were, as sports writers like to put it, not to be denied.

Big surprise was the first hole-in-one in tourney history. It was made by Sterling on the eighth hole. He used a two iron for the 195-yard blast to sink the pelota right in the middle of the cup! His only prize was the cheering of his "gallery." Under the circumstances, hole-in-oners are supposed to buy drinks for the house. Because they didn't have a prize for his feat, "Canny Clayt" (there were 72 at the tourney) stood on his constitutional rights and refused. No tickee, no washee: No prizee, no drinkee.

IN A quiet little ceremony in Wayfarers' Chapel Friday night, Bill Winston and Elaine Wilson were married with "just family" present. The honeymooners are at Mammoth for this week; will be at home in San Pedro after next Saturday. This past week Bill and Elaine were feted at a champagne buffet by his sisters and brothers-in-law, Lorraine and Harry Fulton and Willa and Dean Gilmore at the Fultons.

NEVER A dull moment for Dr. Les and Lois Watson during a trip to Ecuador. They went to Quito (Lois to spend five weeks, three for Les) to visit daughter, "Lolly," there to study at the university on a Fulbright scholarship. A grad of U. of Oregon and a language major, Lolly went in September. In August she'll return to study on a just-granted fellowship at the School of Advanced International Studies, John Hopkins University, Washington, D. C.

While Les and Lois were in Quito (this is where the never-a-dull-moment comes in) they were in a revolution, a new president was installed and there was a major transit strike. There wasn't any public transportation and the strikers threatened to (and did) shoot the tires of any private autos being used. So they just walked and walked, mingling with the people.

Lois said no one seemed very excited or upset, except the students. Students getting excited, putting on demonstrations, is so commonplace all over the world, who's to notice much any more.

IT WOULD be an understatement to call it a party. It was a soiree-with-a-swish when Dr. Theodore and Mrs. Strang (professionally she is Dr. Pearl Sampson, MD) and their daughter and son-in-law, Annette and Warren Wally, entertained at the Strangs' home.

Both accomplished musicians, Annette sang and Warren played an original piano composition. Guest Elfie Hummell, PhD, (a member of the Hummell figurine family from Vienna) told of experiences with two other women as they hitchhiked through India and the Orient for a year and a half. It was during a two-and-one-half year tour of the world, Ragu, a student from India taking his masters at LBSC and teaching there, enchanted listeners as he played an ancient flute plus an exotic instrument from India, too complicated for me to spell.

Among guests enjoying the exceptional affair were Dr. Harry and Bonnie Orme, Dr. and Mrs. Gerhard Kohn, Ann-Maria Burchard, Maureen Drown, Cleia Darby, Dr. Herbert and Geneva Judson, Priscilla Furjanick, Barbara Rauch and Dr. and Mrs. Charles Morrell to name a few who came from near and far.

I WILL graciously accept any thank-you Clara Andrews cares to toss my way. Here's why. I had an invitation to attend the Downtown Long Beach Associates special cocktail party for city officials, DLBA wheels, which I had accepted. But what with work stacked up, duty before pleasure and all that, I didn't go. Result: Clara, that charmer with the snapping animated eyes, was the only woman present in the all-male crowd.

Telling me about the fun, she tried to mollify me (silly gal) by saying that, after discovering she was only femme present, she'd planned to leave until assured yours truly was coming, too. Hah! Anyway, she had a gay time with such gentlemen present as "Bud" Young, Capt. Bill Kummer, Darrell Neighbors, Bob Irvin, Sam Roberts, Gus Lueking, Sterling Bemis et al.

A Smooth Neck

For sheer loveliness in womanhood there is little to equal a beautiful, well-cared-for neck. If your neck is short, help to lengthen it with off-the-shoulder hair styles, elevated hats and low 'v' necklines. To keep the skin clear and milky, condition, tone and cleanse with Lemon Jelvyn and soften and protect against wrinkle-dryness with oil of Olay. This will give the skin that becoming dewy look and check dry skin.

MRS. JEFFERY MAYLAND PAIGE

Miss Ericksen weds J. M. Paige

A garden reception at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Sheldon D. Ericksen, 1850 College Place, followed the marriage of their daughter, Karen Elaine Edna, to Jeffery Mayland Paige Saturday afternoon.

For the wedding, held in the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints, the bride wore a gown of ivory peau de soie covered with imported English lace and pearls.

VIRGINIA Bohannon was maid of honor and James Potter was best man. Wendy Weir and Sandra Saunders, Stephen E. Ericksen and Alfred Knight completed the entourage.

Following the reception, the bride and groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Paige of Providence, R. I., departed for a Eureopean honeymoon. They will reside in Ann Arbor, Mich., after Aug. 25.

The bride's father is chairman of the department of geography at Long Beach State College.

ON NEW YORK HONEYMOON

MRS. ROBERT M. DONNELLY

Carol Ann Stack, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Gerald A. Stack of Downey, and Robert Michael Donnelly, son of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Donnelly, 1331 Junipero St., recited nuptial vows Saturday noon at St. Raymond's Catholic Church, Downey.

Following the reception, held in the garden of the Stack home, the newlyweds departed for New York where the groom, an RCA recording artist, will complete a three-week night club engagement.

The bride wore a gown of Mogochelle linen trimmed with Swiss organdy and Venetian lace in a daisy pattern.

JANET R. Hicks was maid of honor and Danial Crooks was best man.

Other members of the wedding party were Sara and Susan Donnelly, twin sisters of the groom; Judy Stack, cousin of the bride; Donna Danzer, Jennifer Palajac, and Elizabeth Kossler; Patrick Donnelly, twin brother of the groom, Gerald Stack, brother of the bride; William Stack Jr., cousin of the bride, Robert Simpkins, Otis Fuller, and Tony Ortega.

Kathy Pierce and William Palajac were flower girl and ring bearer.

The new Mrs. Donnelly was graduated from Pius X High School in Downey and attended Long Beach City College. She received her CSR degree from the Long Beach Stenotype School and is now a court reporter in Los Angeles.

Her husband, a graduate of St. Anthony's High School, graduated from LBCC and attended Long Beach State College.

MRS. DONALD KALANICK

MRS. FRANK L. MORGAN

Kalanick-Veth

During a ceremony Saturday in North Beach Christain Church, Eileena Maria Veth became the bride of Donald Edward Kalanick.

Among the 200 guests witnessing the 8 p.m. rite were parents of the couple, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Zaffke, 5241 Orange Ave., and Mr. and Mrs. Michael Kalanick, Los Angeles.

For her wedding, the bride selected a gown of rosepoint lace styled with a tiered skirt which cascaded into a chapel-length train.

Preceding her to the altar were Mrs. Donald Williams, matron of honor; Mrs. Andrew Grazier and Sandra Encinas, bridesmaids.

Burt Fielden was best man. Ushers were Charles Heath, Allen Allman, Enrique Calderon and George Encinas.

Following a church reception, the newlyweds departed on a trip to Las Vegas and San Francisco. They will reside in Glendale.

Morgan-Ostrum

Two hundred guests were bidden to witness the 8 p.m. marriage Friday in Community Presbyterian Church of Frank L. Morgan and Sharon Beth Ostrum.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell D. Ostrum, 1904 Poinsettia St., wore an empire sheath gown of chantilly lace over peau de soie.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Joe Wolff, the bride's sister. Other attendants were Mrs. William Goodwin, Miss Patricia McDaniel and Miss Joan Mitchell.

The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank F. Morgan, 346 W. 17th St., asked his brother, Robert Morgan, to serve as best man. Ushers were William Goodwin, Ronald Mabery and Frank McCollum. Laura Ann Wolff and Mark Wolff, niece and nephew of the bride, were flower girl and ring bearer.

The just-weds both are graduates of Long Beach high schools. The bride subsequently graduated from Long Beach City College.

Following a church reception, the couple departed for Desert Hot Springs. They will reside in Long Beach.

Stanford, Merchant troth told

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh W. Sanford, Austin, Minn., announce the engagement of their daughter, Georgia Mae, to John Windon Merchant.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis O. Merchant, Long Beach, are parents of the future bridegroom.

Miss Sanford is an alumna of University of Minnesota where she affiliated with Gamma Phi Beta Sorority.

Her fiance was graduated from University of Arizona at Tucson and was a member of Sigma Nu Fraternity.

An Aug. 6 wedding is planned.

SHE'S HANDY AT HAND SHAKING
. . . Mrs. A. L. Ehrreich (left), Dr. Virginia Ringer chat with Mrs. Lloyd Hand.

POLITICO'S WIFE LIKES CAMPAIGNING

She's an expert at protocol

By PAT McDONNELL
I, P-T Staff Writer

If her husband is elected to the second highest office in California next November, one thing Mrs. Lloyd Hand won't have to do is bone up on etiquette.

When it comes to conduct, her handsome husband was the ultimate authority until resigning one month ago as United States Chief of Protocol.

He stepped down from the post March 22 in order to run in the June 7 primary as candidate for lieutenant governor of the Democratic ticket.

The Hands were in Long Beach as guests of honor at a reception in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Ringer.

Unabated by a lengthy tv interview recorded by cameras in the patio of the Ringer home, Mrs. Hand enthusiastically shook hands with a dozen new arrivals.

A longtime friend of the President and First Lady, the Houston-born beauty readily answered a query about the much-publicized Lynda Bird Johnson-George Hamilton romance.

"We chatted with Lynda and George last week at the Academy Awards dinner," she said.

"I don't think it's a serious romance, but I feel that George has been a good influence.

"He's showing Lynda the time of her life. I've known her since she was 10 years old, and she's a more conservative girl than Luci. Lynda never spread her wings until now.

Since their March 18 arrival in California, the Hands have made their home in Santa Monica with children: Cathy, 13; Lloyd, (Chip), 12; Susan, 10; Bridget, 8; and Thomas Lyndon (Corky) 5.

A SOUTHERN PATOIS adds a lilt to the speech of Mrs. Hand, who met her husband on the University of Texas campus.

"I only went to college for six months," she explained.

"I met Lloyd the first day of my freshman year. He was student body president. We were married six months later in 1952."

After serving in the U.S. Navy and finishing law studies at TU, Hand joined the staff of then-Senator Lyndon B. Johnson. He was LBJ's aide until March, 1961, when he took residence in California.

Until December, 1962, he was vice president of Pierce National Life Insurance Co., in Los Angeles, when President Johnson asked him to serve as his personal ambassador and chief of protocol.

As the President's key liaison with official representatives of 115 nations, Hand and his wife were responsible for piloting potentates about Washington, D.C. and calling on behalf of the President on foreign heads of state.

DOES MRS. HAND miss the glamor of contact with the history-makers of this generation?

"I think Lloyd resigned at the right time," she replied.

"After all, we could have become blase over such spectacular things as traveling to every point on the globe and meeting with world leaders.

"As it is, I still feel like Cinderella—every moment was thrilling."

Perhaps her favorite "moment" was a dinner dance at the White House where one of the honored guests was Maurice Yameogo, then president of Upper Volta.

"The President learned President Yameogo had wanted to visit the Lincoln Monument, but he was departing for home the following morning.

"President Johnson called for his car and at midnight, all of us dressed in formal attire, we climbed the steps to the monument.

"It was a moving sight to watch the President of the United States and the leader of a new African nation stand side by side reading the words of Abraham Lincoln in the moonlight."

Spring vows solemnized by three area couples

McIntosh-Lessley

MRS. RICHARD McINTOSH

Wedding vows were exchanged Saturday in First Baptist Church of Lakewood by Barbara Lessley and Richard B. McIntosh.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Robert McIntosh, 3733 Cherry Ave., and Mr. and Mrs. James N. Lessley, 646 Quincy Ave.

The bride wore a traditional gown of silk organza over Italian silk. The empire gown was styled with double capelet sleeves and an A-line skirt which extended into a chapel-length train. A jeweled lace circlet secured her cathedral-length veil.

Mrs. Richard Pardee was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Linda Lovejoy, JoAnn Peterson, Janet McIntosh, Mrs. Terrill Wilhite and Mrs. Richard Stickler.

Robert McIntosh Jr. served as best man for his brother. Ushers were Gary Lovejoy, Herschell Briscoe, Steve Streger, Berry Cummings and Del Nixon.

A church reception followed. The couple plans to live in Long Beach.

Robinson-Short

First Baptist Church was the setting for 7 o'clock nuptials Saturday night which united Cathryn Irene Short and Lawrence Allen Robinson. A church reception followed.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne A. Short, wore a gown of lace and organza designed with a chapel train. Her bouffant veil of illusion was held by a crown of re-embroidered Alencon lace.

Mrs. Ronald Ballatore attended her cousin as matron of honor. The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon C. Robinson, was served by his brother, Charles G. Robinson, best man.

Completing the wedding party were Mrs. Stephen Foster, Mrs. Pete Linder, Lillian Ford and Tana Bonnough, bridesmaids; Stephen Foster, Ronald Ballatore, Brodie Brickey and Brian Page, ushers; Karyn Ott, flower girl; and Phillip Short, junior usher.

The bride, a graduate of Millikan High School, and her bridegroom, an alumnus of Poly High, both attended Long Beach City College.

On their return from a honeymoon to the Grand Canyon, they will reside in Downey.

MRS. LAWRENCE A. ROBINSON

Snyder-Barker

MRS. RICHARD SNYDER

Los Altos Methodist Church was setting for Saturday nuptials uniting Barbara Jean Barker and Richard Allen Snyder.

For her wedding, the bride selected a gown of satin brocade styled with a cathedral train.

Mrs. Ronald D. Roder was matron of honor. The bridegroom's niece, Tammy English, was flower girl.

Steven W. Schiffner performed best man duties. Ushering the more than 150 guests to their places were David G. Snyder and Richard A. DeKalb.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Fredrick R. Barker, 3913 Ashworth St., Lakewood, and the Jerry L. Snyders, 2265 San Anselino Ave.

A church reception followed. The couple plans to live in Long Beach.

Mrs. Snyder is an alumna of Paramount High School and was graduated from Compton Junior College. Her husband attended Millikan High and Long Beach City College.

Tickets may be purchased from Mrs. Davis, 1711 E. 53rd St., or any auxiliary member. The public is welcome.

Couple to wed in June

Mr. and Mrs. J.H. Jeffries Jr., Huntington Harbour, announce the betrothal of their daughter, Marcia Ann, to Micahel Raymond Sweeney.

News of the engagement and June 11 wedding date was revealed during a dinner party in the home of the bride's parents, former Long Beach residents.

The future bridegroom is the son of Mrs. John A. Laue, Huntington Harbour, and the late Raymond Sweeney Jr.

Miss Jeffries is an alumna of St. Anthony's High School. Her fiance attended Seattle Prep High School in Washington and is an alumnus of Marina High School, Huntington Beach.

Both are attending Orange Coast College.

Seminar traffics in safety

By JOYCE CHRISTENSEN

It's a safe bet that the 500 women who gather Saturday at Long Beach Elks Club, 4101 E. Willow St., will be driven to do something about safety on the highway.

Occasion will be the "Fashioned for Safety" themed Women's Traffic Safety Seminar sponsored by the enthusiastic feminine offshoot of Long Beach Safety Council Inc., its Women's Activities Committee.

Top safety experts from throughout the state will be heard in panel discussion following luncheon and keynote speech by Commissioner Bradford M. Crittenden, California Highway Patrol.

DISCUSSING pertinent points — driver licensing and instruction, teenagers (and oldsters, too!) behind the wheel, drinking and driving—will be noted panelists Howard Link, Long Beach Department of Motor Vehicles; Ben Gautier, Farmers Safety Foundation; S. Dean Spence, Automobile Club of Southern California; Walter Lunsford, auto industries.

Also Royal A. Nielson, California Traffic Safety Foundation; George Watts, Allstate Foundation. Mrs. Fredrick Murphy, state traffic safety activities committee, will give the summation: "What MORE Can We Do for Safety?"

Invitations to the seminar which begins with registration at 10:30 a.m. ($3) have been issued to women's organizations throughout the city. A special invitation is issued to interested individuals. Reservations, which close Tuesday, may be made at the Safety Council, 247 Linden Ave. Mrs. Howard Spillman is women's activities chairman. Mrs. Robert Collins is conference coordinator.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD

Depressed wife needs help!

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

Have any of your readers ever had mental depression and been completely cured? I need hope and courage to get over the gloomy state I'm in. I've been to several doctors and none of them have helped much.

I feel so terribly weak all the time. I'm not lazy. I've worked hard all my life and I'd like to be able to do it again. I feel guilty because I can't do my share of the work. I try but I get weak and shaky.

I have a good husband and love my family but I feel no joy, just inadequacy.

Surely I'm not the only one who has felt like this. If anyone can help me, tell me what to do, I would be forever grateful.—W.M.

DEAR W. M.:

I'm no authority on this sort of thing, but it seems to me your "several" doctors haven't probed deep enough to find your trouble. And, as I understand it, you do have to make an effort to help yourself — though sometimes that's more easily said than done. Right?

Maybe some of our readers have gone through this and can send us some advice.—M.M.

DEAR MRS. MAYFIELD:

Joe and I were married over 12 years ago. They were stormy years—he was a drinker and mean. I often wore the bruises for several days after one of his beatings. I stayed for the kids' sake (we have six), but he finally left — about six months ago.

Now I've met a man who wants to start a new life with me. He has four youngsters, but he makes pretty good money and thinks he could take care of his family and mine without too much trouble. He's urging me to get a divorce and marry him.

Do you think I should? I certainly have no love left for Joe and wouldn't care if I never saw him again. Raising 10 children (with the possibility of more) is no easy task, but I'm not lazy. I can do it, but it's going to take a lot of money. What would you do? — STILL YOUNG

DEAR STILL YOUNG:

If your marriage to Joe really can't be made to work, I don't see why you and the other man shouldn't try to make a good life for all these children.

Of course, it won't be easy — financially or otherwise. Don't forget, these youngsters have to adjust to each other. That may be your biggest problem.

As they grow older, the children can take over a lot of the housework, but some of the financial burden should be carried by Joe. After all, he should pay such support as the court orders —although his kind seldom does.

The first thing you should do is talk to a family counselor and listen to his suggestions.—M.M.

Campbell, Robinson vows solemnized Saturday

MRS. JOHN CAMPBELL

The marriage of Judith Ann Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Robinson, 468 Almond Ave., to John J. Campbell of Redondo Beach was witnessed by guests at noon Saturday in St. Anthony Church.

The bride wore a white faille street-length dress and jacket with shoulder-length veil held by a coronet of seed pearls.

In aqua peau de soie was the bride's only attendant, Tonia Marie Garralle. The bridegroom, son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Campbell, Redondo Beach, was served by his cousin, Ronald J. P. Lesko, best man, and Martin P. Ginsberg and James V. Assing, ushers.

The newlyweds will be at home in Santa Monica following a honeymoon at Lake Tahoe.

Mrs. Campbell is a graduate of St. Anthony High School and UCLA; her husband was graduated from Georgetown University, Washington, D.C., and took graduate study at University of Colorado.

Industrialist turns to art career

By ELISE EMERY
Arts Page Editor

Bruce Odlum, 42, who began his career as an artist just five years ago, has 25 paintings on exhibit at Pacific Coast Club. He will be honored at a reception today from 1 to 5 p.m., to which the public is invited.

Son of an industrialist and financier, Odlum was graduated summa cum laude from USC and continued his doctoral studies in modern analytical philosophy there. He considered a career as concert pianist but, instead, became an accomplished pilot and managed a thousand acre citrus and date ranch while still in college.

Later he turned to industrial and business operations, mining, motion picture production and metallurgy.

His exhibit at Pacific Coast Club, which will continue through May and possibly into June, ranges from small canvases of ballet dancers to huge, brilliant, taut subjects.

Odlum is represented by the Dalzell Hatfield Galleries at the Ambassador Hotel, Los Angeles.

GROUND BREAKING for a $6.2 million art museum in Pasadena is scheduled for September, says Harold S. Jurgensen, chairman of the museum's capital fund program. The museum will open about 14 months later.

A total of $5 million in money and pledges has been received and a community drive to raise the remainder of the funds will begin soon.

A privately endowed, nonprofit foundation, the museum was begun in 1924 and is located at 46 N. Robles Ave. That facility later will house hand-crafted and manufactured items designed by Californians.

The new 75,000 square foot museum will consist of two levels of masonry construction faced with handmade, glazed tiles. The building was designed by Pasadena architects Ladd and Kelsey.

MORE THAN $10,000 worth of sculpture and paintings were sold from the Vincent Price Art Collection in the first five days of the exhibit which opened April 21 in the Long Beach Arena foyer. The show, on display concurrently with the run of Long Beach Civic Light Opera's production of "Annie Get Your Gun," closes today but may be seen from noon to midnight.

The pieces of art range from $35 to a top of $39,500 for a bronze figure by Giacomo Manzo.

'ST. PETER,' OIL BY BRUCE ODLUM

Of particular interest to Long Beach resident Eleanor Shibley is the work of Raphael Soyer which is in the show. She posed for perhaps 100 paintings, lithographs, etchings and oils by the Russian-born artist when she lived in New York. She last posed for him when she visited that city in 1960, and owns several of Soyer's paintings.

The artist has just closed a one-man show at the Forum Gallery in New York and Whitney Museum will stage a major retrospective exhibition of his work in the early fall of 1967.

THE ISRAELI Graphics Art Exhibit will remain at Long Beach Jewish Center, 2601 Grand Ave., until Wednesday. Representing many noted contemporary Israeli artists, the exhibit from the Safrai Art Gallery in Jerusalem includes lithographs, woodcuts, watercolors, stonecut prints and hand-colored etchings. All are for sale at prices from $15 to $75.

ARTIST of the Month during May at the Unitarian Church, 5450 Atherton St., is Ruby Thievolt. Her show includes seascapes, still lifes, portraits and landscapes.

The gallery is open Mondays, Tuesdays and Fridays from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., Wednesdays and Thursdays from 9:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. and is closed Saturdays.

CATALINA artist Henry Vander Velde, who specializes in painting seascapes, opens a month-long show Monday at Biltmore Galleries in the Biltmore Hotel, Los Angeles.

He and his wife, Marjorie, and Theda Rae will have a joint exhibit beginning May 7 in the Avalon Chamber of Commerce.

UCLA honors da Vinci

An International Symposium on Leonardo da Vinci will be presented at UCLA from May 2 through 8.

The symposium will consist of a series of lectures in the auditorium of the new Dickson Art Center by a group of the world's most distinguished Leonardo scholars. Speakers will include Sir Kenneth Clark, C. H., K. C. B., from Great Britain; E. H. Gombrich, director of the Warburg Institute in London; Andre Chastel of the University of Paris; and James Ackerman, chairman of the department of fine arts, Harvard University.

* * * *

OTHER GUEST lecturers will be Augusto Marinoni, Universita Cattolica, Milan; Kenneth Keele, M.D., F.R.C.P., from England; Dr. Ladislao Reti, Sao Paulo, Brazil; Carlo Pedretti, UCLA; and Bern Dibner, founder and director of the Burndy Library, Norwalk, Conn.

Organizer of the series is Dr. C. D. O'Malley, UCLA professor of medical history, who will also serve as chairman.

The subject of the symposium was chosen to signal the opening of the new facilities of the Elmer Bell Library of Vinciana, now installed on the second floor of the new Dickson Art Center through cooperation of the Norton Simon Foundation.

* * * *

THE LIBRARY, one of the world's most important research collections on Leonardo, will serve as a major resource for those scholars who continue to explore the limitless genius of Leonardo and the extraordinary period in which he lived.

During the symposium, the Belt Library will present special exhibitions, and the UCLA Department of Music will present a program of "Music of Leonardo's Time."

After the symposium is concluded, the lectures will be published in a single volume partly financed by a grant from the Kress Foundation.

'Human Image' answers Pop, Op art trends

By VIRGINIA LADDEY

"The Human Image" continues in the Lang Art Gallery at Scripps College in Claremont from 1:30 to 5 p.m. daily through May 18. Artists are Robert Hansen, Robert Cremean, Bernice Kussoy, Jan Stussy, Joyce Treiman and Charles White of Southern California and Karel Appel of Holland.

The phenomenon of shows focusing on "The Human Image" has been breaking out all over, spontaneously, since last summer's show at Laguna. The Human Image seems to be Southern California's answer to the slick, unemotional, uncommitted kind of work classed as "Op" and Pop."

* * * *

CREMEAN'S sculptures in beautifully carved, mortised, stained and painted wood have taken a new tack. The figure with its environment are of a solid block. In some places the figure is in the full round, in others it makes a reverse image.

Charles White's large powerful graphics of archetypes of his transplanted race, like "Mother Courage," stand with universal dignity. Joyce Treiman's numerous small watercolor color head studies have an almost feverish quality of wish to identify the fleeting human quality that the variety shares.

* * * *

A HUGE four-panel mural carries Robert Hansen's "Man-Men" theme into a baroque kind of composition. Bernice Kussoy's welded steel figures have a playful quality, unreal in their industrial material. Karel Appel's heads are barely discernable in the thick expressionistic impasto, but have an impressive depth and force.

Library notes music week

Long Beach Public Library is taking note of National Music Week, which opens today, with a collection of books covering all aspects of music in America. On display will be books about folk music, jazz, Negro music, opera, popular music and the history of music in America, librarian Mrs. Aubrey Brown reports.

Stravinsky to open L.A. festival

Igor Stravinsky, noted 86-year-old composer, will conduct his "Persephone" for the gala opening concert of the Los Angeles Music Festival's 20th anniversary Thursday at 8:30 p.m. in Royce Hall, UCLA. The work, from a melodrama by Andre Gide, will be narrated by the internationally famous ballerina, Vera Zorina. Choral background will be sung by the Ithaca College Concert Choir conducted by Gregg Smith and the Texas Boys Choir conducted by George Bragg.

Other festival concerts are "Tribute to Jose Iturbi," May 7; "A New Look at Jazz," May 15; and "Salute to Franz Waxman" May 21.

Lyric opera auditions today

Southern California Lyric Opera Association will hold auditions for principal singers and chorus members today from 6:30 to 8:30 p.m. in the YWCA Auditorium, Sixth Street and Pacific Avenue. Those auditioning for the chorus need not have sung opera before. They will be trained by the association's choral staff, headed by Wayne B. Gard, director of choral organizations at Long Beach City College.

The next productions of the company will be "Tosca," "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Andrea Chenier" to be given during the summer.

Melodyland

"The Roar of the Greasepaint, the Smell of the Crowd" closes tonight at Melodyland Theater, Anaheim, and will be followed Tuesday by The Jimmy Dean Show which will play a one-week engagement.

DR. ROBERT TYNDALL HOLDS HIS TRANSCRIPTION OF 16TH CENTURY MUSIC MANUSCRIPT SHOWN IN BACKGROUND.

HERITAGE FROM ITALY

Modern methods make many manuscripts for medolic music

From the music building at Long Beach State College come sounds not heard since the 16th century.

A 12-piece orchestra, a choral group, a soprano, two cellists, a harpsichordist and a bassoonist are rehearsing a concert to be performed next Wednesday, 8 p.m., in the college recital hall.

Compositions are from the Frank V. de Bellis colection of music manuscripts of the 16th to 18th centuries, now on display at the college art gallery.

Before the melodies could be given life, they had to be transcribed, for the old method of notation differs sharply from the modern system.

THIS PROJECT has engrossed Dr. Robert E. Tyndall, professor of music at LBSC and president-elect of Long Beach Symphony Association.

With a research grant from the LBSC college foundation, Tyndall began work in April, 1965, going frequently to San Francisco to make microfilms of the manuscripts housed permanently at San Francisco State College.

He was aided by his wife, Jean, the soprano who will sing Wednesday and who is head of the choral music department at Huntington Beach High School.

"Her school choral groups will make use of the music later," said Tyndall, "thus fulfilling one of Mr. de Bellis's fondest dreams—that of making his collection available to young people."

THE COLLECTION in its entirety includes thousands of books, recordings and scores, plus early musical instruments and some drawings.

All are of Italian origin.

"All Italian music is tuneful, melodic," pointed out Tyndall, who will play a sonata for bassoon written in 1750 by Bernardo Lorenzitti.

"The Italian influence on music—this great melodic gift—permeated all Europe. I like to think contemporary composers carry on the same foundations and concepts of music. Modern work, performed by more instruments, is bigger and longer, but it is a difference in degree, not kind."

Tyndall has composed two bassoon sonatas. "I write for the same reason many of the early Italians composed—to increase the literature for a particular instrument."

Other soloists for the LBSC concert will be Barbara Hunter and Eileen Strang, cellists, and Irvin Kimber, harpsichordist. Robert McCandless will direct the Chambler Singers and Tyndall the orchestra.

"WE ARE using instruments for which the music was written originally.

"We can't even duplicate those developed in Italy—the Stradivarius violin, for instance—much less improve on them. The harpsichord and cello are unchanged, the bassoon is basically the same and, of course, the human voice remains the human voice."

Improvisation was an integral part of the early music scores. Tyndall has written in parts as he believes the composer would have improvised.

"This doesn't limit the performer. It merely makes available a score if he doesn't want to, or can't, improvise," he explained.

The transcribed scores will be added to LBSC's collection and also will become a part of the de Bellis collection.

Tyndall hopes to have the scores published.

"Mr. de Bellis wants the music to be known and played. He doesn't want it to be thought of as musty, quaint calligraphy."

New discs are added

Best loved American folk songs are sung by the Mormon Tabernacle choir in their album "This Land is Your Land." The recording is one of many new albums received by the record section of the Main Library during the past week.

"Concerto No. 2 in G Major for Piano and Orchestra" by Tchaikovsky is played by Gary Graffman and the Philadelphia Orchestra with Eugene Ormandy conducting. Leonard Bernstein's composition, "Chichester Psalms" is recorded with the composer conducting the New York Philharmonic Orchestra.

A folk mass sung by the students of the General Theological seminary of the Protestant Episcopal Church is called "Rejoice."

Peter Serkin performs his first solo recording of Bach's "Goldberg Variations."

The two new Broadway shows, "On a Clear Day You Can See Forever" and "Skyscraper" have been added to the collection.

May to be eventful for music teachers

For members of the Long Beach Branch of Music Teachers Association, May will be an eventful month, beginning with a composers program Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Ruby Trafzer, 2609 Radnor Ave. Following a 10 a.m. business session, compositions by Dr. Robert Tyndall of Long Beach State College, Dr. Hormoz Farhat of UCLA and Frank Ahrold will be played. The later will perform his own piano sonata.

* * * *

ON MAY 15, 7th through 10th year students from 15 studios will take part in the annual Merit Certificate recital at 7:30 p.m. in the YWCA. The public is invited.

The annual Regional Junior Festival for 6th through 8th year students is scheduled from 1 to 6 p.m. at Long Beach State College May 22. The students, representing 13 Southern California branches have been evaluated and approved by state examiners.

* * * *

FIRST OF A series of events marking the Long Beach Branch's silver anniversary will be a recital, also May 22, at 3 p.m. in the Concert Hall of Municipal Auditorium. Cellist Gilbert Reese will be assisted by pianist Ralph Linsley.

CHEF OF THE WEEK

Banker puts all his eggs in lemon meringue pie

By MILDRED K. FLANARY
I, P-T Food Editor

FRANK NAUGHTON

Frank Naughton, today's Chef of the Week, IS busy in this business called banking. He's vice president-area administrator, Bank America, Long Beach, a position to which he was appointed a year ago.

Born in Sioux City, Iowa, his family moved up the river about 100 miles to Sioux Falls, S. D., when he was three.

Coming to Long Beach in 1923, Naughton graduated from Franklin Jr. and Poly High Schools. While at Poly, he established a name and reputation for himself: he was well know as "Red Legs Naughton," the football champ.

Before continuing his education, Naughton started his first bank account, to insure that procedure, as a roughneck in the Signal Hill oil fields. After two years, he enrolled at St. Mary's College, graduating with a BS degree in money and banking.

NAUGHTON'S first real business venture was with the Universal Credit Company (Henry Ford's Financer) in 1934. He remained there until 1938, when he joined the Bank of America, Los Angeles, automobile division.

After managing various branches, he was appointed to the 7th & Flower branch as vice president-manager, eventually going into administration. He was in charge of business development in downtown Los Angeles, the City of Commerce, Pasadena and San Gabriel areas.

Mrs. Naughton (Helen) is almost a native of Long Beach, having lived at 2222 East Second St. for 22 years. They have a daughter, Maureen, 17, entering her freshman year at Santa Clara College this fall.

NAUGHTON serves as president of the Alumni Graduate School of Credit & Financial Management, Stanford area. It is one of two schools conducted for businessmen —the other being at Dartmouth, Hanover, N.H.

He is chairman of the prospect development committee, Chamber of Commerce, and a member of the Hacienda Country Club.

A golf addict, he plays a good game, but always manages to get home in time to turn on TV and watch a game.

The Naughtons' garden is much admired. We're told he supervises, while Helen gardens.

Here's Naughton's recipe for today:

LEMON MERINGUE PIE
Baked 9" pie shell
5 tblsp. cornstarch
⅛ tsp. salt
2 cups water
6 tblsp. sugar
3 egg yolks
3 tblsp. butter
⅓ cup lemon juice
2 tsp. grated lemon rind
3 egg whites
⅓ tsp. cream of tartar

Combine 1 cup cornstarch, salt and water. Cook over medium heat until mixture thickens (10 minutes). Add slightly beaten egg yolks and cook 3-5 minutes longer. Remove from heat and add butter, lemon juice and lemon rind. Cool. Pour into pie shell.

Beat egg whites until foamy. Add sugar, 2 tablespoons at a time, beating after each addition until blended. Continue to beat until mixture stands in peaks. Cover filling with meringue and bake 15-20 minutes at 300 degrees.

School Menu

The following menus will be served in Long Beach elementary schools in the week of May 2-6:

MONDAY: Toasted cheese sandwich, garden salad, berry sauce with whipped topping, homemade cookie and milk.

TUESDAY: Pizza, buttered green beans, fruit gelatin dessert with whipped topping, raisins, and milk.

WEDNESDAY: Neapolitan macaroni, pineapple coleslaw, spicy applesauce, peanut butter sandwich and milk.

THURSDAY: Oven fried chicken, mashed potatoes-gravy, quartered orange, whole wheat bread-butter and milk.

FRIDAY: Tuna-noodle casserole, buttered peas, sliced peaches, raisin bread square and milk.

The above items make up the elementary children's lunch 30c. Soup and salad from the junior-senior high school a la carte menu are sold in the elementary schools, but they may be purchased by the children only after they have purchased the tray lunch.

JUNIOR-SENIOR HIGH

MONDAY: Italian spaghetti, buttered corn, California fruit cup, hot buttered French bread and milk.

TUESDAY: Chopped steak on mashed potatoes, pineapple coleslaw, chocolate pudding with nuts, hot buttered cornbread and milk.

WEDNESDAY: Neapolitan macaroni, buttered peas, apricot halves, whole wheat bread-butter and milk.

THURSDAY: Pizza, tossed green salad, berry sauce with whipped topping, whole wheat bread-butter and milk.

FRIDAY: Tuna-noodle casserole or tamale pie, carrot and raisin salad, spicy applesauce, peanut butter sandwich and milk.

OSWALD JACOBY

Foresight wins everytime!

One test of a really great bridge player is the ability to look ahead in the play. Here is a hand that helped the famous Four Aces team win the Vanderbilt Cup some 30-odd years ago.

The game was team of four and both South players reached six spades on identical bidding and the play for the first three tricks was the same. The king of hearts was opened and taken by South's ace. Then South attempted to cash his ace and king of diamonds only to have West ruff the second diamond.

When the late Sherman Stearns of the Aces sat West he played a low club at trick four. South won with dummy's ace, ruffed a club in his hand, ruffed a low diamond, ruffed back to his hand, ruffed his last low diamond with the queen of trumps and eventually lost a trump trick to East's jack to be down one.

At the other table West attempted to cash a heart trick. Mike Gottlieb who sat South ruffed in his hand, ruffed a low diamond with dummy's deuce of spades, cashed dummy's queen of spades and led a third heart. East showed out. Mike spread his hand and announced, "Squeeze for balance."

THE opponents made him play the hand out but they had no defense. Mike ran off all his trumps. He discarded down to the ten of hearts and ace-jack of clubs in dummy before leading his last trump. This forced West to discard down to one club in order to keep a high heart. Mike discarded the ten of hearts from dummy and poor East had to discard down to one club also in order to keep from establishing Mike's nine of diamonds.

Quite a few players would have recognized the squeeze from the South seat. I wonder how many would have seen it coming from the West seat and ruined it as Sherman did with his club lead at trick four.

DEAR ABBY

Poor mom, she just can't win

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I recently attended a wedding at a small country church. At the beginning of the ceremony an usher came down the aisle with a mink stole over her arm, and with a grand gesture draped it over the pew where the bride's mother was to sit, after which he escorted the bride's mother to that pew.

ABBY

It looked to me like she wanted to be sure everybody knew she had a new mink stole. The family is not that well off, and can hardly afford a mink. What is your opinion of this whole vulgar performance?

—WAS THERE

DEAR WAS: Perhaps in an effort to be less conspicuous, the bride's mother sent her mink stole down the aisle with the usher rather than wear it herself. Alas, poor woman, she couldn't win. It seems her stole stole the show anyway.

DEAR ABBY: My doctor told me months ago that I should have a little surgery. It's nothing serious and need not be done immediately, but he advised me not to put it off too long.

I find myself postponing it for the silliest reason. Please don't laugh at me when I tell you why. I am afraid of what I might say while I'm under the anesthetic. The doctor belongs to our club and we have many mutual friends, and it could get very embarrassing if I talked too much.

Can you help me?

—AFRAID OF THE TRUTH

DEAR AFRAID: Go ahead and have the surgery and don't worry. Most doctors listen attentively to heir patients' babbling during their conscious moments, but will happily tune them out when they're under.

Besides, the chances are he'll be much too occupied at the time to recall what he hears.

DEAR ABBY: Two years ago we had a new heating system installed. The two men who did the work swore during the whole job. They even criticized my house. One of them asked, "Who designed this place?"

I proudly told him my husband and I did. Then he said, "I knew it had to be something like that. I never saw such a monstrosity."

The other one asked me how much it cost to build and when I told him he said, "You were robbed." Abby, we like our home, and we are satisfied, so what's it their business?

We need more work this year (air conditioning) and my husband wants these two ill-mannered thugs back to do it. I don't want them in my house. What do you think?—INSULTED.

DEAR INSULTED: I say, let your husband handle that department. The men may be ill-mannered, but they're probably competent, honest, and they know where all the pipes are buried.

Student concert

Four organ students from this area will present the fourth concert in Long Beach Chapter of AGO's current series, Irvin Kimber, Don Corbett, Joan Nilson and James Haberkorn will perform Tuesday at 8:15 p.m. in Our Saviour's Lutheran Church, 370 Junipero Ave. The public is invited; an offering will be received.

CARPET CLEANING SALE
Annual Pre-Summer Sale! Save money now, and enjoy clean carpeting all Spring and Summer. Now during this sale, Cremer's will clean and soil retard your wall-to-wall carpet (up to 40 sq. yds. — average living room, dining room and hall.)
FOR ONLY $28.80 With furniture out
SAVE $7.20 NOW
This is what we do: Your carpet is thoroughly vacuumed with a Heavy Duty Vacuum (shown above), all edges are cleaned and vacuumed by hand, all spots and stains are pre-treated, traffic areas are sprayed with a degreaser to remove residue left by "do-it-yourself" cleaning. Your carpet is then cleaned with a synthetic detergent shampoo containing fluorescent brighteners that revive dull colors and is pleasantly scented, leaving a clean, fresh aroma. We then hand-brush to raise and fluff the nap to restore soft resiliency. DuPont's Soil Retardant is then sprayed on, under pressure, sealing all the pores in the fibers, thus preventing soil from becoming imbedded. Average drying time is 4 to 6 hours.
WHAT DOES THIS MEAN TO YOU? When Cremer's method of applying soil retardant is completed, YOUR WEEKLY VACUUMING WILL REMOVE CARRIED-IN SOIL (just like dusting your furniture) YOUR CARPETS WILL STAY CLEAN TWICE AS LONG AND LAST UP TO THREE TIMES LONGER.
Don't settle for half a cleaning job — get the very best, covered by Cremer's written guarantee (no fine print). Call NOW for an appointment.

Pacific areas go easy on tipping

By Fred Taylor Kraft
Travel Editor

If you plan a jaunt into Pacific area countries this year, one of the problems that may nag at your mind is tipping. So many countries. Each with different customs.

Right. But don't let it put you to bed with a migraine.

It's simpler than you think, and easier on your purse at practically all Pacific destinations.

Every two years the Pacific Travel News—without doubt the most knowledgeable authority on what's going on in the Big Deep—reports on tipping procedures from Auckland to Zamboanga. This year's just-published review reveals an attempt by most countries to keep tipping at a minimum, with several areas reporting "no tipping" or "practically no tipping."

* * * *

TAHITI is a paradise in many ways, particularly for the tipping worry wart. The rule there is "positively no tipping." (But I do know from personal experience that you exchange a franc for a smile now and then.)

In Cambodia, Nepal and Okinawa there is a service charge in hotels, but otherwise tipping is not expected. However, on the latter island, a tip of 25 cents per bag to porters is customary.

For other countries, Pacific Travel News reports these general rules:

Alaska and Hawaii: Mainland standards.

American Samoa: No tips to baggage porters, in hotels, or on short taxi hauls; 50 cents extra for several hours of driving.

Australia: Red caps, 10-20 cents per bag; hotel porters, 20 cents for normal luggage for two; room service, 10% of bill; dining room and drink waiters, 10% in first class hotels; restaurants, 10%; taxis, normally balance of change.

* * * *

FIJI: Tip or gift only as a "reward" for services beyond normal duties.

Ceylon: No tipping necessary at hotels and rest houses; optional to 10% at restaurants; 5 cents per bag at passenger jetties; taxis, guides and tour conductors, optional.

IN TAHITI, you get all of this with "positively no tipping."

Guam: Bellboys, 25 cents per bag; chambermaid, optional; laundry, waiter and taxi, 10%.

Indonesia: Air, ship and train terminals 250 rupees per bag; hotels and restaurants, not obligatory; taxis, guides, tour conductors, none.

Hong Kong: Porterage at airports, optional; hotel porters, 17 cents per porter on arrival and departure; hotels and restaurants with service charge, none; guides, tour conductors, rarely.

* * * *

JAPAN: Baggage porters, 50 yen standard charge per bag; Western-style hotels with 10% service charge, none; Japanese-style hotels, 10-20% if not added to bill; restaurants with 10% service charge, no additional tips; taxis, no tip except where heavy baggage is handled; guides, none.

India: Baggage at dockside, 5-10-cent fee; no tips in hotels where service charge is made; restaurants, 10% in first class; taxis, guides, tour conductors, no tips; on trains, 10% to waiter.

Korea: 10% service charge added to hotel bills; taxi drivers, waiters and other tourist servants usually not tipped.

Macau: Hotels, guest's judgment; waiters, 10%; taxis and other services, none to light.

Malaysia mainland: Hotels with 10% service charge, none; restaurants, 10%; baggage porters, 33 cents for one or two bags; taxi drivers and guides, none expected.

* * * *

NEW ZEALAND: Baggage porters, 15 cents a bag; at hotels, 30-45 cents for all bags; chambermaids and waitresses, light at end of stay; taxis, 15-30 cents for heavy luggage; tips to guides becoming common.

Sarawak (Malaysia): Tipping "not encouraged..."

Philippines: Baggage porters, about 25 cents for two-three pieces; hotels with service charge, no obligation; restaurants, 10% if no service charge; drivers, not customarily tipped.

Viet Nam: Baggagemen, light "fee" charged at dockside and rail stations; hotel doormen, 6 cents per bag; restaurants, 5%; taxis, no tip.

Taiwan: Baggage porters at ship terminals, 12 cents per piece; at rail depots, 4 cents; hotels and restaurants, no tip where service charge is added; taxi drivers and guides, no tip expected.

* * * *

THAILAND: Baggage porters at airport, 10 cents per bag; porters and bell boys, 5-10 cents; hotels and restaurants, 10% if service charge is not included; taxi drivers and guides, optional.

In some countries, notably Thailand, the help in hotels and restaurants often hold out a hand awaiting a tip. The traveler may or may not follow American practices.

ABOARD SHIP: My own plan is $1 a day each on two-week cruises (slightly higher for longer voyages) to cabin and dining room steward (waiter), at end of each week or every two weeks. Others eligible for tips are the wine steward, deck steward, bell boy (night steward), and bartender or bar waiter; wine steward, $1 to $2 when he brings and serves wine at your table. No tips, of course, to ship's officers.

San Diego school sets up seminar

"Project Europe," a travel seminar with shipboard classes in European studies for college credit, is offered this summer by California Western University, San Diego.

P&O-Orient's Superliner Oriana will be the classroom where students and teachers can sign up for history or fine arts and get a taste of Europe's culture at ports of call en route, enjoying a Caribbean cruise at the same time.
be audited, if preferred.

The 42,000-ton British liner sails from Los Angeles June 27.

Return to the United States is from Edinburgh by TWA jet. It is also possible to fly to Europe from San Diego and join the group in Lisbon July 12. Cost, excluding tuition for the college units, starts at $1665. Details of the itinerary are available from P&O-Orient Lines, 711 W. 7th St., Los Angeles, or California Western University, 3902 Lomaland Drive, San Diego.

May offers diversity of events for gadder

May in Southern California is going to be a month of outdoor music and art festivals, an old Spanish mission fiesta, geranium and wildflower shows.

There will be a decorated boat parade in a yacht harbor, a unique joint exhibition of sky diving and sand dune travel, and a sister-city celebration across the Mexican border.

The famed Ojai Festival of concerts and soloists will be held for the 20th year in Ojai "The Nest" Valley north of Los Angeles, May 20 to 22, much of it in the woodsy outdoor Ojai Festival Bowl.

Kern County will celebrate its centennial at Bakersfield with a Fine Arts Festival May 22 to 29 of music, art, folk dancing, one-act plays and exhibits of books 100 years old or older.

* * * *

SIERRA MADRE at the foot of towering Mt. Wilson will hold its Art Fair May 21-22. Artists will demonstrate painting, pottery, printing, weaving, metal work in tree shaded Memorial Park.

The Fiesta Pequena, which means "little festival" will be held May 15 at Mission La Purisima north of Santa Barbara. This is a completely restored mission, even to tools and garden, now a state historical monument.

Geraniums grow year-around in the Southland; a contest by the area's All-Year Club once turned up a giant 14 feet tall. The "Geranium Rainbow" theme show at the Aboretum in Arcadia May 7-8 will display rare and new species, bonsais, window boxes.

* * * *

THE MOUNTAIN village of Julian inland from San Diego will fill its Town Hall May 7 to 22 with hundreds of varieties of wildflowers gathered from the mountain slopes and desert for 10 miles around.

KAUAI, Hawaii—This is the picture postcard island. The Hawaiian sun makes instant diamonds on an ink-blue sea. The roads are lined with flowers. A cooling trade wind washes through the coco palms and waterfalls drop in slow motion down gray-green mountains. About $115 and 5½ hours from the West Coast. For hotels, prices and island map write Andrew Gross, Hawaii Visitors Bureau, Lihue, Kauai, Hawaii.

* * * *

"Can you tell us anything about Bali? It used to be in travel news, but lately I haven't seen anything."

I DON'T KNOW Bali except for what penple have told me — a pleasant, lush place. Prices a few years ago were quite reasonable, they said. The political climate of Indonesia seems to be smoothing out and three new hotels are being built. The 400-room Bali Beach Hotel opens June 6—Intercontinental management, the hotel arm of Pan American Airways.

Flying time from Djakarta to Bali is about two hours. The airline is Garuda Indonesian Airways that gives you latest information on hotels, climate, clothing. Write them at 212 Stockton St., San Francisco.

This is one of those air fare structures where you can fly the whole Pacific. Go out through Hawaii, Tokyo, Hong Kong. Go home via Australia, Fiji, Samoa and Tahiti. About $1,100 but a lot in the package.

* * * *

"My husband will be flying several times this year to Tokyo on business. Has anybody found a way to deal with 'jet lag' I read about?"

JET LAG is simply the way you feel changing time zones — and you feel bad. Nothing I know except take sleeping pills a couple of nights. It keeps you from waking up at your accustomed hour which is usually the middle of the night. One doctor estimates it takes one day for every one hour change to get to normal. That would be nine days for Japan. It takes me three or four days to get over that groggy feeling.

"I've been told that you cannot get dinner in Spain until 10 at night. We are accustomed to much earlier dinners. . . ."

AND 10 O'CLOCK is the children's hour. The big dining hour starts about 11. I used to starve until I found the Spanish have what is called a "merienda"—a snack time about 6. There are lots of little bars with snacks set along the counters. Hotels serve you a marienda in your room or downstairs. And that's how you get by until the late late dinner.

What Your Name Means

Send your name to La Reina Rule in care of Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90801, for origin, meaning and brief genealogy, for reply only in this column.

MISS RULE: Please give brief data on MARSH. — G.I., Artesia; H.C., Lakewood.

MARSH ancestors acquired their surname from low, wet land called in medieval England a "mersche." Yorkshire records of 1379 list Katerina del Mersch, "huswyfe and webster (weaver)." The Marshes achieved a coat-of-arms having six alternating gold and blue vertical stripes covering the shield. New England ancestors include William Marsh who arrived in 1635 from England; Samuel Marsh and his wife who settled at New Haven, Connecticut in 1641.

MISS RULE: Would like genealogy on COLBERT.— J.R., Lakewood.

COLBERT of France began in the early Middle Ages as a warrior name, "Colo-Berht" deciphered as "man with the shining helmet." The Colbert French armorial shield is gold, emblazoned with a blue serpent.

MISS RULE: Would you inform us on FORQUER, FORQUERAN. — M.F., R.B., Long Beach.

FORQUER is a short form of the Scotch surname Farquar, originally MacFearchair, deciphered from Gaelic as "sons of the very dear one." This clan were natives of Aberdeenshire. FORQUERAN is an extended style of these names, having been initiated as "Fearchairain" or "young and very dear one."

MISS RULE: Kindly give the origin of WIEBEN, — M.W., Seal Beach.

WIEBEN traces back many generations in Germany. The archaic root-source was "Wibo" characterizing the ancestor as "Warrior." To this was later added the suffix "-en" meaning "small or young."

MISS RULE: Would like data on GRIFFIN. — L.C., J.T., Long Beach; G.M., Garden Grove.

GRIFFIN is from Wales where the progenitor was baptized "Gruffyn" meaning, in old Welsh, "ruddy-complexioned." The Griffin armorial shield is black, decorated with a mythical silver griffin, a combination of dragon and eagle. Griffin descendants were settlers of Dutchess County, New York, in the 1700s.

MISS RULE: Please analyze VLAHOS. — S.V., E.V., Long Beach.

VLAHOS is primarily from the Czech, central European "Vlachos" meaning "Italian" referring to an ancestor who migrated from sunny Italy to the plains of the old Austro-Hungarian Empire.

MISS RULE: Please inform us on SHARP. — M.S., Artesia.

SHARP was given to the family founder over seven centuries ago in England to describe his outstanding mental qualities. The original name "Scharpe" meant "keen, clever and quick-witted." The ancestor's alertness earned him a reputation that he handed down philologically to his descendants. Old Yorkshire records list Adam Scharpe in the Poll Tax of 1379. The Sharp armorial shield is blue, decorated with a silver arrowhead.

MISS RULE: Would like data on ROBICHAUD. G. R., Anaheim.

ROBICHAUD is a rare French surname. In the 11th century when this name was adopted, it was a nickname, translated as "young Robert." The source name Robert meant "shining with fame." No coat-of-arms is recorded for this family.

Cover

The freeway interchange is one of the marvels of modern engineering (as any freeway engineer or anyone who traverses it in the middle of the night will tell you) but it is also—often—one of the plagues of modern life in Southern California. Today's Southland Magazine cover photograph, by Jerome Hall, is of the interchange of the Long Beach and Santa Ana Freeways, one of the world's busiest traffic points. According to statistics supplied by the State Highway Department, nearly a quarter of a million vehicles pass through this scene each day. The story of Southern California express roadways is told in today's special freeway issue of Southland.

Next Week

If you are a boater you have seen them churning blithely along in their ignorance, totally unaware that they are violating the rules of the waterlanes, which can be a more serious matter than violating the rules of the highways. The ignorant boater is a hazard both to those on board his own craft and those aboard others. As the '66 boating season swings into full throttle Southland Magazine presents next week a chronicle of do's and don'ts for anyone taking to the water, whether it be in a dinghy or in a yacht.

Miracle Coating Eliminates House Painting

An exterior wall coating so tough and durable that it is guaranteed to totally eliminate exterior house painting for over 10 years. This remarkable textured coating is Fiberglass FLEXON.

BEST IN NATION

Homeowners are requested not to spend a single penny on painting their residences until they hear the FLEXON STORY. This remarkable material insulates, waterproofs and beautifies, and every Fiberglass FLEXON job is factory guaranteed for 10 full years against chipping, flaking or peeling.

Fiberglass, a product of Owens-Corning, brings to FLEXON its great strength, its wonderful insulating properties, its resistance to time, weather and chemical attack.

PROVEN OVER MANY YEARS

FLEXON is one of the oldest, tried and true coatings now being marketed and has been applied on thousands of homes and commercial buildings. These buildings have remained in perfect condition after more than 10 years exposure in all types of weather.

SHOT FROM A GUN

FLEXON is applied with heavy duty spray equipment and is actually "shot from a gun" without muss, fuss or odor. FLEXON fuses itself to the wall and fills holes, cracks and covers building defects.

LICENSED and INSURED

Cal-Tex Improvements, Inc., is a state licensed Building Contractor. Most of the work now being done by Cal-Tex is in the greater Long Beach and Orange County area. Highways North to the Old West

By Margaret Romer

WHO says history is dull? It is fascinating as revealed at Southern California's latest tourist attraction, The Indian Theater and Frontier Village on Sierra Highway in Mint Canyon, about 60 miles northward from the center of Long Beach.

There are twelve rambling acres over which the visitor can wander. One can actually walk into the ravine where the notorious bandit, Tiburcio Vasquez, used to water and hide his horse when eluding the pursuing posse. One can drink at the original mud-sided water tank made by the Indians, where wild deer and bobcats still come down the mountain slope for a morning drink. Or peek into an abandoned gold mine in Outlaw Canyon.

Little Church and Boot Hill in Mint Canyon Frontier Village, with creator of the center, Robert Callahan, standing guard against imaginary badmen.

THIS IS more than an ordinary museum. It is a non-profit enterprise and it includes a trading post and a theater. There are some 50 colorful totem poles scattered in and around the village. Visitors can look into both Apache and Zuni sweat baths, and can also see their outdoor bake ovens and grills. They can visit the only two kivas in existence outside of Indian reservations. In the Sun Dance arena is a scene from the ancient Sun Dance of the Cheyennes. There is also a collection of more than 400 wagon and buggy wheels that actually rolled across the land in the American west-bound migration.

Near the entrance to the village is a little white chapel, a small replica of those places of worship scattered all over the United States in the early years of America. Inside is a typical altar. Eight pews seating two persons each were made from long benches brought around the Horn and actually used in ancient Spain. Close by is a little red school house. The teacher's chair, blackboard, and single-seat desks are originals from the first schools in Northern California.

THE THEATER building in the foreground of the village has an auditorium where old-time plays and movies can be viewed. Between shows, the visitors may marvel at the seven-panel mural depicting Indian life two centuries ago; and then spend hours among relics of the past. These include the cradle in which the famous "Buffalo Bill" (William Cody) lay as a baby. There is the first five-foot grand piano brought to California. It came in a sailing vessel via the Horn. There is the old pedal organ on which Carrie Jacobs Bond composed "The End of a Perfect Day" and "I Love You Truly." There are old music boxes and nickelodians, and hundreds of other items related to early day U.S. And surely some good luck will rub off from the 10,000 old horseshoes that hang in Good Luck Hall.

The Indian Theater and Frontier Village was created by Robert E. Callahan, novelist, producer, and authority on Indian life, at his own expense. It is the realization of his life-long hobby and dream. It is located at 13660 Sierra Highway. From Long Beach and nearby areas, take the Santa Ana Freeway to Golden State Freeway to the Palmdale sign (Highway 14), turn right and continue straight ahead through Solemint Junction and on Sierra Highway to the village. Children and adults alike will enjoy viewing the authentic re-creations in the village which is open daily the year around.

"No sooner do we build a freeway than it is overcrowded and everybody is yelping for another one, just as long as it doesn't go too near his house or too far from it."

—A State Highway Official.

"My youngest was born on the freeway on the way to the hospital. We were going to call him Sigalert. But that didn't seem proper. So we named him Offramp."

—Comedienne Phyllis Diller.

"All you have to do to be a good freeway driver is to use your brain, use your eyes, use your hands, use your feet, use your good judgement and don't use your mouth. It is difficult to teach women to drive on freeways."

—A Driving Instructor.

A FEW DAYS AGO AN epoch ended quietly, almost unnoticed; a major milestone was passed in Southern Californians' race to get from here to there by the shortest route in the quickest time.

On a cloudy-bright morning on the western edge of Garden Grove a symbolic cable was snipped and a bottleneck was broken; roadblocks were cleared away and traffic began to flow uninterrupted along the dozen miles of the Garden Grove Freeway.

With the two-mile-long link fitted into the freeway system, it marked the demise of the final stop light along the express routes that reach out both north and south from Long Beach; it meant that a traveler could head from Long Beach to the suburbs of San Diego or far into the San Joaquin Valley without encountering a traffic light.

It doesn't take an oldtimer to the Southland to remember when it was tantamount to a safari for a

By Jerome Hall
Editor, Southland Magazine

Long Beach resident to travel to Wilshire Blvd. and back, to recall when it was nearly impossible to go to San Diego on a summer weekend.

But the maturity of the Southern California freeway system has, for all the new problems that it might create, solved some old ones and kept the region from strangling in traffic tieups.

The system, which has an early-1980's target date for completion, is more than one-third completed. This summer when the San Gabriel River Freeway, which has its terminus in East Long Beach, is opened there will be 500 miles of freeways in use in the Los Angeles-Orange-Ventura counties district.

The master plan of the highwaymen is to interlace freeways about every four miles across the metropolitan Long Beach-Los Angeles area to accommodate the 17 million vehicles on our streets by the '80's. There are approximately six million vehicles in Southern California today.

"The metropolitan Los Angeles freeway network is the best urban system in the world and it is carrying gigantic traffic volumes faster than ever before," says State Highway (chief) engineer J. C. Womack.

The four-level downtown Los Angeles interchange handles 343,000 vehicles each business day. The busiest roadway in the world is the Harbor Freeway from downtown Los Angeles to San Pedro. It's average daily traffic load is 190,000. The Santa Ana Freeway as it feeds autos to the Long Beach Freeway and on to Orange County is a close second.

While the freeways have unclogged streets, the Automobile Club of Southern California points out that the high-speed travel has saved motorists uncounted dollars. By estimate of the Auto Club the saving amounted to about one-half billion dollars per year for several recent years. The explanation is that operating costs are lower for freeway users and accident repairs are fewer. The estimate also says that freeway users save driving time worth $250 million a year.

BUT THE HIGHWAY safety engineers point to the saving in lives that has been credited to freeways. As a rule of thumb, it is claimed that for every mile of freeway added to the Southern California metropolitan system, one additional life is saved each year. By that calculation, there are 35 Southern Californians alive today somewhere out there in that maze of exhaust fumes who owe their existence to freeways built in 1965.

It is estimated that the 41,000-mile interstate highway system under construction now, scheduled for completion in the '80's, will save 9,000 lives annually, about one-quarter of the total annual auto fatalities.

Statistics show that it is three to four times safer to travel on freeways than on conventional highways.

The freeway builders have no argument with those who call for a rapid transit system. They have a devastating answer, though. "We're here and they're not," said one highwayman.

The opposite situation seems to be taking shape in San Francisco, where a transbay rapid transit system is in production but where protest groups successfully balked two freeways that would have relieved a mushrooming traffic problem.

San Francisco now is left with three elevated sections of freeways that go nowhere and the best guess today is that they never will. The action of politicians there a month ago has terminated a seven-year battle to unclog San Francisco's downtown streets (the mayor there said "They'll probably build a freeway to the moon before we get one") and the action cost the Southern California area more than $100 million in federal funds.

When San Francisco roadblocked its portion of the interstate highway system the federal government withdrew $235 million that had been earmarked for California freeways.

San Francisco's successful battle has given the anti forces in the quiet La Canada valley renewed hope in their three-year fight to turn back the freeway builders. A final hearing is scheduled this month in the case that could chop another chunk out of the interstate system and lop more millions from California's federal appropriation.

The La Canada case could wreak havoc to the Southland's overall freeway project.

A FOURTH EXPRESSWAY for Long Beach, known as the Pacific Coast Freeway or crosstown freeway, has been on the planning boards for years but was held up by objections to the exact route. But a route has been adopted and construction is expected to begin somewhere in the distant future. Guesses can pin it down only to "five to 10 years."

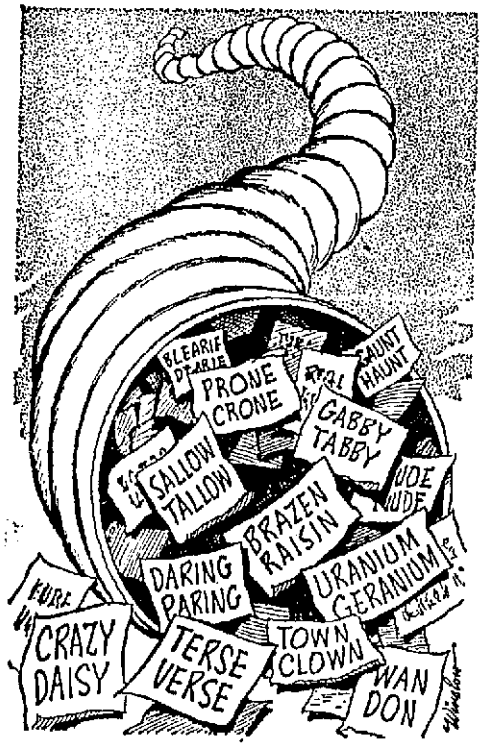

The east-west route runs generally between 8th and 10th streets, meeting with the Garden Grove Freeway at 7th Street and the Los Cerritos Channel in east Long Beach.

An up-to-date report on Long Beach's freeway-in-the-future is included in today's issue of Southland.

The mere mention of the word freeway extracts a rainbow of reaction from Southern Californians, but whatever their points of view, both sides of the subject and those in the middle agree that freeways have had not only a profound influence on our lives, they have reshaped them and made them fit into that patchwork pattern of criss-crossing speedways that will get you from here to there quicker than ever before.

Provided, of course, you don't get caught in a Sigalert.

Vocabulary--Family Building Project

By Bob Loeffelbein

TODAY IT IS "in" to build vocabulary, or do anything else educational, through the "fun" challenge of games and quizzes. Vocabulary building through the drudgery of dictionary study, as we did it in the "old" days, is "out."

Anything that is "in" is called "camp," of course. And one requirement of something that is "high" camp is that it be so old it is new again.

This is why an old game we used to call Stack-Rack at our family reunions should be a paragon of painless learning. All the necessary ingredients are various members of a family (or any group, really). A little learning, their senses-of-humor, and a dictionary. The learnings inherent in the game are myriad—improving one's word power, gaining deeper knowledge of word derivatives, learning to rhyme words, and discovering shadings in word meanings.

RULES OF PLAY are simple, a cockeyed definition is given to the guessing team. It must define a couplet of rhyming words the presenting team has agreed on beforehand, though it can be burlesqued. This is followed by clue two, the number of syllables in the couplet words you are looking for.

For example: "What word couplet would describe naughty stories the devil might tell?" And the second clue is how the game received its name: If the couplet words had one syllable each, the clue is given as "Stack-Rack." If they have two syllables, it is presented as "Stacky-Racky"; and if three, "Stackity-Rackity." It is very unusual for the game to come up with any rhyming words over four syllables.

The answer to the example above is, of course, that naughty stories the devil might tell are, as you'll find in the "answers" column, hades' shadies.

That wasn't so hard, was it?

TO GET THE novice to our educational gambit off to a flying start, a list of examples follows, in three columns. Column 1 is the deft-nition, column 2 is the number of syllables needed, and column 3 is the answer—in mixed-up order. Correct answers are at the bottom.

Definition	Syllables	*Answers
A fast-talking cat	2	Crazy daisy
A sleeping witch	1	Uranium geranium
A go-go flower for love's quest	2	Gaunt haunt
Poetry to the point	1	Sallow tallow
Atomic-powered flower	4	Lacquered Packard
A pale candle	2	Gabby tabby
A skinny spook	1	Daring Paring
A highly-glossed velocipedo of renowned make	2	Terse verse
Naughty stories the devil might tell	2	Prone crone
Salad menu: lettuce, cut up without dressing	2	Pornography photography
French postcards	4	B'earie Dearie
A burlesque stripper	1	Brazen raisin
The toast of the town the morning after the night before	2	Town clown
The municipal joker	1	Hades' shadies
		Witch niche
		Lewd nude
		Wan don

*Correct answers, if needed: 1. Gabby tabby, 2. Prone crone, 3. Crazy daisy, 4. Terse verse, 5. Uranium geranium, 6. Sallow tallow, 7. Gaunt haunt, 8. Lacquered Packard, 9. Hades' shadies, 10 paring, 11. Pornography photography, 12. Lewd nude, 13. Blearie dearie, 14. Town clown. The rest of the answers were just thrown in to confuse you.

Try Petunias

There is no easier way to add zest to the summer landscape than by planting masses of perky, free-blooming petunias. A splash of cherry-and-white ones in a large planter . . . drifting ribbons of pink ones bordering the lawn . . . or an artful massing of white ones to starch up your flower beds.

Q. How many Secretaries-General of the United Nations have there been? C.V.

A. Three. On Feb. 1, 1946, Trygve Lie, of Norway, was appointed secretary-general for a five-year term. On Nov. 1, 1950, his appointment was extended three more years. On Nov. 10, 1952, however, Lie submitted his resignation. Five months later he was succeeded by Dag Hammarskjold of Sweden. On Sept. 26, 1957, Hammarskjold was appointed for another five-year term beginning April 10, 1958. After the Swedish secretary-general died in a plane crash in Africa on Sept. 18, 1961, U Thant of Burma became acting secretary-general. In November 1962, he was appointed secretary-general for a five-year term beginning with his assumption of office on Nov. 3, 1961.

Q. For what period did Adele Garrison's syndicated story, Revelations of a Wife, run in newspapers? H.P.

A. When Adele Garrison (Mrs. Martin A. White, aged 83) died on Dec. 2, 1956, this serial story was the longest in newspaper history, having run for more than 41 years. Mrs. White began it on Aug. 15, 1915, and turned out more than 13 million words of copy, without a break.

Q. Is there an alloy called artificial gold? W.G.

A. Oroide, oreide, French gold and artificial gold are names given to a goldlike alloy of copper and zinc or tin. This resembles gold in color and brilliancy and is used in making cheap jewelry. It is really shaped under pressure. The names oroide and orcide are derived from the French word "or" (gold) and Greek word "eidos" (form).

Q. Which birds have the most highly developed brains? R.N.

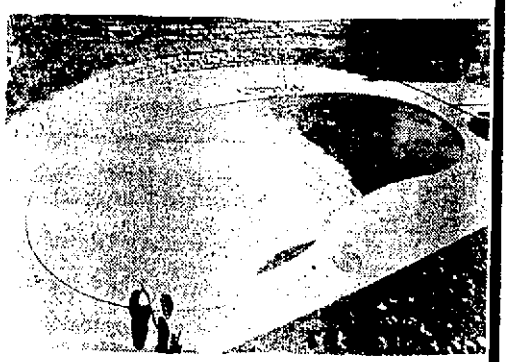

A. The family of jays, crows, ravens, and magpies show the most brain development. Parrots come next.

Q. Give the salary of the President of the U.S. Senate. N.R.

A. The vice president of the United States, who is president of the Senate, ex officio, receives $43,000 a year salary and $10,000 a year for expenses, all of which is taxable. If there is no vice president in office, the presiding officer of the Senate (president pro tem) is paid this amount. When a vice president is in office, a senator who is appointed to fill his place in the Senate during absences receives only his salary as senator.

THE URBAN NIGHTMARE

Our Gigantic Involvement in a Most Inefficient Mode of Travel

By Bill Duncan

TRAVELING the freeway from his home in Orange to Long Beach State College where he teaches architecture, Prof. Arthur Gallion mused:

"There is an average of 1½ persons in each of the cars on this freeway stretching out for miles between urban areas. One person takes up 5 square feet of space. One automobile, standing still, takes up 175 square feet of space—more than 25 times as much as an individual."

To the college professor who has spent a lifetime planning the orderly use of space, this formula for transportation is "ludicrous."

The automobile, both in size and number, uses two-thirds of the space in Southern California cities where it has become a goddess to a mobile society, he asserts. The space claimed by automobiles include streets, alleys, freeways, parking lots, garages, carports and anywhere else the four-wheeled goddess chooses to roll or park.

PROF. GALLION is a scholarly critic of the freeway mania that is gripping not only California, he says, but the "entire world. Look at Europe and now even Japan. All major cities of the world are building criss-crossing freeway systems to keep up with the increasing number of automobiles. We are not solving the problem, we are compounding it."

The Long Beach college professor has written a learned textbook, "The Urban Pattern," in which he tells how "we got caught in this spider web of concrete, asphalt, steel, on ramps, off ramps, bridges and overheads—the urban trap created by an overabundance of automobiles.

Building freeways, he says, is a never-ending process. "We'll never have enough if we continue to depend on the automobile for transportation, no matter how many we build," he predicts.

HIS TEXTBOOK is used by 32 colleges and universities in the United States and in Latin America and India. Until recently he was dean of architecture at University of Southern California and before this assignment he was a consultant on architecture for the federal government with the principal assignment of planning cities.

His interest in freeways is purely architectural in nature and involves the land use. He feels the overbuilding of freeways is just the proliferation of bad planning, the blind acceptance of an inefficient system of travel. A necessary evil, it would seem, but definitely an evil.

"We build freeways because we have a mode of travel that is most inefficient—the automobile. We are preoccupied these days with efficiency, yet the automobile industry, which is tooled for mass production and automation as part of the efficiency scramble in the United States, turns out as an end product the most inefficient machine of them all," he argues. "We started with the carriage which was one horse powered and could do a maximum speed of 12 miles an hour. Today, we have a 150-horsepowered automobile that is choked down to an average speed of 37 miles an hour because of traffic jams."

TO ARCHITECT Gallion, this inequity between the potential speed and the practical speed at which the automobile must travel because of congestion, makes it a totally inadequate vehicle for the needs of modern cities.

"In order to resolve the predicament created by this curious set of facts which we face in moving from one place to another, we built freeways," he says.

His conclusion: "They will never work."

However, he admits that freeways in Southern California have done a remarkable job of moving traffic considering the number of automobiles on the roadways today.

But to Gallion the whole plan is "an impossible situation. There is no solution in sight and it has to get worse instead of better."

The construction and design of freeways in California are the best in the world, he says. The freeways are handsome places and even beautify the city with their wide stretches of smooth pavement and broad rights of way flanked by lush landscaping. "They have given an exciting new dimension both to the metropolitan and urban areas," he concludes.

"THIS IS THE age of genius and we must find a better way to move people to and from cities. It has to be a system of mass transit, rapid transit or any other name you care to give it. I believe it will have to be an overhead rail method. At least I hope we would not bore underground for a subway system. I should think we've outgrown the era of the mole."

Before such a rapid transit method can become a reality, he believes, Southern California must "grow up." The area is spread too thin, Gallion comments. "We still have a semi-rural environment and the density of living space must be increased."

"What created the need for bigger and better freeways in the first place," the professor acknowledges, "is that people keep moving further and further away from the metropolis and their places of employment."

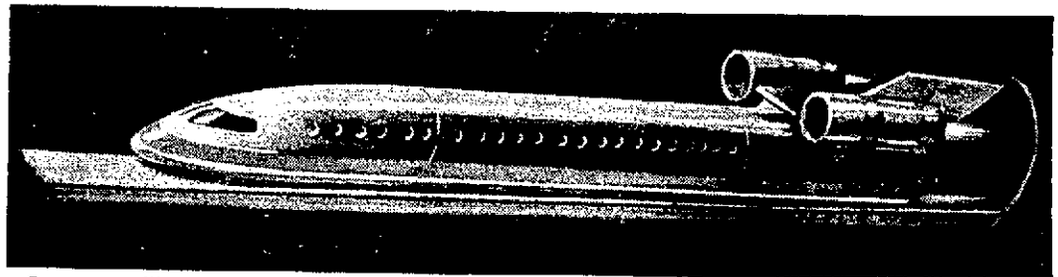

NO MATTER what happens in the future city, he explains, freeways are here to stay. "We'll need those we have already and perhaps even larger and better ones, but freeways are not a practical solution to movement of people and goods in a big modern city."

Can we solve the traffic jam?

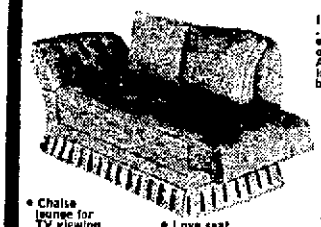

"Of course we can," he asserts. "Haven't we solved every other major problem of big cities—sanitation, water, power? We are a nation of geniuses, but we'll never solve the transportation problem as long as we figure automobiles as the chief mode of travel."

If we try, Gallion says, we'll choke in our own planning—on the freeway to nowhere.

Freeways will one day be augmented by a rapid transit system, but Southern California is not yet ready for high-speed "streetcars" of the future, declares the noted authority, Prof. Arthur Gallion (above).

He Came, He Saw... but the Freeway Conquered

AN AVERAGE of 200 persons from other states move into Orange County every day, according to the Orange County Population Research Bureau. Most settle down for a long stay. This is the story of George Patrick Wilson, one who came, who saw, but didn't stay.

He was, until he packed up and moved back to Kentucky, my neighbor in Placentia. Placentia is in an idyllic setting—one of those few places in Orange County where the spring air is still permeated with the scent of orange blossoms.

Wilson had read an ad in an Ohio newspaper seeking workers at an Anaheim electronics plant. He is a trained electronics engineer and the job seemed attractive. He applied and was hired.

SIXTY DAYS later, Wilson was packed and ready to move back to Kentucky. Why? I inquired.

"Freeways," he snapped. Just to mention the word made him shudder.

"Oh, you'll learn to use the freeways after a while," I said in a reassuring tone.

"Never. I only drove on them once and that was enough," he answered.

"What happened?" I probed.

"Well," he drawled, "let me tell you about that trip. My wife wanted to see that place in Hollywood where the movie stars stick their feet in wet cement. One day we started up the freeway to Hollywood. It was frightening. Cars kept jumping around from lane to lane like frogs leaping off lily pads. The drivers were rushing toward Hollywood like it had just opened for homesteading."

"Going up was rough, but coming back convinced me that I had to leave this state as quickly as possible. I was in the right lane of the Hollywood Freeway when I saw a sign that said: 'Left lane Santa Ana Freeway.' I hand signaled that I wanted to get over to the left. Cars honked their horns, screeched their brakes and the drivers shook their fists, but I finally got over to the left lane.

"No sooner was I there, than I saw a sign that said: 'right lane Santa Ana Freeway.' It was too late. I was in the left lane and nobody was going to let me get out. I was pushed right onto the San Bernardino Freeway and carried like I was riding an ocean wave for five miles before I could get off.

"With some difficulty I got back on the Santa Ana Freeway and stuck to the right lane. Suddenly I found myself going up a hill and discovered I was on the Long Beach Freeway. I got off the freeway and a service station man directed me back to the Santa Ana Freeway, but I neglected to tell him in which direction I wanted to go. I drove down the Long Beach Freeway and melted into the Santa Ana Freeway headed toward Los Angeles. The traffic was so heavy I got pushed off the Santa Ana Freeway onto the Santa Monica Freeway.

"THEN I GOT pushed off the Santa Monica Freeway onto a roller coaster of twists and turns that put me on the Harbor Freeway. I drove like a desperate man trapped in a maze until I saw a sign that said: Hollywood Freeway. I decided to take it and start the whole trip over again. I kept looking for that left-then-right sign leading to the Santa Ana Freeway. I drove slowly in the right lane because I just can't read fast enough at 65 miles an hour.

"I finally spied a sign that said: 'Sunset Boulevard,' and I knew I had made another wrong turn. I pulled off the freeway and got gas as well as directions. I started down the Hollywood Freeway in the right direction and hugged the right lane. I passed under Los Angeles and saw that left lane sign for the Santa Ana Freeway, but this time I didn't budge out of the right lane.

"Suddenly, I was going down hill onto Mission Road. I'd been pushed off again. At this point, I told my wife if we can't get to Placentia without going on the Santa Ana Freeway I'm going to keep driving until I get to Kentucky. I stopped at another gas station and asked directions to Placentia.

"DO YOU KNOW that fellow said turn around and take the Santa Ana Freeway! I told him you couldn't get there on the Santa Ana Freeway because I'd been trying for hours. He said I could if I'd take the Riverside Freeway at Buena Park, but I insisted on directions to any little old two-lane road that went there. He directed me to Whittier Boulevard and said turn left there and it would take me all the way to Fullerton.

"Do you know what happened when I reached Whittier Boulevard? I found a sign that read: 'No left turn.'

"And that's enough for any man. I'm going back to Kentucky."

The last time I saw neighbor George Patrick Wilson he was towing a packed trailer headed for, of all places, the freeway — outbound.

Our Best-Designed

Scenic Highway System

Designated the best designed highway in the U. S., California's scenic route across the Sierra Nevada, with scenes like this, is outstanding.

THE "best designed scenic route in the United States" and a vast network of eyeful touring terrain await Californians who want to stay near home this summer on their sightseeing excursions.

A six-year program to develop a state scenic highways system was culminated in recent weeks with a grand prize when part of California's sightseeing network was designated the best designed scenic route in America, a stretch of mountain-girdling roadway across the Sierra Nevada a day's drive from Southland cities.

The 16-mile-long expanse of State Route 88 in Amador County, planned as a showcase of Sierra Nevada beauty, follows a trail steeped in California history.

Running from Foster Meadows Road to a point east of Silver Lake, threading along a ridge at an average altitude of 5,000 feet, the route offers a breathtaking view of virgin timber, snowy mountains and areas dotted with wildflowers.

IT FOLLOWS a trail blazed by John C. Fremont from the Sierra Nevada into the San Joaquin Valley. Kit Carson Pass, named in 1844 for the explorer, is part of it. It brought immigrants to California and it was used by Californians seeking riches in the Nevada gold and silver mines.

The route took top honors for 1965 in the competition sponsored by Parade Magazine annually to designate the new highway which best embodies the principles of good design, beauty and utility. The section and Highway 88, itself, follow the State Scenic Highway Law which established the scenic highways system "... as a vital part of the all encompassing effort which the state must take to protect and enhance California's beauty, amenity, and quality of life."

California's Scenic Highway System stretches from the Redwoods near Crescent City along the Oregon Border and from the lava beds near Mt. Shasta down the rock-lined coastline along State Route 1 and along the Mother Lode country of the Sierra to the vast expanses of Death Valley, Imperial Valley and the International border below San Diego and El Centro.

Many hundreds of miles of scenic routes are in between, curving through Fort Bragg and Moccasin Creek to Mariposa to Romoland. All roadway along the designated State Scenic Highway System has met specifications set up by the advisory committee of the Department of Public Works with special attention to gradual elimination of unsightly signs and buildings and efforts to eliminate or screen from view other unsightliness.

A state report says local governments have been enthusiastic in following the recommendations.

Specially designed information panels are being installed along the routes, advising motorists of campgrounds and various travelers' services.

A Facelift for an Old Friend

AFTER nearly a decade of service, the Long Beach Freeway is groaning with growing pains, but the State Division of Highways is administering a $6,500,000 treatment designed to relieve the ever-growing congestion on the old friend to the area's motorists.

To provide for the more than 100,000 vehicles that traverse the expressway daily, the Long Beach freeway is being widened from six lanes to eight lanes for 14 miles from the San Diego Freeway north to Olympic Boulevard, near the Santa Ana Freeway interchange.

The new lanes are being added to the inside of the roadway in each direction, which will leave a median 16 feet wide.

In the median a blocked-out metal beam barrier will be installed throughout the 14 miles. The barrier, which makes head-on collisions almost impossible, will give users of the freeway greater safety along with the added traffic capacity.

Another feature adding to safety and driving convenience will be a two-foot glare shield atop the barrier to screen off the headlights of oncoming cars.

FROM THE viewpoint of the highway engineers and contractors on the job, the work is harder than building a new freeway, because the ever-present traffic is only a few feet away from the operation. These same conditions also pose problems for the motorists. Safety is the big question for everybody.

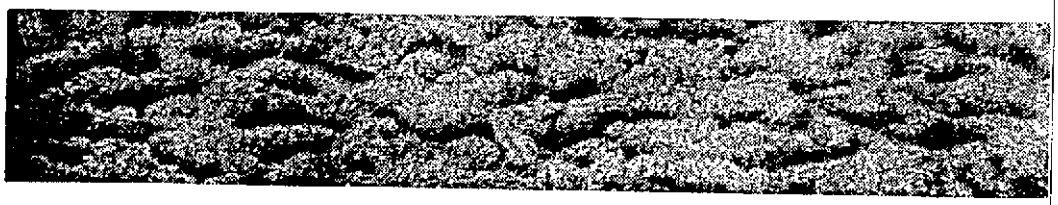

Safety is a problem because excavating for the new lanes in the median leaves a drop-off of about 18 inches from the existing inside lane to the construction area. This condition is marked by signs reading "open trench" and larger signs indicating "no shoulder."

In addition, for the further protection of drivers, the edge of the pavement is delineated by reflectorized paddles.

At this time little more than half of the total length of the project is excavated, but later the full 14 miles will be open before the paving begins.

From time to time, until the work is completed early next year, inside lanes will be closed between 9 a.m. and 3 p.m.

In addition to the construction in the median, which includes changing all drainage facilities, there is considerable work involved in widening the 12 bridges along the route and widening roadways in the San Diego and Santa Ana Freeway interchange areas.

Whom would you choose if YOU were a floor?

If you were a floor (perhaps a floor who was feeling cold, and maybe a tiny bit ragged) wouldn't you turn to someone whose only business was making floors feel warm, comfortable, luxurious and beautiful? . . . Someone who could let you choose your coverings from rolls upon limitless rolls of America's finest carpetings . . . and who dressed you with such skillful care and attention that you would stay warm and luxurious for years and years?

If you were a floor (or even a window) wouldn't you choose Willbanks'?

When completed in the 1980s, the metropolitan Long Beach-Los Angeles freeway system will look like this.

The 'Crosstown' Freeway Has a High Priority

By George Weeks

THOUGH THE Pacific Coast Freeway, which will cross Long Beach in an east-west direction, has been given a high priority by the state for rapid progress, the start of construction is five to six years away, according to official estimates.

The latest scheduling was disclosed by Edward T. Telford, district engineer for the state highway division, who said the whole 7.3-mile reach will be completed within three years after the first contract is let, unless financing goes awry.

Detailed design is already in progress, Telford reported, and will be advanced "within a year or two" to the point of enabling state agents to start large-scale acquistion of right of way.

Meanwhile the highway division is continuing to acquire "hardship" properties—small segments of the right of way whose owners will be subjected to financial distress if they must wait for the more massive purchases.

STATE PLANNING calls generally for east-to-west progress in the construction, in an effort to relieve expected congestion generated by the scheduled completion this summer of additional sections of the San Diego Freeway in Orange County.

This priority coincides with suggestions of the Chamber of Commerce. But it means that the construction is likely to start first in the area of greatest dispute when the freeway issue was aired before the City Council. The Alamitos Heights Improvement Association took strong exception to the freeway routing through the Recreation Park-Rainbow Lagoon-Marine Stadium complex.

State officials said they consider the freeway question settled when the City Council, after a long and bitter hearing Feb. 15, approved a city-street agreement for street closings. City technical staffs, on the strength of that vote, are working with state engineers to resolve details of design.

THE CROSS-TOWN route, requiring right of way with a minimum width of 200 feet from east to west city boundaries and beyond, was the first of the great freeways to be hotly contested in Long Beach.

The growing trend toward objection followed generally a statewide pattern, but in Long Beach the showdown stage never eventuated in outright official opposition as in San Francisco and some other coastal cities.

Unofficial estimates are that it will cost a minimum of $65 million in state money to build the freeway through Long Beach. The state also will pay for most of the local street construction made necessary by the freeway route.

Despite its name, the freeway here never reaches to more than the upper finger-

HOMES

Family Style, Professional Accent

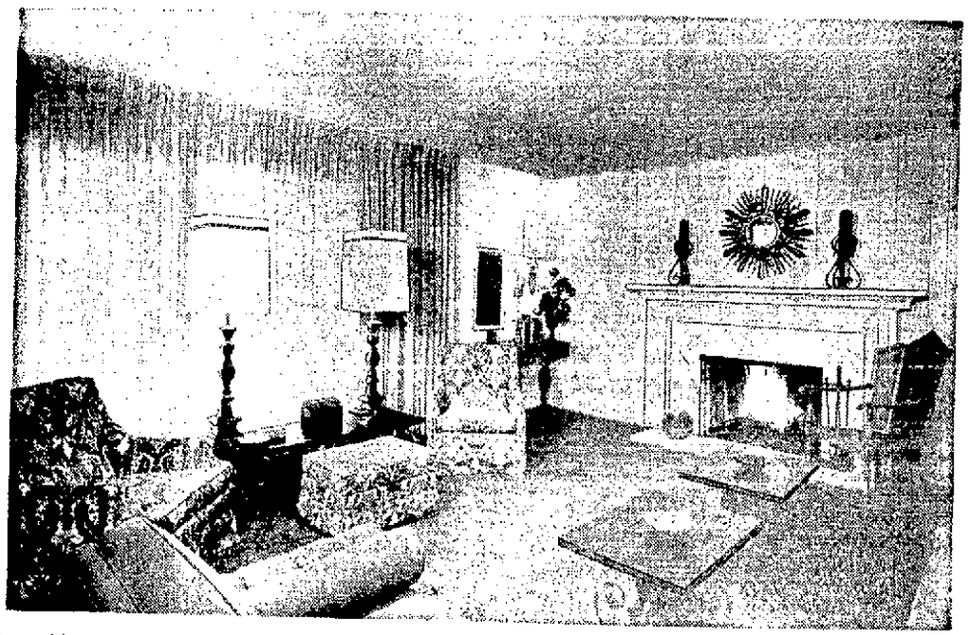

Originally an 8-foot unit, this sofa has been extended to 11 feet and re-styled. A return item was also added.

Two occasional chairs and an ottoman were refurbished to have a place in the new home of Mr. and Mrs. Edson.

A TWO-STORY HOME provides the setting for every-day enjoyment in the lives of Mr. and Mrs. James Edson, 3191 Val Verde Ave., and the story behind the interior decorating in the home is interesting.

To start, Mrs. Edson wanted to keep furniture pieces she had in their previous home, adding accessories where needed and perhaps having some of the original pieces redesigned to suit the new decor. Also, she had paintings done by her brother, John Ware, and some which she had done herself which she wanted to display. Her mother, Mrs. Ware, was artistically inclined in refinishing furniture and sewing and was willing to contribute her talents where needed. Mrs. Edson did, however, want professional help with her new home in order to have everything just right. Interior designer Bryan Waller was called upon to guide the Edsons in creating an example of professional designer and family working together.

—Staff Photos by JOE RISINGER

Olive green wool turf carpeting is used in the living and dining rooms and den downstairs. An eight-foot sofa was extended to 11 feet with a new matching return piece making even more comfortable seating space in the room.

THE GALLERY WALL behind the sofa includes wood sculpture, a Spanish hand torch, paintings by Mrs. Edson, her brother. Coffee tables in front of the sofa have heavy wrought iron bases, carrying out the Spanish-Mediterranean motif. A chest at the corner where the two sofas meet is of wormy chestnut and holds an impressive lamp custom designed in iridescent green.

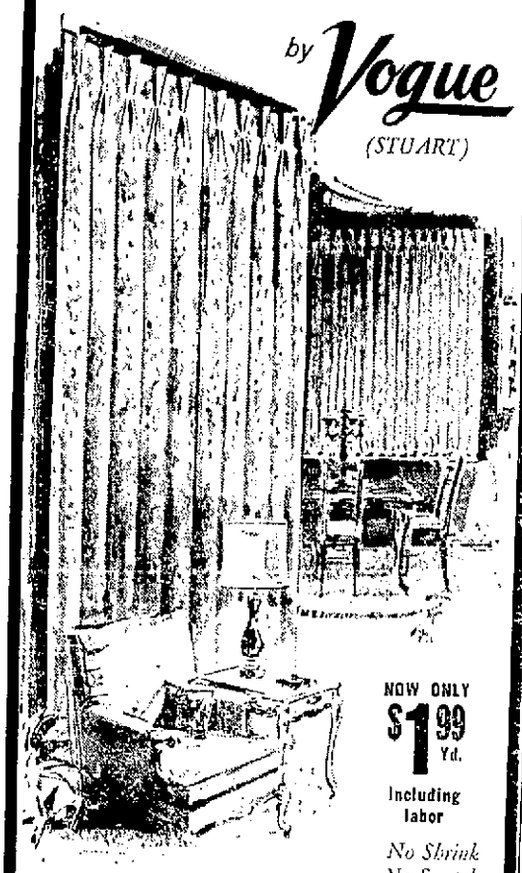

Two lounge chairs opposite the sofa grouping were also redesigned and are covered with a linen print of blue and beige. Waller made a hassock to match the chairs. A Spanish bench rests between the chairs with a matching pair of lamps. Custom designed, these have square shades. The mantel has candlesticks of black Spanish iron with a sunburst mirror made of antique gilt wood and gesso in the center.

depicts the Golden Gate Bridge in a fog and was done by Ware. The table and an occasional chair on the other side of the fireplace were refinished by Mrs. Edson's mother.

THE DINING ROOM table is round oak which Mrs. Ware did in olive green. Chairs are antique white and seats are covered in a bold plaid of hot pink, yellow and orange. A grouping over the buffet table is made up of brightly colored tissue paper collages made by Mrs. Edson. The chandelier came with the home, but now there is probably no other exactly like it in Long Beach. Glass prisms were removed and it has been painted with layers of orange, pink and white. Colors were then rubbed down to highlights of the original brass. The resulting appearance is similar to a provincial French antique. A long narrow table finished in antique white and with a pink formica top serves as a buffet. It looks as if it were custom made for its setting but Mrs. Edson tells friends that before its face-lift, she picked it up for $1.50.

A HANDY serving bar extends from the kitchen into the family room. Four rattan bar stools are done in pink and orange. An oak dinette table has retained the oak finish; serviced by six chairs—two in hot pink, two orange, and two gold.

The master bedroom has olive wool turf carpeting. A bedspread is Spanish type done in bright royal blue and kelly green, with a royal blue velvet dust ruffle. Furnishings are light mahogany. Above a carved desk are a group of family pictures. One of the luxuries in the room is a fireplace.

The Edson children, Jennifer, 4, and Julie, 2, share an enjoyable room and Winfield, 1 year old, enjoys a room to himself. A fourth bedroom serves as a playroom.

THE TIME of year is upon us to begin planning for summer outings—picknicking. It's time for what might be called "the Paper Caper."

Something new has been added to the paper list—the paper dress, created by the Scott Co. for carefree summer days at the picnic table.

These two examples are the bandana print and pop-art patterns. They provide for gay, informal partying in a riot of color.

For a teen-aged group, add whimsey and sparkle with paper decorations which range from a mock Tiffany lamp to butterflies to fit any theme.

"Finger Foods" are in keeping with the informal relaxed mood of the Paper Caper party. Reusable colorful baskets make easy and convenient food service, lined with gaily colored triple-ply paper placemats. Color coordinated plastic cups are ideal toss away containers for a hearty salad and for serving bright, tangy "Pitcher Punch." Tuck relishes in the basket for out-of-hand eating, and provide lots of paper napkins for this finger food meal.

Hearty satisfying foods combine with disposables to make a memorable affair in which advance preparation and clean-up are as relaxed and easy as the party itself.

Chipper Chicken and Pitcher Punch

A LIGHT, tasty yet appetite-appeasing menu, that's the subject of this week's adventure in cookery.

Today Southland Magazine spotlights the picnic table.

Picnic tables can be a redwood back yard set or a tablecloth spread at the beach, but the most important thing is the spread of food, so here is a menu that will make your next encounter with the picnic a memorable one:

Chipper Chicken

2½ 3 pound chicken, cut in serving pieces
1 egg
3 tablespoons milk

By Mildred K. Flanary

Southland Magazine Home Economics Editor

1 package (6½ ounces) potato chips
½ teaspoon garlic salt
½ teaspoon paprika
¼ cup melted butter or margarine

Wash chicken, then dry with paper towels. Combine egg and milk; dip chicken pieces into egg mixture. Crush potato chips in Cut-Rite Plastic Bag. Combine potato chip crumbs with garlic, salt and paprika. Shake chicken in bag with crumb mixture. Arrange chicken pieces in single layer in shallow pan; brush with melted butter. Cover with foil and bake in preheated 400-degree F. oven for 30 minutes. Remove foil. Increase temperature to 450 degrees F., bake 15-20 minutes longer or until golden brown and tender. Drain on paper towel. Makes 4 servings.

Very Rice Salad

¼ cup French dressing
½ cup coarsely chopped chutney
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon curry powder
4 cups cold cooked rice
2 cups sliced celery
1 cup cooked peas

Combine French dressing, chutney, salt and curry; mix well. Lightly toss with re-

Recipe of the Week

FRENCH treatment of Swiss steak gives a new twist to this popular food and wins $5 as best recipe of the week for Mrs. Reta L. Teodorski, 1600 E. San Vincente St., Compton 90221. The recipe:

French Style Swiss Steak

1½ lbs. swiss steak tenderized
2 cups bread crumbs
2 tblsp. celery flakes
1 egg
1 tsp. thyme
Dash of salt
1 cup of water
1 can cream of mushroom soup
1 can of water

Combine bread crumbs, celery, egg, thyme, salt and cup of water to make dressing. Roll steak in flour, brown in hot lightly oiled skillet. Turn fire or electric skillet to simmer. Put dressing over top of steak. Pour soup over dressing and steak. Pour can of water into skillet around steak. Cover and let cook until tender (approximately 1½ hours). Peel and quarter 3 good sized potatoes and place around steak. Cover and continue to cook until potatoes are done.

What's your favorite recipe? For each recipe published in this space, Southland will pay $5. Men are urged to submit their recipes along with the ladies. Send yours, with name and address to Recipe Contest Editor, Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif. 90801.

MEDICINE AND YOU

Sneeze May Stop Those Hiccups

By Ben Zinser

Southland Magazine Medical Science Editor

SOMETIMES a mere sneeze will halt prolonged hiccuping, a doctor comments in the Journal of the American Medical Association.

But attempting to induce sneezing to halt hiccups isn't exactly new, the doctor remarks. He quotes from Plato's "Symposium":

"Hold your breath a long time and see if the hiccup will stop; if it won't, gargle water.

"But if it still goes strong, pick up something to tickle your nose with, and sneeze; do this once or twice, and stop it will, even if it is very strong."

Dr. Glaus Hergt of River Rouge, Mich., comments: "It seems physiologically reasonable to try to break the cycle of hiccup by a short, but strong diaphragmatic contraction."

NEW AID for stutterers: Looking up information and reporting in group discussion on the lives of famous stutterers.

Well-known stutterers investigated to date by a group of patients: Charles Lamb, Joseph Lister, Somerset Maugham, Cotton Mather, King George VI.

A Northern Michigan University researcher, in a report in Quarterly Journal of Speech, says that adolescent stutterers respond to treatment much more rapidly since they started studying stutterers.

A ninth-grader, for example, gained needed morale by reporting on the life of Charles Lamb.

A NEW MALE disease—an aberration in the sex chromosome pattern—appears to make men criminals and tall in stature.

The strange condition is known as the YY syndrome, according to the medical journal, The Lancet.

Chromosomes are structures inside a cell which carry hereditary-bearing units called genes. The normal human has two sex chromosomes (XX in women and XY in men).

But the men reported in The Lancet study had a sex chromosome pattern of XYY instead of XY.

Studied in Scottish mental hospitals were nine long-time patients, all XYYs. Six were 6 feet tall or taller, and all nine had criminal records. Eight were mentally retarded, and one was schizophrenic (severely disturbed).

USE OF ANTIBIOTICS, particularly tetracyclines, may lead to development of a black tongue, reports a doctor in the periodical Consultant.

Black tongue results from overgrowth of pigment-producing molds and fungi. Antibiotics are believed to suppress micro-organisms that normally inhibit the growth of fungi and molds. Although a black tongue is esthetically objectionable, its appearance does not require withdrawal of antibiotic treatment.

A MYSTERIOUS infectious disease is being reported in Japan. Some victims are left paralyzed, some blind. First reported in 1959, the disease has so far affected about 800 persons.

At the outset the victim complains of stomach pains and diarrhea, which last three days to one week. Then comes numbness of the toes. Paralysis ascends from the feet, sometimes affecting the trunk and occasionally causing blindness or death.

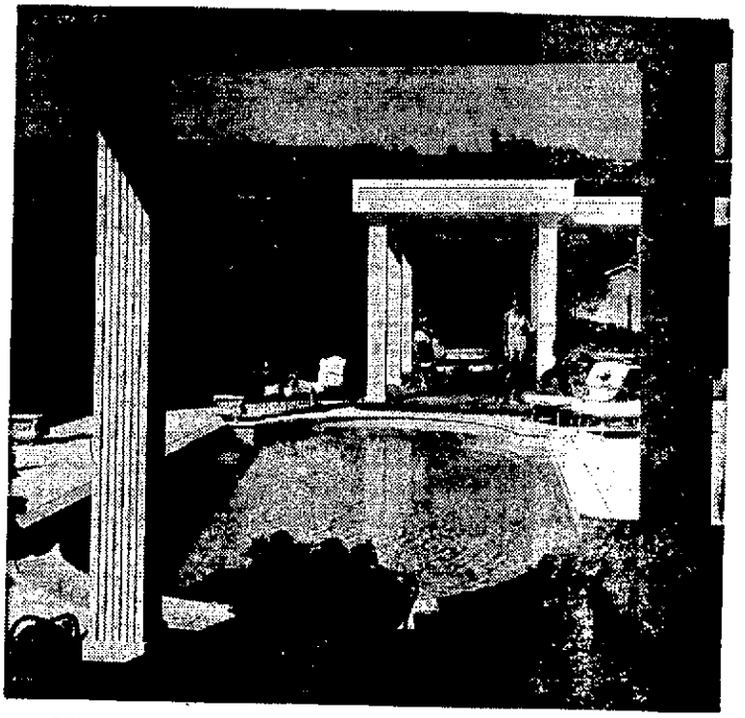

Most victims have been between 20 and 50 years old, although a few children have been stricken. The causative organism: unknown.

All-Year Beauty

Sometimes we miss out on the most useful and handsome plants we can grow because we just haven't heard about them. This is often the case with the Lenten Rose, a beautiful off-season perennial that deserves to be better known.

Polished, dark green leaves that never do a disappearing act. Flowers that look like perfect, single roses. Profuse bloom from July to April. The ability to serve as an elegant groundcover under trees, shrubs, ferns, azaleas, rhododendrons or camellias.

An undemanding disposition where culture is concerned. An immunity to pests and diseases — even slugs and snails. There are only some of the virtues of the Lenten Rose, a plant that the California Association of Nurserymen recommends for all-year beauty in shady spots.

BULLETIN: FIRST 10 MONTHS OF 1965 IN SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA*

Anthony builds more pools than the next fifteen single pool builders combined!

WHY ANTHONY?

We believe that much of the overwhelming preference for Anthony results from the recommendation of satisfied pool owners. Here are some of the reasons:

DEPENDABLE ACCESSORIES. At our 15 acre facility we manufacture our own top-quality line of pool parts and accessories. Our reputation for the dependability of our filters, heaters, water purifier, and pool cleaner—plus the assurance of service on all equipment from one source—is one of the big reasons many people recommend Anthony Pools.

FINANCIAL BACK-UP. The warranties of a builder or manufacturer depend on his ability to back them up. Ask any builder for his financial statement. Here is Anthony's current financial back-up: Cash, $1,265,567; Total net worth, $3,050,832.

IT'S EASY TO JOIN THE POOL OWNER SET. On ten-year financing, a complete pool can be yours for very low monthly payments. For example, a loan balance of $2000 runs only $26.67 a month. Is it any wonder so many young families are adding an Anthony pool to their way of life?

*Per most recent building permits reported by independent reporting service. Anthony also built more pools than all franchised pool builders combined!

maining ingredients. Top with green or ripe olive filled with thin carrot curls.

Nutty Bars

½ cup sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup butter or margarine
1 cup sugar
1 egg white — 2 eggs
½ teaspoon vanilla
1 cup light brown sugar
1 cup chopped walnuts

On wax paper, sift together flour, baking powder and salt. Cream together butter and sugar until light and fluffy; add eggs one at a time, beating well after each addition; add vanilla. Mix in dry ingredients. Spread in greased 9 x 13-inch baking pan.. Beat egg whites until stiff; fold in brown sugar. Spread topping on dough; top with nuts. Bake in preheated 325-degree F. oven 30 minutes. Cool in pan and cut into 32 bars.

Pitcher Punch

1 quart cranberry juice cocktail
1 6-ounce can concentrated orange juice thawed
¼ cup sugar
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 quart orange soda

Combine cranberry juice, orange juice concentrate and lemon juice and sugar; stir to dissolve sugar. Before serving, add orange soda and ice cubes. Makes about 2½ quarts.

Here's Master-Spy Textbook

Reviewed by MORRY RABIN

THE CASE OF RICHARD SORGE. By F. W. Deakin and G. R. Storry. Harper & Row, $6.

The classic spy operates under an obscure cover occupation, a furtive, lonely dealer in vital bits of information. The movie spy shoots his way past barred doors and blows open safes to get secret documents.

But Richard Sorge, the German master of deception who was hanged in Japan in 1944 as head of a Communist spy ring for Russia, moved openly, graciously as a celebrated journalist on Far Eastern affairs, welcomed in the German embassy, a confidente of the ambassador. He even joined the Nazi party.

The authors, British war experts now on the Oxford faculty, have done a thoroughly difficult job of turning up the facts of Sorge's many-cloaked career. And they have compiled a well documented reference textbook, rather than an exciting biography, although Sorge's bouts with the bottle and his marital and extra-marital liaisons add a dramatic touch.

Sorge, whose father was a German mining engineer and his mother a Russian, trained for years in secret work in Germany, Moscow, Scandinavia and England but those background movements were difficult for Deakin and Storry to trace because he covered up skillfully and seemed to be somewhere while he was elsewhere.

HIS LEGENDARY role as agent for Germany as well as Russia is examined and discounted — he reputedly gave the German embassy minor tidbits while provoking discovery of significant material.

Sorge is generally credited with having learned, through his Japanese confederates, that Japan would attack Pearl Harbor, rather than the Russians in Siberia in 1941, and he did so apprise Moscow. Whether his information influenced the shifting of Soviet military emphasis from Siberia to Moscow to defend against the invading Germans is not certain, but such a shift did occur about that time.

His successful espionage had serious repercussions in the United States, the authors contend, because his story became ammunition early in the cold war to discredit those elements in American public life who had championed the wartime alliance with Russia and had hoped for subsequent cooperation with the Communist bloc in peace.

SUPER-patriot or sinister deceiver, Sorge was eulogized by Russia as a "dedicated international Communist whose ideology and technical skill were in themselves a practical and decisive contribution to the cause of peace." He was a talented adversary. Even the Germans he hoodwinked regretted his demise.

MEET JAPAN. Charles E. Tuttle Co. $3.50.

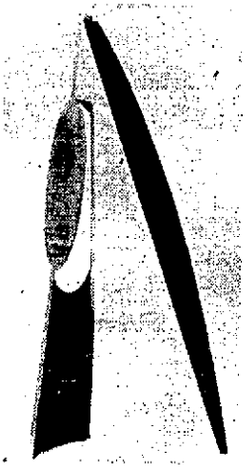

This look at modern-day Japan is compiled by a number of Japanese writers. The opening chapter takes the reader through some of the scenic highlights of the country with illustrations and then on to the faces of Japan. This portion shows countrymen in various modes of dress — modern and traditional—going about their various occupations.

Other parts deal with the major cities, the government, crafts, arts, transportation and industries. The chapter covering industry shows the tremendous growth of production—Japan ranks fourth in the world.

A surface picture of Japan, this book could serve as a textbook or provide background information for the businessman or tourist. It is an updated version of the last 20 sections of the offical souvenir of the 1964 Olympics.

The authors are quite frank and matter-of-factly point out short-comings as well as good points of their country.

All in all, a handy, readable guidebook.—Forest Jordan

MAN WALKING, one of 388 illustrations from "DIRECT METAL SCULPTURE" by Dona Meilach and Donald Seiden (Crown, $6.95). The "Man" is aluminum, constructed by Isamu Noguchi. Creative techniques and appreciation of metal sculpture is the basis of this volume and included are how-to photographs.

THE STRANGE WORLD OF WILLIE SEABROOK. By Marjorie Worthington. Harcourt, Brace, $4.75. Novelist Worthington was married to voodoo-investigating William B. Seabrook, whose popular writings ranged from Haiti to the inside of a mental institution. She dips her pen in total candor and describes the hell of alcoholism that caused their separation.

IN SEARCH OF PARADISE: THE NORDHOFF-HALL STORY. By Paul Briand Jr. Duell, Sloan and Pearce, $6.95. They were as inseparable as ham and eggs, but adventurers Charles Nordhoff and James Norman Hall, who jointly wrote some three dozen books, one of them "Mutiny on the Bounty," were decidedly different characters. Their lives, as this biography testifies, were as dramatic as their novels. Hall was a Lafayette Escadrille flier in World War I. He and Nordhoff shared a disgust with the postwar world that sent them to the South Seas.

EARTHLY PARADISE, AN AUTOBIOGRAPHY OF COLETTE. Edited by Robert Phelps. Farrar, Straus, $6.95. "Autobiographies" patched together out of their subjects' writings usually turn out to be crazy quilts. Not this one. Colette, who created "Gigi" among many immortal characters, was considered by those most knowledgeable as France's best modern writer. Aficionados of Colette, and they are many, will cherish this mosaic.

The Non-Book of the Month

An inevitable part of the price we pay for free elections is the campaign biography. In it the career of the candidate reads like a chapter from "The Lives of the Saints."

In the campaign biography the man who runs is idolized in the hokiest hyperbole by the man who runs off at the typewriter. It's to be expected. But please, don't ask us to pay for the dubious privilege. To be required to shell out hard cash for a campaign biography is like having to pay Uncle Sam for the income tax form.

Ed Ainsworth has written "MAVERICK MAYOR: A BIOGRAPHY OF SAM YORTY." Doubleday, $4.95. "Maverick Mayor," by the merest of chance, rolls off the presses and into the presumably hotly eager hands of the public, in the middle of a gubernatorial primary race in which the mayor of Los Angeles is a contender. We have the author's assurance that the manuscript was completed some months before Sam's hat was in the ring—officially, that is. It required no astuteness to know that the sounds that Sam was making long before his announcement were those of a candidate.

AINSWORTH, AS HE HAS done in a previous book, "War on the Colorado" (a history of the Southwest water fight), has a considerable ability to make a book sing with the color and the drama of Southern California and its sprawling focal point, Los Angeles. The never-ending problems of those great, undigested hunks of real estate which are metropolitan Los Angeles are well summarized. The impact of Los Angeles upon the nation are the ribs upon which this book is built. But there is very little real meat.

Sam Yorty is a dynamic politician and Los Angeles is a dynamic city. But that does not make, as Ainsworth would have it, Los Angeles a synonym for Yorty and Yorty a synonym for Los Angeles. Yorty is a highly controversial politico and a book about him should be a well-balanced study, giving full justice to all sides. Instead, we have what reads like a Horatio Alger novel.

SAM YORTY CAN DO NO wrong in this book (though Ainsworth does allow that the fledgling Democratic Congressman Yorty did wander, by mistake, into the Republican lunchroom.)

In Ainsworth's book, Yorty is omniscient, and his all-knowingness goes far beyond the Los Angeles city limits. When the Bay of Pigs invasion failed, did that not prove Yorty wise when he said John F. Kennedy was "not ready for the presidency"? When Gov. Brown signs the triple-prescription requirement for Percodan, "once more the source of drugs for California's addicts had been dried up, with Sam's help." When Yorty wins political victories, he is "determined not to go off on exultant tangents because of a 'mandate from the people'."

When Yorty goes off on a junket (and Ainsworth calls him the "travlingest" mayor in Los Angeles history), he is simply "fulfilling another aspect of the conjunction of the man and the city . . . carrying out . . . a predestined role for the community. When Mayor Yorty has gone to France and Germany and Ireland and Hungary and Poland and other countries he has been going to the homelands of many of the early settlers of his city."

"Mayor Sam stood firm. ." "Mayor Yorty's strong stand for . ." Mayor Yorty's meditations, from which "he draws the strength for contending with all his problems." Sam standing "on the high places, yearning to attain the challenging horizon of the future." Here is our nomination for the Non-Book of the Month.

ONE WHO knew the literary lights of the Thirties, especially Henry Miller in his salad days, Anais Nin writes her recollections of those days in "THE DIARY OF ANAIS NIN: 1931-34" (Harcourt Brace and World and Swallow Press).

Laugh-Shock

HOPSCOTCH. By Julio Cortazar. Pantheon, $6.95.

The man who sets out to find out what his life is all about and in the search gets into all sorts of adventures has often furnished the makings for a first-rate novel, and these are time-tested ingredients that do not fail the Argentine Julio Cortazar. His novel "Hopscotch" is in the distinguished line of Cervantes. As in the best of the novels of his Spanish literary ancestors, Cortazar's combination of the philosophical and the picaresque leads to a memorable reading adventure.

In the course of his search, Oliveira experiences a love affair in Paris and ranges, in Buenos Aires, from saleman, to exhibitor of a cat which can count, to mental asylum attendant. Strange sexual affairs alternate with discussion of life, art and what they signify. The book achieves the near-miracle of shocking one while making one laugh and forcing one to give serious thought to the meaning of things.

High Priority Freeway like fringes of what might be considered the coast—the Marine Stadium and the Colorado Lagoon.

The route enters Long Beach on the west a few hundred feet north of Anaheim Street, veers gradually southeastward through the city, and near the east end reaches as far south as a line south of Colorado Street before turning northeast to join the Garden Grove Freeway in the vicinity of the San Gabriel River.

Proponents of the freeway see it as a step taken barely in time to avert almost impossible congestion between the booming communities of western Orange County and the industrial - harbor - residential developments in Long Beach's west section and adjacent Los Angeles.

COIN ROUNDUP

A Big Year

By Maurice M. Gould

SCHEDULED simultaneously, the Centennial of Confederation and the officially sanctioned World Fair at Montreal, the year of 1967 will be important for Canadians in general and for collectors of Canadian coins in particular.

The entire 1967 issue of Canadian coins will have new reverses, thus making it a new type coin. A gold piece will also be issued, and both should be highly desirable.

There is no doubt that many medals and tokens of all sizes and metals will be issued for this 100th anniversary, which might even prove to be an opportunity for coin clubs and organizations to have their own special commemorative issues.

The World's Fair itself has plans for its own medals, and will provide a desired item for the collectors of this material.

IT IS HOPED that the U. S. government will allow the collector the privilege of purchasing one of the planned gold pieces, as this will be a commemorative issue worthy of a place in any collection. From past experience, you may expect very nice coins as to striking and engraving.

Canada is also in the news with the most traded coins in the world today—the 1965 Canadian silver dollar and its four varieties.

The so-called Type Four with the large head obverse and the pointed 5 reverse, has been steadily rising in value and has been in great demand by both dealers and collectors alike; orders are going to Canada from all areas of the United States, as well as many foreign countries.

Rumors of low mintage are behind the frenzied activity in this series.

AN ELONGATED coin is a piece of money which has been squeezed between two steel rollers on which an additional design might have been engraved. The strong pressure between the two rollers squeezes the coin into an oval piece of thin metal on which the new design is transferred. Or, a regular issue might be altered in shape only.

I believe the first elongated coins were used at the 1893 Columbian Exposition, where they were extremely popular. After this they were used at all of the famous fairs and expositions held in this country. Many of these elongated pieces were made by individuals and organizations, and some have even been used for advertising purposes.

The one I call "The King of Elongated" and which is now in the possession of Marine Maj. B. Gill of Albany, N. Y., is a Hawaiian half-dollar of 1883, which was elongated at the Columbian Exposition in Chicago.

THERE HAVE been many collectors coming into the field in this one specialized phase of numismatics.

A new bible in this series has recently been published by Dottie Dow, a Phoenix collector. It is called "The Elongated Collector."

While it is impossible to have a complete book of this type it still has all the necessary information to help one start an adequate collection.

There is no doubt that many new varieties will now be discovered. Look through old button boxes and trays and any place where souvenirs of various expositions you or your family attended are kept, and there is just a chance you will come up with one of these interesting items.

I REMEMBER attending the 1933 World's Fair in Chicago; this was during the depression. You could have had your own elongated coin made for 6 cents. You gave the gentleman with the press a nickel—plus a cent for his machine—and he would produce an elongated 5-cent piece for you immediately. Or, if you insisted, he would let you make it yourself.

To order the "Coins of Special Value" booklet, send 50 cents with name and address to Southland Magazine, 604 Pine Ave., Long Beach, Calif., 90801. Allow three weeks for delivery.

WORKSHOP

For Patio Parties

Photo layout, held by actress Linda Williams, shows the steps in building a barbecue that will be center of many happy summer hours at home.

By Steve Ellingson

COMES spring, and the sap begins to flow in every outdoor handyman. He's looking forward to a long series of soft summer evenings which stretch ahead, evenings to relax, contemplate the sunset and recoup one's spirit for the 'morrow. The cool dusk hours will find most families dining outside or entertaining friends with casual patio parties.

If you want to be on the outdoor cooking bandwagon this summer, you'll need a barbecue, and one that is easy to build and inexpensive is illustrated on this page. And what is more, it's permanent. This is a fixture that will expand your living, whet your appetite and at the same time enhance the value of your home. Furthermore it gives mother a change from the daily kitchen grind that she's had all winter.

THE BARBECUE shown was built of cement blocks and completed, from start to finish, in one weekend. Pictures were made as we went along. The first picture shows the bare ground. The second getting ready for the first row of blocks. From then on, we tonk pictures of each step as the work progressed.

These pictures (about 50 of them) were assembled and made into a complete set of directions for building the entire unit. They tell how to mix the cement and all other details you need to know. It's merely a case of following the photos. Linda is holding the pattern so you can see how complete it is. The door in front opens into a storage area for charcoal, dishes or other supplies. If you like, the same pattern may be used for building a sink adjacent to the barbecue.

To obtain the easy-to-follow picture pattern No. 162 for building the barbecue shown here, send $1 in currency, check or money order to Steve Ellingson, Southland Magazine Pattern Dept., Box 2383, Van Nuys, Calif. 91409.

Dogs Are a Hobby, Too

By Eleanor Avery Price

Tosaryu, an Akita owned by Anita Powell, gets refreshing drink of water from Candice Gardner.

LONG BEACH Hobby Show, designated this year as the "Luau of Hobbies," will be held at Long Beach Municipal Auditorium on May 5 through May 8, between noon and 10 p.m. daily except Sunday when the event closes at 9 p.m. This is the 32nd annual event sponsored by the Long Beach Recreational Department and the Long Beach Hobby Council. John Martin is president of the council, and Lois Delano is recreation department council advisor.

The Akita Club of America Inc., which had this rare Japanese breed on exhibit in 1965, will give a repeat presentation on the third floor as well as stage shows from 7:20 to 7:40 p.m. Thursday through Saturday, and 3:20 to 3:40 and again at 7:20 to 7:40 on Sunday.

* * * *

THE AKITA has a wealth of nomenclatures. You may have heard it called Shika Inu, turf dog, boar hound, or Japanese spitz. It is an ancient breed used for back country deer, sable, boar and bear hunting. The dog has a remarkable combination of pointing, setting, and retrieving abilities, is big, muscular, beautiful.

Look also for Akitas today at Santa Ana Valley Kennel Club's unbenched show and obedience trial at La Palma Park, Anaheim. This is the nation's largest unbenched dog event.

Also at the Hobby Show: Joe De Beck's obedience training exhibit. Stage performances are Thursday and Friday, 8 to 8:20 p.m.; Saturday, 2:20 to 2:40 and 8 to 8:20 p.m.; Sunday, 1 to 1:20 and 8 to 8:20 p.m.

Be Kind to Animals Week starts today. This week is sponsored by the American Humane Association, and by nearly 700 affiliated animal welfare groups. About the kindest thing you can do for animals is to have most of them neutered. The surplus of animals is costing taxpayers a great deal of money, and these creatures are either destroyed or put into animal compounds for research. Another kind thing you can do is stand behind Congressional legislation requiring compounds to give their charges much better care than in the past. A third kind thing is to keep your pets safe from the streets and from dognappers and catnappers who steal pets for profit.

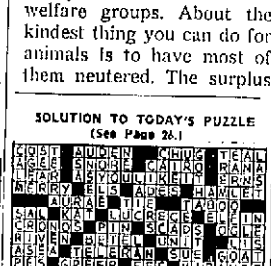

HAVE YOU ever seen a gerbil as a pet? Neither have I. But take warning from the California Departments of Agriculture and Fish & Game that it is illegal to obtain one from pet suppliers. Gerbils range in size between a rat and mouse. They are a pale sandy gray, dark gray, or blackish cinnamon with whitish underparts. They are attractive and friendly, but can work out of most cages. Just a few escaped gerbils would soon colonize, breed prolifically, and do terrible damage to grain and other cultivated crops. It is believed these rodents carry diseases harmful to humans.

SHOW DATES: Turtle races, May 7-8, at Joshua Tree; May 8, Hollywood Dog Obedience Club trial at North Hollywood Park; May 8, Los Amigos Chihuahua Club puppy match at 5111 Benito Ave., Montclair (Recreation Center); May 14-15, Dog Obedience Instructors and Trainers Association, Milo Pearsall Clinic, Devonshire Downs, Northridge; May 21-22, West Hills Hunt Horse Show, Northridge.

Entries close tomorrow noon for May 21 Cabrillo dog show in Escondido, and for May 22 Del Sur event in El Cajon.

Carpet Saver

WITH ACTIVE children in the family, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Churchman, 3062 St. Albans Drive, Los Alamitos, realized that carpeting in traffic areas would need protection. There also was a need to create a break from fully carpeted flooring to effect an entry. Both aims were achieved by placing tile, patterned to blend with early American decor, directly in front of and curving in a wide arc with the door. Carpeting curves to meet the tile, as shown above.

Azaleas Are Gay in the Garden

By Joe Littlefield

AZALEAS provide masses of color and are easy to grow if the few simple cultural rules of the experts are followed. One such authority suggests growing azaleas in damp Canadian sphagnum peat moss with a little bone meal mixed in. Plants are watered a little two or three times a week and are fed cottonseed meal about every six weeks; a little iron occasionally when and if they look tired.

Potted plants must have good drainage and the peat must be packed well under the plant root ball and around it.

All plants need a semi-annual spraying for spider mites or red spider infestation. This grower also says, "Most important of all I talk to my plants and give them plenty of kind loving care. They bloom from January to June and the foliage is green all year long."

AZALEAS may be planted out any time of the year, whether from a pot or tub into the ground, or repotted to a larger container. They may be transplanted from the ground to another part of the garden into the ground, or into a container when the plant has finished blooming.

There's lots of planting to be done for summer color. Plant some zinnias in sunny spot of your garden with a staggered row of showy petunias in front of them, and we'll guarantee that planting will be the most riotously colorful area imaginable.

The giant flowered zinnias are the most striking looking of them all; yet if you don't plant some linearis and persian carpet zinnias, you're missing some bouquets of "little" interesting zinnias that are attractive for small container arrangements indoors. Try them.

Zinnias also may be seed sown, as well as those available in pony paks at nurseries.

SOME OF the larger flower variety zinnias may wilt before reaching maturity blooming stage. This condition is due to an insect that pierces the flower branch, deposits an egg which hatches into larval form of a minute borer that crazily bores down the plant stem, causes it to wilt. Dig up the possible few infested plants and throw them into the trash can. Replant with new ones.

Another annual that provides vivid colors is amaranthus. Plant a half dozen plants in a group against a sunny wall, or at back part of sunny flower bed, and when the foliage matures and colors up, even in full brightest sunlight, the leafage appears to be on fire!

Be sure to tell your nursery man you want "molten fire" amaranthus, or another variety whose mature foliage color combination, too, looks as if plant is on fire.

Potted as shown at left, in tubs or set directly into the soil, azaleas are easy to grow, will produce many blooms.

Best by Choice

You don't have to worry about finding out which of the many rhodendron varieties are best in your climate. Nurserymen will stock only those that have proved successful in your particular location. So your only responsibility is to give it the garden conditions it needs.

Rhododendrons should have a rich, acid soil with plenty of humus added. Peat moss is excellent, and don't be afraid to add too much. A mixture of peat moss, leaf mold and topsoil is fine in many areas; but where conditions are especially hot and dry, planting in pure peat moss is recommended.

When planting in the ground, make sure drainage is good.

Book of Annuals

Arno and Irene Nehrling are a couple of educators of university level and a couple of flower fans of blue ribbon enthusiasm. Their knowledge and interest is reflected in "The Picture Book of Annuals" (Hearthside Press, $6.95), their sixth publication by the same house on topics related to floriculture.

The Nehrlings formed their writing team shortly after their marriage in 1923, Nehrling supplying the scientific basis and his wife the writing and editorial talent. They drew not only on their own knowledge but consulted plant authorities across the country.

In three principal parts, the book deals with "The A to Z of Annuals," "Growing Annuals From Seed or Started Plants," and "Annuals for Every Garden"—which just about covers the field in its entirety. The volume is copiously illustrated by photographic reproductions, many in color, and pen and ink sketches by Emma Crafts Earley. A handsome volume for those who like to scratch around in the soil.

New in Cosmos

COSMOS Sunset is the third gold medal award winner of All-America Selections in the past 27 years. It is a full blooming season annual sulphureus or Klondyke cosmos of brilliant vermillion. In gold or yellow before, this scarlet red is a remarkable color break in this most easily grown favorite. Semi-double 2-inch blooms on 12 to 15-inch wiry stems are borne freely over a longer blooming season than others. The bushy plant reaches 3 feet with 18 to 24-inch spread. Use is for garden display and for cutting. It is the outstanding novelty to attract everyone's attention, a Japanese innovation. It performed beautifully in all areas, from the lower South to Canadian Stations.

GARDEN CLUBS

Long Beach Amateur Orchid Society will celebrate its 11th anniversary at 8 p.m. Monday in Silverado Park Clubhouse. Frank Fordyce of Carlsbad, Calif., will be a guest of honor and Ernest Hetherington, a widely known orchidist, will conduct the commentary. Many exotic orchids in bloom will be displayed.

Belmont Heights Garden Club will present a Spring Flower Show at 1 p.m. Tuesday in Wesley Hall, 317 Termino Ave. Mrs. Grace Stilwell is show chairman. Mrs. Muriel Oyaas will preside at a business session and tea hostesses will include Marion Liken, Waneta Glecker, Jennie Hepler, Edith Holden, Esabel Holden and Mildred Hubbell.

A salad luncheon at noon will precede a talk on gardening by Gordon Baker Lloyd at a meeting Wednesday of Los Altos Garden Club at St. John's Presbyterian Church, 2345 Ximeno Ave. Hostesses include Mmes. Elton Cole, Paul Tasso, Robert Ballard and Walter Thiessen. Mrs. R. I. Williams will preside.

Tips on Gardening

Garden tips for the week . . . This is a good time to set out shrubs and trees from containers. They'll establish new roots quickly in the warming spring soil. For a difficult, shady spot, try the new Aucuba Japonica Picturata; commonly known as aucuba — its showy leaves provide a stunning accent of golden yellow edged with glossy green.

Plant oleander now in the hottest spot in the garden. It will even take reflected sun. Choose from rose red, yellow, salmon, pink or white flowers, and let this tough, sturdy shrub line a roadside or decorate a sunny patio. Once established, it couldn't care less about water.

Set up a regular, deep watering schedule now. Fertilize lawns, shrubs and annuals regularly from now on for good growth.

You'll find new fuchsia introductions at your C.A.N. nursery now, so get them in for a good start. Filtered sunlight, rich, moist acid soil, and frequent feeding will make them bloom their showy best.

Shear back spring-blooming ground covers (snow-in summer, alyssum, ajuga, chamomile) after bloom. Hedge shears are useful for this.

Be sure to get summer-blooming annuals started as soon as you can. You'll find a good selection of the best ones at your nursery now.

For a healthy garden, spray roses, citrus, artichokes and other plants that are putting on new growth with the materials your nurseryman recommends. Make sure your spraying equipment is up to date for a quick, efficient job.

Forgetful?

(Try Hygroscopic Lawn Seed)

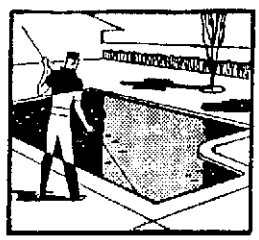

If you have trouble remembering things, like watering your newly planted lawn, don't worry! Now Germain's exclusive Hygroscopic Process provides each seed with its own power to survive...even when you forget to water once or twice. Hygroscopic Process gives 12 Brand Lawn Seed the ability to attract, absorb and retain moisture. Most lawn planting failures are due to lack of water availability, but the Hygroscopic material surrounding each Germain's seed assures moisture retention. Result: better germination. For a successful lawn, plant Germain's 12 Brand Lawn Seed. It's guaranteed to grow.

HE'S A HOMEMADE CLOWN

Mister Balloon Head

By Virginia Clark

SUSIE will be four years old next month, and Johnny soon will be eight. What to give them for a unique present is a problem —and the answer could be Mister Balloon Head, a home-made but fun-loving puppet. He's a happy-go-lucky clown that can be brought to life even by a pre-schooler.

To make him takes a little time, but materials are inexpensive. And if you already dabble in crafts you probably have almost everything at hand. You'll need a round balloon (a must), Saran wrap (or other), library paste, or your own kitchen paste (see recipe), paper towels, show card or poster paints, brush, clear lacquer or shellac (we use the spray can), a piece of yardage, scraps of wrapping paper, some white cloth and a bit of absorbent cotton.

TO MAKE the head, inflate the balloon to 4 or 5 inches, and tie the neck into a knot. Cover with Saran wrap, fastening it around the knot with scotch tape or a rubber band. Next, tear (don't cut) paper towel material for the head in about one-inch strips. Paste on one paper strip at a time and, with paste side down, cover the balloon with several thicknesses. Lap one piece over another slightly for strength. Apply the next layer in the opposite direction. Several more pieces could be pasted on diagonally. The head should be very firm when you let the air out of the balloon later.

NEXT MAKE the nose, eyes, ears and chin by using the toweling strips and paste crumpled into different sized balls — large for the nose, smaller for the eyes. Paste these in place, fastening them to the balloon head by criss-crossing strips of the paper toweling over them. Make the lumps smooth and well-attached. Do the same to form the ears and chin, but with this difference—fold or crumple the toweling strips into rolls. Crisscross short lengths of toweling as before. Tie a string around the knot at the neck of the balloon and hang it up to dry thoroughly — a day or two, at least, and not in the oven!

Cut and sew dress and hands or mittens (see pattern) and stuff mittens with cotton. Roll up paper cuffs (see pattern), fasten with glue or scotch tape and sew or paste inside the mittens. Puppet hands will now fit like thimbles on the operator's thumb and little finger. With double threaded needle, gather dress sleeves and sew hands in place.

Make the neck core, which, when fastened to the balloon head, will form a solid cylinder for the index finger. Roll up the paper core (see pattern) using glue and tape. Have the core fit the index finger comfortably. Next, to keep the puppet's dress from falling off, twist several strips of paper toweling, wet well with paste, and press around the base of the neck core like a rim or collar. Hold this in place with short strips of toweling.

NOW if the head is dry, undo the knot of the balloon, or puncture it, letting out the air. Carefully pull out the balloon and saran wrap. With sharp scissors enlarge the small hole in the balloon, so the neck core will fit into the head. Insert the neck core about an inch and attach it to the dry head with strips of toweling and paste. This may seem awkward, but don't give up. Be sure it is strong. Put it on top of the stove to dry, making sure the neck will dry straight.

WHEN THE NECK is very dry and hard, using your lead mark down face with pencil either realistically or abstractly. Let yourself go when painting the face, but keep in mind the color of the dress. If the face is many colors, the dress should be one or two solid colors. Paint the top and back of the head white. Spray on the lacquer.

Hair may be added by fringing some paper toweling, or using wool or cotton yarn or other hair-like material. Glue a tuft behind each ear, but watch that the puppet doesn't become too "busy."

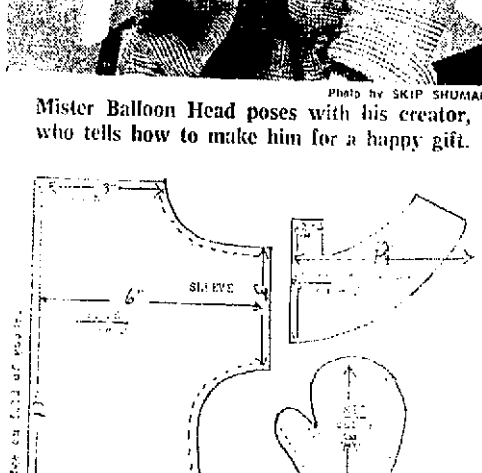

Put the body and the head together by sewing a strong draw string around the neck of the costume, gathering it firmly onto the puppet's neck. If the neck looks too much like a "picked chicken" gather a narrow ruffle and fasten it on.

Mister Balloon Head is now ready for a show!

EVERY TIME I visit Francois Manhattan, 1909 E. Fourth St., I have an overwhelming urge to go into the kitchen and give the stock pot an affectionate hug.

Fortunately I am able to resist that impulse, thus saving myself from a miserable scorching, because the stock pot is a hot, bubbling cauldron nearly as large as a 50-gallon steel drum. I cherish and idolize it because it is a savory well supplying the base for all the wonderful soups served at this superlative establishment.

Once a familiar sight in nearly every restaurant kitchen, stock pots have disappeared from many because they occupy valuable space and require careful maintenance. Some restaurants substitute canned bases for the soup ingredients formerly supplied by their stock pots. The Manhattan goes along with tradition, however, because its ace chef, Johnny Rossi, knows that soups made from stock pot base have a richness and smoothness which can't be created any other way.

Owner Bob Boyle and his right-hand man, manager Van Gasaway, offer their soups according to a regular schedule which is appreciated by their guests who look forward hungrily to having a particular variety on a particular night. The schedule includes: Sunday, cream of chicken; Tuesday, French onion; Wednesday, puree Mongol; Thursday, minestrone; Friday, clam chowder, and Saturday, minestrone. Each is served in a great steaming tureen, left

One of Long Beach's most popular restaurants, the Manhatan offers sumptuous continental - American cuisine, priced from $2.95. The table d' hote dinners are huge, many-course affairs, including such entrees as roast duckling, veal picatta, chicken cacciatore, lobster thermidor, steaks and prime rib. The restaurant is closed Mondays.

SUNDAY TREAT—"Like a visit to an art center that serves marvelous food." That's the way one enthusiastic guest describes Moreno's Restaurant, 3490 Long Beach Blvd., which has an exhibit of Mexican art objects and offers dining in a spacious room graced with paintings. The cuisine, Mexican and American, is priced from $2.50 to $4.75, offering unusual Latin treats prepared from exclusive recipes, plus sea foods and steaks. Luncheon is featured daily.

TELEVISION LOG OF THE EVENING NEWS AND THE INDEPENDENT-PRESS-TELEGRAM

Bert's Eye View

By BERT RESNIK
TV and Radio Editor

THE EDICT was hatched somewhere in the hierarchy of TV moguldom. It commanded:

"There shall be no kissing or hugging between actors portraying television parents during the 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. time period."

It is an edict which incenses June Lockhart. She and Guy Williams are married and TV parents in CBS-TV's (channel 2's) "Lost in Space" airing 7:30 p.m. Wednesdays.

"It is a great mistake that more affection is not shown between television parents," she said.

"Whoever prepared the edict apparently believes that parents across the country are not demonstratively affectionate in front of their own children in their homes.

"Therefore, these edict declarers reason when children watch TV parents being demonstrative, the children are embarrassed.

"I hold quite the contrary view."

HER PARENTS, the late Gene Lockhart and her mother, Kathleen, "adored each other." They told each other and showed each other all the time.

It wasn't until she was 18 years old and stayed at the home of a girlfriend for about a month that June was astonished to find "all parents weren't in love like mine."

In her own current household, she and her husband, architect John Lindsey, just naturally are affectionate to each other in front of their daughters, Anne, 12, and June, 10.

"Just genuine affection," she said. "Not the sort of thing that would be confused with what children call mush."

It's frightening to think that the edict passers might have statistical reasons for issuing their no-affection command.

"It's tremendously important that children should be brought up seeing their parents demonstratively affectionate.

"If the parents don't have this ease, there's something wrong, something censoring their natural impulses and desire to show love."

THE TRAGEDY, in June's opinion, is that children who aren't witness to natural affection between their parents, later in turn become parents themselves who repeat the no-love mistake.

Her role in "Lost in Space" is second time out as a TV mother for June. She previously was the mother in the "Lassie" series in which she co-starred with Hugh Riley for six years.

"In those six years," she said, "I kissed Hugh twice and that was on the cheek. Ridiculous. After all, we were married."

As a real mother, June recently was confronted with something that had nothing to do with parental affection displays.

That something was "Batman."

The twice-a-week series competes with "Lost in Space" on Wednesdays.

And the competition was manifested in the actress' household for her daughters preferred to watch "Batman."

June let them do so on a second TV set.

JUNE LOCKHART

"I guess 'Batman's' kind of like hula hoops," she said. "Right now, it's in."

But it's only half-way in for her daughters now. They've come back to "Lost In Space" on Wednesdays and settle for the conclusion of "Batman" on Thursdays.

Nationally, according to the ratings, a tremendous number of young TV viewers are making the same decision as June's daughters.

The actress, who never considered her daughters' initial defection to "Batman" a problem, nevertheless still has one sticky situation in connection with her TV competition.

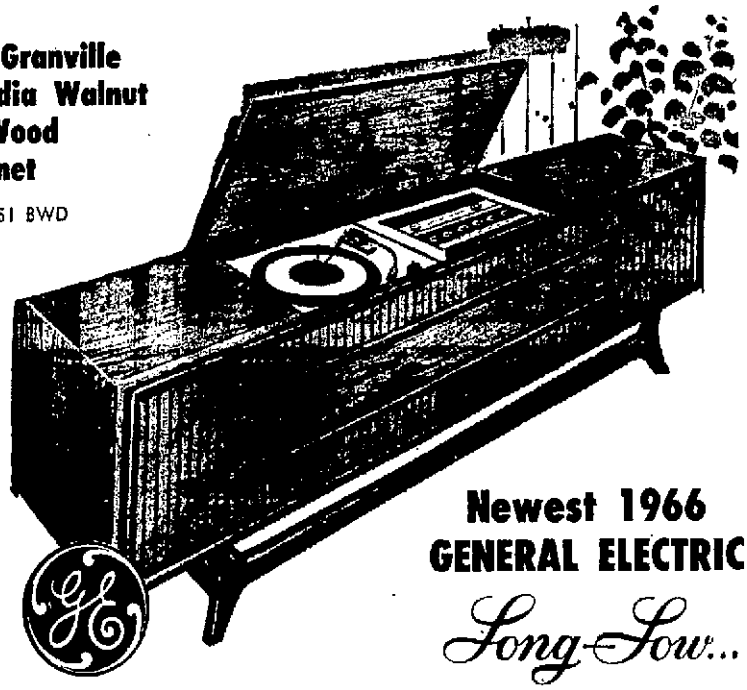

Daughter Annie recently acquired a bumper-sticker which reads:

"Protected by Batman."

At last report, the sticky situation still remained unstuck on either of the family cars.

BERLE BUMPS INTO ROYALTY

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

Uncle Miltie's Majestic Approach Rings Gong

By ROBERT MUSEL

LONDON (UPI)—In the days of good Queen Bess—the first Queen Elizabeth—Milton Berle would probably have been in the Tower of London listening to the executioner hone his axe. This being the reign of Queen Elizabeth II, he sat comfortable in one of the most luxurious suites of the Dorchester Hotel recalling how he nearly knocked down Princess Margaret at her Hollywood party.

Berle, who was in Europe beginning to assemble the material for his first regular television series in more than 10 years, had his friendly brush with the sister of the queen during a recent visit to the U.S. The party was a tightly packed night club and when he opened the door he hit the cymbals on the bandstand and the cymbals nudged the little princess as she was dancing by.

"I danced with her myself later," Berle said, "and I said 'How do you do Your Majesty?' Sse said: 'Are you the one who nearly knocked me over at the door?'

"At least," said the comedian, thoughtfully. "I must have made an impression."

MILTON BERLE

BERLE WAS ADVISED to call her "Your Royal Highness" in the future—a point he committed to memory for he is one of the few big American stars never to have appeared here and, consequently, never to have been honored with a command performance from the queen. If his ABC-TV series goes well next autumn he may come over here during the summer break to do a British television special or appear at the night spot, The Talk of the Town.

This might very well produce an invitation for the royal variety show.

But this is in the future. What is in the immediate present is the job of making the new "Milton Berle Comedy Hour"—or whatever its final title is—as big a success as the original which created a national hero called "Uncle Miltie" and topped the ratings for a long time. That NBC program had such impact that the network offered Berle $100,000 a year for 30 years not to appear on any rival chain.

The contract has been renegotiated so Milton gets only (only?) $60,000 a year but has the right to perform anywhere he wishes. Hence the ABC deal.

I'M NOT PLANNING a 'new' idea for ABC," Berle said. "That's the trouble with television. Everybody seems to think it has always got to have new things. Jokes never age—the audience does. So every decade or so you can bring the cycle around again and the new audience will laugh like the old one did. I just had a call from Larry Gelbart who wrote 'A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum.' Do you know the original of that was written by Plautus, an ancient Roman?

"But it broke up audiences in New York and London only last year and now it's being produced as a film.

"So what if some of the jokes are 2,000 years old? They were funny then and they're funny again.

"I haven't met with the writers and directors of my show yet but I think I'll do the kind of program I did when I first hit big on TV. The audience of today was only 10 years old the last time I used the format. It will be wild, hokey slapstick, youthful entertainment with guest stars—people like Dave Clark, Petula Clark, the Rolling Stones, Wayne Newton and so on. I'll do the 'Standard Berle,' that is walk on the sides of my shoes, get into the acrobatic and singing acts—but you know what I mean."

Berle considers himself a comedian, not a comic.

"A comic says funny things," he explained. "A comedian says things funny."

Tiny Fiddler

Fred MacMurray, star of "My Three Sons," at the age of 5 played a violin recital with his father, Frederick, a concert violinist. "I had to stand on a chair so the audience could see me," he recalls.

CRITIC'S CORNER

Excerpted Reviews on Recent TV Programs

Program: "The Poppy Is Also a Flower," aired April 22 on channel 7.

The specially-formed foundation that puts on those occasional television dramas about the United Nations finally came up with one that should satisfy audiences seeking both message and entertainment.

Based on a story idea by Ian Fleming about the track-down of international narcotics traffickers, it was a swift, enjoyable 90 minutes in the James Bond vein.

Critic Rick Du Brow of UPI

A wasted 90 minutes.

Chunked together without any semblance of continuity.

Although they valiantly strived, actors E. G. Marshall and Trevor Howard were unbelievably mis-cast as rugged agents.

Critic Bert Resnik of "Tele-Vues"

Cost a fortune to produce, conceived by Ian Fleming, directed by Terence Young of "Thunderball" fame, had at least 15 major stars — emerged as a long, confusing bore.

Critic Cynthia Lowry of AP

* * * *

Program: "The World of Jacques - Yves Cousteau," aired Thursday on channel 2.

It is a cold, silent world of perpetual darkness 360 feet deep in the inner space of the ocean.

It is a world that was fascinatingly brought to the viewers — too few, I suspect — in a documentary that skillfully combined education with life-and-death drama.

It is a world, Couseau pointed out, that includes the Continental Shelf, an area three times larger than the U.S.

Such explorations as those conducted by his oceanauts can provide the development of natural resources on the Continental Shelf. These resources, like the area, can be three times in quantity those developed in the U.S.

Critic Bert Resnik of "Televues"

Program: "Lamp at Midnight," a "Hallmark Hall of Fame" presentation, aired last Wednesday on channel 4.

A 90-minute story of how the scientific findings of Galileo, a devoutly religious man, brought him into anguished conflict with the 17th century Catholic Church —another dramatic winner.

Critic Rick Du Brow of UPI

A handsome program with colorful costumes and lofty interiors. It was well produced and had a point of view.

But it was also very long and, as is often the case where writers have the advantage of hindsight, without much excitement.

Critic Cynthia Lowry of AP

* * * *

Program: "National Trivia Test," aired last Sunday on channel 11.

It had to happen, but not this way. It's a measure of respect for a successful show to be lampooned by comics, either singly or en masse, but this test of trivia deserved the title.

It is more a grab bag for undisciplined comics than humorous competition by panelists, who stepped on each others lines and tried so hard to be pretentious.

It was taped in NY for the Metromedia station and should have been kept there instead of inflicting its punishment on Metromedians here (channel 11).

Critic Helm of "Variety"

* * * *

Program: "This Proud Land," aired Monday on channel 7.

ABC's six-program series called "This Proud Land" wound up with a quick tour of the Mid-West. The series ambitiously attempted to cover, in a sort of jazzed-up travelogue, the whole nation —an impossible assignment in six short hours.

The windup show skittered from modern architecture in Chicago to Mark Twain's Mississippi, from Cole Porter's birthplace in Indiana to football at Notre Dame and Green Bay, from Detroit's production lines to Tyrone Guthrie's Minneapolis repertory group—doing little justice to any of these points in its breathless race with the clock.

Critic Cynthia Lowry of AP

No Psychiatrist

Guy Marks, co-star of NBC-TV's "The John Forsythe Show," says he doesn't need a psychiatrist. "I've got six sisters, three brothers and a mother—and they're all very happy to tell me what's wrong with me."

A Tribute—
To Friendship!

Through the years, as we learn to evaluate people and personalities, we find that enduring friendships are one of life's precious jewels. What is more comforting than a treasured visit with someone to whom you can be just your natural self? Do you know what the definition of a friend is? It is a person who knows all your faults but still likes you, in spite of them. None of us is free from faults. That is only human. So we gravitate to those who like us and who, in turn, we think rather special. Let's cherish our friendships and make the most of them . . . lest auld acquaintance be forgot!

ARTHUR Godfrey hosts "The Magic of Broadcasting" at 10 p. m. Sunday, channel 2, in COLOR.

Sports Today

BASEBALL, 10:30 a.m., in color, ch. 5, finds Buddy Blattner and Don Wells at Fenway Park as the Angels take on the Boston Red Sox.

TEXAS OPEN Golf Tournament, 2 p.m., ch. 9, has Jack Drees at San Antonio's Oak Hills Country Club with the action at the last four holes of the $80,000 PGA classic.

CBS SPORTS Spectacular, 2:30 p.m., ch. 2, repeats high points of the four-country European tour of the Florida State Circus, plus the daredevil maneuvers of autos and motorcycles in an auto thrill show from West Palm Beach, Fla.

NHL STANLEY CUP Hockey Championships, 2:30 p.m., in color, ch. 4, by 3-hour delay, follows Win Elliot and Bill Mazer to the Detroit Olympia for the fourth game in a best-of-seven series between the Red Wings and Montreal's Canadiens.

SPECIAL

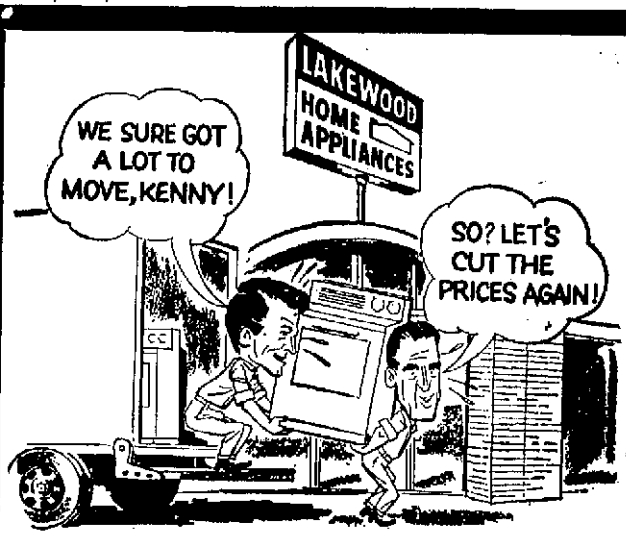

LAW DAY—Taped highlights of yesterday's annual symposium at USC are shown at 2 p.m., ch. 28, with the 2½-hour program divided into two parts—"respect for law" and "civil liberties and civil disobedience."

VIET NAM: Operation Sea War—The unique, multifaceted role played by the U.S. Navy in the Viet Nam conflict—a new kind of land-water war against an enemy with no navy—is narrated by Cmdr. Glenn Ford (USNR) during a repeat of a March 10 color documentary screening at 4 p.m., ch. 7. Story is told not in re-enactment, but with real sights and sounds of the ships and men.

MISSISSIPPI: A Self Portrait—The conflicting opinions of white Mississippians on the social, political and economic changes under way in the heartland of the old Confederacy are reported by Frank McGee during an hour-long news special at 6:30 p.m., ch. 4. Filmed wholly on location, in black and white, hour visits leaders in business, politics and religion, as well as housewives, planters, Klansmen, small businessmen, millionaires and sharecroppers—plus a Klan rally at Natchez, an ante-bellum mansions in Columbus, a segregationist delta town.

MAGIC OF BROADCASTING—Arthur Godfrey, aided by Lucille Ball and Bing Crosby, guides a nostalgic tour down the memory lanes of radio and early television, paying tribute to the names and voices who helped create that magic, during a special color hour at 10 p.m., ch. 2. Joining in re-creating the story are Gale Gordon, Sheldon Leonard, Rod Serling and John Scott Trotter, with familiar lines and theme songs featured on favorite old shows, while film clips and recordings bring back Fred Allen, Al Jolson, Fanny Brice, Eddie Cantor, Amos and Andy, McGee and Molly, Bergen and McCarthy, Ed Wynn, Kate Smith, Rudy Vallee and the famous newscasters of another era.

TOWN HALL—In special tapes from a Town Hall luncheon at the Biltmore Hotel, Amb. Vu Van Thai from South Viet Nam joins political leaders in a discussion of his native land, with screening set for 11 p.m., ch. 5.

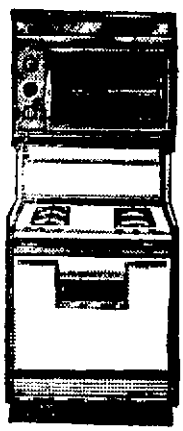

NEW STORE WILL BE AT 16315 LAKEWOOD BLVD.

Caloric 75 GAS RANGES

WOW! EYE-LEVEL GAS RANGES NOW!

. . . but the real beauty part

Come in, and look into all of these 'good sense' features . . .

Bigger, faster Ultra Ray broiler burner* focuses intense infrared rays over much larger area . . . no waiting, no warm-up—cuts broiling time 30%. Seals in meat juices, gives delicious outdoor flavor.

30% larger broiling area takes 20 lamb chops, 4 half chickens, four 1¼ pound steaks, 25 hamburgers.

Broil and bake in same giant oven compartment which takes big turkeys, your largest casseroles.

Upper oven ideal for pies, cakes . . . frozen foods, portion-pack delicacies, quick heat-ups. It's fully equipped for regular baking . . . takes a 12 pound turkey. You can cook in 2 different ovens at 2 different temperatures—simultaneously!

- Broiler at ideal height—no reaching or stooping.
- Both ovens have cook and keep warm systems.
- Broil and Bake in same giant oven.
- Looks built-in but can be installed in minutes.

See it at either convenient location!

AS LOW AS $3.75 per wk.

SPECIAL

CONCERT IN STEREO—The stereophonic concert of Ray Conniff, in actual performance with his orchestra and chorus, was aired nearly five years ago on KTTV. But at 7 p.m. today, ch. 11, something new has been added—full stereo effect via simulcast with KPOL—AM (1540 kc). Place your radio set, properly tuned, about six feet to the right of your television set, and hear selections including "Liebestraum," "Tea for Two," "Rhapsody in Blue" and "On the Street Where You Live."

BILLY GRAHAM—Earlier this year, Dr. Graham held a 3-day crusade at Greenville, S.C. Hour-long tapes will be seen at 7:30 p.m., ch. 5, tonight through Wednesday, with Ethel Waters guesting on opener which features Graham's message on life after death.

WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY's Firing Line—The articulate author-publisher-politician darling of the conservatives launches a 13-week series of hour-long debates with such opponents as Bishop Pike, Steve Allen and Michael Harrington to screen weekly at 10 p.m., ch. 9. Target for tonight is 6-time Presidential candidate (Socialist) Norman Thomas, as the two defend their conflicting views on Viet Nam. The last few minutes of each hour are turned over to questions from a studio audience.

RUDY VALLEE—The one-time crooner, who lately has been expressing his political views, steps in as one-time host for Tom Duggan during the latter's weekly color outing at 11 p.m., ch. 11. With Erin O'Brien as phone girl, Rudy chats with gubernatorial candidate William Penn Patrick, and economist Leonard Fleischer who claims that "fake" bank loans are destroying private enterprise.

Pan and Fan Mail

I would like to know if the German that was wounded on Tuesday night Combat (April 26) on channel 7 was Lee Marvin.

Pauline Droney, Bellflower.

No. He was Rick Weber.

* * * *

I wish to congratulate a local radio station, KLFM at 105.5 FM, on their recent programming series which has just been set up.

The program is called "Long Beach Talks"; it is aired between 3 to 5 p.m. daily.

Now I am in no way connected with this program. I merely think that it's a fine public service when a radio station will take the time to talk on the air with any person who phones in.

I got a chance to phone in twice and voice my opinion about Long Beach's need for a more modern up-to-date library in place of the old, crowded one that is now in Lincoln Park.

The radio announcer, unlike most others, does not try to embarass or harass the caller; still further, the announcer, Jerry Hahn, is a delightful person to talk to and he's willing to talk on any subject.

The main thing that I like is that the emphasis is on Long Beach and of its problems.

Myles C. Ross, Long Beach

Oh, Myles. You ring the bell here, too.

* * * *

Could you please tell me if there's any truth to the rumor that "Legnd of Jesse James" is going off the air?

I hope not because he's my favorite actor and I'd sure miss him.

Andalene Fredricks, Lakewood

Jesse James and the actor who portrays him, Chris Jones, will not be back next season.

* * * *

Please tell me what happened to Mattie Grimsley in "The Edge of Night." She was one of my favorites and I would like to know what happened.

Rhoda H. Irnstein, Costa Mesa

Actress Peggy Allenby, 65, who portrayed the role, died March 23. She was a member of the original cast that started broadcasting April 2, 1956. Prior to her "Edge of Night" role, she was on radio and the Broadway stage. Among those she appeared opposite were Spencer Tracy and Frank Morgan.

SPECIAL

SENATE HEARINGS — Sec. of State Dean Rusk's postponed appearance as witness will be telecast live at 7 a.m., ch. 7, and by delayed tape at 9 a.m., ch. 4. Highlights air on ch. 2 at 9:30 p.m., preempting "Petticoat Junction."

. STRAVINSKY—Producer-writer David Oppenheim follows his highly-acclaimed "Casals at 88" with a portrait of an elfin-looking man, with an erect bearing despite a lame leg, who became one of the titans of the musical world of the 20th century — the meticulous and methodical Igor Stravinsky as he approaches his 84th birthday. Charles Kuralt narrates the hour-long portrait at 10 p.m., ch. 2, as Oppenheim and a CBS camera crew follow the Russian-born composer and his wife from Hollywood to Warsaw, including a concert for Pope Paul, a recording session with Benny Goodman, a visit to the Theatre des Champs Elysees in Paris, and the premiere of his latest symphonic work in Chicago.

NEW PROCESS USED Exclusively By HERMAN'S

Eliminates Cause of Rapid Soiling
Prolongs the Life of Your Carpets

If your carpets are soiling more since you had them cleaned, the reason may be due to a detergent build-up.

Ordinary cleaning methods and/or home remedies merely add to the problem of rapid soiling.

Herman's ADSORBENT Process used exclusively by us, removes the residue of detergent build-up. The carpets are then shampooed with our Soil Retardant Process that is scientifically formulated and warranted to preserve the life of your carpeting, brings back the resiliency of the pile, colors are bright and clear again. Adds extra years of luxury to your carpets. Carpets cleaned by Herman's stay cleaner up to 5 times longer.

SPECIAL

ICE CAPADES Premiere—Bill Welsh is on hand at the Sports Arena at 7 p.m., ch. 11, to greet arriving celebrities, plus featured stars of the Metromedia-owned show.

MR. BLACKWELL Presents—It's fashion with a beat! Designer Mr. Blackwell hosts a showing of his creations, featuring songs by Anna Maria Alberghetti and Mike Clifford. Featured during the repeat color hour at 8:30 p.m., ch. 13, are Agnes Moorehead, Nick Adams, Marie Wilson, Rose Marie.

CHRYSLER THEATRE—Director Stuart Rosenberg helms his fifth Chrysler segment of the season (two of the earlier ones won Emmy nominations for Simone Signoret and Shelley Winters), which actually is a pilot for a rejected series. A merchant seaman asks the wrong questions of the wrong people in a tough seaport city and triggers a mysterious murder. Filmed to a large extent in both the dock area and slum sections of San Pedro, the 9 p.m. color hour, ch. 4, stars Jack Lord, Shirley Knight, Jack Weston, Charles Drake and Joseph Wiseman.

IF YOU ARE LOSING YOUR HAIR—

CONSIDER THIS REMARKABLE RECORD

TUROFF OFFICES IN 15 AMERICAN CITIES HAVE GIVEN OVER 1¼ MILLION SUCCESSFUL TREATMENTS. CLIENT SATISFACTION IS CAUSING US TO GROW — AND GROW. JOIN US!

IT HAPPENS every day now. A young man realizes that he's losing more hair than he should. A middle-aged woman discovers that the softness of her hair is caused by its thinning way. Young women who have "tried everything" decide that what they need is professional attention. And middle-aged men see the first signs of baldness they dread and wonder what is to be done.

NOWADAYS QUITE A LOT CAN BE DONE

Much more than most people think. Nowadays success comes to many people, who, not long ago, have been told that their cases were hopeless.

JUST AS TEETH are destroyed by our "soft" civilized diet, it is conceivable that our hair suffers from our "soft" civilized way of living. Physical inaction, lack of fresh air, inadequate hair and hygiene habits, and nervous stress of modern living may all reflect unfavorably on man's hair growth. From their years of experience in successfully treating hair and scalp disorders. The specialists in the Turoff System have proven that modern man can avoid baldness by counteracting the effect of "soft" civilized living with a "hard" vigorous system of scalp hygiene.

THE UNUSUAL SUCCESS of the Turoff System in administering over 1¼ million treatments supports this theory strongly. The inescapable truth is . . . premature thinning of the hair or actual baldness, is inevitable for many men and women . . . UNLESS CORRECT SCALP HYGIENE IS BEGUN EARLY.

PREPARATION

Much must be done, before the actual Turoff treatment, to condition the scalp properly. First your scalp is thoroughly examined in complete privacy and an individual course of treatments is determined. No two cases are ever identical; neither are the treatments.

COMPLETE PRIVACY

COMPLETE PRIVACY — No one but you and the Turoff consultant know of your visit. For those finding difficulty in attending Turoff's, a specially prepared home Treatment Kit can be prepared for your particular requirement.

S. I. Turoff, Director, Turoff Hair and Scalp experts, now demonstrates remarkable new methods. No appointment needed for free examination by a qualified scalp specialist.

AMAZING PERFORMANCE POLICY CERTIFICATE GIVEN TO EACH NEW CLIENT ENROLLED — SHOWS YOU EXACTLY WHAT TO EXPECT FROM TUROFF TREATMENT.

NEW WAY TO THICKER, HEALTHIER HAIR

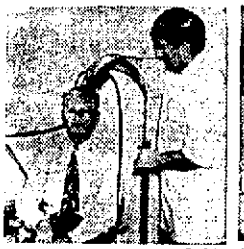

Only Turoff offers exclusive laboratory created formulas and scientific electro-therapy perfected by Turoff technicians to produce these amazing results. You owe it to yourself and your hair future to provide the best — the unique Turoff treatment!

1. FREE EXAMINATION by a Turoff trained specialist establishes your individual causes of hair loss.

2. HI-FREQUENCY THERAPY provides short rays to kill bacteria, increases scalp metabolism.

3. EXCLUSIVE ELECTRO THERAPY developed by Turoff technicians after years of research results are FAST!

4. EXCLUSIVE CHEMICALS. Turoff formulas, laboratory produced, another step on the road to a strong healthy hairline.

"I'LL START LATER"

We have seen more people get hopelessly bald with this attitude than for any other reason. Baldness does not wait! You must have hair for us to help you.

GROWTH CYCLE

Every 4-5 years, every hair is replaced by a new hair. If the hair is weak and colorless, at this point, it may denote approaching baldness—although the hair root is still alive. Turoff's exclusive treatment can promote the growth of hair at this crucial point.

TUROFF HAS A NEW SCIENTIFIC METHOD

Turoff treats the problem of premature baldness scientifically with their own exclusive chemical, physical and electro therapy. Turoff clinics alone provide this remarkably successful therapy. Exact formulas and therapy are known only to Turoff. No imitations can equal its power. So astounding have been the results that Turoff has grown from one clinic to fifteen clinics and become California's leading hair specialists. Prove this scientific thoroughness for yourself.

FREE EXAMINATION

Step into Turoff Hair Treatment Clinic for an absolutely FREE consultation and examination—without obligation! Let him tell you frankly whether your hair or scalp problem is under Turoff's scope of treatment—and if not—he will refer you to the proper medical or other treatment you require. Your FREE examination and consultation is conducted in private.

SPECIAL

DEAN MARTIN—Remember when the term "summer repeats" meant just that literally? Now it seems that April's retreat brings May repeats. But Dino, who's been alternating new shows with reprises, still has a first-run outing up his sleeve—a star-studded color hour that offers something for everyone (except possibly the rock hounds) at 10 p.m., ch. 4. Comedian Guy Marks sings "Granada" and offers imitations on inanimate objects, while Liberace plays Debussy's "Clair de Lune" and joins Dean in a medley of Paris songs. Bill Cosby recalls the old radio mystery programs, Dorothy Louden sings her "flirtation medley," and Dino introduces an amazing act he found at Las Vegas—Tanya the elephant.

SPECIAL

NEWS CONFERENCE — Topping even the man who broke the bank at Monte Carlo is the man who rigged the Nielsen ratings to boost both Carol Channing's special and Bob Hope's Viet Nam Christmas show. Rex Sparger, who claims he did it to gain material for a book, gaining clients' names from Nielsen's trash barrels, tells about it at 7 p.m., in color, ch. 4.

A VISIT to Sea World — A trip through the world's largest marine-life center, on 22 acres of landscaped park at San Diego's Mission Bay, is offered at 7:30 p.m., in color, ch. 13. Highlights are the underwater theatre-in-the-round, the outdoor show in the lagoon, a tour through the Sea Grotto and the Japanese Village.

Sports Today

HOLLYWOOD REVIEW, 8 p.m., ch. 5, has Bill Garr at the Inglewood track to preview Wednesday's opening.

SPECIAL

JACKIE GLEASON—With another season closing out (last show until fall is June 4), Gleason holds "Gleason's Gaieties," the annual cast show in which regular performers are joined by members of the production staff taking the spotlight as once-a-year entertainers. Gleason emcees the 7:30 p.m., ch. 2 hour, with George Jessel and Helen Curtis in a comedy sketch, the June Taylor dancers with a singing act and soft shoe routine, writer Marvin Marx demonstrating his ability to cry like a baby, and a hospital comedy sketch featuring executive producer Jack Philbin, four writers, music director Sammy Spear, two Gleason Girls, a set decorator and publicist.

FACE IS FAMILIAR — Premiere. Sports announcer Jack Whitaker turns host of a new game show, a 19-week summer series to replace "The Loner" at 9:30 p.m., in color, ch. 2. A celebrity guest and a studio contestant compete against a similar celebrity-contestant team in trying to identify scrambled pictures of famous people. Show is a Filmways production by Bob Stewart, who formerly produced "Password," "Price Is Right" and "Tell the Truth."

Conservation Song

Mike Kellin, of NBC-TV's "The Wackiest Ship in the Army," had his folk song, "Preserven el Parque Elysian," recorded by Pete Seeger in the album entitled "God Bless the Grass." The ballad deals with conservation.

Most Valuable Advice

By LAWRENCE WELK
Host for ABC-TV's (Channel 7's) "Lawrence Welk Show"

During my 42 years in the music business many people have given me advice which has helped me in more ways than I could recount, but the man who advised me to "start talking" probably aided me more than any other from a business standpoint.

Back in our early days, while the band was appearing at a Chicago theater, Eddie Weissfeld, who ran the Riverside Theater in Milwaukee came down to see me. After the show, he came backstage and asked pointedly why I hired an emcee.

LAWRENCE WELK

"It doesn't make sense," Weissfeld said. "People come to hear Lawrence Welk and his band, and Lawrence Welk sits in the back row and plays the accordion. He hires an emcee to do his talking for him.

"You'll never amount to anything in this business," he continued, "until you learn to talk in front of an audience."

I didn't have time to give it much thought at the time because Weissfeld quickly put his advice on a monetary basis. He offered to pay us twice as much as we were getting in Chicago to appear at this Riverside Theater in Milwaukee, on the condition that Lawrence Welk would talk . . . would be his own emcee.

While you should never do things just for the money you'll make, this offer did serve a purpose for we took the job, and I started talking. At first they'd laugh, and I didn't know what they were laughing about, but I never let it bother me, and for some reason the people seemed to like it.

AS MANY PEOPLE KNOW, I was born and grew to manhood in the small farm community of Strasburg, North Dakota, a community settled by emigrants from Germany and middle-European countries. My parents, who came from the border country of Alsace-Lorraine, spoke German, as did all the older members of the community. Even in school I was taught German.

All of this gave me the accent which was the basis for the self-consciousness I felt in my earlier years, the self-consciousness which Eddie Weissfeld's advice helped me to overcome.

As I said, many people have given me good advice. For example, my parents taught us, my brothers and sisters and me, that life was meant to have some hard conditions, that by overcoming those conditions you grow.

Another important lesson I learned in our old-fashioned school where the Sisters taught me to keep my mind on a question until it was solved . . . to concentrate.

Another great piece of advice was given to me by a priest who came backstage to visit me one day a long time ago. I must have appeared very nervous, worried about some band problem. He said, "Don't try to do it alone!"

During the show and afterwards, I kept thinking about his words, and the more I thought, the more it registered. I came to realize the more we fight a problem, the greater the problem seems. When we do the best we can, pray a little, somehow we get into a different vein of thought, and usually the problems work themselves out smoothly.

I like to pass on lessons I have learned when I think they'll help others. That's why I encourage my boys and girls to talk, sometimes force them to talk on the show. It is a tendency of musicians to simply play, or sing, whichever is their talent. I like to have them talk. It brings out their personalities.

Personality Parade

Want the facts? Want to spike rumors? Want to learn the truth about prominent personalities? Write Walter Scott, Parade, P.O. Box 3797, New York, N.Y. 10017. Your full name will be used unless otherwise requested. Volume of mail received makes personal replies impossible.

Q. A few truths, if possible, about the late Ernest Hemingway. Were he and Gary Cooper in love with Ingrid Bergman at the same time? Was Hemingway insane at the time of his suicide? If so, what was wrong with him?—Diana Dalby, Minot, N. Dak.

A. When Ingrid Bergman was working in the film version of For Whom the Bell Tolls opposite Gary Cooper, both Cooper and Hemingway took turns courting her. Hemingway suffered from delusions of persecution at the time of his suicide, was convinced "the FBI is out to get me."

Q. Who is considered the best actor in the world today? Is it not Sir Laurence Olivier? Please list Olivier's wives, his age, how many children by each wife. —Tara McGrath, New York, N.Y.

A. Sir Laurence Olivier, born in Surrey, May 22, 1907. One son, Simon Tarquin, by Jill Esmond; no children by Vivien Leigh; by current, pregnant wife Joan Plowright, a son Richard, 4, daughter Tamsin, 3.

Q. How old is Princess Beatrix of Holland? Is she better educated and more intelligent than Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain?—Louise Unterneyer, Boston, Mass.

A. Princess Beatrix is 28. Her first schooling was in Canada where she was evacuated during World War II. Five years ago she was graduated in law from Leyden University, the Netherlands. She is intelligent, alert, determined, reputedly better educated than Queen Elizabeth, who was educated by palace tutors.

Q. Someone told me that Cher of Sonny and Cher has a rare disease and will be dead by May. Is this true?—Kathy Barker, Coronado, Calif.

A. Not true.

Q. Who is P. J. Proby?—Sara Lee James, Richmond, Va.

A. P. J. Proby, 27, a pop singer, is really James Marcus Smith of Texas. Recently Proby lost his right to work in Great Britain because of financial difficulties. Theatrical managers have also refused to book him because time and again while he was singing and gyrating on stage, his trousers split. The ABC and Rank circuits have banned him from their theaters because of these repeated trouser-splittings.

Q. Dick Haymes, the singer once married to Rita Hayworth and Joanne Dru—where is he now? What is he doing?—Vic Fielding, Las Vegas, Nev.

A. Haymes recently became a citizen of Ireland, is producing films overseas, a few weeks ago got married for the sixth or seventh time.

Q. Who said or wrote the following maxim: "Be pleasant until 10 o'clock in the morning, and the rest of the day will take care of itself."?—Dolly Richardson, Raleigh, N.C.

A. The late Elbert Hubbard.

Q. How much is actress Natalie Wood paid per picture? Is it true her kid sister Lana Wood has gotten married for the third time although she is only 20?—D.O., Burbank, Calif.

A. Natalie Wood's asking price: $750,000 per film. Her sister has been married for the third time.

Q. Gloria Swanson, who for many years was a close friend of Joseph P. Kennedy, has a son named Joseph Swanson. What is the true story?—A.T.T., Miami, Fla.

A. Miss Swanson's version is that she adopted an infant boy who was born in 1922, named him Joseph Swanson after her father, Joseph T. Swanson. Her adopted son is today an electronics engineer in California, wants no publicity.

Q. How is one to understand the Vietnamese names? For example, all four top Vietnamese officials are named Nguyen as in Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, Lt. Gen. Nguyen Van Thieu, Gen. Nguyen Huu Co, etc. —Mrs. Douglas Barstow, Sioux Falls, S. Dak.

A. Nguyen is the name of an old Vietnamese dynasty from which many of the most prominent Vietnamese are descended.

Q. I attended Palm Beach High School with George Hamilton, the Hollywood star and frequent escort of Lynda Bird Johnson. My best recollection is that Hamilton was never graduated from Palm Beach High School. True or untrue?—Linda Myers, West Palm Beach, Fla.

A. True; Hamilton was not graduated from Palm Beach High School or any other high school.

Q. When Elizabeth Taylor appeared at Oxford with Richard Burton in* Dr. Faustus, *is it true that she had no lines to speak? What did she do in the play and what was the critical reaction?—Louis Deming, San Diego, Calif.

A. As Helen of Troy she walked twice across the stage, kissed Burton four times, went offstage without saying a line. Said the London Mirror: "Elizabeth Taylor in her stage debut—as Helen of Troy—had a nonspeaking part. She gave Burton four kisses and displayed an excellent line of cleavage."

Q. Is Chiang Kai-shek a Buddhist, a Catholic, a Jew? — Joe Crisafulli, Wolcott, N.Y.

A. Chiang was born into the Buddhist faith. At age 15 he married a Buddhist girl from whom he was divorced in 1911. On December 1, 1927, he married Soong Mei-ling, youngest of the three Soong sisters, all Christians. Chiang was converted to Christianity and received into the Methodist church in 1930.

Q. If Fidel Castro doesn't behave himself, is it true the Soviets will knock him off?—D.T.L., Dallas, Tex.

A. If Castro becomes obstreperous and strongly anti-Soviet he undoubtedly will be taken care of.

Q. Would you please tell me who Gypsy Rose Lee's sisters are? Is one of her sisters married to Fred MacMurray?—R.B.M., Youngstown, Ohio.

A. She has one sister, June Havoc, married to producer Bill Spier. Fred MacMurray is married to the former June Haver.

Q. Who was Irving Berlin's first wife? Was she not married to him in Russia? When did she die? When did he remarry?—H.O., Florissant, Mo.

A. The songwriter was only 5 when he left Russia for the U.S. He was married in February 1913 to Dorothy Goetz, who died in the same year of typhoid contracted on their Cuban honeymoon. In 1926 he married Ellin Mackay.

Use your imagination.

Use it almost anywhere—patio, porch, terrace, bathroom, even your kitchen! Resists staining - practically all foods (like mustard, ketchup, tea and coffee) and even household chemicals (like ammonia, chlorine bleach and peroxide) can be wiped clean. Won't rot—use it directly on concrete floors, even below grade. Remarkable new Vectra polypropylene olefin fiber makes it possible. Resists fading - the color is in the fiber not on it. It's non-allergenic. Virtually non static. Easy to install, too! Cuts easily to fit any shape. Lies flat and doesn't curl. No binding of exposed edges necessary. And Ozite Town 'N' Terrace Carpet takes rugged wear. Wide selection of colors, in widths up to 12 feet, any length. About $5.40 a square yard. Where will you use it?

The original Outdoor-Indoor Carpet... proved with over 7 million yards in use!

my favorite jokes

by Johnny Morgan

EDITOR'S NOTE: Johnny Morgan, now in his early 40's, began his show business career in Long Island, N.Y., in 1946 as a singer. He worked with Tommy Dorsey, many of the other big-name bands, had his own radio show over CBS, moved to St. Louis for a series of operettas. Jackie Gleason, who works out of Miami where Morgan golfs and makes his home, insists that Johnny is "one of the funniest men alive," has booked him half a dozen times on his TV show. Morgan has been married to the same wife for 26 years, a rarity among entertainers, has played all the major night spots, recently completed three successful dates at Playboy Clubs in Miami, Jamaica and Atlanta, where he told the following jokes:

They're going to make a movie in Monaco starring Princess Grace, and, she being royalty, they have to do things in a special way. In one scene the villain smacks her around, punches her, kicks her, chokes her, drags her across the floor, bops her with a chair, then exits bowing!

My brother just finished a correspondence course. We all went over to the post office for the graduation exercises.

Two men arguing about women. First man: "Don't forget, if there were no women, who'd sew patches on your pants?" Second man: "If there were no women, who'd need pants?"

People say the dollar doesn't go far. I don't know. It goes to India, Vietnam, Formosa, Pakistan, South America, the Philippines....

I had such a wonderful trip through Europe! The Colosseum in Rome! What a sight! For a minute I thought my landlord was maintaining it!

We're spoiled over here in America. Everybody's looking for bigger, better, fancier apartments. Over in East Berlin, all they want is a hole in the wall!

He's so cheap, when he eats in a pizzeria and can't finish the lasagna, he asks the waiter to put it in a bag—says he has an Italian dog!

No wonder the Red Chinese are so confident. If they've been watching television, they figure every American must have tired blood, indigestion or nagging headaches!

Last November there was a big scandal in Washington. They closed all the saloons on election day... seven candidates got locked in!

Income tax time: When millions of Americans tax their power of deduction.

Income tax man: "Now, you put down on this return that you took in only $3000 and you paid out $4000. How is that possible?"

Taxpayer: "Easy. The government does it all the time!"

Definition of alimony: Bounty on the Mutiny.

I went water-skiing last week. I swallowed so much water I'm either six months behind on booze or six months ahead on chasers.

We men are nuts. Most of us choose our wives in light we'd never buy a suit in.

My wife suffers in silence louder than anyone I know!

Men will stand for anything except a woman on a bus!

They say sex is overrated. If it is, can you imagine where everything else stands?

Things will be different in the future with jet propulsion. Just imagine, you take your girl for a ride in your new sports rocket. Suddenly the engine goes dead. You turn to her and say, "Sorry, Gladys. I've run out of thrust!"

Anecdote of the Week

In the Georgia republic of Soviet Russia more than 2000 persons claim to be 100 years of age or older. A Moscow journalist, interviewing one of the centenarians, asked him how he viewed contemporary life. Said the oldtimer: "At my age it's very sad to have lost one by one all the people I knew, all the people I loved ... I have only my wife left."

What it means when baby wears this name

Gerber®

right down to his socks

Gerber Baby Socks of 100% stretch nylon or Durene® mercerized cotton. Sizes from 3½ to 6½ fit ages up to 3 yrs.

It means that baby's socks—of 100% stretch nylon—have the quality you expect from Gerber. "Pre-boarded" to keep their shape. Made with plenty of "give" to grow with baby—plenty of "take" to last through many washings. Look for such extras in shirts, training pants, cotton socks, crib sheets, vinyl pants and bibs—at your supermarket, from people who are proud to say: "Babies are our business ... our only business."®

BRINGING UP BABY®
HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF FIVE

How nice! It's Baby Week

For colorful reprint of this little charmer, write to: Gerber Baby Foods, Dept. 73-BW, Fremont, Michigan.

And how nice it is to belong to a baby! A baby can bestir you to smile when you don't think you can. Send your heart a-soaring when it's in a slump. Call back your dreams. Sweeten your sense of humor.

Yes, a baby brightens our days in so many ways the rewards cannot be measured. Cause enough for dedicating a week to babies.

Baby Week bulletin

How nice, too, that there are so many fine products designed for your baby's comfort, pleasure and nutritional well-being.

During Baby Week (April 30-May 7) the beguiling "Little Girl Blue" in the picture will be greeting you in supermarkets everywhere... guiding you to the many wonderful values your grocer will be featuring. Look for her. She'll be waiting for you.

Good news for your baby

Now, in addition to all the good-tasting foods for babies from the infant age to the toddler stage, Gerber brings you durable and oh-so-comfortable babywear.

There are cotton shirts, socks, training pants, crib sheets and nylon stretch socks. All dazzle-white, downy soft, machine washable and driable. And, the new Gerber Babywear is quality-controlled according to the strict standards that have made Gerber so famous.

For your convenience, you'll be happy to know these new Gerber products are sold in supermarkets. [P.S.] You'll also find sturdy, waterproof, plastic Gerber Baby Pants and Bibs there too.

Mealtime success story

Service with a smile puts delight in every bite. If you let baby eat instead of urging him to eat, enjoyment of food will come naturally.

New ways to sweeten eatin' time

Top off baby's meal with one of the new Gerber Desserts . . . Dutch Apple Dessert or Cherry-Vanilla Pudding... both great. Dutch Apple is a delicious, applesaucy dessert, made extra-delectable with butter and a bright, light touch of cinnamon. Nutritionally, it's enriched with Vitamin C.

Cherry-Vanilla is a pleasant-tasting pudding made with egg yolks and other wholesome ingredients.

Nutrition note:

Gerber prepares over 100 baby foods—infant formulas, cereals, strained and junior foods — to meet your baby's nutritional needs. We're proud to say:

"Babies are our business ...our only business!"®

HOW WE NEGLECT 20 MILLION SICK CHILDREN

by SID ROSS

Because of ignorance, indifference and a few pennies, the charming little child at right could have grown up permanently handicapped.

Product of a poor family in Cleveland, O., Irene at 7 months had never received the basic immunization most children begin at about 6 weeks—against diphtheria, tetanus and whooping cough. Her mother couldn't afford the medical bill, and no public health department reminded her that free inoculations were available.

A few weeks ago, Irene began to cough —continuously. Her mother took her to one hospital emergency room after another. In each case she was told Irene had a cold and was given medicine.

Finally an intern asked the question no one had asked before: "Has this child been immunized against whooping cough?" ("I guess," says Irene's mother, "everyone had assumed that in this day and age everyone has shots.") Told she had not, he referred her to the hospital's clinic. From there she went to another hospital where she was placed in a croup bed under a mist tent. Irene is believed recovered now. But for a time doctors feared the coughing paroxysms caused by this preventable disease might have permanently damaged the blood vessels in her brain.

The case of Irene is not unique. Literally millions upon millions of other American children are victims of an inadequate and insufficient health care system that penalizes the poor for their poverty. In a country with the greatest medical resources in the world, where all men are supposedly equal and children are esteemed above all, perhaps one-third of the nation's young people are in grave need of medical care and are not getting it. Twenty to 35 million youngsters—especially those of preschool age —are believed to have serious unmet medical needs.

These are the findings of an extensive PARADE survey that covered the nation from coast to coast. In cities and rural areas in all parts of the U.S., PARADE found children of the less fortunate severely shortchanged in matters of health. It found private medical resources beyond the reach of most of these families and public ones so crowded, inaccessible, hedged with red tape and scanty in their service as to be ineffective. In some cases the obstacles to good health care were so many and so difficult to surmount that poverty families had just given up.

The PARADE findings are substantiated by the federal government. When President Johnson's Head Start preschool program was launched last summer, a physical examination was given each child. Even in a country that has become inured to statistics, the figures provided a jolt. In Boston, for example, one-third of the children were found to have serious illnesses or defects and to be in need of immediate care. In Jacksonville, Fla., 52 percent of the children were anemic; 45 percent needed immediate dental care; 25 percent had visual defects. Most of these children had not seen a doctor since infancy.

Similar conditions afflict rural areas such as Appalachia. National figures compiled by the U.S. Children's Bureau are also staggering: 10.2 million children are in need of eye care, 1½ million have untreated hearing impairments, half the children in the U.S. are in need of dental work and as many as two out of three children in poverty areas have never received basic immunization.

Some of the instances are appalling. In Philadelphia, PARADE visited 5-year-old Harry, a winning child who could walk only slowly, shuffling his feet, with support from a nurse. Harry had contracted measles, against which he had never been immunized, and then developed encephalitis, a rare but devastating complication. His doctor feared damage to his brain might be permanent.

In Detroit, PARADE was introduced to 7-year-old Jane. Jane is blind in one eye. When she was born she had strabismus—a crossed or lazy eye. If the condition had been properly diagnosed before she was 3, it could have been corrected by placing a patch over the good eye, which would have forced her to use the lazy one. Instead, Jane used the eye less and less until it atrophied. PARADE was told 1000 such "one eye-blind" children enter Detroit schools every year.

EDUCATIONAL FAILURES

To most Americans, of course, cases such as those of Harry and Jane should traditionally be left to their parents. But because of parental poverty or inability to cope, the consequences affect the whole population. Children handicapped by poor health may become educational failures, are often diagnosed as dull or retarded. They grow into adults with poor health, become a drain on tax rolls and a problem for welfare authorities. A case like Irene's, which could have been prevented by inoculation, finally cost the taxpayers of Cleveland $50 a day for 14 days.

Most communities, of course, have an elaborate network of services intended to provide care for the destitute and the "medically indigent" — those who can support themselves but cannot afford medical care.

But PARADE found the care provided in most of these institutions dismally lacking. They are overcrowded, understaffed, chronically short of equipment and money, shot through with paper work and "eligibility requirements," chillingly cold and impersonal—even frightening. Few have time to give a child a thorough examination or to treat more than his most obvious symptoms. In the Cleveland well-baby clinics, according to director Dr. Ralph Fintz, doctors can allow only four to six minutes examining time per child—including disrobing and dressing again.

A scene that could have been prevented: 7-month-old Irene, victim of inadequate care for poor children, never had whooping cough shots. She fell ill, was hospitalized two weeks.

Bad as things are, officials know they are only getting part of the load. Many families pass up care rather than buck the crowds or put up with "being treated like dirt," as one parent puts it. Others are not sure how to qualify. "If everyone eligible came in here," says one official at Cook County, Ill., Children's Hospital, "we'd just blow a fuse."

Actually the health problems of poverty children begin in the womb. Many of their conditions stem from prematurity and from the fact that their mothers had little or no prenatal care. In slum areas premature births (which cause health problems and may also cause mental retardation) are three times the national average, and the infant mortality rate, which has been dropping elsewhere in the U.S., has been rising steadily. Some cities try to provide prenatal care through expectant mothers' clinics, but these clinics fail to attract many slum women.

CHICAGO, FOR EXAMPLE

To comprehend the problem of health care for poverty children, you have to focus on a single place, like Chicago. The nation's third-largest city has 123,000 families living at or below the poverty level. One authority says that 150,000 of the 450,000 schoolchildren are medically indigent. When the Chicago Head Start program began, 5000 out of 13,000 children were found in need of immediate medical attention.

To cope with these problems, Chicago has a vast array of services. There are well-baby clinics where infants under 2 can be brought for checkups. Eight preschool health clinics concentrate on children 2 to 5. Federal and local maternal and infant care programs provide prenatal, postnatal and pediatric services. There are compulsory physical examinations for schoolchildren. Cook County Children's Hospital, the municipal facility, has a vast outpatient department, complemented by those at private hospitals.

Yet this is not nearly enough to provide proper care. Take the situation at Cook County Children's Hospital. On a typical day the outpatient department is flooded with as many as 700 patients. They and their parents jam the long benches and line the walls of the waiting room. Sometimes a mother brings the whole family because she has no one to "sit" with the other children. Many bring lunch, expecting to wait all day.

When a child's name is called, he moves up to the doctor's cubicle and stands at the door, so no time will be lost when the preceding examination is finished. The doctor—there are usually seven, each handling 60 to 80 patients a day—gives him about five minutes. The doctor does not conduct a complete examination and does not even take a routine blood test unless the child "looks" anemic. If he needs X rays or other specialized examination, he is referred to one of 15 specialty clinics and told to come back another day. Sometimes the specialty clinic waiting lists are staggeringly long.

"I know quite a few women who don't come here unless their kids are real sick," one mother told PARADE. And a staff physician declared: "We know there are a lot of people who ought to be coming to the clinic, but under these conditions they won't, and we can't pull them in. It's a safe bet they go nowhere."

PARADE talked to several medically indigent families in Chicago. Typical was that of Angelo Cortes, a wrecking company laborer, who has seven children and takes home $51 a week. The Cortes's four-room apartment has no central heat. When PARADE arrived, the two youngest children were pale, wan and sniffling — "They always have colds," their mother said. The 7-year-old's body was covered with a horrible rash. An older girl, her mother said, needed glasses.

A scene that is all too typical: hundreds of sick, poor children jam outpatient department, Los Angeles Children's General Hospital. Some families bring lunch, wait all day.

Mrs. Cortes had been to Cook County Children's Hospital only once. "It is very hard to get there, and you wait much too long. I am not able to spend a whole day to go there," she says. She did not know if there was a clinic in her neighborhood, and she had never heard of nearby Children's Memorial Hospital. "I only hope that none of the children become real sick," she says. "I have no one to leave with the other children, and we have no money for doctors or medicines."

In rural areas visited by PARADE the situation was different but equally distressing. In 14 counties of eastern Kentucky, the University of Kentucky School of Medicine, with funds provided by the U.S. Public Health Service, recently examined 5437 children. The survey found 26 percent to be affected by "adverse conditions." Included were high incidences of malnutrition and infectious disease. The area had scanty public health service and few doctors, and this was complicated by the fact that many were suspicious of hospitals and doctors. Perhaps 25 percent of the babies were delivered by "granny midwives."

Even where there were facilities, PARADE found them lacking in some departments. For instance, there were few well-equipped hearing clinics, neurological or orthopedic clinics. Psychiatric clinics and guidance centers for children were rare or nonexistent.

Facilities that do exist are often defeated by rigamarole and red tape. In Philadelphia one boy in need of orthopedic surgery had to wait weeks. Meanwhile, he needed a $13 pair of orthopedic shoes. The Pennsylvania Department of Public Assistance could not authorize such an outlay. So a caseworker phoned the Western Association of Ladies for the Relief and Employment of the Poor. The executive secretary was on vacation. Next he tried the Philadelphia Philanthropic League. Their aid requests were booked several months ahead. The Baby Welfare Association couldn't help because the child wasn't in a hospital. The Society for Crippled Children and Adults said their funds were exhausted. Finally, 12 phone calls later, the caseworker was able to get the $13 from the Travelers Aid Society.

Some delays are even worse. A recent report from the Gales Eye Clinic in Washington, D.C., listed a backlog of 1190 children. In New York a child-care station in a slum area reported it was 10 weeks behind in handling examinations of newborns.

In some cases the screening of children at hospitals is effective but the followup of "no-shows" is nonexistent. Dr. W. B. Omans of Philadelphia General Hospital recalls one girl with asthma who missed 39 days of school last year. The school medical service referred her to Philadelphia General. She came only once. The school authorities apparently had made no attempt to follow up further. "She'll miss more school this year," Dr. Omans says.

Many school health programs, in fact, are considered a waste of time by public health authorities, since they leave it up to parents to obtain treatment for conditions discovered. If the parent does nothing, neither does the school. In some cases the same conditions are recorded on a child's health record year after year.

"NO ONE EVEN NOTICED"

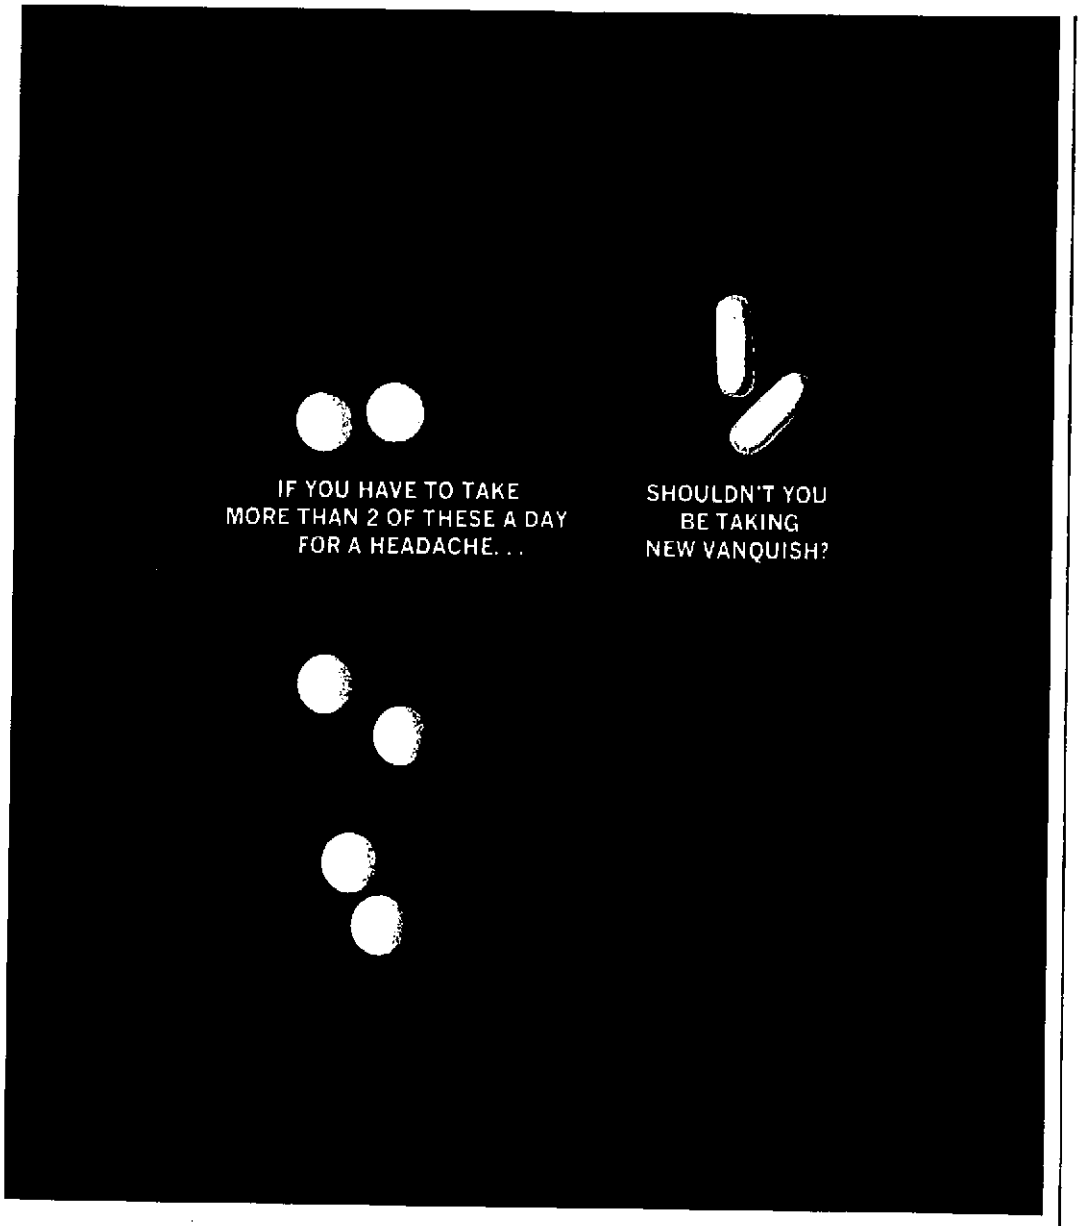

Public health authorities also say schools are seldom diligent enough in observing children's health problems. In Detroit one pediatrician cited the case of two young girls who died last year in Children's Hospital. They had been systematically starved to death by a psychotic mother. "They went to school every day," the pediatrician says bitterly, "and no one even noticed."

Even if poverty families wanted to obtain private care for their children and could afford it, they would find little available in their neighborhoods. While the number of pediatricians has been increasing, Dr. Julius Richmond, national director of Head Start, points out that most have been settling in the suburbs. In desperation many poor people now bring their children to hospital emergency rooms. Dr. E. Richard Weinerman of Yale-New Haven Hospital, New Haven, Conn., recently reported that one-third of emergency room patients were under 14 and that few of them had personal physicians.

What can be done to solve the health problems of the poor? President Johnson's war on poverty has already taken some first steps. Under a little-known section of the Medicare bill, the U.S. Children's Bureau has $185 million for special project grants to communities wishing to upgrade their children's health services. A 1963 maternal and child health and mental retardation act helps local health departments to provide better services for mothers and infants in slum areas. Title 19 of the Social Security law, a new amendment, will help give free or low-cost medical care to any person who will sign a simple affidavit of economic need.

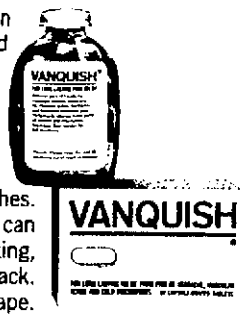

A number of local projects are attacking pieces of the problem. Cleveland Metropolitan Hospital, for instance, has set up a "satellite clinic" in a slum area to overcome the complaint that treatment centers are too far from where the poor live. Detroit, with the cooperation of the University of Detroit School of Dentistry, has begun a "Total Action Against Poverty" dental care program which hopes to be a model in this neglected area of health care. Philadelphia has set up and steadily strengthened a vast school health program, which includes not only across-the-board physical examinations but a reasonably good followup program as well.

One of the best and broadest health programs is in the pilot project stage at St. Vincent's Hospital, New York City. The hospital has begun taking families as a unit, handling all health problems in a central clinic. No cases are referred to specialty departments unless they are highly unusual. "All sorts of good things have happened," says Dr. Alonzo S. Yerby, New York Commissioner of Hospitals. With little waiting and few technicalities, people now turn up for appointments, get speedy care and the hospital itself is able to act more efficiently.

FAMILY CARE CENTERS

Detroit has taken the first steps toward a revolutionary, neighborhood-centered program to provide complete medical and social services to all ages in slum areas. It would operate through a chain of "family care centers" in which would be consolidated outpatient, inpatient and emergency room facilities in a single building, as well as welfare, cultural and recreational facilities. Detroit Health Department officials think the centers could, at first, be located in schools. There would be one for every 100,000 people, and each center would be able to take up to 400,000 visits a year. Detroit is trying for federal funds, meanwhile has allocated $1.1 million of its own money.

None of these programs, however, is more than a partial answer to getting better health care for poor people. And PARADE's reporters established — and experts agreed—that there are no easy steps that can be taken to improve things. What is really needed is a total approach involving more than health care. Until Americans in slum areas have better diets and better housing—which means better incomes—no amount of improved medical care is going to help very much.

Nonetheless some steps could be taken in the meantime. Some system of broad community health centers like those proposed in Detroit could be established on a much wider scale. The federal government could provide more funds for more and bigger local projects, such as the maternal and child health programs now underway and the Hill-Burton Act grants, which help build and outfit new hospitals and facilities. Hospitals and local health departments should get funds to pay better salaries and build more and better outpatient facilities, which is where the main pressure is felt.

One program which experts agree is badly needed is a much-expanded program of training for doctors, nurses and other medical personnel. These authorities point out that the continuing shortage of medical school graduates hurts slum areas. "Where is the great medical profession?" one Cleveland public health official asked rhetorically. "Out in the suburbs, where the high-paying patients are." Some sort of system of incentives is needed, some experts say, to persuade new doctors to practice in poverty areas. The same system should be applied to nurses and technicians. These experts also say that a new category of medical personnel must be instituted — a paramedical person who could give shots and treat routine ailments and injuries, somewhat like a medical corpsman in the Army.

More leadership, too, is needed from the medical profession, and public hospitals must overcome the view expressed to PARADE by a director in Cleveland: "We're not here to be in competition with the private physician or private hospital. We're not out to take their patients away from them."

Needed even more, however, is an advance that involves the entire American public and requires a change of heart by all of us. Everyone must make it his business to see that the children of the poor get medical care as good as the rest of us and that the system of one kind of care for the poor and another for the rich is abolished from America.

TAKE A LOOK AT THESE NEW IDEAS FOR YOUR HOME AND FAMILY • BY PETER DRYDEN

Flower arranger: You can use this new crystal plastic arranger (far left) to achieve massed or tapered effects with flowers, fruit, all cuttings. It's 10½" high set up as shown. Bowls and dividers are individual units that interlock, stack variably—and you can set up 2, 3 or 4 tiers for different effects. Top unit is bud holder for use with a special bud or flower to top off arrangements. $3. Zimmerman, Dept. PP, 225 So. Meramec, St. Louis, Mo., 63105.

Convertible racing: With this new model-car racing set (left) you can have a 20½-ft. layout with four lanes or a 38-ft. course for two-lane racing, one quickly convertible to the other. The 1/32-scale cars include XKE Jaguar, Ferrari Berlinetta and two new Barracudas—each with 12-volt motor, metal chassis, molded racing body. Set includes controllers with brakes; power pack with circuit breaker to protect against overloads; 16 flexible fence sections; pylon overpass supports. $69.95 in stores. Stromhecker, Dept. PP, 4646 W. Lake St., Chicago, Ill.

Comfort underfoot: You can use a new foam rubber carpet and rug cushion anywhere in the house—and in the basement over concrete. Its honeycomb construction lets air circulate, moisture evaporate, eliminating mildew, fungi. The high-density padding provides firm support, has burlap backing to help prevent rug-slipping. 72" width, from $1.95 a yd. Ozite, Dept. PP, 7-120 Merchandise Mt., Chicago, Ill., 60654.

A first in time: Now comes the first ladies' electric wristwatch. Less than half the size of men's electrics, the ½-oz. watch is ¾" long, ½" wide, ⅜" thick, runs without winding on power from a tiny replaceable energy cell that lasts at least a year. Shield-shaped rolled gold case, sweep second hand, suede strap. $45 in stores. Replacement cell: $1.50. U.S. Time, Dept. PP, 375 Park Ave., New York, N. Y., 10022.

Scoop funnel: With this handy little kitchen tool (above, left) you can fill salt and pepper shakers, steam iron, bottles; decorate cakes and cookies; measure out medicines and recipe ingredients; and separate grease from gravies and soups (grease stays back, the rest goes through). Thumb-operated lever raises and lowers watertight valve below to regulate delivery. 6" long; transparent, boilable plastic. $1. Franzen, Dept. PP, Flanagan, Ill., 61740.

Match-it bank: Here's a coin bank (above, right) that uses the matching principle so two members of a family—husband and wife, parent and child—can save and share together. Insert one dime and it's held in a chamber on top—until a matching dime is inserted, whereupon both dimes drop simultaneously. An additional bin in back holds other coins; a metal lock is underneath. $2. Match-It, Inc., Dept. PP, 75 Pearl St., Hartford, Conn., 06103.

Pool heater: If you own or plan to install a backyard swimming pool, a new electric pool heater—moderate in price and relatively simple to install—could add months to your swimming season. The compact unit—4½" in diameter, 32" high—requires only standard pipe fittings, no special tools, and the electrical hookup can be made by any qualified electrician. Claims the maker: No maintenance, other than a once-a-year check for sediment, is required—and built-in safety devices prevent damage to the unit under all circumstances. Details: Aire-Lite, Dept. PP, 5050 E. 11th Ave., Hialeah, Fla.

Kayaks from kits: Virtually unsinkable kayaks you can assemble easily from kits now come in models ranging from 18-pounder for youngsters to 2- and 3-place models for adults—and modified 3-place you can use with outboard motor. They're 9 to 14 ft. long, fit on car roof, store conveniently in garage or basement. Kits are precut, predrilled. $29 to $72. For catalog: Vicraft, Dept. PP, Box 145, Portage, Mich.

ANOTHER "FIRST" FROM UNION OIL • THE NEW MINUTE MAN IV TIRE

America's only passenger car tire with the new CONCAVE racing tire design

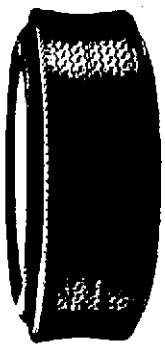

Concave design... tomorrow's tire today

You'll be hearing a lot about "concave" tire design in the months and years ahead.

It's the latest principle in the construction of racing tires. It's the engineering breakthrough that for the first time last year enabled the big machines at Indianapolis to complete a grueling 500 miles on a single set of tires! (And still have plenty of wear left at the end of the race!)

Someday, all tires will probably be built with "concave" design.

Today, the only passenger car tire in America offering this advanced construction is Union Oil's new Minute Man IV.

RACING TIRE

Insured Tire Warranty

America's Only Insured Tire Warranty. If the tire fails for any reason during the first year or 10,000 miles, whichever occurs first, you get a new one free (excepting, of course, malicious damage or repairable puncture).

After this first year, the Road Hazard and Workmanship and Materials Warranties continue to protect you for two more years.

40% better mileage

Simply speaking, "concave" design means that the tire has a slight, saucer-like depression when it is not inflated. As a result, it puts 100% of its tread squarely on the road when inflated to proper pressure.

This unique design lets the tire run 20% cooler, provide 15% greater traction and give 40% better mileage. (Based on actual tests comparing the new Minute Man IV with "concave" design and the famous Minute Man IV of conventional design.)

UNINFLATED

INFLATED

OTHER ADVANTAGES OF THE NEW MINUTE MAN IV

3-rib construction offers better stability, puts more rubber on the road for improved traction. Wall-to-wall tread provides greater safety and ease of turning and cornering. Contoured cord body construction gives a soft, Red Carpet Ride.

Puncture-protected — probably America's Safest Tire. If a nail enters the tire a special sealant prevents air from escaping. You can continue driving in complete safety. Stop in at the Sign of the 76 and ask about the new Minute Man IV. Look for the display showing the tire with the Red Carpet Ride.

Up to 15 months to pay — no money down on approved credit. The new Minute Man IV costs surprisingly little more than ordinary tires. And it offers so much more.

STRIPES, TRIANGLES, BUT NO SQUARES

by VIRGINIA POPE
PARADE FASHION EDITOR

Junior girls will find themselves in a whirl of color and pattern this spring and summer. Omar the Tentmaker never dreamed of such a galaxy of stripes in two- and three-color combinations as will enhance the young figure at beaches, soda fountains and dances. Styles are all fun—skirts just above the kneecap and waists high or not at all. For added zing there's tinted hose—and flat-heeled shoes for slide and glide. On these pages and on the cover you'll find action-packed clothes to fit the summer situation from beach to partytime. The blue and yellow beach dress has a saucy flip at the hemline, the navy and white with the big V is a knockout in high styling and the striped crepe discothèque outfit is ready and waiting for the Johnson Jump, the Lindsay Hop and the Mule.

Big white V inset in navy crepe sets this sleeveless dress apart for dramatic in-town wear. Designed by Stanley Herman for Mr. Mort. About $30.

Orange bands boldly accentuate the slender figure in yellow linen-blend dress by Leslie Juniors. Side seams and hem also banded in orange. About $23.

Stockings, Berkshire; shoes, Sandler of Boston; jewelry, Assessocraft and Coro. Photographed by Ray Solowinski. For more information on fashions shown, send stamped self-addressed envelope to Virginia Pope, Parade Fashion Editor, 733 Third Ave., New York, N.Y. 10017.

LOUISIANA SHRIMP DISH

by BETH MERRIMAN

PARADE FOOD EDITOR

Down in the romantic bayou country where French and Spanish influences are everywhere evident, the two national cuisines combine in world-renowned Creole cookery. One of the most famous Louisiana dishes is Jambalaya, sometimes made with chicken, more often with delicious shrimp from the Gulf, but always enhanced with bits of ham. There are many versions of this recipe, but this one is especially good.

Canned peeled and deveined shrimp may be used. Rinse them well, give them a final dip in ice water to restore crispness and add them with the tomatoes.

SHRIMP JAMBALAYA

- 1 cup sliced celery
- 2 cups diced green pepper
- 2 medium onions, thinly sliced
- 4 tablespoons butter or margarine, divided
- 1 or 2 garlic cloves, minced
- 1 lb. boiled ham, ¾" thick, cubed
- 2 lb. peeled, deveined shrimp
- 1½ teaspoons salt
- ¼ teaspoon liquid red pepper sauce
- ½ teaspoon chili powder
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 2 cans (1 lb. each) whole tomatoes
- 3 cups hot cooked rice

Cook celery, green pepper and onions in half the butter or margarine until tender but not brown; add garlic and ham; cook 5 minutes longer. Add remaining butter, shrimp, salt, red pepper sauce, chili powder and sugar. Cook, tossing often with fork until shrimp are pink. Add tomatoes; heat. Stir in rice. Makes 8 servings.

White House aide Jack Valenti is President's favorite whipping boy. But most of time Johnson treats him with warmth a father might show son.

What It's Like to Work for the President

LBJ THE BOSS

by JACK ANDERSON

Press Secretary Bill Moyers has subduing effect on the President, gets milder treatment from him than his predecessor George Reedy.

WASHINGTON, D.C.

Not since slavery was abolished has the nation known a tougher taskmaster than Lyndon B. Johnson. He drives his staff 12 to 16 hours a day, scourges them with a whiplash tongue, intrudes on their private lives without apology, demands their total loyalty and utmost devotion. Indeed, there is only one man outside his staff whom the President pushes harder, and that man is Lyndon B. Johnson.

But if the President is a slave driver, he is a benevolent one. For he also overwhelms his staff with warmth, overpowers them with generosity and treats them with a tenderness that is positively paternal. He invites them for intimate swims and repasts, includes them at White House parties and flies them down to the LBJ Ranch for homey weekends. And he is perfectly capable of crying genuine tears over their sorrows.

In his pursuit of greatness, however, President Johnson spares no one. He has a Caesar-size boss complex that brooks no insubordination. Behind his desk, he scribbles terse commands on staff papers or barks orders into the ozone, pushing buttons to direct his voice to the right assistants. Out of the air come subservient replies—usually, "Yes, Mr. President."

He speaks to his subordinates like a Texan talking to a Rhode Islander. His voice is quiet, but when the volcano inside him is disturbed he can raise it to a terrible crescendo. Then he will berate anyone within bomb burst of his voice, letting epithets and accusations fly like shrapnel. Some of his derogatory expressions would singe innocent ears. It is said that he keeps the doors to his oval sanctuary and outer offices closed—contrary to the late President Kennedy's open-door policy—less to protect his privacy than to provide insulation for his outbursts.

OUT OF WRATH'S WAY

Understandably, his aides are more than a little gun-shy of his voice. Yet the President denies most plaintively that he intimidates them. He complained recently to newsmen: "Now won't you all quit writing these stories, 'Won't anybody say no to LBJ?' because I have more people running around here saying no." It is true that he seeks their opinions and encourages their dissents. He will listen to any suggestion that might help achieve a consensus. But once he has made up his mind, consensus means the LBJ way.

For awhile, until it caused some embarrassing publicity, he even kept his staff under surveillance. White House switchboard operators logged every phone call and chauffeurs recorded every place staff members were driven. Though these telephone and limousine checks weren't initiated to enforce economy, as press secretary Bill Moyers blandly suggested, neither was the espionage system established for any sordid purpose. The President didn't mean to snoop on his aides, say insiders; he merely wanted to watch benevolently over their shoulders. He likes to control White House activity down to the most trivial detail.

The President's immediate staff includes 290 workers shoehorned into the White House west wing. Across the parking lot in the old, rococo Executive Office Building are another 1365 workers. The lights in both buildings burn late into the night, despite the President's penchant for electrical economy. It is not uncommon for him to poke his head into random offices late at night. If he finds people working at 10 P.M., say, he will smile with satisfaction or make an approving comment. It seldom occurs to him to apologize for keeping them away from their families. Indeed, when family obligations interrupted the output of a couple of staff members, he grumbled to

JOCKEY MENSWEAR, KENOSHA, WISCONSIN
A DIVISION OF COOPER'S, INC.

Vice President Humphrey: "What I need are more bachelors."

Aides know instinctively when the phone rings at 7 A.M. that it must be the President. They aren't safe from his phone calls even while commuting; he makes frequent use of the two-way radios in White House limousines. And they have learned not to accept luncheon appointments outside the White House. "They don't sit around at Paul Young's [restaurant] drinking whiskey," says LBJ happily.

The subordinate who isn't immediately available when the President phones is sure to hear about it. Budget director Kermit Gordon made the mistake, for instance, of attending a concert one evening when the President tried to reach him. Next morning, LBJ greeted Gordon with a sarcastic "Well, playboy, did you have a good time last night?"

Curiously, those closest to the President take the most abuse from him. "It's a mark of intimacy to be cussed out by him," explains an aide. By this index, assistants Jack Valenti, George Reedy and Marvin Watson are on the most intimate terms with the President.

While the rumpled Reedy was press secretary, he was fried on the Presidential pan almost daily. The President seemed to blame him personally for every unfavorable reference that slipped into the newspapers. After Reedy's daily press briefings, LBJ would read the transcript with hot eyes, then berate Reedy for the slightest slip.

His angriest outbursts were often over the most trivial matters. Once he was expecting to read a message before the TV cameras. For technical reasons the new TV room couldn't be used that day, so Reedy arranged the filming in the cabinet room. When the President was told about the switch, he never gave Reedy a chance to explain. "You stupid .....!!!" exploded Johnson. "Why do we spend money on a TV room if we're not going to use it?" Ferociously, he ordered Reedy to rearrange the session in the TV room. Not until he ran out of steam and Reedy had departed wordlessly did the President learn that the TV room was out of order. Without apology, he stomped off to the cabinet room.

THE FAR AND DEAR

When Reedy finally limped out of the press secretary's office with an ailing foot, he was consigned mercifully to an office remote from the Presidential wrath. His successor, Bill Moyers, received gentler treatment. His placid personality seems to have a miraculously subduing effect on the President. Moyers consoles other aides by reminding them softly: "The President has great faults, but he also has great virtues."

Meanwhile, Reedy has been replaced as LBJ's favorite whipping boy by the dapper and diminutive Valenti. The poor man never knows when he may step into a Presidential windstorm. Once he was roundly berated over a malfunctioning doorknob. Another time, the President barged into Valenti's office and found him on the phone. "For Chrissake," bellowed the President, "do you spend all day on the phone?" Again, when Valenti took three minutes to respond to a Presidential summons, Johnson shouted in front of visitors: "Where the hell've you been?" Valenti said he had stepped out a moment for coffee. "How many times have I got to tell you," thundered the President, "not to leave your office without telling me where you're going?"

LBJ's humor can be as scathing as his wrath. One time, Valenti slipped into a cabinet meeting to whisper a message to the President, who elaborately halted the meeting, turned toward Valenti and, in front of the entire cabinet, proclaimed jovially: "You look like a man who had just cheated on his wife." The flustered aide retreated in embarrassed confusion.

LBJ thoughtfully invited the girls in his office to the reception for Princess Margaret.

Yet most often, the President treats Valenti with all the warmth and affection a father might show for a son. He frequently invites Valenti and his wife, Mary Margaret, to the White House for intimate family dinners. After church, he likes to drop by their home to romp with their 2-year-old daughter, Courtenay.

He is reserved with aides not close to him personally. There is respect but little love, for example, between Johnson and Kennedy holdovers. He tried to thaw this New England chill by inviting them, as he put it, "to break bread" with him. They were asked separately, along with their wives, to join him for what most remember as a remarkably intimate tête-à-tête.

Of all the Kennedy holdovers, the President became closest to Larry O'Brien, who later moved up to Postmaster-General. Once the President scolded him gently for waiting until the next morning to phone in the results of a backroom legislative knockdown that lasted most of the night. "Next time wake me up," said LBJ. "I want to bleed with you."

But most of the Kennedy crowd has never warmed up to him; he has treated them, in turn, both with more coolness and more courtesy than he accords his intimates. This doesn't stop him from snapping at them occasionally.

The crisp McGeorge Bundy, who had been accustomed to barging in on President Kennedy, was quickly broken out of the habit by President Johnson. Once Bundy had an urgent cable to show the President and poked his head in the oval office while Johnson was conferring with Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge. "Goddammit, Bundy," sizzled the President, "I've told you that when I want you, I'll call you."

The President is more considerate of the girls in his office only in the choice of language he uses to rebuke them. He has driven them to tears more than once, but he has also treated them with rare thoughtfulness. He understood, for example, how thrilled his secretaries would be to meet Britain's Princess Margaret. So he invited them to the White House dinner in her honor, the most glittering social event of last year.

Let anyone on his staff get sick, and he not only sends flowers but takes time out from world affairs to place a solicitous phone call. Other times, he may impulsively invite a staff member in, pull out a drawer full of gifts and invite him to help himself.

One aide describes the President as "multiphrenic," a man of many personalities crowded into one complex being. He can be domineering, demanding, callous, cantankerous, impatient, vain and shortsighted. He can also be compassionate, sensitive, humble, thoughtful and foresighted. Above all, he is unpredictable, a man of many moods.

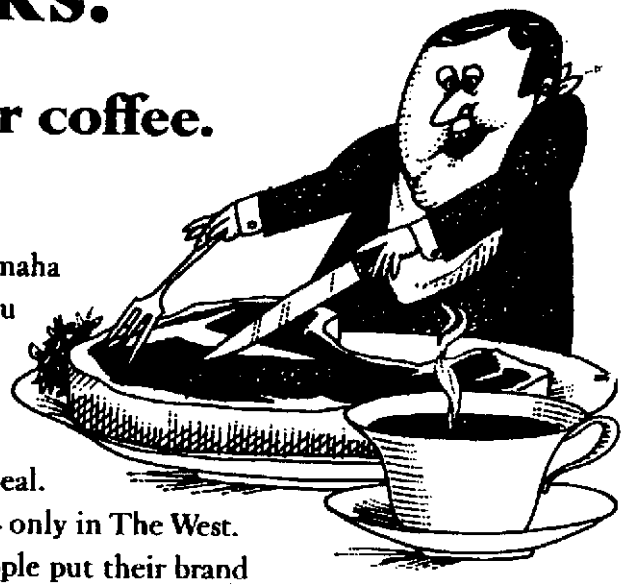

He likes to deal with his aides separately. (He has held only three staff meetings since he became President.) He expects them to digest each problem, then summarize it in a short, punchy, no-words-wasted memo. At the bottom, they usually write "Approved" and "Disapproved" with a space opposite each word for him to check his verdict.

But most of all, the President expects them to submerge their ambitions, swallow their ego and maintain strict anonymity. He delights in telling them how Franklin D. Roosevelt once called him down for getting his name in the paper.

Result: Aides will never discuss the President, except in the strictest of confidence with someone they trust. On those seldom and secretive occasions, they almost certainly will agree that Lyndon B. Johnson is the most difficult, the most demanding, but the most devoted boss in America.

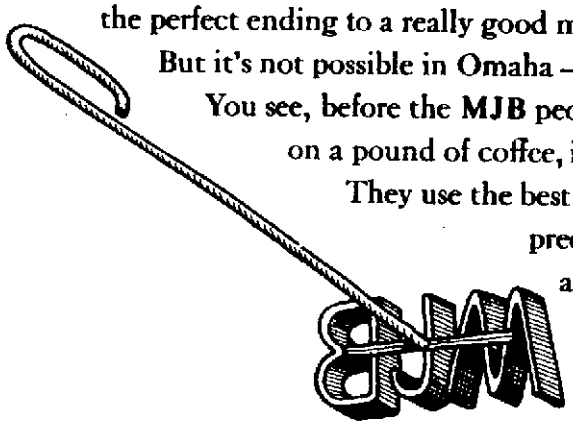

Omaha is a great city for steaks.

But don't go there for coffee. It doesn't have MJB.

Oh, those tender, juicy, sizzling Omaha steaks! And oh, what a shame you can't top them off properly with a fragrant, richly flavored cup of the country's finest coffee — MJB! That's the perfect ending to a really good meal.

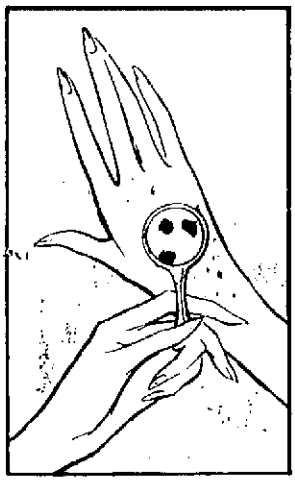

But it's not possible in Omaha — only in The West. You see, before the MJB people put their brand on a pound of coffee, it has to be made their special way. They use the best beans grown, blend and roast them precisely, grind and pack the coffee that same day. Always.

That's why MJB gives you first-cup-in-the-morning flavor all day long. This old-fashioned approach results in the finest quality, but it also limits quantity. So the MJB people supply only The West, only the best. That's the way it's been since 1881. As a coffee-lover who lives in The West, rejoice!

HEAD-ON...

The newest tenant in England's Plymouth Zoo is a Bactrian camel named Achmet. According to zoo manager George Houghton, camels are hard to come by these days. "There are no wild ones left in the world," he says. So, when you get a good camel, you pamper him. Houghton has his daughter Gillian, a 22-year-old blonde, bring Achmet his dinner pail, an arrangement that seems to meet with Achmet's approval. Gillian? She's lost her head over the camel.

PARADE'S SPECIAL INTELLIGENCE REPORT

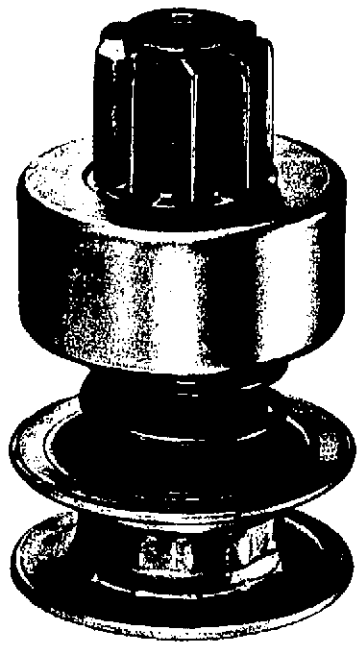

BECAUSE OF LARGE MAIL VOLUME, PARADE CANNOT ANSWER QUERIES.

SPIES WANTED. The CIA is having recruitment problems. Until a few years ago the American intelligence agency chose without difficulty from 100 to 150 of the top 10% of college graduates who applied for positions each year. But apparently service in the CIA has now lost its glamour. College students interested in government service are giving preference to the Foreign Service (because of faster advancement) or to private industry (because of higher salaries). To counter this trend, the CIA this year is sending recruitment officers to canvas 100 colleges and universities. Says head personnel officer Stanley Grogan, "We want only the best, and we're going to find them."

ABOUT-FACE. Japanese firms, long accused of plagiarizing Western products, are pulling a switch. They claim that in the last year 49 of their copyrighted products were pirated. The Ministry of Foreign Trade in Tokyo is preparing a convention on the prevention of copyright piracy.

This is a GM Original: It's as tough as they come.

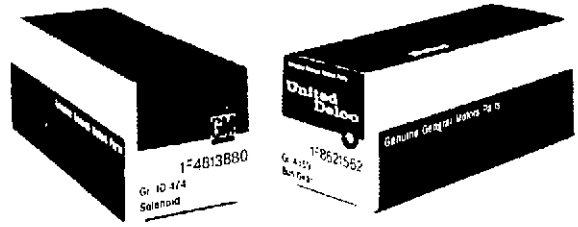

This is a GM Replacement: It comes just as tough.

These starter drives turn the flywheel that starts the engine of your GM car or truck. They're tough parts for a tough job.

With these and with all GM Originals and GM Replacements, the story is always the same. They look the same. They act the same. They are the same.

Another nice thing: GM Replacements, in GM and United Delco packages, are available just about everywhere. Go where they use them. Good service starts with good parts.

SUKARNO'S NEST EGG. Swiss banks are filled with millions of dollars acquired by thrifty dictators. Cuba's Batista, Ghana's Nkrumah, Dominicans' Trujillo--many others reportedly looted their countries, deposited their treasure in numbered Swiss bank accounts for the inevitable rainy day when their regimes would be overthrown. A recent investigation by Indonesian military officers reveals that 25 of Sukarno's leading officials deposited $900 million overseas in the past 20 years, one minister alone depositing $300 million. The London Sunday Times reports:

"These figures do not include what one Army officer called the 'enormous fortune' accumulated by Sukarno himself." One of the most amazing aspects of the confusion now underway in Indonesia involves Sukarno's beautiful Japanese wife (No. 4) Ratna Sari-Dewi. She has appointed herself mediator between General Suharto and her husband, constantly occupies the political limelight by explaining to the press that she is trying desperately to persuade her husband that he must reconcile himself to the fact that the age of Sukarno in Indonesia has passed.

SUKARNO (CENTER) WITH JAPANESE WIFE

SMUGGLING RING. Police in Brazil accuse Americans of organizing one of the most incredible smuggling rings of all time. According to Gen. Riograndino Kruel, Brazilian chief of security, a group of Americans have been mining valuable industrial metals in the interior of Brazil, then flying them to the U.S. in a fleet of six converted B-26 bombers. He has arrested the following Americans: Ralph Dial, a geologist and president of Dial, Inc., a metal trading company in Oklahoma City; Sam Sexton, a lawyer; Joe Truhill, a chemist; and Joe McCutchin, a pilot. They are charged with illegally exporting 5909 pounds of ore containing tantalum, used widely in electronics. General Kruel says two of the Americans bought land and carried out vast mining operations in the Brazilian interior under the pretext of setting up model farms. After flying out the valuable ores by way of a chain of 37 secret airfields in Brazil, Surinam, Guadalupe and the southern United States, they would load up the planes with whiskey, transistor radios, cigarettes, dispose of these in Brazil at huge profits. The scandal was exposed when a B-26 landed at Brasilia airport without proper papers. Customs officials examined the plane and discovered a complete laboratory for analyzing ores. The four Americans thus far arrested claim they were simply shipping out ores and doing nothing illegal. But the Brazilian police insist they were operating a mining industry of vast scale. Details of the scandal have made headlines on the front pages of the Brazilian press, have already endangered the Castelo Branco government, and have set off a new wave of anti-American feeling.

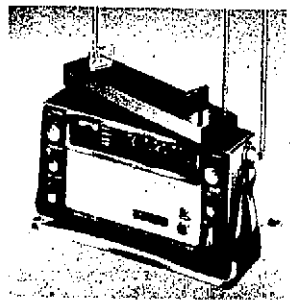

WORLD MAIL ORDER. American mail order department stores are invading the European market. Sears, largest in the world, plans to set up shop in Great Britain soon. The arrival of the giant firm and its 1700-page catalog is going to panic French mail order societies. Sears already does 80 times more business than her nearest French competitor, La Redoute. The Singer Corporation has just absorbed the third-largest German mail order firm, Friedrich Schwab. The Singer activities range from manufacture of sewing machines to electric appliances. Last year Singer sold 50% of all the sewing machines bought in France. There is no doubt about the trend: Europe is rapidly becoming Americanized as U.S. business moves in everywhere.

USEFUL INFORMATION. Elements of Victory, a 30-minute, 16-mm sound film of the 1965 National Football League championship game between Green Bay and Cleveland, is available without cost to adult groups and organizations. Write to the Old Gold Filters Sports Bureau, 777 Third Ave., New York, N.Y., 10017. Other professional football teams offer similar films. If interested, contact their public relations directors.

About a million students will soon be facing the Selective Service Qualification Test. To capitalize on that sizeable market Barron's has just issued "How to Prepare for the Student Draft Deferment Test," $2.95 in paper, $5.95 clothbound. The book contains thousands of questions and answers for drill and practice, plus 10 model Verbal and Math Aptitude Tests.

An interesting geological survey of the U.S. crammed with useful historical and geographical facts, "Boundaries of the U.S. and the Several States," cost $1.75 per copy and well worth the money, is on sale from the Supt. of Documents, Washington, D.C. Purchasers should write for Geological Survey Bulletin 1212. A necessity for history and geography majors.

THEIR BIG, BEAUTIFUL HOME: COUSIN LOU LEBEAU AND HIS MOTHER, COUSIN MAY. HARD T'RE'LIZE TH' TERRIBLE TROUBLES EZRA TRUE SAYS THEY'VE BEEN THROUGH!

BUT EZRA AND COUSIN LOU WERE KIDS TOGETHER, AFTER LOU'S DAD GOT RAILROADED TO PRISON AND HIS MOM AND HE HAD T'LIVE IN A SHACK IN TH' SLUMS!

BUT NOTHIN' CAN LICK REAL THOROUGHBREDS! SO, WHEN THEY FOUGHT THEIR WAY BACK ON TOP, THEY BROUGHT EZRA WITH 'EM, ONE O' TH' FAMILY!

HEY! WHERE YOU HEADING FOR, COUSIN ANNIE?

OH, JUST SORT O' CASING TH' TOWN, COUSIN LOU!

BEAUTIFUL DAY FOR IT. MIND IF THIS OLD NATIVE TAGS ALONG?

COME T'THINK OF IT, WE COULD USE A GOOD GUIDE, EH, SANDY?

ARF!

LOT OF HISTORY HERE, ANNIE, GHOSTS, TOO! NEARLY THREE HUNDRED YEARS OF THEM! INDIANS, SPANIARDS, FRENCH, AMERICANS; FLOODS, FIRES, PLAGUES THAT WIPED OUT TENS OF THOUSANDS, HORRIBLY!

GEE! Y'D NEVER GUESS IT NOW!

NO! BUT I GUESS TRACES OF THOSE ANCIENT DAYS OF VIOLENCE, AND SOMETIMES GLORY WILL EVER REMAIN IN THE VERY BLOOD OF THOSE WHO COME LATER, EVEN TO THIS DAY!

Y'MEAN LIKE I'VE READ ABOUT IN HIST'RY; ALL TH' DUELIN' AN' GAMBLIN'?

OH, ALL THAT IS PRETTY MUCH ANCIENT HISTORY NOW, ANNIE!

ER -- WHO IS THAT MAN YOU'RE LOOKIN' AT SO HARD?

JASON WOLFE, RICHEST MAN IN THIS CITY, AND THE MOST EVIL!

GEE! TH' GLINT IN COUSIN LOU'S EYES! "JASON WOLFE"? NOW I REMEMBER! HE'S TH' SO-AND-SO WHO GOT LOU'S DAD FRAMED AND SENT TO DIE IN PRISON!

HE'S TH' ONE STOLE TH' LEBEAUS' HOUSE; EVER'THING THEY HAD! WELL, LOU LEBEAU'S BLOOD SURE COMES DOWN FROM THOSE DAYS O' "VIOLENCE" AND "GLORY"! AND IF Y'ASK ME IT HASN'T COOLED OR THINNED ONE BIT!

BUT, PETE... WE'RE SPRING CLEANING!

SO ARE WE! SLIP OUT ANYWAY... WE'LL START A GOLF CLINIC!

WE CAN HELP EACH OTHER IRON OUT THE WEAK POINTS OF OUR GAME... MINE IS MY SAND WEDGE!

MINE IS MY BACK-SWING!

I DON'T KNOW WHAT MINE IS, BUT THIS BEATS HOUSECLEANING!

HI, ROMAINE!

UH...HI, HONEY... THEY'RE CHECKING MY SWING!

C'MON, BIG BOY! YOU LOOK BETTER SWINGING A MOP!

POOR DICK! HE DIDN'T EVEN HAVE A CHANCE TO TAKE A FORWARD PRESS!

TAKE A LOOK AT MY BACK-SWING, PETE!

YOUR ARMS ARE GOOD, SNUF! NOW JUST A LITTLE MORE SHOULDER TURN AND FULL PIVOT!

OH... UH... HI, DORIS!

I NEED A MAN WITH GOOD ARMS TO SWING A SCRUB-BRUSH, AND PIVOT AROUND A BUCKET!

POOR GUYS! OH, WELL... SO IT WON'T BE A TOTAL LOSS... I'LL TRY A FEW EXPLOSION SHOTS BY MYSELF!

WHAT WAS THAT, JILL? IT SOUNDS LIKE HAIL ON MY CLEAN WINDOWS!

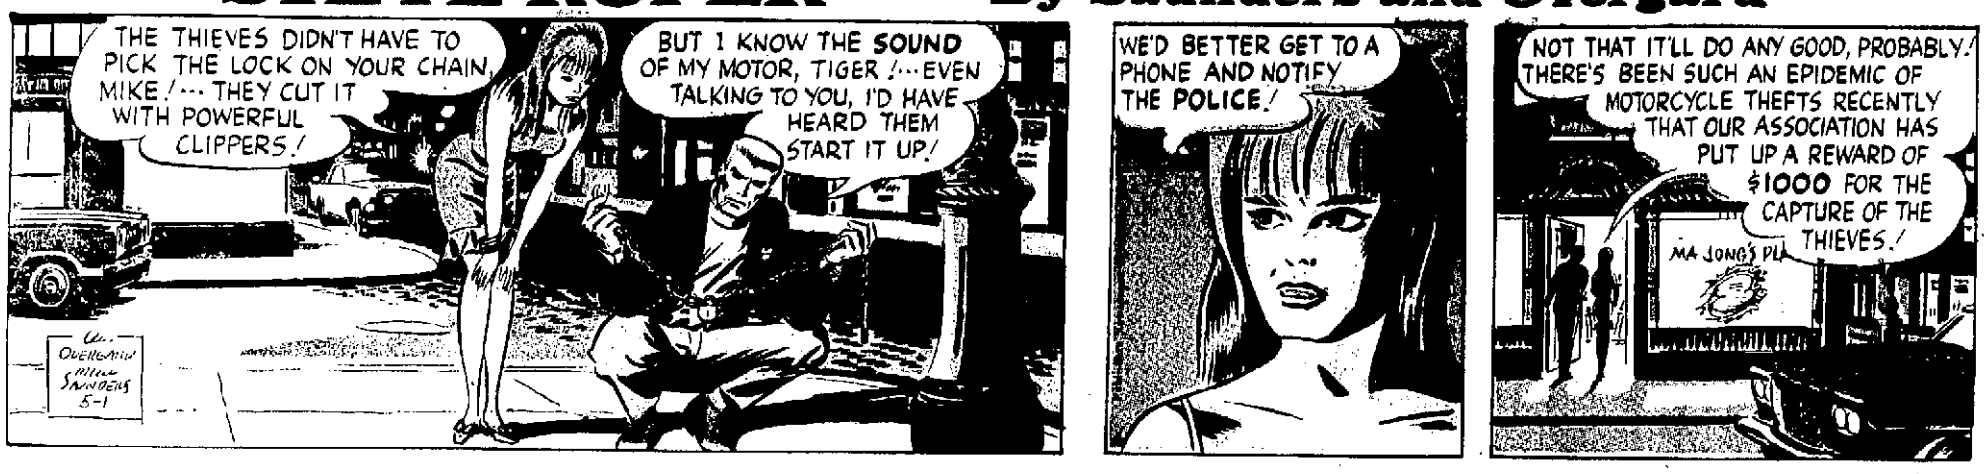

DADDY'S IN JIMMIE'S SANDBOX WITH A GOLF CLUB!

OH! OH! CLINIC'S OVER!
